Nixon 'Willing To Do Everything Necessary' in GOP

EDITOR'S NOTE — Richard M. Nixon has maintained he is not a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. Here, in an exclusive interview on his 51st birthday, the former vice president makes it clear for the first time that it is by no means a permanent stand.

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, apparently detecting growing sentiment that he should run again for president, says he is "willing to do everything necessary" to see to it the Republicans nominate their most popular and best-qualified man this summer.

He insists there has been no change in his position that he is not a candidate, but it was his first indication that events might put him in this year's race.

Dogs Don't Bark; They Listen Now

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP)—John Yolton has struck back with electronic vengeance.

A few months ago, Yolton complained to Hayward police that howling and barking dogs owned by neighbor Dominic Magri were disturbing him. Nothing happened.

So Yolton tape-recorded the doggy noises.

And, at 3 a.m. night after night, he played them back at full volume from a window facing the Magri home.

The Magri dogs don't bark when the tape recorder plays. They just listen to the recording of their own barking.

Now Magri has complained to police. Not to get Yolton arrested, he explains, but "just to set the record straight."

Planners Propose to Ban Buildings For Public Assembly in Airport Zone

A request by Col. Howard H. Cloud, Jr., commander of Ent Air Force Base for a County Planning Commission decision on the zoning of land in the Peterson Field flight pattern may have provided the first step in solving one of the county's most controversial problems.

Over the objections of E. W. Hayes, local real estate developer and one of the land owners in an unzoned area north of State Highway 24, Col. Cloud asked the planners Wednesday afternoon to reach a decision on the zoning of the land in the landing pattern. He said the commission was only postponing the inevitable by continuing to table the question.

Hayes objected to having a governmental body tell him how he would use his land. "It's like having someone tell you how you can spend your money," he declared.

Following the exchange between Cloud and Hayes, the planners voted to recommend that unzoned land under the approach pattern be designated A-3 airport farming, and that the A-3 classification requirements be amended to ban places of public assembly, including schools, churches, stadiums, and others.

There would also be height limitations which would require that no structure be built under the approach pattern which would exceed the 50-1 glide slope. The 50-1 glide slope means a one foot increase in altitude for each 50 feet of distance.

The original proposal called for zoning of 5,760 acres in the vicinity of the flight pattern, but George Morris, planning commission member who presented the recommendation, said two miles of the seven-mile-long flight pattern are already zoned. Planners acted on only five miles of it, and not on any other portion of the acreage. The approach pattern is approximately 4,000 feet wide.

The Ent commander was agreeable to this recommendation.

Col. Cloud was not so agreeable on another zoning pro-

Much Help Is Offered To Save Child's Last Eye

By JAMES FORBES

IVANHOE, Calif. (AP) — Persons from 35 states, including a Texas convict, have come forward to help save two-year-old Margaret Snow's one remaining eye.

The left eye of the blonde youngster was removed last November because of cancer. Her physician, Dr. Max Goldstein of Visalia, said there is a 50-50 chance the malignancy, retinoblastoma, may cost her remaining right eye.

Word of the child's plight was first spread across the nation two days before Christmas by The Associated Press. Since then more than $3,000 has been raised to pay for Margaret's medical expenses.

Among the offers of help were six persons who said they would be willing to give one of their eyes to Margaret. One such offer came from a convict at the Texas State Penitentiary in Huntsville, Bobby James Sickenberger, 30, who is serving up to 20 years for forgery and robbery by assault.

But Dr. Goldstein said such a transplant in Margaret's case would be impossible.

"If the cancer spreads," Dr. Goldstein said, "Margaret's entire eye will have to be removed. In an eye transplant, only the cornea can be transferred."

But the doctor holds out some hope. He said with each passing week the chances grow slimmer the cancer will spread to the remaining eye.

If it does spread, Margaret will be flown to New York for special treatment.

Margaret lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Snow, and two small sisters. Snow earns $200 monthly as a hardware store service man.

The Snows have received several hundred letters and Christmas cards, many of them containing money. The father said more mail is arriving every day.

The Ivanhoe Chamber of Commerce has established a Margaret Snow fund and students and teachers from two local high schools held a folksong "bootenanny" which netted more than $2,000. The local American Legion post will hold a Margaret Snow benefit dance Jan. 25.

Because of the family's limited finances, the Snows did not plan to have much of a Christmas. Margaret had told her father all she wanted was a ball and a doll.

After Margaret's story was known, the Snows were treated to a Christmas they said was "too thrilling for words."

At the invitation of the local Chamber of Commerce, Santa Claus brought a whole truck load of toys to the Snow home Christmas Eve—including a doll and a ball for Margaret.

Borrowed Whip Is Needed for Public Whipping

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—A public whipping is scheduled for Jan. 28 at New Castle County Correctional Institution near here, but if it comes off, Warden Raymond W. Anderson says he'll have to borrow a whip.

The prison has a whipping post but Anderson said he gave the whip in 1960 to Chesley H. Looney, then director of the state prison system. Now no one can find it, said Anderson.

Talmadge R. Balser has been sentenced to 10 lashes and 15 years for robbery. His attorney Wednesday asked Superior Court Judge Stewart Lynch, who ordered the whipping, to set aside that part of the sentence.

Court observers said Balser's attorney, Edward W. Schall, apparently was trying to obtain a delay until he could appeal to the State Supreme Court.

There have been no whippings in Delaware in more than a decade.

Ex-Con Wants To Go Back To Prison

William "Billie" Timms, 30, told police Wednesday that he could not adjust to life outside prison and had tipped police about his plan to stick up the Colorado Springs National Bank because he wanted to go back to the pen.

Timms, a self admitted "six time loser out of North Carolina," was arrested at the Arrow Hotel Tuesday. Police had earlier received a call about the planned robbery from a man who identified himself as "John Green."

Timms Wednesday told officers he was the informant who made the call.

When Timms was arrested, a map of the bank area, a toy pistol, and a note Timms planned to give to a bank teller, were found in his room.

Light Shed on Oswald Mysteries in Reports

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON (Special) — The intensive questioning of Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald by the FBI and Secret Service has shed revealing light on some important facets of the many mysteries still surrounding her and her husband.

In the detailed reports submitted to the special commission headed by Chief Justice Warren, the government investigators make very clear that:

The 22-year-old Russian widow of the assassin is a thoroly self-possessed, cool, calm and poised person, who is in full control of herself at all times. She has a complete grasp of what has happened, and what is taking place regarding her.

Mrs. Oswald has an excellent IQ, and is quite well educated, with eleven years of formal schooling, including three years of pharmaceutical training. This is equivalent to a better than high school education in the U.S., and means she was rated well by Russian standards, as only talented youths, especially women, are given more than elementary schooling. She was a laboratory assistant when she met Oswald.

While cooperating readily with the investigators on everything relating to herself and Oswald in this country, she has been reluctant and evasive in answering questions about their life in Russia and events leading up to his return to the U.S. — after apparently disavowing a written defection to the Soviet.

Still to be learned from Mrs. Oswald are exactly how and when she met her husband, whether she reported their meetings to Russian authorities, as Soviet citizens are required when having relations with foreigners, and what dealings and contacts Oswald had with Russians and officials during his three years there.

On all these highly pertinent background points, Mrs. Oswald has been markedly "vague" and "fuzzy."

In discussing their life in the U.S., she is specific and positive about dates, individuals and events. But when interrogated about what transpired in Russia, her attitude and responses are decidedly different.

She never loses her temper or composure. But she also never reveals any more than she wants to.

MORE RIFLE TESTS

To get at the bottom of these significant matters, is the reason the special commission is bringing Mrs. Oswald to Washington late this month for di-

Love Pledges Economy; Asks for More Power

By JOHN M. NOLAN

DENVER (UPI)— Gov. John Love told the 1964 Legislature today that Colorado suffered a serious economic downturn last year but that indications are that the state now is soundly on the track toward a sustained and vital growth.

Love, in a televised address before a joint session of the 44th General Assembly in the House chamber at the State Capitol, said the people of Colorado demand economy in government and pledged to continue this goal.

The 47-year-old Republican chief executive asked the legislature to approve his modified little cabinet proposal and to give serious consideration to providing medical coverage to "many of our potentially medically indigent, who are not now receiving the old age pension."

The little cabinet plan would consolidate several departments and agencies under six coordinators, who would be political patronage appointments. The plan would give Love more con-

Major Combat Units May Have to Be Sent To Viet Nam, Top American Officers Say

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The United States may soon have to choose between watching the Communists win in South Viet Nam or sending in major U.S. combat units.

The time for such a decision has not arrived but top American officials in Saigon are looking at the odds closely.

A possible middle ground is that Saigon's new military government will recover the initiative from the enemy guerrilla army.

The United States has hopes that this can be done. Ranking American observers say military setbacks are the result of confusion following the Nov. 1 coup which ousted President Ngo Dinh Diem. The situation will straighten out in a few months, they hope.

What if it doesn't?

No one has ready answers.

Neutralization of South Viet Nam—advocated by French President Charles de Gaulle, by Cambodia and by the Communists—could be regarded as an indirect surrender to the Communists.

North Viet Nam has said it would be satisfied "for the time being" with a neutralized South Viet Nam with no American troops. "We could wait for a few years on that basis before reunifying South Viet Nam with our country," a Hanoi official said recently in nearby Cambodia.

The main advantage, many veteran U.S. officers here believe, would be to give Americans command initiative. There are 15,000 Americans here now. In their limited role as advisers and in support elements, many American officers and men feel handicapped.

"With a couple of divisions of U.S. airborne or Marines, we could clean this place up fairly fast," one said.

"Americans are impatient people, but this is not necessarily a negative factor. It's good to be impatient about winning a war," a colonel said.

An American diplomat who refused to be identified said:

"I think there would be some important advantages. I think American combat troops coming here would have an important psychological effect in other parts of Southeast Asia—Indonesia, for example. It would be clear indication that America intends to carry out what it says, regardless of the risk.

"Furthermore, I think it would weaken Red China with the Soviet Union. China contends

Health Center Construction To Start at CC

The unique infirmary, to cost an estimated $225,000, will be constructed at the northwest corner of Cascade Avenue and San Rafael Street.

Peabody House and the former Dr. F. W. Drea residence are presently located on the site and will be razed to make room for the circular building. Peabody House offices, which include the publicity department, college secretary, philosophy department offices, admission offices and others, will be moved across the street to 1105 N. Cascade Ave.

The new health center will contain 20 beds and facilities for diagnosis and treatment. It will also feature study lounges so that ill students may keep up with their studies while confined.

The building was made possible thru a $200,000 grant from the Boettcher Foundation and a $25,000 grant from the Kresge Foundation.

Architects on the building, which has received nationwide attention from other colleges and universities, are the firm of Caudill, Rawlett and Scott of Houston, Tex., with Carlise Guy of Colorado Springs as consultant.

Officials also announced that CC is moving ahead with plans to construct a 300-unit dormitory for upper class men.

LBJ to Urge International Military Observation Posts

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is drafting a proposal for a system of international military observation posts to be set up on both sides of the iron curtain in Europe as a safeguard against surprise attack.

It is understood officials are thinking about proposing 20 to 30 posts on each side at key transportation centers where unusual military activity by either Soviet or U.S. forces might be detected.

President Johnson announced in his State of the Union message Wednesday that "we shall make new proposals" on disarmament issues when the 17-nation disarmament conference reopens negotiations at Geneva in two weeks.

Officials have said the U.S. proposals will deal with familiar issues in new ways which they hope will enlarge the possibility of agreement with the Soviet Union.

Disarmament experts of the United States, Britain, Canada, and Italy are undertaking consultations aimed at coordinating their policies. France, whose chair in the conference is empty because President Charles de Gaulle decided not to participate, is an observer in the consultations.

The observation posts idea has been talked about by both the Soviet Union and the United States for several years. U.S. policymakers consider it one of the most hopeful possibilities.

Present U.S. thinking, pending final decisions by the President, is that the observation post plan should provide for U.S. and Soviet military observers on both Soviet and U.S. territory with the participation of officers from other countries, as might be desirable depending on the other territories involved.

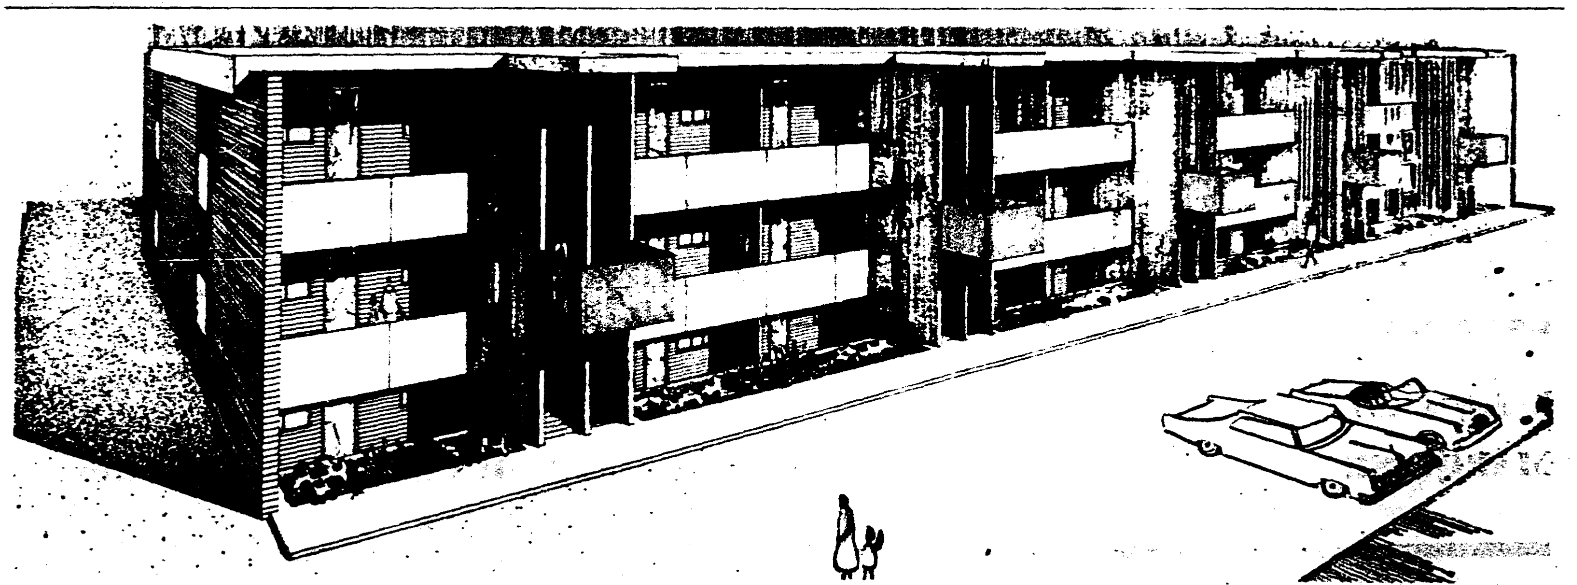
Other issues on which proposals are being drafted include:

1. Agreement at least on the principle of destruction of obsolete weapons to prevent their being distributed to smaller countries.

2. Agreement on a pledge against the dissemination of nuclear weapons to other countries which do not already possess them.

3. Designation by East-West agreement of nuclear free zones in the world. This would mean simply that the nuclear powers would agree not to stockpile weapons in, for example, in areas of Latin America, Africa or Asia.

4. Establishment of a committee of experts to work on the problem of putting a ceiling on military budgets.



NEARLY ONE-THIRD COMPLETE—This is an architect's sketch of how the Hathaway Apartments, East Highway 24, will look when completed in April. The 29-unit building is nearly one third complete at present and crews from F. L. Davis Inc. are continuing work on the building to finish construction in time for the scheduled opening April 1.

Construction on the new Hathaway Apartments is well underway and officials said that the $250,000 unit should be ready for occupancy by April 1.

Located on East Highway 24 near the Western Electro Dynamics Building, the two-and-a-half story structure is nearly one third completed.

Spokesmen said the new building also contains a garden level.

It contains 29 three-bedroom units, each with one and a half baths, living room, dining area and complete electric kitchens with steel cabinets and disposal units.

Each apartment will come with carpets in the living room, bedrooms and hallway, and draperies. Vinyl tile floors will be featured in the kitchen and bathrooms and a screen will separate the living room from the kitchen.

Private balconies will lead off from each apartment. Laundry facilities and storage bins will be located in the lower level along with a paneled nursery and play room for children.

The building will be constructed of concrete and concrete blocks with a brick veneer and wood frame. There will be marbleplate panels on the balcony railings.

The building itself will be 232 feet long and 51 feet wide including cantilevered balconies. Five separate stairways will serve the apartments.

The landscaped grounds will include paved, off-street parking and there will be no color restrictions placed on tenants.

Applications for apartments are being accepted now, officials said. Additional information may be obtained by calling 634-2042.

The left eye of the blonde youngster was removed last November because of cancer. Her physician, Dr. Max Goldstein of Visalia, said there is a 50-50 chance the malignancy, retinoblastoma, may cost her remaining right eye.

Word of the child's plight was first spread across the nation two days before Christmas by The Associated Press. Since then more than $3,000 has been raised to pay for Margaret's medical expenses.

Among the offers of help were six persons who said they would be willing to give one of their eyes to Margaret. One such offer came from a convict at the Texas State Penitentiary in Huntsville, Bobby James Sickenberger, 30, who is serving up to 20 years for forgery and robbery by assault.

But Dr. Goldstein said such a transplant in Margaret's case would be impossible.

"If the cancer spreads," Dr. Goldstein said, "Margaret's entire eye will have to be removed. In an eye transplant, only the cornea can be transferred."

But the doctor holds out some hope. He said with each passing week the chances grow slimmer the cancer will spread to the remaining eye.

If it does spread, Margaret will be flown to New York for special treatment.

The Snows have received several hundred letters and Christmas cards, many of them containing money. The father said more mail is arriving every day.

The Ivanhoe Chamber of Commerce has established a Margaret Snow fund and students and teachers from two local high schools held a folksong "hootenanny" which netted more than $2,000. The local American Legion post will hold a Margaret Snow benefit dance Jan. 25.

Because of the family's limited finances, the Snows did not plan to have much of a Christmas. Margaret had told her father all she wanted was a ball and a doll.

After Margaret's story was known, the Snows were treated to a Christmas they said was "too thrilling for words."

At the invitation of the local Chamber of Commerce, Santa Claus brought a whole truck load of toys to the Snow home Christmas Eve—including a doll and a ball for Margaret.

Borrowed Whip Is Needed for Public Whipping

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—A public whipping is scheduled for Jan. 28 at New Castle County Correctional Institution near here, but if it comes off, Warden Raymond W. Anderson says he'll have to borrow a whip.

The prison has a whipping post but Anderson said he gave the whip in 1960 to Chesley H. Looney, then director of the state prison system. Now no one can find it, said Anderson.

Talmadge R. Balser has been sentenced to 10 lashes and 15 years for robbery. His attorney Wednesday asked Superior Court Judge Stewart Lynch, who ordered the whipping, to set aside that part of the sentence.

Court observers said Balser's attorney, Edward W. Schall, apparently was trying to obtain a delay until he could appeal to the State Supreme Court.

There have been no whippings in Delaware in more than a decade.

LBJ 'Outliberaled Every Liberal,' Barry Charges

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater says President Johnson "outliberaled every liberal since 1932" in his State of the Union message to Congress.

"I didn't think he could do it but he did," said Goldwater, campaigning in New Hampshire

Ex-Con Wants To Go Back To Prison

William "Billie" Timms, 30, told police Wednesday that he could not adjust to life outside prison and had tipped police about his plan to stick up the Colorado Springs National Bank because he wanted to go back to the pen.

Timms, a self admitted "six time loser out of North Carolina," was arrested at the Arrow Hotel Tuesday. Police had earlier received a call about the planned robbery from a man who identified himself as "John Green."

Timms Wednesday told officers he was the informant who made the call.

When Timms was arrested, a map of the bank area, a toy pistol, and a note Timms planned to give to a bank teller, were found in his room.

Love Pledges Economy; Asks for More Power

By JOHN M. NOLAN

DENVER (UPI)— Gov. John Love told the 1964 Legislature today that Colorado suffered a serious economic downturn last year but that indications are that the state now is soundly on the track toward a sustained and vital growth.

Love, in a televised address before a joint session of the 44th General Assembly in the House chamber at the State Capitol, said the people of Colorado demand economy in government and pledged to continue this goal.

The 47-year-old Republican chief executive asked the legislature to approve his modified little cabinet proposal and to give serious consideration to providing medical coverage to "many of our potentially medically indigent, who are not now receiving the old age pension."

The little cabinet plan would consolidate several departments and agencies under six coordinators, who would be political patronage appointments. The plan would give Love more con-

Major Combat Units May Have to Be Sent To Viet Nam, Top American Officers Say

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The United States may soon have to choose between watching the Communists win in South Viet Nam or sending in major U.S. combat units.

The time for such a decision has not arrived but top American officials in Saigon are looking at the odds closely.

A possible middle ground is that Saigon's new military government will recover the initiative from the enemy guerrilla army.

The United States has hopes that this can be done. Ranking American observers say military setbacks are the result of confusion following the Nov. 1 coup which ousted President Ngo Dinh Diem. The situation will straighten out in a few months, they hope.

What if it doesn't?

No one has ready answers.

Neutralization of South Viet Nam—advocated by French President Charles de Gaulle, by Cambodia and by the Communists—could be regarded as an indirect surrender to the Communists.

North Viet Nam has said it would be satisfied "for the time being" with a neutralized South Viet Nam with no American troops. "We could wait for a few years on that basis before reunifying South Viet Nam with our country," a Hanoi official said recently in nearby Cambodia.

The main advantage, many veteran U.S. officers here believe, would be to give Americans command initiative. There are 15,000 Americans here now. In their limited role as advisers and in support elements, many American officers and men feel handicapped.

"With a couple of divisions of U.S. airborne or Marines, we could clean this place up fairly fast," one said.

"Americans are impatient people, but this is not necessarily a negative factor. It's good to be impatient about winning a war," a colonel said.

An American diplomat who refused to be identified said:

"I think there would be some important advantages. I think American combat troops coming here would have an important psychological effect in other parts of Southeast Asia—Indonesia, for example. It would be clear indication that America intends to carry out what it says, regardless of the risk.

"Furthermore, I think it would weaken Red China with the Soviet Union. China contends

Light Shed on Oswald Mysteries in Reports

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON (Special) — The intensive questioning of Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald by the FBI and Secret Service has shed revealing light on some important facets of the many mysteries still surrounding her and her husband.

In the detailed reports submitted to the special commission headed by Chief Justice Warren, the government investigators make very clear that:

The 22-year-old Russian widow of the assassin is a thoroly self-possessed, cool, calm and poised person, who is in full control of herself at all times. She has a complete grasp of what has happened, and what is taking place regarding her.

Mrs. Oswald has an excellent IQ, and is quite well educated, with eleven years of formal schooling, including three years of pharmaceutical training. This is equivalent to a better than high school education in the U.S., and means she was rated well by Russian standards, as only talented youths, especially women, are given more than elementary schooling. She was a laboratory assistant when she met Oswald.

While cooperating readily with the investigators on everything relating to herself and Oswald in this country, she has been reluctant and evasive in answering questions about their life in Russia and events leading up to his return to the U.S. — after apparently disavowing a written defection to the Soviet.

Still to be learned from Mrs. Oswald are exactly how and when she met her husband, whether she reported their meetings to Russian authorities, as Soviet citizens are required when having relations with foreigners, and what dealings and contacts Oswald had with Russians and officials during his three years there.

On all these highly pertinent background points, Mrs. Oswald has been markedly "vague" and "fuzzy."

In discussing their life in the U.S., she is specific and positive about dates, individuals and events. But when interrogated about what transpired in Russia, her attitude and responses are decidedly different.

She never loses her temper or composure. But she also never reveals any more than she wants to.

MORE RIFLE TESTS

To get at the bottom of these significant matters, is the reason the special commission is bringing Mrs. Oswald to Washington late this month for di-

Health Center Construction To Start at CC

The unique infirmary, to cost an estimated $225,000, will be constructed at the northwest corner of Cascade Avenue and San Rafael Street.

Peabody House and the former Dr. F. W. Drea residence are presently located on the site and will be razed to make room for the circular building. Peabody House offices, which include the publicity department, college secretary, philosophy department offices, admission offices and others, will be moved across the street to 1105 N. Cascade Ave.

The new health center will contain 20 beds and facilities for diagnosis and treatment. It will also feature study lounges so that ill students may keep up with their studies while confined.

The building was made possible thru a $200,000 grant from the Boettcher Foundation and a $25,000 grant from the Kresge Foundation.

Architects on the building, which has received nationwide attention from other colleges and universities, are the firm of Caudill, Rawlett and Scott of Houston, Tex., with Carlise Guy of Colorado Springs as consultant.

Officials also announced that CC is moving ahead with plans to construct a 300-unit dormitory for upper class men.

LBJ to Urge International Military Observation Posts

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is drafting a proposal for a system of international military observation posts to be set up on both sides of the iron curtain in Europe as a safeguard against surprise attack.

It is understood officials are thinking about proposing 20 to 30 posts on each side at key transportation centers where unusual military activity by either Soviet or U.S. forces might be detected.

President Johnson announced in his State of the Union message Wednesday that "we shall make new proposals" on disarmament issues when the 17-nation disarmament conference reopens negotiations at Geneva in two weeks.

Officials have said the U.S. proposals will deal with familiar issues in new ways which they hope will enlarge the possibility of agreement with the Soviet Union.

Disarmament experts of the United States, Britain, Canada, and Italy are undertaking consultations aimed at coordinating their policies. France, whose chair in the conference is empty because President Charles de Gaulle decided not to participate, is an observer in the consultations.

The observation posts idea has been talked about by both the Soviet Union and the United States for several years. U.S. policymakers consider it one of the most hopeful possibilities.

Present U.S. thinking, pending final decisions by the President, is that the observation post plan should provide for U.S. and Soviet military observers on both Soviet and U.S. territory with the participation of officers from other countries, as might be desirable depending on the other territories involved.

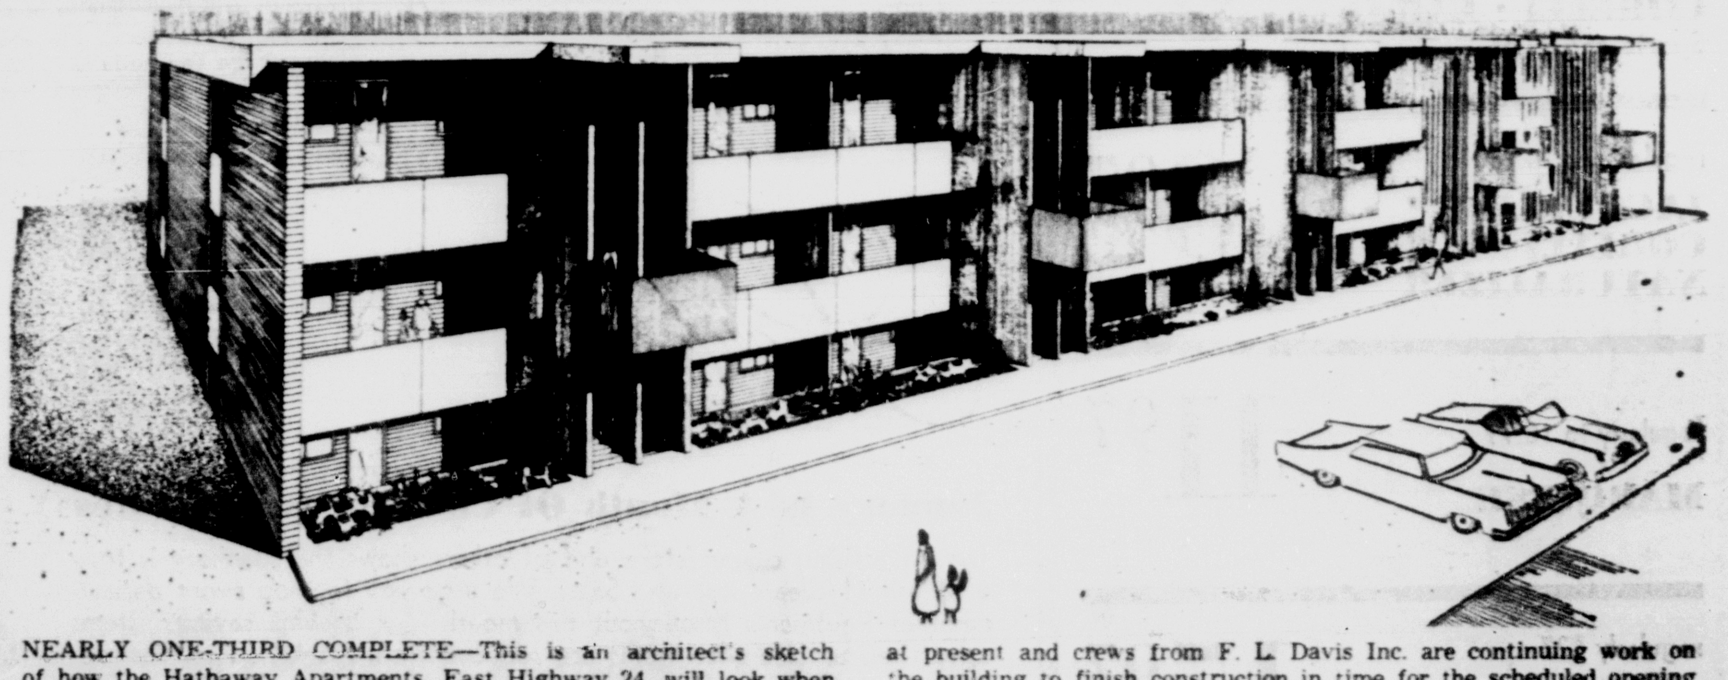
Other issues on which proposals are being drafted include:

1. Agreement at least on the principle of destruction of obsolete weapons to prevent their being distributed to smaller countries.

2. Agreement on a pledge against the dissemination of nuclear weapons to other countries which do not already possess them.

3. Designation by East-West agreement of nuclear free zones in the world. This would mean simply that the nuclear powers would agree not to stockpile weapons in, for example, in areas of Latin America, Africa or Asia.

4. Establishment of a committee of experts to work on the problem of putting a ceiling on military budgets.



NEARLY ONE-THIRD COMPLETE—This is an architect's sketch of how the Hathaway Apartments, East Highway 24, will look when completed in April. The 29-unit building is nearly one third complete at present and crews from F. L. Davis Inc. are continuing work on the building to finish construction in time for the scheduled opening April 1.

Construction on the new Hathaway Apartments is well underway and officials said that the $250,000 unit should be ready for occupancy by April 1.

Located on East Highway 24 near the Western Electro Dynamics Building, the two-and-a-half story structure is nearly one third completed.

Spokesmen said the new building also contains a garden level.

It contains 29 three-bedroom units, each with one and a half baths, living room, dining area and complete electric kitchens with steel cabinets and disposal units.

Each apartment will come with carpets in the living room, bedrooms and hallway, and draperies. Vinyl tile floors will be featured in the kitchen and bathrooms and a screen will separate the living room from the kitchen.

Private balconies will lead off from each apartment. Laundry facilities and storage bins will be located in the lower level along with a paneled nursery and play room for children.

The building will be constructed of concrete and concrete blocks with a brick veneer and wood frame. There will be marbleplate panels on the balcony railings.

The building itself will be 232 feet long and 51 feet wide including cantilevered balconies. Five separate stairways will serve the apartments.

The landscaped grounds will include paved, off-street parking and there will be no water restrictions placed on tenants.

Applications for apartments are being accepted now, officials said. Additional information may be obtained by calling 634-2042.

Legal Experience Can Be Useful

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Ruth Clark is a member of the Colorado House of Representatives. For five years she has been on the House Judiciary Committee.

So, she said, she felt confident in City Court Wednesday. She persuaded the court to dismiss a charge that she had made an illegal left turn in traffic.

Mrs. Clark pointed out that the ticket listed her as a man.

Fischer Quints Given Social Security Cards

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—The federal government has recognized the Fischer quintuplets — they've been issued Social Security cards.

Cards also have been issued for the five older children of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer, who became parents of the quints last Sept. 14.

Albert J. D'Amour, manager of the Social Security office in Aberdeen, announced issuance of the numbers.

The quints' four sisters and brother range in age from three to eight years.

The Social Security cards became necessary because the family is receiving a substantial sum from a national magazine under an exclusive contract for stories and pictures on the babies' development. Some of the money is being allocated to the children.

Television Will Aid Theater, Actor Declares

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — It's quite the rage to knock television, so it's nice to find someone with something good to say about it—even if it is a left-handed compliment.

Alan Badel is the someone. He's the superior British actor now starring on Broadway in "The Rehearsal." And he thinks television will ultimately improve the theater.

"I can see the handwriting on the wall in London now," he says. "Plays which are just ordinary are not successful. The audience can see similar things at home on the telly. It takes something very good which really grips the audience to be successful. The theater will have to look for such plays if it wants to survive."

Badel notes one major difference between British and American audiences — especially the matinee audiences.

"In London," he says, "what governs a matinee audience is the theater in which you're playing. Only old ladies go to matinees, and they go to the theater which serves the best tea. They know which theater serves three biscuits, and which only two. No matter how good the play is, if the theater serves inferior biscuits you won't have a matinee crowd."

Joyce Van Patten may have escaped being type-cast, by detouring from Hollywood to Broadway via "Spoon River."

"I was typed by television," she says. "If I had my glasses on, I was a secretary. If I had my glasses off, I was a prostitute."

And that was one reason why she agreed to do "Spoon River," the collection of Edgar Lee Masters' poems which was a tremendous critical success.

"Perhaps this will help," she says, "but even if it doesn't, it was something I had to do. It cost me money because I earned more doing guest appearances on the television series than I did in the play."

"Spoon River" was created and acted by members of Theater West, a Hollywood - based group of ex-New York actors. Miss Van Patten says there is a tremendous upsurge of interest in the theater in California, with many small houses doing good business.

"It's exciting there now," she says. "It makes you feel like a pioneer."

Take an ex-actress, grown bored with the theater. Assume she has a lifelong interest in anthropology, and skill as an artist. Now what have you got?

Obviously, the perfect person to run a children's show. Her name is Beryl Berney, she's a dimpled beauty and the kids love her. She runs a popular New York program called All Join Hands which adroitly combines her three talents.

The American Association for the U.N. is associated with the program, because of its format. Each week, Miss Berney spotlights a different country. She tells stories about that country, draws pictures, sings songs and, if possible, has a child from that country as a guest.

"It's hard work," she says. "I have to get the stories and the songs and everything, and it has to be authentic. I get great co-operation from the embassies, the U.N. delegations, cultural attaches and other interested people."

And it pays off. The children love it.

"I have a theory about children's programs," she says. "They should be good. There is a tendency to underestimate childrens' intelligence. That's not right."

'Pistol Packing Mam' Legend In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—She wears her black hair long and flowing in the traditional Vietnamese style. She is known to be flamboyant, assertive and cruel.

Her name is Kim Loan. Some say she is 33 and beautiful. Others say she is 38 and ugly.

All agree that Kim Loan is an authentic pistol packin' mama who is rapidly becoming a legend in the countryside south of Saigon.

Kim Loan actually has two pistols strapped to her tiny waist—and both are carried for the Communist Viet Cong cause.

"She is just the sort of symbol you could expect the Communists to come up with in Viet Nam," an American observer noted. "She is clever, brash and elusive. Vietnamese peasants talk of her exploits with humor and awe."

Kim Loan's rise to prominence has taken just over one year. Her husband, a Viet Cong district chief, was killed by government forces. A few days later she left her two young children, a boy and girl, with her husband's relatives in a strategic hamlet south of the Long An Province Capital of Tan An, and headed into the swamps to join the Viet Cong.

She soon emerged as a bold guerrilla in Long An's normally all-male territorial units, winning the right to carry first one pistol and then the other. In recent months she has risen to be the Communists' chief military commander for the Tan An subsector — roughly the equivalent of a regimental commander.

Province authorities are well aware of Kim Loan's operations. They know she travels with a bodyguard of two men armed with submachine guns.

She is usually at the head of a 20-man platoon, but sometimes leads larger groups.

And she can be tough. A villager told province authorities that Kim Loan visited him, demanding tax.

When he pleaded he could not afford to pay, she shouted, "speak to my pistol," and she slammed one of her weapons on the table. The man rushed off to get the money. When he returned, she said, "You were too slow. Speak to this one, too," and slammed the other pistol down.

He quickly brought more money.

She is responsible for all espionage and subversive work against the government in her region. In recent months she has recruited 33 men from her old village to join the Viet Cong.

Province authorities are anxious to apprehend her. The province chief believes he can talk her into joining the government, and has offered her 5,000 piasters (about $70) and safe conduct, to have lunch with him.

Despite the wild life she leads in the paddies and swamps of the Mekong Delta, Kim Loan apparently still finds time to be a woman. Three weeks ago she slipped into Tan An to have her hair waved and slipped out again.

Peace Solution Sought for Malaysia Issue

By CARL ZIMMERMAN

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—A high-level meeting with Malaysian officials to find a peaceful solution to the dispute between Malaysia and Indonesia is emerging as the goal of current talks between Indonesian President Sukarno and Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal, highly placed sources indicated today.

The sources, who refused to be identified, said the Philippines and Indonesia do not regard the present situation as an insurmountable obstacle to revival of Maphilindo, the association that Indonesia and the Philippines formed with Malaya last summer before it became the nucleus of the Malaysian Federation.

The sources said there was agreement in the current talks that the door should be left open for the inclusion of Malaysia in Maphilindo and for the possible admission of such other Asian countries as Thailand, Cambodia, Laos and Burma.

The Philippine and Indonesian delegations issued a communique today promising to seek a peaceful solution to the dispute with Malaysia. There was no indication, however, that Sukarno is prepared to abandon his anti-Malaysian campaign without concessions from the new federation.

One of Sukarno's chief complaints against Malaysia has been that Britain retains military bases in its former territories.

101-Year-Old Bishop Performs Wedding

NEW YORK (AP)—They met in Japan 46 years ago. They were married by a 101-year-old bishop.

The newlyweds are the Rev. Dr. Charles S. Iglehart, 83, and Caroline Packham, 72, both former Methodist missionaries in Tokyo and Nagasaki.

Bishop Herbert Welch performed the ceremony. "I still remember when they were youngsters," he said.

"My wife and I are old, old friends," said Dr. Iglehart. "We decided only recently to get married."

Previous Pope Went to Holy Land in 1271

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI was the first pontiff to make a pilgrimage to the Holy Land, but he was not the only Pope to travel from the Holy Land to Rome.

Teobaldi Visconti, archdeacon of Liege, Belgium, was in the Holy Land on a pilgrimage when a conclave elected him Pope on Sept. 1, 1271.

Word of his election reached Visconti at Acre. He started for Italy Nov. 19 and entered Rome March 13, 1272. Six days later he was ordained a priest and became Pope Gregory X.

Gregory X was one of the few Popes who were not ordained when elected.

Roman Catholicism considers St. Peter the first Pope. He, too, made the journey from the Holy Land to Rome.

Pope Gives Escort Pilots His Blessing

ROME (AP)—A lean, white-robed figure appeared unexpectedly in the jetliner's cabin.

For Capt. Gianmario Zuccarini, 48, pilot on the first air journey by a Pope, it was the most memorable moment on his flight to the Holy Land last Saturday.

Pope Paul VI asked if he could bid a radio farewell to the eight Italian air force jets accompanying the plane out of Italian territory.

Zuccarini, Alitalia Airline's chief pilot, told newsmen, "I invited him to put on the head set. Paul VI movingly thanked the escort pilots and gave them his blessing."

Border Patrolman Acquitted of Murder

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Border Patrolman Dudley Clanahan, 28, says he can "start to live again" today. He was acquitted of murder Wednesday in the death of a Mexican horseman who was struck by the landing gear of the officer's plane.

A federal jury deliberated only 15 minutes before returning the verdict.

The patrolman blamed a downdraft for causing his plane to strike and kill Isidoro Rodriguez Chaparro, 26, on a West Texas ranch Nov. 20, 1962, as he searched for illegal immigrants.

Badel notes one major difference between British and American audiences — especially the matinee audiences.

"In London," he says, "what governs a matinee audience is the theater in which you're playing. Only old ladies go to matinees, and they go to the theater which serves the best tea. They know which theater serves three biscuits, and which only two. No matter how good the play is, if the theater serves inferior biscuits you won't have a matinee crowd."

Joyce Van Patten may have escaped being type-cast, by detouring from Hollywood to Broadway via "Spoon River."

"I was typed by television," she says. "If I had my glasses on, I was a secretary. If I had my glasses off, I was a prostitute."

And that was one reason why she agreed to do "Spoon River," the collection of Edgar Lee Masters' poems which was a tremendous critical success.

"Perhaps this will help," she says, "but even if it doesn't, it was something I had to do. It cost me money because I earned more doing guest appearances on the television series than I did in the play."

"Spoon River" was created and acted by members of Theater West, a Hollywood - based group of ex-New York actors. Miss Van Patten says there is a tremendous upsurge of interest in the theater in California, with many small houses doing good business.

"It's exciting there now," she says. "It makes you feel like a pioneer."

Take an ex-actress, grown bored with the theater. Assume she has a lifelong interest in anthropology, and skill as an artist. Now what have you got? Obviously, the perfect person to run a children's show. Her name is Beryl Berney, she's a dimpled beauty and the kids love her. She runs a popular New York program called All Join Hands which adroitly combines her three talents.

The American Association for the U.N. is associated with the program, because of its format. Each week, Miss Berney spotlights a different country. She tells stories about that country, draws pictures, sings songs and, if possible, has a child from that country as a guest.

"It's hard work," she says. "I have to get the stories and the songs and everything, and it has to be authentic. I get great co-operation from the embassies, the U.N. delegations, cultural attaches and other interested people."

And it pays-off. The children love it.

"I have a theory about children's programs," she says. "They should be good. There is a tendency to underestimate childrens' intelligence. That's not right."

'Pistol Packing Mam' Legend In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—She wears her black hair long and flowing in the traditional Vietnamese style. She is known to be flamboyant, assertive and cruel.

Her name is Kim Loan. Some say she is 33 and beautiful. Others say she is 38 and ugly.

All agree that Kim Loan is an authentic pistol packin' mama who is rapidly becoming a legend in the countryside south of Saigon.

Kim Loan actually has two pistols strapped to her tiny waist—and both are carried for the Communist Viet Cong cause.

"She is just the sort of symbol you could expect the Communists to come up with in Viet Nam," an American observer noted. "She is clever, brash and elusive. Vietnamese peasants talk of her exploits with humor and awe."

Kim Loan's rise to prominence has taken just over one year. Her husband, a Viet Cong district chief, was killed by government forces. A few days later she left her two young children, a boy and girl, with her husband's relatives in a strategic hamlet south of the Long An Province Capital of Tan An, and headed into the swamps to join the Viet Cong.

She soon emerged as a bold guerrilla in Long An's normally all-male territorial units, winning the right to carry first one pistol and then the other. In recent months she has risen to be the Communists' chief military commander for the Tan An subsector — roughly the equivalent of a regimental commander.

Province authorities are well aware of Kim Loan's operations. They know she travels with a bodyguard of two men armed with submachine guns.

She is usually at the head of a 20-man platoon, but sometimes leads larger groups.

And she can be tough. A villager told province authorities that Kim Loan visited him, demanding tax.

When he pleaded he could not afford to pay, she shouted, "speak to my pistol," and she slammed one of her weapons on the table. The man rushed off to get the money. When he returned, she said, "You were too slow. Speak to this one, too," and slammed the other pistol down.

He quickly brought more money.

She is responsible for all espionage and subversive work against the government in her region. In recent months she has recruited 33 men from her old village to join the Viet Cong.

Province authorities are anxious to apprehend her. The province chief believes he can talk her into joining the government, and has offered her 5,000 piasters (about $70) and safe conduct, to have lunch with him.

Despite the wild life she leads in the paddies and swamps of the Mekong Delta, Kim Loan apparently still finds time to be a woman. Three weeks ago she slipped into Tan An to have her hair waved and slipped out again.

Remember too, that whenever you shop at Kaufman's, during January or any other time, you always get Kaufman quality and Kaufman's services. We guarantee satisfaction in everything we sell regardless of whether an item has been clearence priced or not. And remember, in addition, you get the savings of S&H Green Stamps, and you can park downtown in any number of close-by parking lots, and we'll pick up the tab for the first hour. So, be sure to come in regularly throughout this money-saving month of January. We cannot, of course, advertise all the items or all the departments that have clearances, but we want to emphasize that they are going on every day and you can enjoy great savings all during this month

By CARL ZIMMERMAN

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—A high-level meeting with Malaysian officials to find a peaceful solution to the dispute between Malaysia and Indonesia is emerging as the goal of current talks between Indonesian President Sukarno and Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal, highly placed sources indicated today.

The sources, who refused to be identified, said the Philippines and Indonesia do not regard the present situation as an insurmountable obstacle to revival of Maphilindo, the association that Indonesia and the Philippines formed with Malaya last summer before it became the nucleus of the Malaysian Federation.

The sources said there was agreement in the current talks that the door should be left open for the inclusion of Malaysia in Maphilindo and for the possible admission of such other Asian countries as Thailand, Cambodia, Laos and Burma.

The Philippine and Indonesian delegations issued a communique today promising to seek a peaceful solution to the dispute with Malaysia. There was no indication, however, that Sukarno is prepared to abandon his anti-Malaysian campaign without concessions from the new federation.

One of Sukarno's chief complaints against Malaysia has been that Britain retains military bases in its former territories.

101-Year-Old Bishop Performs Wedding

NEW YORK (AP)—They met in Japan 46 years ago. They were married by a 101-year-old bishop.

The newlyweds are the Rev. Dr. Charles S. Iglehart, 83, and Caroline Packham, 72, both former Methodist missionaries in Tokvo and Nagasaki.

Bishop Herbert Welch performed the ceremony. "I still remember when they were youngsters," he said.

"My wife and I are old, old friends," said Dr. Iglehart. "We decided only recently to get married."

Previous Pope Went to Holy Land in 1271

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI was the first pontiff to make a pilgrimage to the Holy Land, but he was not the only Pope to travel from the Holy Land to Rome.

Teobaldi Visconti, archdeacon of Liege, Belgium, was in the Holy Land on a pilgrimage when a conclave elected him Pope on Sept. 1, 1271.

Word of his election reached Visconti at Acre. He started for Italy Nov. 19 and entered Rome March 13, 1272. Six days later he was ordained a priest and became Pope Gregory X.

Gregory X was one of the few Popes who were not ordained when elected.

Roman Catholicism considers St. Peter the first Pope. He, too, made the journey from the Holy Land to Rome.

Pope Gives Escort Pilots His Blessing

ROME (AP)—A lean, white-robed figure appeared unexpectedly in the jetliner's cabin.

For Capt. Gianmario Zuccarini, 48, pilot on the first air journey by a Pope, it was the most memorable moment on his flight to the Holy Land last Saturday.

Pope Paul VI asked if he could bid a radio farewell to the eight Italian air force jets accompanying the plane out of Italian territory.

Zuccarini, Alitalic Airline's chief pilot, told newsmen, "I invited him to put on the head set. Paul VI movingly thanked the escort pilots and gave them his blessing."

Border Patrolman Acquitted of Murder

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Border Patrolman Dudley Clanahan, 28, says he can "start to live again" today. He was acquitted of murder Wednesday in the death of a Mexican horseman who was struck by the landing gear of the officer's plane.

A federal jury deliberated only 15 minutes before returning the verdict.

The patrolman blamed a downdraft for causing his plane to strike and kill Isidoro Rodriguez Chaparro, 26, on a West Texas ranch Nov. 20, 1962, as he searched for illegal immigrants.

RICE EATERS

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Residents of Louisiana eat more rice per year than any other state in the continental United States, according to Texas A&M University.

Per capita rice consumption is 30 pounds per year in Louisiana, 27 pounds in South Carolina and 113 pounds in Hawaii. The national average is about 6 pounds.

Love Pledges Economy; Asks More Power

trol over state government.

He also asked the legislature to consider placing a constitutional amendment on the 1964 general election ballot to provide for the appointment of the regents of the University of Colorado "and placing the University of Colorado on the same operational basis as our other state colleges and universities."

Under the regent proposal, the governor would appoint the regents.

Love, who observed his first anniversary in office Wednesday on the opening day of the legislature, also asked the lawmakers to make a supplemental appropriation to pay for the cost of the state medicare program. It has been estimated that the program will overspend its constitutional limit of $10 million by $2 million this year.

"One year ago you and I together took the first steps toward restoring the balance between Colorado's governmental expenditures and the rate of Colorado's economic growth," Love said.

"These fine beginnings in reducing taxes and in establishing a lean and hard approach to budgetary problems, this belt-tightening, came none too soon, he said. "It became readily apparent that Colorado was at the moment you acted in a serious economic downturn."

Love said the downturn was compounded by a severe drought which caused a tremendous loss approaching $50 million in agricultural income. He said the loss also was reflected directly and immediately in loss of tax revenue to the state.

"Every indication now is that the downturn has been reversed, and we have reason to believe that Colorado is soundly on the track toward a sustained and vital growth'" Love said.

Love also said that he would present a speech to the Legislature on education later. He also will deliver a budget message soon.

Love also said that revenue receipts indicate that Colorado will end the current fiscal year with all obligations paid in full and with the state's $10 million revolving fund intact.

Love devoted most of his 25-page speech to gains he believes the state made during his first year in office.

The governor also said:

— His grassroots forums showed that the people want to develop the state but warned "that the level of public spending must bear a proper and proportionate relationship to our economic base—the ability of the people to pay." He said there was growing concern throughout the state that in the past Colorado had not "devoted sufficient attention to the proper economic development of the state."

— That the people want sound and sensible revision of Colorado tax structure to give local governments a better opportunity to properly finance its legitimate local needs and a reduction of taxes that are harmful to sound economic development and a reallocation of the tax base among the various echelons of government.

Gains during the year, Love said, included 51 new industries, new records for total employment and a decline in unemployment, a healthy tourist industry and moving "decidedly closer" to development of Colorado's oil shale resources.

Love also:

— Asked the Legislature to put off changes in Colorado's underground water laws until the 1965 session.

— Said the highway budget for the next fiscal year would total approximately $80 million.

— Said that excellent progress had been made in education, mental health, mental retardation programs, rehabilitation, and health and welfare during his first year.

— Asked the Legislature to provide funds to continue his 100-man local affairs commission, which will present recommendations to the 1965 session.

— Said he would submit a report to the Legislature on water pollution later.

— Asked the Legislature to establish certain maximum allowable standards for air pollution and to continue to study the problem, but to delay creation of any broad machinery until the next session.

The little cabinet plan would lump many state agencies under six coordinators, all directly responsible to Love.

The coordinators would be in the fields of finance, administrative services, agriculture and natural resources, health education and welfare, economic development and rehabilitation.

Some members of Love's own party, who solidly control the Legislature, have expressed opposition to parts of the little cabinet proposal.

Major Combat Units May Have to Be Sent to Viets

'wars of liberation' in the Viet Cong style pay off. A Viet Cong victory would support the Chinese view, and give powerful impetus to Communist guerrillas throughout Latin America, for instance."

Another American diplomat disagreed:

"We have no reason to think American combat troops would do any better in Viet Nam than the French army did in their war, which ended in disaster in 1954.

"Suppose, for instance, an American infantry regiment were ambushed and knocked out. It would be a worse blow than if the Americans hadn't been there in the first place.

"American participation like that would mean actually administering the country in some ways—a job I don't think we could handle.

"I'm not at all sure the American public or Congress are willing at this point to risk World War III—and there would be such a risk if we started bringing in combat elements.

"All things taken together, I think the risk of South Viet Nam going Communist, ugly though that alternative is, is preferable to trying to take over the war ourselves."

President Johnson was lauded by Vietnamese and Americans here after a recent news conference in which Johnson avoided mentioning the old target date of 1965 for withdrawal of American troops.

"We took it to mean that President Johnson intends to see the war through, for however long it may take. This was an encouraging thing," a Vietnamese said.

"But will America still be willing to spend half a billion dollars a year here, and continue losing American lives in our war?

"We Vietnamese don't know. And I don't think Americans know either."

Arthur K. Hammond Dies; Rites Friday

Arthur K. Hammond, R. R. No. 3, Colorado Springs, died Wednesday at a local hospital.

He was a rancher but had taught for 17 years at the Centennial High School in Pueblo and was chief training officer, Veterans Bureau of Education Program, and had served as state Vocational Education supervisor. Since his retirement from teaching he had been a rancher in the Black Forest and Rosemont areas.

Mr. Hammond was born in Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 23, 1890. He was a graduate of the Missouri School of Mines and had a B A. degree from Colorado State University. He was a member of the First Methodist Church of Colorado Springs. He was in military service from 1915 until 1918 and was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars, No. 911, and of Zebulon Pike Chapter, Disabled American Veterans, and of Pueblo Lodge 17, AF and AM.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Avis Hammond; a son, Kepler Hammond, San Diego, Calif.; a daughter, Mrs. Margaret E. Johnson, Denver; a brother, Herbert E. Hammond, Colorado Springs, and six grandsons.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Law Drawing Room. The Rev. Philip Green and Colorado Springs Memorial Lodge No. 2, AF and AM, will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Till Tap Reported At Local Service Station

Don Toothman of Toothman's Bay Station, 2800 E. Highway 24 told the sheriff's office Wednesday that someone had taken $71 from his till.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Bernard Barry and Eldon McCune, a young man came to the gas station Wednesday and said he was hitchhiking from California to Kansas City. He asked if he might come into the station to get warm and after being allowed to enter, fell to the floor.

He told Toothman that he was suffering from the cold and had no money. Toothman brought him some coffee and advised him not to hitchhike in the state as there were laws against it. After inquiring where the Western Union office was the man left the station.

On Wednesday evening when Toothman was checking the till he discovered the money missing. An investigation revealed a man answered the description given by Toothman had left on a bus for Kansas City. A pickup was put out and he was apprehended at Lamar.

He admitted having been in the gas station but denied taking the money and a search conducted by Lamar police failed to reveal any. The suspect said he had contacted his brother in California who had sent him the money to return to Kansas City.

Witness Reports Two Girls Steal Car

Two girls who stole a car from Neal L. Jackson Tuesday night abandoned it a short time later in the 700 block of E. Kiowa St., police reported today.

The 1954 car had been stolen from the 700 block of E. Cimarron St. where Jackson, of 429 N. Franklin St., had parked it. A witness told police he saw the two girls running away from the car after they had parked it. The car was returned to Jackson.

In another case of theft reported this morning, a Gazette Telegraph newspaper rack was stolen from the Bon Shopping Center, 2300 N. Wahsatch Ave.

Michael Herring, a route man for the Gazette, discovered the theft of the rack and attached coin box Wednesday morning.

Loss, Damage In Burglary Reported

A spokesman for the King Soopers Saving Center at 2727 Palmer Park Blvd. said today that there was between $1,000 and $2,000 worth of loss and damage in a burglary of the store Tuesday night.

The thieves shot holes in the ceiling of the store and stole TV sets, lighters and pistols after breaking into showcases.

King Sooper employes were still finding bullet holes today. The thieves went on a shooting spree after getting pistols and ammunition from the sports department showcase.

The Nation's Weather

Cold wave warnings are in effect today and tonight for Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

Temperatures will fall to around zero in northern Illinois and to five to 10 below zero in Wisconsin by Friday morning.

A low pressure area extending from Lake Superior southward to the central Gulf has produced widespread precipitation from the Mississippi Valley east to the middle and south Atlantic states.

There was snow in the middle and upper Mississippi Valley with one to three inches of new snow in northern and lower Michigan and in extreme eastern Michigan.

Rain occurred over the lower Mississippi Valley, Ohio Valley and southern and middle Atlantic states.

There were numerous reports of rainfall in excess of one inch.

Light snow fell in the northern Rockies and rain in western Washington and Oregon, with a few six-hour amounts of more than a half inch.

Minimum temperatures this morning were below freezing over the Plateau, Rockies, northern and central Plains, northwest portion of the south Plains, upper Great Lakes and north Atlantic states.

Sub-zero readings were reported in the Great Basin, the northern Plains and northern New England. Seventies were recorded in central and southern Florida.

Navy Commander Guest Speaker At League Meet

Navy Cmdr. Quinten A. Kelso of the NORAD Planning and Intelligence section will be guest speaker at noon Friday at a luncheon meeting of the Colorado Springs Navy League Council at the Swiss Chalet.

Cmdr. Kelso will discuss his past duty assignment as U. S. Naval Attache in Mexico. He resided in Mexico City for three years before reporting here last October but as the Naval Attache he was accredited to all Central American countries.

He began his Navy career 22 years ago as an apprentice seaman. During World War II, he served in the Pacific as an aviation machinest mate with scouting aircraft units.

After the war he won his wings as a naval aviator. His past duty tours have included the Staff, Destroyer Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet; the Naval War College and as a test pilot at the Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J.

Local Woman Hurt Wednesday in Two Car Crash

A woman who was injured in a two-car accident at Bijou Street and North Circle Drive Wednesday afternoon was reported in fair condition this morning.

Sharon May Hall, 22, of 2914 Hudson St., was taken to St. Francis Hospital suffering from shock and a head cut.

She was driving west on Bijou when her car collided with another car driven by Ruby Clyde Painter, 44, of 2005 Meyers Ave., police said. The Painter car was northbound on Circle Drive, when the collission occurred.

Painter suffered a sprained shoulder and was taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Hall, who was ticketed for a stop sign violation, could not remember anything about the accident when police attempted to question her at the hospital.

posal. He said a request by Allen J. and Verona Singleton to change an A-3 Airport Farm District, located south of Highway 24 and west of the entrance to Peterson Field would be objectionable to the Air Force.

The zone, which would permit overnight trailer camping, would, according to Cloud, be hazardous to persons using the trailer park due to its proximity to Peterson Field.

The Singleton petition was tabled by the commission until the Feb. 11 meeting.

Other petitions tables included a request by Floyd L. Stanley and Willowbrook, Inc., to change an A-1 Garden Home District to a C-2 Commercial District, and a second request by the same persons to change an A-1 Garden Homes District to an R-1 Residential District.

The first area involved in the Stanley request lies southeast of the intersection of Academy Boulevard and Woodmen Drive and contains about 10.4 acres. The second area lies south of Woodmen Drive and east of Academy Boulevard, and contains approximately 66.8 acres.

Attorney Bernard L. Trott, who appeared on behalf of Stanley, said that plans by the developers of the proposed R-1 Residential District called for an exclusive residential area with a controlled access, a type of development which Trott said is new to this area.

He stated that the residential area would be completely surrounded by eight foot board fencing and that property owners would employ a man to act as gateman so that access could be controlled. He said a home owners association would maintain the fence and hire the gateman.

Maj. T. J. Krauska, representing the U. S. Air Force Academy, objected strenuously to any proposal to develop the area, commercially or otherwise, which he said lies in the flight pattern of a proposed AFA air strip.

Krauska said the approaches to Academy Boulevard had been kept clear by previous action of the El Paso County Commission. He urged that the planners and the commissioners come up with a specific plan for the entire area, keeping in mind the future plans by the Air Force and the Pentagon for an air strip.

The major said he feared another Peterson Field situation if developers are allowed to create congested conditions in an approach zone area.

Trott countered that Maj. Krauska was talking in generalities about an air strip which has not been approved. He said the area mentioned in the petition is located about six miles from the point of takeoff, and that one resident to more than one-half acre could not be called congestion.

Both of Stanley's proposals were tabled until the February meeting.

A fifth petition was approved by the planners. It was a request by Stratmoor Valley Development Co., to change an A-2 Farming District to an R-2 Residential District. The area is located northeast of Interstate Highway 25 and southwest of Fountain Creek.

Two new plats were approved. The first was for Eastmor Heights Subdivision, presented by John Ceresa. The area is located on the west side of Holmes Drive between California Street and Dale Street.

The second is by Stratmoor Valley, third filing, presented by the Stratmoor Valley Development Co., F. W. Ericson, president. The area lies northeast of Interstate Highway 25 and southeast of old Highway 85-87.

A preliminary plat by Stratmoor Valley Development Co., fifth filing, was approved. The area contains about 25 acres and lies southwest of Fountain Creek and northeast of Interstate Highway 25.

for the Republican presidential nomination.

Today, Goldwater completes the opening stint of what he says will be at least a 19-day campaign for the state's March 10 presidential primary, first in the nation. He starts the third day of this campaign trip with a morning news conference, and has promised a detailed statement on Johnson's message.

After listening to part of the speech while parked on a snowy road in Amherst, Goldwater said:

"I would say that he's suddenly become all things to all people. It was my impression that he out-Roosevelted Roosevelt, out-Kennedyed Kennedy and even made Truman look like some kind of piker."

Goldwater said Johnson wants the government to move into almost every field of American life, and added that he is running for president to put a stop to that.

Still expressing surprise and satisfaction at his New Hampshire reception, Goldwater said he will spend another 16 days campaigning here.

"That's a minimum," he said. "I'll do whatever my New Hampshire people say is needed."

The Arizona senator said he will come back to New Hampshire Jan. 21 for another Tuesday to Thursday tour. He said there will be at least two more of those midweek visits, plus a full week of campaigning one or two weeks before the primary.

Between trips, he said, his sons, Barry Jr., 26, and Michael 24, will be working in New Hampshire.

"What I'm after are delegates," he said. "Wining a popularity contest isn't the important thing. It's getting delegates. So I'm working with Republicans."

The New Hampshire balloting couples a presidential preference vote with an election to choose convention delegates. The state will have 14 votes at the Republican convention next July.

Goldwater took his conservative crusade into living rooms, church halls and a school gymnasium Wednesday stressing this theme:

"The Republican party is the one that offers the home for conservatives, and I want to offer whatever leadership I can."

Goldwater made his major speech of the current tour Wednesday night before more than 1,500 at St. Anselm's College in Manchester.

He charged the Johnson administration "in order to placate the Soviets, obviously is pushing for a neutralized Europe."

Goldwater said the North Atlantic Treaty Organization should get its own force of tactical weapons. He said that would revitalize the Western alliance and halt the spread of national nuclear forces.

Goldwater also said most Americans would like to see Cuba invaded to topple Fidel Castro, but he said economic and political pressure can do the trick. Goldwater added that if the late President John F. Kennedy had kept the 1962 blockade in force "for another few days" Castro would have been finished.

He found some critics. One, wanted to know why Goldwater won't agree to a debate with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, only other avowed candidate for the GOP nomination.

He got the stock Goldwater reply: "I don't happen to believe Republicans should debate Republicans."

George M. Rockwood Dies; Rites Friday

George Merley Rockwood, 2509½ W. Colorado Ave., died Wednesday at 79 at a local hospital. He was a retired farmer and had been a resident of Colorado Springs for 30 years. He was employed for years by the Osborn Drug Co., for several years on the West Side. He was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Mr. Rockwood had never married. He was born in Centerville, Utah, March 23, 1884, and attended school there. He is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Angelene McCullam, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Laura Stephens, Huntington Park, Calif.; Mrs. Emily Lee, Centerville, Utah, and Mrs. Alice Nulph, Salt Lake City, Utah, and by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Blunt Mortuary Chapel. Bishop Douglas L. Smith of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will officiate. Burial will be in Centerville, Utah.

O. L. Bailey, Former Springs Resident, Dies

O. L. Bailey a former Colorado Springs businessman died Wednesday in Sherman, Tex., where he had lived for many years. He was a member of Masonic Lodge No. 76.

He is survived by his wife, the former Effie Dixon of Colorado Springs; an uncle, William A. Bailey, 118 E. Dale St. and brothers and sisters. Funeral services and burial will be in Sherman.

Nixon 'Willing To Do Everything Necessary' in GOP

the future," he said in an interview, "based on my primary conviction that it is vital to get new leadership for this country and that the Republican party must nominate its strongest man.

"I will say this — and I have not said it before — I will make any sacrifice to see that that is done."

The former vice president, who is 51 years old today, became a partner Jan. 1 in a New York law firm now named Nixon, Mudge, Rose, Guthrie & Alexander.

"It is a lucrative position for me," he said, "and some believe I wouldn't take any more risks. That's bunk."

Interviewed in his office, Nixon said:

"I believe that any man who has become a public figure belongs to the public and as long as they want him to lead, to lead. But leadership doesn't always involve being a candidate.

"I feel that having been the (Republican) candidate in 1960 and having received the votes of more than 34 million people, I have a responsibility to them. I have to judge what that responsibility is and how to meet it.

"I also feel the Republican party has an obligation to nominate its strongest candidate and one who would make the best president — and I believe the two go together; that the man best qualified for president would also make the best candidate.

"I have thought that the best way to serve that end would be by not getting into the scramble myself, but by talking about issues and attempting to give leadership in developing a program against the present administration and for a Republican alternative.

"I've been around this track," he said. "I know what the presidency requires and what the campaign requires.

"Meanwhile I'm staying, not on the sidelines, but in the thick of the battle — a blocking back, you might say, or, to use a hockey term, the one who gives the assist. You know you get just as much credit for the assist as you do for the goal."

Nixon said he would be affected by the judgment of others as to who the best Republican candidate would be, "but I don't go so far as to say a draft is always right."

"Public demand is absolutely essential," he said. "I've been reading the AP polls and the Gallup polls and I'm trying to sense what the public demand is, and that of course will enter into my judgment as to who the strongest candidate is."

The latest Associated Press poll of grass roots party leaders, taken in late December, showed that Nixon had gained strongly on front-runner Sen. Barry Goldwater, since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, as their choice for the party's standard bearer. The December Gallup poll showed Nixon two percentage points ahead of Goldwater among rank-and-filers.

Nixon also said mail and phone calls urging him to run again for president "have become very heavy." People even stop him on the street, he said, and ask him to be a candidate.

He said he was plainly dissatisfied with the way the budding Republican campaign has been going.

"Up to now it has been too negative," he said, "too much nitpicking among ourselves, too much talk about image and not enough talk about things of solid substance.

"President Johnson will be beaten only if the Republican candidate offers idealism, intellectual leadership of a high order, and a positive — not a negative — alternative to his program."

Nixon said he still devotes much of his time to public affairs despite what he called a demanding business schedule.

He arrives at his office at 8:30 a.m., leaves about 6 p.m. and often takes a black attache case with work to do at home. He said he also works at home on weekends, and during the Christmas holidays wrote a magazine article. He answers about 500 letters a week.

He said his present "public activity" schedule calls for two speeches a month, one in New York and one out of town. "But I have no staff any more," he said, "and I have to do all the reading and research and prepare the darn things myself." He still has the two secretaries who have been with him for 10 years, Miss Rosemary Woods and Miss Loie Gaunt.

Nixon said he enjoys the excitement of living in New York and of being associated with a prominent law firm. The firm has 23 partners and a staff of about 70 lawyers. It specializes in corporate and international law.

"Once you've been on a fast track it's hard to move to a slow one," Nixon said. "I simply would get bored with a sedentary life."

47 Juveniles Get Attention From City Police

The Juvenile Bureau of the Colorado Springs police department handled 47 juveniles last month, it was reported today by Chief Cecil J. McKissick.

He said 34 of them were boys ranging in age from 5 thru 17 and 13 were teenage girls.

In regard to action taken, the chief said 20 juveniles were referred to the juvenile court and probation office, five referred to the state juvenile parole officer, 21 were released to their parents and one was held for another agency.

Warehouse Office Ransacked Wednesday

Someone broke into the Hewlett-Packard Co. warehouse, 3407 N. El Paso St. and after thoroly ransacking the offices found nothing, the sheriff's department reported Wednesday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Vincent Denboske, entry was made by breaking a window in an overhead door. The office was searched and an effort made to force the desk which was locked but empty. A check of the building failed to show anything missing.

Light Shed on Oswald Mysteries in Reports

rect grilling — behind closed doors. The full commission will participate in this questioning.

Eventually her testimony will be published, but not until the commission's inquiry is completed.

The commission also wants more information about the alleged murder rifle.

The FBI has been asked to conduct further tests on the time required to fire three shots. Reason for this is new evidence that the second and third shots came in exceptionally rapid succession. It was the third shot that shattered the back of the President's head, and fragmented. This has made very difficult determining whether that round was fired by the same rifle.

The Italian manufacturer of the rifle has been asked to submit certain information by the commission.

It also plans to send its own investigators to Mexico for a first-hand study of Oswald's mysterious trip there last September. At one session of the commission, J. Lee Rankin, general counsel, noted that the FBI learned from Mrs. Oswald that her husband left for Mexico on September 26, the day the White House announced Kennedy would go to Texas.

From Mexican authorities, the FBI has ascertained that Oswald arrived in Mexico City on September 27, took a room in a cheap hotel, and went immediately to the Cuban consulate where he sought a visa to Cuba for the avowed purpose of going from there to Russia.

According to the Mexicans, the Cuban consulate sent Oswald to the Soviet embassy. Still unknown is whether he actually went there and, if he did, what happened.

Strongly suspected by U S. investigators is that Oswald was carefully preparing an escape route.

The special commission is also seeking from the State Department its Security Office's file on the killer. A record was compiled on him after he notified the Moscow embassy of intention to defect to the Soviet.

The commission also has asked the State Department for a detailed study it has made of the slaying of world leaders in the past 200 years.

Al Moore Resigns From Sheriff's Staff

Deputy Sheriff Al Moore resigned from the sheriff's office Wednesday and made his resignation immediate.

Moore who has been a deputy for three years said in his brief typewritten note, "To whom it may concern, this is my notice of resignation, effective January 8, 1964, unable to conform with sheriff's manual."

The sheriff's manual is a new set of rules and regulations recently drawn up by Sheriff Earl L. Sullivan. Moore's resignation is the second within the past three weeks. The first was Deputy Sheriff H. Don Smith, former undersheriff. No successor to Moore has been appointed to date.

Love Pledges Economy; Asks More Power

trol over state government.

He also asked the legislature to consider placing a constitutional amendment on the 1964 general election ballot to provide for the appointment of the regents of the University of Colorado "and placing the University of Colorado on the same operational basis as our other state colleges and universities."

Under the regent proposal, the governor would appoint the regents.

Love, who observed his first anniversary in office Wednesday on the opening day of the legislature, also asked the lawmakers to make a supplemental appropriation to pay for the cost of the state medicare program. It has been estimated that the program will overspend its constitutional limit of $10 million by $2 million this year.

"One year ago you and I together took the first steps toward restoring the balance between Colorado's governmental expenditures and the rate of Colorado's economic growth," Love said.

"These fine beginnings in reducing taxes and in establishing a lean and hard approach to budgetary problems, this belt-tightening, came none too soon, he said. "It became readily apparent that Colorado was at the moment you acted in a serious economic downturn."

Love said the downturn was compounded by a severe drought which caused a tremendous loss approaching $50 million in agricultural income. He said the loss also was reflected directly and immediately in loss of tax revenue to the state.

"Every indication now is that the downturn has been reversed, and we have reason to believe that Colorado is soundly on the track toward a sustained and vital growth'" Love said.

Love also said that he would present a speech to the Legislature on education later. He also will deliver a budget message soon.

Love also said that revenue receipts indicate that Colorado will end the current fiscal year with all obligations paid in full and with the state's $10 million revolving fund intact.

Love devoted most of his 25-page speech to gains he believes the state made during his first year in office.

The governor also said:

— His grassroots forums showed that the people want to develop the state but warned "that the level of public spending must bear a proper and proportionate relationship to our economic base—the ability of the people to pay." He said there was growing concern throughout the state that in the past Colorado had not "devoted sufficient attention to the proper economic development of the state."

— That the people want sound and sensible revision of Colorado tax structure to give local governments a better opportunity to properly finance its legitimate local needs and a reduction of taxes that are harmful to sound economic development and a reallocation of the tax base among the various echelons of government.

Gains during the year, Love said, included 51 new industries, new records for total employment and a decline in unemployment, a healthy tourist industry and moving "decidedly closer" to development of Colorado's oil shale resources.

Love also:

— Asked the Legislature to put off changes in Colorado's underground water laws until the 1965 session.

— Said the highway budget for the next fiscal year would total approximately $89 million.

— Said that excellent progress had been made in education, mental health, mental retardation programs, rehabilitation, and health and welfare during his first year.

— Asked the Legislature to provide funds to continue his 100-man local affairs commission, which will present recommendations to the 1965 session.

— Said he would submit a report to the Legislature on water pollution later.

— Asked the Legislature to establish certain maximum allowable standards for air pollution and to continue to study the problem, but to delay creation of any broad machinery until the next session.

The little cabinet plan would lump many state agencies under six coordinators, all directly responsible to Love.

The coordinators would be in the fields of finance, administrative services, agriculture and natural resources, health education and welfare, economic development and rehabilitation.

Major Combat Units May Have to Be Sent to Viets

'wars of liberation' in the Viet Cong style pay off. A Viet Cong victory would support the Chinese view, and give powerful impetus to Communist guerrillas throughout Latin America, for instance."

Another American diplomat disagreed:

"We have no reason to think American combat troops would do any better in Viet Nam than the French army did in their war, which ended in disaster in 1954.

"Suppose, for instance, an American infantry regiment were ambushed and knocked out. It would be a worse blow than if the Americans hadn't been there in the first place.

"American participation like that would mean actually administering the country in some ways—a job I don't think we could handle.

"I'm not at all sure the American public or Congress are willing at this point to risk World War III—and there would be such a risk if we started bringing in combat elements.

"All things taken together, I think the risk of South Viet Nam going Communist, ugly though that alternative is, is preferable to trying to take over the war ourselves."

President Johnson was lauded by Vietnamese and Americans here after a recent news conference in which Johnson avoided mentioning the old target date of 1965 for withdrawal of American troops.

"We took it to mean that President Johnson intends to see the war through, for however long it may take. This was an encouraging thing," a Vietnamese said.

"But will America still be willing to spend half a billion dollars a year here, and continue losing American lives in our war?

"We Vietnamese don't know. And I don't think Americans know either."

Arthur K. Hammond Dies; Rites Friday

Arthur K. Hammond, R. R. No. 3, Colorado Springs, died Wednesday at a local hospital.

He was a rancher but had taught for 17 years at the Centennial High School in Pueblo and was chief training officer, Veterans Bureau of Education Program, and had served as state Vocational Education supervisor. Since his retirement from teaching he had been a rancher in the Black Forest and Rosemont areas.

Mr. Hammond was born in Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 23, 1890. He was a graduate of the Missouri School of Mines and had a B A. degree from Colorado State University. He was a member of the First Methodist Church of Colorado Springs. He was in military service from 1915 until 1918 and was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars, No. 911, and of Zebulon Pike Chapter, Disabled American Veterans, and of Pueblo Lodge 17, AF and AM.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Avis Hammond; a son, Kepler Hammond, San Diego, Calif.; a daughter, Mrs. Margaret E. Johnson, Denver; a brother, Herbert E. Hammond, Colorado Springs, and six grandsons.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Law Drawing Room. The Rev. Philip Green and Colorado Springs Memorial Lodge No. 2, AF and AM, will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Till Tap Reported At Local Service Station

Don Toothman of Toothman's Bay Station, 2800 E. Highway 24 told the sheriff's office Wednesday that someone had taken $71 from his till.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Bernard Barry and Eldon McCune, a young man came to the gas station Wednesday and said he was hitchhiking from California to Kansas City. He asked if he might come into the station to get warm and after being allowed to enter, fell to the floor.

He told Toothman that he was suffering from the cold and had no money. Toothman brought him some coffee and advised him not to hitchhike in the state as there were laws against it. After inquiring where the Western Union office was the man left the station.

On Wednesday evening when Toothman was checking the till he discovered the money missing. An investigation revealed a man answered the description given by Toothman had left on a bus for Kansas City. A pickup was put out and he was apprehended at Lamar.

He admitted having been in the gas station but denied taking the money and a search conducted by Lamar police failed to reveal any. The suspect said he had contacted his brother in California who had sent him the money to return to Kansas City.

Witness Reports Two Girls Steal Car

Two girls who stole a car from Neal L. Jackson Tuesday night abandoned it a short time later in the 700 block of E. Kiowa St., police reported today.

The 1954 car had been stolen from the 700 block of E. Cimarron St. where Jackson, of 429 N. Franklin St., had parked it. A witness told police he saw the two girls running away from the car after they had parked it. The car was returned to Jackson.

In another case of theft reported this morning, a Gazette Telegraph newspaper rack was stolen from the Bon Shopping Center, 2300 N. Wahsatch Ave.

Michael Herring, a route man for the Gazette, discovered the theft of the rack and attached coin box Wednesday morning.

Loss, Damage In Burglary Reported

A spokesman for the King Soopers Saving Center at 2727 Palmer Park Blvd. said today that there was between $1,000 and $2,000 worth of loss and damage in a burglary of the store Tuesday night.

The thieves shot holes in the ceiling of the store and stole TV sets, lighters and pistols after breaking into showcases.

King Sooper employes were still finding bullet holes today. The thieves went on a shooting spree after getting pistols and ammunition from the sports department showcase.

Rain occurred over the lower Mississippi Valley, Ohio Valley and southern and middle Atlantic states.

There were numerous reports of rainfall in excess of one inch.

Light snow fell in the northern Rockies and rain in western Washington and Oregon, with a few six-hour amounts of more than a half inch.

Minimum temperatures this morning were below freezing over the Plateau, Rockies, northern and central Plains, northwest portion of the south Plains, upper Great Lakes and north Atlantic states.

Sub-zero readings were reported in the Great Basin, the northern Plains and northern New England. Seventies were recorded in central and southern Florida.

Navy Commander Guest Speaker At League Meet

Navy Cmdr. Quinten A. Kelso of the NORAD Planning and Intelligence section will be guest speaker at noon Friday at a luncheon meeting of the Colorado Springs Navy League Council at the Swiss Chalet.

Cmdr. Kelso will discuss his past duty assignment as U. S. Naval Attache in Mexico. He resided in Mexico City for three years before reporting here last October but as the Naval Attache he was accredited to all Central American countries.

He began his Navy career 22 years ago as an apprentice seaman. During World War II, he served in the Pacific as an aviation machinest mate with scouting aircraft units.

After the war he won his wings as a naval aviator. His past duty tours have included the Staff, Destroyer Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet; the Naval War College and as a test pilot at the Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J.

Local Woman Hurt Wednesday in Two Car Crash

A woman who was injured in a two-car accident at Bijou Street and North Circle Drive Wednesday afternoon was reported in fair condition this morning.

Sharon May Hall, 22, of 2914 Hudson St., was taken to St. Francis Hospital suffering from shock and a head cut.

She was driving west on Bijou when her car collided with another car driven by Ruby Clyde Painter, 44, of 2005 Meyers Ave., police said. The Painter car was northbound on Circle Drive, when the collission occurred.

Painter suffered a sprained shoulder and was taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Hall, who was ticketed for a stop sign violation, could not remember anything about the accident when police attempted to question her at the hospital.

posal. He said a request by Allen J. and Verona Singleton to change an A-3 Airport Farm District, located south of Highway 24 and west of the entrance to Peterson Field would be objectionable to the Air Force.

The zone, which would permit overnight trailer camping, would, according to Cloud, be hazardous to persons using the trailer park due to its proximity to Peterson Field.

The Singleton petition was tabled by the commission until the Feb. 11 meeting.

Other petitions tables included a request by Floyd L. Stanley and Willowbrook, Inc., to change an A-1 Garden Home District to a C-2 Commercial District, and a second request by the same persons to change an A-1 Garden Homes District to an R-1 Residential District.

The first area involved in the Stanley request lies southeast of the intersection of Academy Boulevard and Woodmen Drive and contains about 10.4 acres.

The second area lies south of Woodmen Drive and east of Academy Boulevard, and contains approximately 66.8 acres.

Attorney Bernard L. Trott, who appeared on behalf of Stanley, said that plans by the developers of the proposed R-1 Residential District called for an exclusive residential area with a controlled access, a type of development which Trott said is new to this area.

He stated that the residential area would be completely surrounded by eight foot board fencing and that property owners would employ a man to act as gateman so that access could be controlled. He said a home owners association would maintain the fence and hire the gateman.

Maj. T. J. Krauska, representing the U. S. Air Force Academy, objected strenuously to any proposal to develop the area, commercially or otherwise, which he said lies in the flight pattern of a proposed AFA air strip.

Krauska said the approaches to Academy Boulevard had been kept clear by previous action of the El Paso County Commission. He urged that the planners and the commissioners come up with a specific plan for the entire area, keeping in mind the future plans by the Air Force and the Pentagon for an air strip.

The major said he feared another Peterson Field situation if developers are allowed to create congested conditions in an approach zone area.

Trott countered that Maj. Krauska was talking in generalities about an air strip which has not been approved. He said the area mentioned in the petition is located about six miles from the point of takeoff, and that one resident to more than one-half acre could not be called congestion.

Both of Stanley's proposals were tabled until the February meeting.

A fifth petition was approved by the planners. It was a request by Stratmoor Valley Development Co., to change an A-2 Farming District to an R-2 Residential District. The area is located northeast of Interstate Highway 25 and southwest of Fountain Creek.

Two new plats were approved. The first was for Eastmor Heights Subdivision, presented by John Ceresa. The area is located on the west side of Holmes Drive between California Street and Dale Street.

The second is by Stratmoor Valley, third filing, presented by the Stratmoor Valley Development Co., F. W. Ericson, president. The area lies northeast of Interstate Highway 25 and southeast of old Highway 85-87.

A preliminary plat by Stratmoor Valley Development Co., fifth filing, was approved. The area contains about 25 acres and lies southwest of Fountain Creek and northeast of Interstate Highway 25.

for the Republican presidential nomination.

Today, Goldwater completes the opening stint of what he says will be at least a 19-day campaign for the state's March 10 presidential primary, first in the nation. He starts the third day of this campaign trip with a morning news conference, and has promised a detailed statement on Johnson's message.

After listening to part of the speech while parked on a snowy road in Amherst, Goldwater said:

"I would say that he's suddenly become all things to all people. It was my impression that he out-Roosevelted Roosevelt, out-Kennedyed Kennedy and even made Truman look like some kind of piker."

Goldwater said Johnson wants the government to move into almost every field of American life, and added that he is running for president to put a stop to that.

Still expressing surprise and satisfaction at his New Hampshire reception, Goldwater said he will spend another 16 days campaigning here.

"That's a minimum," he said. "I'll do whatever my New Hampshire people say is needed."

The Arizona senator said he will come back to New Hampshire Jan. 21 for another Tuesday to Thursday tour. He said there will be at least two more of those midweek visits, plus a full week of campaigning one or two weeks before the primary.

Between trips, he said, his sons, Barry Jr., 26, and Michael 24, will be working in New Hampshire.

"What I'm after are delegates," he said. "Wining a popularity contest isn't the important thing. It's getting delegates. So I'm working with Republicans."

The New Hampshire balloting couples a presidential preference vote with an election to choose convention delegates. The state will have 14 votes at the Republican convention next July.

Goldwater took his conservative crusade into living rooms, church halls and a school gymnasium Wednesday stressing this theme:

"The Republican party is the one that offers the home for conservatives, and I want to offer whatever leadership I can."

Goldwater made his major speech of the current tour Wednesday night before more than 1,500 at St. Anselm's College in Manchester.

He charged the Johnson administration "in order to placate the Soviets, obviously is pushing for a neutralized Europe."

Goldwater said the North Atlantic Treaty Organization should get its own force of tactical weapons. He said that would revitalize the Western alliance and halt the spread of national nuclear forces.

Goldwater also said most Americans would like to see Cuba invaded to topple Fidel Castro, but he said economic and political pressure can do the trick. Goldwater added that if the late President John F. Kennedy had kept the 1962 blockade in force "for another few days" Castro would have been finished.

He found some critics. One, wanted to know why Goldwater won't agree to a debate with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, only other avowed candidate for the GOP nomination.

He got the stock Goldwater reply: "I don't happen to believe Republicans should debate Republicans."

George M. Rockwood Dies; Rites Friday

George Merley Rockwood, 2509½ W. Colorado Ave., died Wednesday at 79 at a local hospital. He was a retired farmer and had been a resident of Colorado Springs for 30 years. He was employed for years by the Osborn Drug Co., for several years on the West Side. He was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Mr. Rockwood had never married. He was born in Centerville, Utah, March 23, 1884, and attended school there. He is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Angelene McCullam, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Laura Stephens, Huntington Park, Calif.; Mrs. Emily Lee, Centerville, Utah, and Mrs. Alice Nulph, Salt Lake City, Utah, and by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Blunt Mortuary Chapel. Bishop Douglas L. Smith of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will officiate. Burial will be in Centerville, Utah.

O. L. Bailey, Former Springs Resident, Dies

O. L. Bailey a former Colorado Springs businessman died Wednesday in Sherman, Tex., where he had lived for many years. He was a member of Masonic Lodge No. 76.

He is survived by his wife, the former Effie Dixon of Colorado Springs; an uncle, William A. Bailey, 118 E. Dale St. and brothers and sisters. Funeral services and burial will be in Sherman.

Nixon 'Willing To Do Everything Necessary' in GOP

the future," he said in an interview, "based on my primary conviction that it is vital to get new leadership for this country and that the Republican party must nominate its strongest man.

"I will say this — and I have not said it before — I will make any sacrifice to see that that is done."

The former vice president, who is 51 years old today, became a partner Jan. 1 in a New York law firm now named Nixon, Mudge, Rose, Guthrie & Alexander.

"It is a lucrative position for me," he said, "and some believe I wouldn't take any more risks. That's bunk."

Interviewed in his office, Nixon said:

"I believe that any man who has become a public figure belongs to the public and as long as they want him to lead, to lead. But leadership doesn't always involve being a candidate.

"I feel that having been the (Republican) candidate in 1960 and having received the votes of more than 34 million people, I have a responsibility to them. I have to judge what that responsibility is and how to meet it.

"I also feel the Republican party has an obligation to nominate its strongest candidate and one who would make the best president — and I believe the two go together; that the man best qualified for president would also make the best candidate.

"I have thought that the best way to serve that end would be by not getting into the scramble myself, but by talking about issues and attempting to give leadership in developing a program against the present administration and for a Republican alternative.

"I've been around this track," he said. "I know what the presidency requires and what the campaign requires.

"Meanwhile I'm staying, not on the sidelines, but in the thick of the battle — a blocking back, you might say, or, to use a hockey term, the one who gives the assist. You know you get just as much credit for the assist as you do for the goal."

Nixon said he would be affected by the judgment of others as to who the best Republican candidate would be, "but I don't go so far as to say a draft is always right."

"Public demand is absolutely essential," he said. "I've been reading the AP polls and the Gallup polls and I'm trying to sense what the public demand is, and that of course will enter into my judgment as to who the strongest candidate is."

The latest Associated Press poll of grass roots party leaders, taken in late December, showed that Nixon had gained strongly on front-runner Sen. Barry Goldwater, since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, as their choice for the party's standard bearer. The December Gallup poll showed Nixon two percentage points ahead of Goldwater among rank-and-filers.

Nixon also said mail and phone calls urging him to run again for president "have become very heavy." People even stop him on the street, he said, and ask him to be a candidate.

He said he was plainly dissatisfied with the way the budding Republican campaign has been going.

"Up to now it has been too negative," he said, "too much nitpicking among ourselves, too much talk about image and not enough talk about things of solid substance.

"President Johnson will be beaten only if the Republican candidate offers idealism, intellectual leadership of a high order, and a positive — not a negative — alternative to his program."

Nixon said he still devotes much of his time to public affairs despite what he called a demanding business schedule.

He arrives at his office at 8:30 a.m., leaves about 6 p.m. and often takes a black attache case with work to do at home. He said he also works at home on weekends, and during the Christmas holidays wrote a magazine article. He answers about 500 letters a week.

He said his present "public activity" schedule calls for two speeches a month, one in New York and one out of town. "But I have no staff any more," he said, "and I have to do all the reading and research and prepare the darn things myself." He still has the two secretaries who have been with him for 10 years, Miss Rosemary Woods and Miss Loie Gaunt.

Nixon said he enjoys the excitement of living in New York and of being associated with a prominent law firm. The firm has 23 partners and a staff of about 70 lawyers. It specializes in corporate and international law.

"Once you've been on a fast track it's hard to move to a slow one," Nixon said. "I simply would get bored with a sedentary life."

47 Juveniles Get Attention From City Police

The Juvenile Bureau of the Colorado Springs police department handled 47 juveniles last month, it was reported today by Chief Cecil J. McKissick.

He said 34 of them were boys ranging in age from 5 thru 17 and 13 were teenage girls.

In regard to action taken, the chief said 20 juveniles were referred to the juvenile court and probation office, five referred to the state juvenile parole officer, 21 were released to their parents and one was held for another agency.

Warehouse Office Ransacked Wednesday

Someone broke into the Hewlett-Packard Co. warehouse, 3407 N. El Paso St. and after thoroly ransacking the offices found nothing, the sheriff's department reported Wednesday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Vincent Denboske, entry was made by breaking a window in an overhead door. The office was searched and an effort made to force the desk which was locked but empty. A check of the building failed to show anything missing.

Light Shed on Oswald Mysteries in Reports

rect grilling — behind closed doors. The full commission will participate in this questioning.

Eventually her testimony will be published, but not until the commission's inquiry is completed.

The commission also wants more information about the alleged murder rifle.

The FBI has been asked to conduct further tests on the time required to fire three shots. Reason for this is new evidence that the second and third shots came in exceptionally rapid succession. It was the third shot that shattered the back of the President's head, and fragmented. This has made very difficult determining whether that round was fired by the same rifle.

The Italian manufacturer of the rifle has been asked to submit certain information by the commission.

It also plans to send its own investigators to Mexico for a first-hand study of Oswald's mysterious trip there last September. At one session of the commission, J. Lee Rankin, general counsel, noted that the FBI learned from Mrs. Oswald that her husband left for Mexico on September 26, the day the White House announced Kennedy would go to Texas.

From Mexican authorities, the FBI has ascertained that Oswald arrived in Mexico City on September 27, took a room in a cheap hotel, and went immediately to the Cuban consulate where he sought a visa to Cuba for the avowed purpose of going from there to Russia.

According to the Mexicans, the Cuban consulate sent Oswald to the Soviet embassy. Still unknown is whether he actually went there and, if he did, what happened.

Strongly suspected by U.S. investigators is that Oswald was carefully preparing an escape route.

The special commission is also seeking from the State Department its Security Office's file on the killer. A record was compiled on him after he notified the Moscow embassy of intention to defect to the Soviet.

The commission also has asked the State Department for a detailed study it has made of the slaying of world leaders in the past 200 years.

Al Moore Resigns From Sheriff's Staff

Deputy Sheriff Al Moore resigned from the sheriff's office Wednesday and made his resignation immediate.

Moore who has been a deputy for three years said in his brief typewritten note, "To whom it may concern, this is my notice of resignation, effective January 8, 1964, unable to conform with sheriff's manual."

The sheriff's manual is a new set of rules and regulations recently drawn up by Sheriff Earl L. Sullivan. Moore's resignation is the second within the past three weeks. The first was Deputy Sheriff H. Don Smith, former undersheriff. No successor to Moore has been appointed to date.

WASHINGTON—Edward Bennett Williams, the brilliant trial lawyer, gets credit for the quote of the new year on the Washington cocktail circuit.

He was asked what he thought of the conflict-of-interest case against his latest client, Bobby Baker. The ousted Senate aid is being investigated by the Senate for getting rich quick on his Senate pay.

"Do you know," replied Williams, "I've studied the record, and Bobby Baker is innocent."

LEGAL BATTERY IN THE BAKER INQUIRY

Attorneys representing principals in the Bobby Baker investigation by the Senate Rules Committee may have trouble working in close harmony, for they are all stars in their own right. Defense counsel Williams is representing not only Baker but also Scott Peek, onetime administrative assistant to Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.), and Peek's secretary, Mary Alice Martin.

Nicholas Chase, another big shot Washington attorney, is representing Ernest Tucker, Baker's law partner.

Myron Ehrlich, yet another skillful Washington criminal lawyer, has been retained by Carole Tyler, former Baker secretary who occupied his Washington town house where VIPs were often entertained in high style.

The word has been passed, much to the relief of quite a few bigwigs, that the Misses Tyler and Martin will take the Fifth Amendment if and when they are called to testify.

The Secret Service is in a dither over President Johnson's penchant for breaking away — a la JFK — to shake hands and mingle in crowds. The agents are relieved, however, by the word that he will make no trips out of the country this year — at least not until after the elction. The foreign leaders that he sees will have to come to the U. S., either to the White House or Johnson City, Tex. The President plans to spend a great deal of time at his ranch. He feels that it is the one place in the world he can relax.

W. A. HARRIMAN WANTS TO BE MORE SECURE

At the age of 72, Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman has applied for social security, even if he is a millionaire and also on the federal payroll at $22,500 a year.

Under the social security law, an individual is entitled, at the age of 72, to full benefits, with no restrictions on what he otherwise earns.

So Harriman, if he qualifies, could get the top monthly social security benefit of $127 (plus $63 for Mrs. Harriman) without regard to his State Department salary.

The already flourishing Washington law practice of Thomas G. (Tommy the Cork) Corcoran and James H. Rowe gets a boost with LBJ in the White House.

Corcoran and Rowe, close associates of Franklin D. Roosevelt, worked hard in Johnson's corner when he sought the Presidential nomination in 1960.

The first fruit of this labor, Washington insiders hear, is that Corcoran will wangle an important State Department post for his old crony, Benjamin H. Cohen, another FDR braintruster.

Morgan by the local promotion commercial inserted in his Thursday TV special "JFK and His Friends."

The program, an intimate glimpse of the late President thru the eyes of two friends, correspondent Ben Bradlee and Arthur Schlesinger Jr., was not nationally sponsored.

So the local station came in with a filmed plug for the National Rifle Association stressing safety with firearms.

"It illustrates all too well," said Morgan, "how wide of the mark of wisdom and good taste television too often shoots."

Wendy Marcus, daughter of Stanley Marcus, of Neiman-Marcus of Dallas (the department store that carries such practical items in their Christmas catalog as $30,000 mink coats and your very own little submarine), is working without pay at the White House.

The comely, dark-eyed girl has been doing everything from interior decorating to opening the mail. But her stint has been only a temporary labor of love for her ~~friends, the~~ President and Mrs. Johnson. Wendy will leave in February for several weeks of skiing in Switzerland, then take a job with a Paris law firm. She is a Harvard Law School graduate.

THREE PLUMBERS FOR ONLY 20 BATHROOMS

As economy-minded President Johnson has said, he wants frugality and "a dollar's value for a dollar spent."

So how come the White House itself requires on a full-time basis four carpenters, three plumbers (for only 20 bathrooms), three painters and three electricians just to keep it going? Sue, there are 132 rooms in the White House.

But the posh Mayflower Hotel just up the street has 1,000 rooms (plus at least 1,000 baths). And it operates efficiently with only four plumbers, four electricians, four carpenters and four painters.

What is even more puzzling is that Tom Carter, a White House usher, says that not only is such a big maintenance staff necessary but sometimes is even too small to handle the work. For a house that was completely remodeled 15 years ago, it sure needs a lot of upkeep to keep from falling apart! LBJ, take note.

Julius Monk Maintains Old Elegance Style

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julius Monk, impresario, producer, pianist and director, is a landmark of Edwardian elegance, maintaining a haughty sartorial grandeur unmatched since the late Adolph Menjou first dazzled the world with his striped pants and spats.

Since his birth in Roman County, N.C., Monk has gone onward and upward from the simple study of music through jobs involving the manipulation of a steam calliope on the Mississippi steamer Island Queen to appearances in dark, expensive nightclubs in any European city you can name.

His travels about the world have imbued him with a super-elegant mode of dress unique in show business and one that has placed him twice on the covers of Gentlemen's Quarterly, a male fashion magazine which plans to feature him again next February.

He won fame in New York for his nightclub, The Upstairs at the Downstairs, with bright and topical revues and is carrying on the tradition in the lower reaches of the Hotel Plaza with one called "Dime a Dozen" in the room called "Plaza 9-."

For his evening at Plaza 9- (he was producing and not on stage) he was clad in a dark blue-grey one-button suit with a rather wide (four inch) European lap, two deep side vents and slashed pockets. The sleeves had cuffs and four buttons.

"I am also wearing a waistcoat since a gentleman is not allowed to carry a bag or even a musette bag and I must cram my pockets with the necessities of life," he said. "Plus the unpredictability of our air conditioning. The jacket is cut full."

"I've stopped wearing dinner clothes at work," he said. "People ask for butter or where is the men's room.

He finds audiences dressed mostly in dinner clothes at the beginning of a run "but as the commuters come in the clothes sense wanes. In the summer the audiences have their own peccadillos including one - tone shoes which can be seen even under our darkened conditions.

"I suggest that if people do insist on something informal, and they do have odd ideas, they might consider something we used. For two years in a row in a show for the Dictaphone people we put the men in black blazers, medium, grey flannel slacks and black slipon shoes and everyone was happy. That was because we ran the show both at noon and at night."

And in response to questions Monk gave some of his observations which have guided him through life:

Topcoats: "I am happy to see that the raincoat has taken hold here since it is the most sensible year round garment. I have an Italian one and wear it from the most balmy days right up to the winter when I become partial to vicuna."

Shoes: "I usually wear Church English shoes, two or three eyelets, or a monk's buckle. Plain toe, and long vamp. For sports I prefer brown suede."

Shirts: "Usually I wear a solid white tab collar since I have a long thin neck. Sometimes if I wear a black and white shirt with broad stripes people run up and ask where I got it. I am very fond of French cuffs — you can turn them back in an emergency."

Ties: "I am a straightforward black tie gent but I can't resist some of the French ties —they are so compelling. Bow ties? To each his own. Ascots? If you have a goiter."

Gloves: "I think the washable chamois is a wise selection since you can soak them clean. Some in white, some in grey. The white is a problem since I usually go around carrying a Herald Tribune."

Hats: "When I am in London I buy something the Hitts House calls an off-the-face. I know it sounds like a bride but it's really a half - baked Homburg. Black only, of course, except for a boater in the summer."

Socks: "French lisle, long with garter. I put on the new stretch socks and thought I was in surgery. Lisles are $4 or $5, fantastically expensive since I run through the toe the first five minutes but then I stock up at the post-Christmas sales."

Sizes: "Americans cling to youth and copy things they should avoid. An older cannot take a garment cut ostensibly for youth and cram himself into it. The dietics will not be denied. After 40 men begin to develop large bottoms and pendulous bellies."

Color: On days when one feels melancholy a somber garment seems indicated . . . I must explode the myth that gentlemen never wear brown. But it is dangerous for aesthetic reasons — it can make one sallow and ill looking. One must be prudent."

Fashions: "The American male has become much more fashion conscious. Now you can go into a shop and find overly-hearty males enjoying attending sales. Rather like women tearing corsets away from each other at S. Klein's."

Missouri Pacific Will Drop Thru Service

DENVER (AP) — A Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad official said today the Missouri Pacific Railroad has announced it will discontinue through service on its Colorado Eagle passenger train after Jan. 31.

Missouri Pacific operates between St. Louis and Pueblo and uses D&RGW trackage for the run between Pueblo and Denver.

The railroad also announced sleeping car service on the Eagle would be dropped, the Rio Grande spokesman said.

The Rio Grande will continue to operate passenger trains between here and Pueblo to connect with the Missouri Pacific. The train would leave here at 4:05 p.m., just as the Eagle does now.

"We're sort of a victim of circumstances," the Rio Grande official said. "We have no part in this action, but there isn't anything we can do about it."

For two years in a row in a show for the Dictaphone people we put the men in black blazers, medium, grey flannel slacks and black slipon shoes and everyone was happy. That was because we ran the show both at noon and at night."

And in response to questions Monk gave some of his observations which have guided him through life:

Topcoats: "I am happy to see that the raincoat has taken hold here since it is the most sensible year round garment. I have an Italian one and wear it from the most balmy days right up to the winter when I become partial to vicuna."

Shoes: "I usually wear Church English shoes, two or three eyelets, or a monk's buckle. Plain toe, and long vamp. For sports I prefer brown suede."

Shirts: "Usually I wear a solid white tab collar since I have a long thin neck. Sometimes if I wear a black and white shirt with broad stripes people run up and ask where I got it. I am very fond of French cuffs — you can turn them back in an emergency."

Ties: "I am a straightforward black tie gent but I can't resist some of the French ties —they are so compelling. Bow ties? To each his own. Ascots? If you have a goiter."

Gloves: "I think the washable chamois is a wise selection since you can soak them clean. Some in white, some in grey. The white is a problem since I usually go around carrying a Herald Tribune."

Hats: "When I am in London I buy something the Hitts House calls an off-the-face. I know it sounds like a bride but it's really a half-baked Homburg. Black only, of course, except for a boater in the summer."

Socks: "French lisle, long with garter. I put on the new stretch socks and thought I was in surgery. Lisles are $4 or $5, fantastically expensive since I run through the toe the first five minutes but then I stock up at the post-Christmas sales."

Sizes: "Americans cling to youth and copy things they should avoid. An older cannot take a garment cut ostensibly for youth and cram himself into it. The dietics will not be denied. After 40 men begin to develop large bottoms and pendulous bellies."

Color: On days when one feels melancholy a somber garment seems indicated . . . I must explode the myth that gentlemen never wear brown. But it is dangerous for aesthetic reasons — it can make one sallow and ill looking. One must be prudent."

Fashions: "The American male has become much more fashion conscious. Now you can go into a shop and find overly-hearty males enjoying attending sales. Rather like women tearing corsets away from each other at S. Klein's."

Missouri Pacific Will Drop Thru Service

DENVER (AP) — A Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad official said today the Missouri Pacific Railroad has announced it will discontinue through service on its Colorado Eagle passenger train after Jan. 31.

Missouri Pacific operates between St. Louis and Pueblo and uses D&RGW trackage for the run between Pueblo and Denver.

The railroad also announced sleeping car service on the Eagle would be dropped, the Rio Grande spokesman said.

The Rio Grande will continue to operate passenger trains between here and Pueblo to connect with the Missouri Pacific. The train would leave here at 4:05 p.m., just as the Eagle does now.

"We're sort of a victim of circumstances," the Rio Grande official said. "We have no part in this action, but there isn't anything we can do about it."

CATARACT FORMATION

The cataract that develops in older persons is a degenerative condition and belongs in the same category as gray hair, wrinkled skin, and hardened arteries. The change is likened to the way egg white turns opaque when heated.

Initially, the cloudiness may not interfere with vision and many eye surgeons have observed early signs of cataract formation 10 to 15 years before the inividual complains he no longer can see clearly. It is as though the room were full of smoke or the person were trying to see through mist or a waterfall (from which the word cataract comes). Spots appear when looking at the sky, water, snow, or a light colored wall.

There is much confusion as to when surgery should be done. Most ophthalmologists agree that the lens ought to be removed when vision no longer meets the needs of the individual. This is sooner for some than others. It is not necessary to wait for a cataract to ripen if vision in both eyes is so poor the person cannot read, work, or watch TV. There is no need to go about with failing vision for months or years.

No one is too old to undergo this type of surgery. The procedure is designed for the elderly because cataracts seldom develop before age 60. The majority go through the procedure without difficulty. As a rule the patient gets out of bed on the second day and goes home on the tenth. It is advisable to remain quiet for three or four weeks thereafter. Bending, lifting, and doing housework are verboten. Good results can be expected in 9 out of 10 undergoing this type of surgery.

Many are disappointed when given a temporary lens after the third or fourth week. They do not see as well as they did before the cataract was removed. The thick-lensed spectacles enlarge the image (30 per cent) on the operated side, leading to distortion. This is a temporary situation that clears up when the nerves and brain adjust to the loss of the lens. Corneal lenses are most helpful in correcting this situation.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Cholesterol and Arteries

A. E. writes: Is there any difference between an elevated cholesterol and arteriosclerosis?

Reply

Yes. Cholesterol is a fatty substance found in the blood and other tissues. An elevated amount is associated frequently with hardening of the arteries but the two conditions are not synonymous.

Whisky Heightens Color

C. C. writes: I'm 75 years old and look awfully pale. Do you think four ounces of whisky per day will bring back the color to my cheeks?

Reply

It may but it won't cure the cause of your pallor. Are you anemic? Or is this your normal complexion, considering your age?

Fast Pulse

Mrs. C. O. writes: Would nervousness and tenseness cause the pulse to rise?

Reply

Yes. These are common causes because of the close relationship between the heart beat and the emotions.

Small Planes To Be Like Busy Bees

By TOM NOLAN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Small, fast airplanes likely will be buzzing into America's transportation picture like a swarm of busy bees.

The reason is that many large airlines may be cutting back service to smaller cities across the nation. The gap will be filled—and in some cases service will be broadened—by air taxis, planes defined by the Civil Aeronautics Board as weighing not over 12,500 pounds. They give scheduled, irregular or demand service.

More than 2,600 air taxi operators envision a rich harvest of business flowing from the decision of the Federal Aviation Agency and the CAB to trim government subsidies to airports and airlines. Because such subsidies can spell the difference between black and red ink, many airlines may have to eliminate service to many small communities. Taxis will zoom into the vacuum, carrying passengers into the scheduled airline network.

A side benefit to passengers may be that those in areas not now serviced by regular lines will find air taxis increasingly available.

Air taxi operators feel that their future is rosy for many reasons:

While there are over 6,000 airports in the United States, fewer than 600 have scheduled airline service. For the passenger traveling to or from one of the 5,400 off-airline cities, air taxis provide the means to go all the way by air.

The idea of having one airport serve all cities in a geographical region endorsed by FAA and CAB will further reduce the number of airline-served airports in the years ahead.

CAB's use - it - or - lose - it program will wreak a steady attrition of smaller towns that will lose scheduled air service for lack of support.

Pressed by CAB and Congress to reduce their subsidy needs, airlines will gradually give up or at least cut to a minimum number of daily landings.

With today's emphasis on speed, many passengers make almost as much time in surface travel at the end of a 1,500-mile plane trip as they spend in the air.

For example, without air taxi, a businessman traveling from Los Angeles to Fredericksburg, Va., could jet to Washington's Dulles Airport in less than four hours, but would then have to spend an additional two and a half hours getting to Fredericksburg via limousine and bus.

By air taxi, he can fly from Dulles to Fredericksburg in 20 minutes, at a cost of as little as $6.30.

A major step in the air taxi breakthrough is creation of the National Air Taxi Service Guide, just issued as part of the Official Airline Guide. It lists the cities served by members of the National Air Taxi Conference (NATC), exact fares for single and twin-engine aircraft, the number of passengers who can be carried and estimated flying time.

The guide has been distributed to 23 major airlines which recognize NATC. These airlines will make air taxi reservations for passengers.

Several air taxi services are branching out into helicopter flights. Among the more successful are Los Angeles Airways, Chicago Helicopter Airways and New York Airways, which operate helicopter shuttles between airports and downtown points.

Biggest stumbling block in helicopter operations is the high initial cost. Copter prices begin at about $45,000 and they don't come cheaper by the dozen. The rate for helicopter charter service runs about $125 per hour.

Loveland Objects To Trash Haulers

LOVELAND, (AP) — Private trash haulers in Fort Collins have been making nocturnal trips to Loveland's free city dump — and Loveland wants it stopped.

It costs $4 to dump a load at Fort Collins.

The Loveland City Council directed the city attorney Tuesday night to write to Fort Collins trash hauling firms, telling them not to come to Loveland.

In other action, the city council voted 6-3 against making Loveland's main streets one way. The chamber was filled by townspeople

By air taxi, he can fly from Dulles to Fredericksburg in 20 minutes, at a cost of as little as $6.30.

A major step in the air taxi breakthrough is creation of the National Air Taxi Service Guide, just issued as part of the Official Airline Guide. It lists the cities served by members of the National Air Taxi Conference (NATC), exact fares for single and twin-engine aircraft, the number of passengers who can be carried and estimated flying time.

The guide has been distributed to 23 major airlines which recognize NATC. These airlines will make air taxi reservations for passengers.

Several air taxi services are branching out into helicopter flights. Among the more successful are Los Angeles Airways, Chicago Helicopter Airways and New York Airways, which operate helicopter shuttles between airports and downtown points.

Biggest stumbling block in helicopter operations is the high initial cost. Copter prices begin at about $45,000 and they don't come cheaper by the dozen. The rate for helicopter charter service runs about $125 per hour.

Loveland Objects To Trash Haulers

LOVELAND, (AP) — Private trash haulers in Fort Collins have been making nocturnal trips to Loveland's free city dump — and Loveland wants it stopped.

It costs $4 to dump a load at Fort Collins.

The Loveland City Council directed the city attorney Tuesday night to write to Fort Collins trash hauling firms, telling them not to come to Loveland.

In other action, the city council voted 6-3 against making Loveland's main streets one way. The chamber was filled by townspeople.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

How to Approach the Study Of Freedom

Persons who find themselves pioneering in the field of ideas almost always face a major problem of communications. Since the ideas they advocate always seem logical and reasonable to them, it is difficult for them to find out just where the ideas they hold fall short of convincing others.

Perhaps you may have had this experience. You may explain to a friend or acquaintance just why you believe or disbelieve in some particular theory or concept. You may make this explanation in a manner which is absolutely convincing as far as you are concerned. You cover the major points. You state your case with lucidity, humor and brevity. As you wind up your arguments you are very pleased for you now believe you finally managed to say exactly what you meant to say; therefore, none can possibly disagree. . .

And wham-o! You got nowhere.

We have had this experience many times.

For instance, we have stated many times that we believe in human liberty. Our purpose originally in making that statement, was to establish a common ground on which we could all stand. Saying that one favors human liberty was, as we first viewed it, like saying that mother love is a good thing; that virtue is better than vice; that honesty is the best policy.

But with the passing of time we learned, painfully, that there are lots of folks who don't believe in human liberty. What they believe in is liberty for themselves, and controls and restraints upon the other fellow. Now, so long as they are thinking about themselves when we say we favor liberty, we get along fine with them. But, if their thoughts move over and they begin to think about what kind of a world we would have it everyone had the liberty they wanted, they get scared.

So, it turns out that despite our hope, a common meeting ground on the field of the desirability of freedom and liberty just doesn't exist.

Nowadays, we have had to learn more caution. When we state, as we still, do, that we are for human liberty, we do so knowing that so far as some folks are concerned, they are going to react as tho we had just waved a red scarf in front of a bull.

So now we have to back up, and before we can get acceptance of the desirability of human liberty generally, we have to first describe why human liberty is necessary, and even unavoidable. So our argument, presumably based upon a recognized human good, now must go to the root of human nature to examine it and to find out whether or not liberty is good for people; and if it is good, how much of it is good.

What we do discover, if we penetrate this closely to the roots of things, is that human action itself is always motivated by the desire of the individual person to act. Each human being, we say, controls his own energy. And, having so stated, we again assume that we have found common ground for a beginning.

Not so. The argument arises once more, to suggest that men don't control their actions at all, but rather that men are automatons, controlled entirely by their ENVIRONMENT or by their GENES, or both. And once more we go at it.

In the end, the best we can do is to make a complete construct in which we interpret human life as we see it, put the pieces together as we find them, and from these exercises arrive at a conclusion respecting human liberty.

The beauty of it is, when we have gone that far we have come up with an explanation of the way things are that seems to fit all the facts. Also, when we vary this explanation or pattern and try to create a contrary system, or introduce foreign elements into the picture, neither the pattern nor the picture will hold up.

We are finally placed in this position.

We believe the theories we have advanced in favor of human liberty are correct insofar as it is possible for any of us to be correct at this time.

The concept invoked by evaluating human action from the standpoint of human liberty is beautiful, gratifying, constructive and altogether worthwhile.

We recommend that you take the time to study it, for you cannot obtain an understanding of it without taking the time or without study. We believe that if you will study and take the time to understand the meaning of freedom, you will find it one of the most worthwhile things you have ever done.

A True Friend

It takes a life-time of effort to be worthy of a true friend and to develop such a friendship. Whatever the length of time or the extent of the effort involved, true friendship is worth the cost.

Social Security in the Hole

Discussion about the national debt usually centers about the admitted debt of more than $300 billion. Realists like Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia have pointed out many times that federal government commitments for future payments in the way of pensions, Social Security and the like run the actual national debt to something more than a trillion dollars.

Lately figures have come out that show the Social Security fund is far in the hole, the latest figure being estimated at $320 billion, or more than the admitted national debt.

An article in the December "Freedom Magazine" by Mark Andrews, St. Louis businessman, says $320 billion represents the government's shortage "of having present and future resources from present members that would be sufficient to pay the claims of present members."

Andrews quotes directly from a letter written to him by Robert Myers, actuary of the Social Security program, in which Myers admits to the $320 billion deficit.

The magazine article contains a portion of Myers' testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee during the 1962 Medicare hearings.

Asked by Rep. Bruce Alger (R., Tex.) "How far in the hole, that is unfunded, is Social Security?" Myers replied, "If you cut off Social Security today and did not admit any new members into the program, and you took for the rest of their lives from the people in the program what they're going to pay in, and compute on the other hand what you must pay out to those people, we are in the hole $298 billion."

In his letter to Andrews, Myers later corrected this to $320 billion. He also admitted that a private insurance company would be required to have sufficient funds on hand to pay off all accrued liabilities should the plan be terminated.

The same responsibility, wrote Myers, "is not a necessary basis for a national compulsory social insurance system."

To The Point

The Goldwater Charge

By RUSSELL KIRK

With the noise of his favorite jet plane breaking the sound barrier, Senator Goldwater has burst into his campaign for the presidential nomination. On January 3, at Phoenix, he announced his candidacy, in a characteristic speech. This was followed, next day, by a "Meet the Press" television interview; and on January 6, by a major address at Grand Rapids, the most consistently Republican of all cities.

Some of my columnar colleagues — who have been disseminating the baseless rumor that the senator would drop out of presidential competition altogether — ought to have red faces now. Several weeks ago, this writer predicted that Mr. Goldwater would run — and with greater determination than ever.

Senator Goldwater remains by far the strongest of the Republican competitors. The recent Associated Press poll of Republican state and county chairmen shows that Mr. Goldwater has more supporters than Messrs. Nixon, Rockefeller, Scranton, and Lodge combined! Attempts to interpret this poll as a sign that Goldwater is slipping are little short of ludicrous. For this latest poll, unlike its predecessor, tested the strength of Mr. Nixon, which cuts somewhat into the Arizona senator's support. Even so, Goldwater leads Nixon among Republican leaders by 601 to 279.

The senator's most powerful announced rival, Governor Rockefeller, has only 101 Republican leaders behind him—less even than Mr. Lodge, the most unlikely potential nominee. In New Hampshire, private polls indicate, Goldwater's strength among Republican voters is about double Rockefeller's — and the primary is only two months away.

More astonishing is the result of a private poll just completed by one of the three biggest American pollsters. This tests the popularity, in New York state, of Governor Rockefeller against President Johnson. It turns out — read these figures and gasp — that if a national presidential election were held now, Johnson against Rockefeller, Johnson would take the governor's own state of New York away from him. By how much? Mark this: Johnson would get 69 per cent of the vote, Rockefeller only 9 per cent — with the rest undecided. So even if the governor should win all the undecided voters, still President Johnson would beat him almost 7 to 3, in his own state!

This indicates that Mr. Rockefeller's hope for the nomination is virtually extinguished. Altho Goldwater presumably could not carry New York, either, he certainly would carry a good many states in which Rockefeller has no chance. The only strong case which Rockefeller could present to Republican convention delegates was that he might secure the Northeast for his party. No one believes this now. It is scarcely conceivable that Rockefeller could produce a deadlock at the convention, blocking Goldwater's nomination.

Only Mr. Nixon seems to have a chance of amassing enough delegates to compete seriously with the Goldwater bloc. And Mr. Nixon is handicapped by enjoying no real base of operations.

Because Senator Goldwater strictly observed the political moratorium by remaining silent for a month, his strength declined comparatively. But now that he is running hard, and lambasting President Johnson, one may expect to see his popularity grow rapidly with both Republican voters and Republican leaders.

U.S. Policy on Red China

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I sometimes play with the idea that words should come in two sets of colors — or, in the case of spoken language, with two sets of warning lights to indicate the intention of important speeches. For how else are we to know for sure whether someone is talking analytically and descriptively, or whether he is using words as weapons, to bludgeon, torment, unnerve or confuse an enemy?

There was the ambiguity clinging to the recent policy-defining talk made by our Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs Roger Hilsman in San Francisco, for example. Mr. Hilsman seemed to be calling for a policy of tentative friendliness toward Red China, the idea being that when the present intransigent generation of Red Chinese leaders, now in their sixties and seventies, has passed from the scene, a younger "second echelon" of Marxist commissars will be disposed to approach the outer world without sabre-rattling and calls for bloody world revolution.

Whether Mr. Hilsman's speech represents a good or a bad turn in State Department thinking depends entirely on the intention behind it. If he was using his words as weapons of insinuation, with the hope of causing discord between the generations in Red China, then Mr. Hilsman was doing something that makes sense.

But if, on the other hand, he was using words analytically and descriptively to convey the State Department's estimate of the future in Red Chinese political thinking, I fear that Mr. Hilsman was exposing himself as a complete and highly dangerous innocent.

SHALLOW

Assuming that Mr. Hilsman was using his words descriptively, he betrayed the most shallow knowledge of the usual course of revolutionary history. For insofar as history tells us anything that can be made a safe basis for policy, the second generation of revolutionists is usually worse than the first.

The Russian revolution is an obvious case in point. The first generation of Soviet Communists — Lenin, Trotsky, Zinoviev, Kamenev and the rest—hoped to foment Marxist upheavals all around the world. But they also knew when to draw in their horns. Lenin, faced with the need for a breathing space at home, made a realistic peace with the Germans at Brest-Litovsk. And when starvation threatened, he told the Russian peasants that they might enrich themselves by raising crops for the free market.

This realism disappeared when Lenin died. The second echelon of Communist leaders who took power with Stalin proceeded to drench Russia with blood as the revolution followed a historic course of "devouring its children." Millions of farmers who had taken Lenin's promise seriously perished in the land collectivization drives. Thousands of Trotskyite and Zinovievist "oppositionists" were liquidated in Arctic and Siberian prison camps.

And, the crowning blow, Stalin made his famous deal with Hitler to carve up Poland, which started the great world blood-bath of World War II. It was not until the advent of the Khrushchev period, some forty years after the Lenin - Trotsky revolution, that Soviet Russia started to simmer down. And we can't be too sure that the present so-called "liberalization" of Soviet Communism is anything more than a temporary zigzag tactic.

TERRIBLE CHANCE

The course of the Mexican revolution was roughtly similar to the Russian. The "second echelon" Mexican revolutionaries, who came on stage after the armies of Carranza, Villa and Zapata had long since ceased to march, expropriated the oil wells and continued to denounce the U.S. as the "Colossus of the North." It took about forty years for Mexico to become comfortably bourgeois.

It may be admitted that history does not always repeat itself, and it could conceivably happen that Red China is not fated to go thru a "Stalin era" in which some conscienceless power-seeker makes the land hideous by murdering potential rivals. But Assistant Secretary of State Roger Hilsman would be taking a terrible chance if he and his State Department colleagues were to base U.S. Far Eastern policy on the hopes for a tractable Red China short of the year 1990 A.D. On all the time scales suggested by the past, the Red Chinese revolution has still to navigate the period in which it will "devour its children" and try to match the territorial gains that Stalin made at Yalta.

Tyranny

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Every so often a reader of this column scolds me when I refer to contemporary national government in this country as being tyrannical. I recognize the fact that tyranny is a condition caused by the acts of a tyrant, that tyrants are usually dictators who hold single-handed and oppressive rule over a country, but this condition requires further examination.

I can recall no instance, historically, where a single tyrant managed to rule a country without the help of what might be termed sub-tyrants. Without the cooperation of sub-tyrants to carry out the orders of the single dictator, one man would have a rough time trying to enforce oppressive rule. You may want to use a different terminology — for instance, a tyrant and his enforcers, or a dictator and his henchmen or followers.

Now, let's look at governments which supposedly operate within the framework of a constitution or any other set of rules. Let's look at a "representative republic." The head of the government may exert oppressive rule over the representatives in many different ways. Titular heads of political parties may exercise oppressive and tyrannical power over the minions and lesser tyrants. Every politician who runs for public office hopes to gain a position of power from which he may exert a tyrannical authority or rule over other human beings. How, then, may any form of government be less than tyrannical and oppressive upon some segment of the population?

Consider a tyrant in a family. He or she may exert oppressive power over other members of the family. The tyranny of the loud voice may be the useful weapon. Tears and hysterics exhibited by a power-hungry female may rule the roost. Large sums of money may be dangled by another type of tyrant who insists it's his or her duty to see to it that the individuals do what the tyrant believes to be best for them.

Personally, I believe the family tyrant is a potential political tyrant. Family tyrants very frequently are opposed to governmental rulership, claiming to espouse the principles of freedom while ruling a family with an iron hand. But, there is the one tremendous difference between a family tyrant and a government tyrant: The family tyrant does not have the force of law, jails and prisons, guns, minions and as many sub-tyrants as he needs to enforce his dictates. This does not alter the character of the family tyrant. If he could, he might use guns and prisons and whips and minions to enforce his dictates but he doesn't have the aggressive force of government at his command.

Members of a family may refuse to be ruled. Families have been broken up because of family tyrants, while families without a tyrant grow more closely knit with the passage of time, by consent of the individual members of the family.

We find, then, that every form of government will be tyrannical because first one person and then another and another, becomes part and parcel of the initial form of tyranny. If no one sanctioned the tyranny, the tyrant would have no one to carry out his orders. Other tyrants would attempt to enlist a few sub-tyrants to oust the dictator and if no one sanctioned their tyranny, we'd have a world full of unemployed tyrants in which the rest of us could go about the happy business of producing and earning and enjoying the fruits of our own creation.

Tyrants are basically unhappy people who believe no one loves out of respect and admiration and kindness and consideration. Plagued by inferiority complexes, they assume a tyrannical attitude to gain by the exercise of power that which they believe they are unable to earn. As they gain power, they then attempt to win affection by bestowing gifts and privileges upon the favored few, and away we go.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

LIBERTY

If the true spark of religious and civil liberty be kindled, it will burn. Human agency cannot extinguish it. Like the earth's central fire, it may be smothered for a time, but at some time or other, in some place or other, the volcano will break out and flame up to heaven.

Economy Drive to Hit Space Plans

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's loudly-touted economy drive harbors bad news for his late predecessor's grandiose space plans, including the controversial man-on-the-moon program.

Under Johnson's still-undisclosed pruning, he has imposed a $5.2 billion ceiling on space expenditures in his forthcoming budget.

That is approximately the same amount voted by Congress last year, but some $500 million less than Space Administrator James Webb urgently pleaded for and which Kennedy contemplated recommending in his budget.

Kennedy planned to increase space spending to between $6 and $7 billion before leveling off. In direct contrast, the $5.2 billion ceiling in Johnson's impending budget is his tops, and he intends to start cutting back from there.

This marks a big change in attitude since he became President.

As vice president and chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, created by his predecessor, Johnson vigorously supported an all-out space program. But now that he is the White House incumbent, with budget responsibility resting squarely on him, Johnson is wielding the economy ax on space spending.

Principal consequences of this new policy are:

The moon program will be hardest hit, with expenditures curtailed between $300 million and $400 million.

In turn that will mean a marked slowing down, and rule out the likelihood of the U.S. putting a man on the moon by 1970, as Kennedy aspired. Under the new stretched - out program, the moon date will most likely be moved up to 1975.

A number of Saturn tests will be eliminated. The procurement of these stupendous 1.5 million-lb.-thrust missiles, mightest in the world, will be reduced by four or five — at a saving of tens of millions of dollars.

WITH THE REDS

Another offshoot of this backstage plan, about which there will be no announcement, is a renewed effort to come to an arrangement with Russia on a joint space venture — hopefully a moon shot.

Secretary Rusk already has assigned one of his star negotiators to that job.

Charles Stelle, who negotiated the White House - Kremlin "hot line" agreement, has been given a free hand to try to persuade the Soviet to work with the U.S. on space projects.

Stelle will operate thru the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. How far he gets in this undertaking remains to be seen. It is highly significant that it is being attempted as an outgrowth of Johnson's economy-inspired slashing of his predecessor's multi-billion dollar space plans.

Ironically, this budget cutting hits NASA as it has completed its most successful year. Of 10 major satellite and missile launchings in 1963, only one misfired.

Every crucial Saturn test has been a resounding success.

Launching of Saturn I, the first complete version of this gigantic missile, slated for last month, has been rescheduled for February. President Johnson plans to fly to Cape Kennedy for the event. In doing that, he will fulfill a promise by his predecessor.

When Kennedy visited the Florida missile center shortly before his assassination, he was so impressed by the stupendous Saturn I that he said he would return to witness its launching. "That will be a historic event I just can't miss," he enthused. "I'll be back, and I'll bring as many members of the congressional space committees as I can round up."

The Saturn I experiment will cost an estimated $5 million.

TELLING OFF THE LADIES

The State Department is politely but pointedly notifying the wives of its foreign service personnel to watch their tongues and manners.

In instructions prepared by the Foreign Service Institute, and sent to all U.S. embassies and consular offices thruout the world, the ladies are told not to gossip about what they learn from their husbands, to dress and act discreetly, and to establish cordial relations with the people among whom they are living, including learning their language.

"The role of the wife in the foreign service is of tremendous importance," says this unique edict. "Possibly in no other walk of life is the wife so much a part of the team as she is in the foreign service. She must not compete with her husband for the attention of foreign dignitaries. She 'sets the stage' for her husband's efforts. She is the 'supporting member' of the team.

"Be discreet at all times. Your husband may talk over part of his work with you. This is flattering and you may be helpful to him. But if you repeat the conversation to foreign diplomats you can compromise governmental policies and your husband."

The directive cautions against too much and too lavish entertaining.

"Do not feel that your entertaining must be on an elaborate scale," the wives are warned. "A warm welcome in a pleasant and well ordered home, with congenial guests, is far more important than champagne. Invite some of your fellow Americans each time you entertain, which makes for a better party, but do not spend your time and money on parties exclusively for Americans."

Similarly, the wives are urged to learn about the countries in which they are living.

"Travel widely in the interior," they are told, "don't stay in the capital, tho it may be more comfortable and attractive. Learn the language, and try to identify yourself with the community in which you live by doing some kind of social service work."

It's all sound and useful advice — if the ladies will follow it!

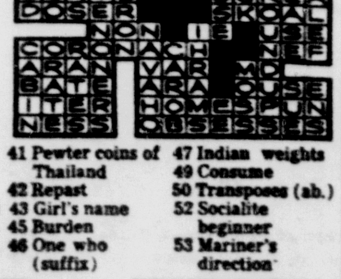
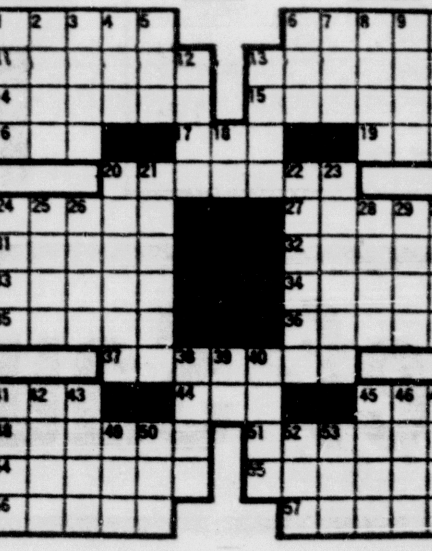
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Question Box

Question No. 408: "If a pe son didn't have to pay tax to help support the police d partment, and so refused to pa for that, how could he ke from being protected by it if hunted down and captured robber, escaped convict or ot er dangerous criminal who wa in his vicinity and endangerin everyone there?"

Answer: There is nothing prevent the man from volu teering to help catch the crim nal or to volunteer to share th costs of catching him, if eith of these courses of action a peals to him.

The assumptions in the que tion are two: 1) That a perso who doesn't pay taxes to the p lice department will not be pr tected. 2) That a person wh turns down the payment is "free rider" because he obtain a "benefit" at the expense others in the society.

This latter is essentially th argument of the labor bosse in unions who declare that the should be permitted to force a employees of a given plant pay dues to the union if a ma jority in favor of the union ex ists in the shop. They say tha IF a majority exists and that ALL men aren't forced to pa dues to the union, then ther will be "free riders" who ar getting the "benefits" from th union who are not paying "thei share" for those benefits.

The answers to the two as sumptions are as follows:

1) The police department never has a monopoly in the area of protection. Most persons protect their own lives and properties far more than any collective agency could. If they realized how much they really depend on their own protection and how little they really have to depend on the police department, they would protect themselves even more and the incidence of crime and accident could be reduced.

2) We have no evidence that the criminal in the neighborhood would have injured anyone. We do have evidence that the collection of taxes from everyone in the neighborhood injures everyone in the neighborhood. We do not know whom the criminal might have injured; whether he would have injured anyone; whether he would have injured the person who is objecting to the taxes. The assumption of a "benefit" derived from the capture of the criminal is flimsy. Many a "dangerous" or even an "escaped" criminal has been completely rehabilitated and becomes a useful citizen. It would be just as logical to claim that the capture of the man injured everyone as to assume that his capture automatically helped everyone. These are collectivist assumptions.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

SEMANTICS

To the Editor:

Semantics is the study of the meaning of meaning. It encourages straight thinking. It teaches us to say what we mean and to mean what we say. One of the major aims of semantics is to promote better understanding thru the reduction or elimination of bafflegab, gobblydegook, double-talk, and other errors of communication. Faulty communication is the world's number one problem, and anything that may improve the communication line reduces or eliminates misunderstanding in that respective line.

Editors have in their power the ability to apply some principles of semantics and thereby reduce a number of problems. One of these problems is the wording of news releases pertaining to moneys, funds, aid programs, welfare, handouts in general, etc., administered by the various branches of government. Such expressions as "government money," "federal (also state, county, city, etc.) funds," "federal (also state, county, city, etc.) aid," etc. are semantically incorrect. Why? Because the government has no money of its own and it has no means of earning any. It must obtain all of its revenue by taking it from the taxpayers. So editors should blue-pencil all such expressions and substitute expressions in their place that more accurately describe the actual conditions.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

How to Approach the Study Of Freedom

Persons who find themselves pioneering in the field of ideas almost always face a major problem of communications. Since the ideas they advocate always seem logical and reasonable to them, it is difficult for them to find out just where the ideas they hold fall short of convincing others.

Perhaps you may have had this experience. You may explain to a friend or acquaintance just why you believe or disbelieve in some particular theory or concept. You may make this explanation in a manner which is absolutely convincing as far as you are concerned. You cover the major points. You state your case with lucidity, humor and brevity. As you wind up your arguments you are very pleased for you now believe you finally managed to say exactly what you meant to say; therefore, none can possibly disagree. . .

And wham-o! You got nowhere.

We have had this experience many times.

For instance, we have stated many times that we believe in human liberty. Our purpose originally in making that statement, was to establish a common ground on which we could all stand. Saying that one favors human liberty was, as we first viewed it, like saying that mother love is a good thing; that virtue is better than vice; that honesty is the best policy.

But with the passing of time we learned, painfully, that there are lots of folks who don't believe in human liberty. What they believe in is liberty for themselves, and controls and restraints upon the other fellow. Now, so long as they are thinking about themselves when we say we favor liberty, we get along fine with them. But, if their thoughts move over and they begin to think about what kind of a world we would have if everyone had the liberty they wanted, they get scared.

So, it turns out that despite our hope, a common meeting ground on the field of the desirability of freedom and liberty just doesn't exist.

Nowadays, we have had to learn more caution. When we state, as we still, do, that we are for human liberty, we do so knowing that so far as some folks are concerned, they are going to react as tho we had just waved a red scarf in front of a bull.

So now we have to back up, and before we can get acceptance of the desirability of human liberty generally, we have to first describe why human liberty is necessary, and even unavoidable. So our argument, presumably based upon a recognized human good, now must go to the root of human nature to examine it and to find out whether or not liberty is good for people; and if it is good, how much of it is good.

What we do discover, if we penetrate this closely to the roots of things, is that human action itself is always motivated by the desire of the individual person to act. Each human being, we say, controls his own energy. And, having so stated, we again assume that we have found common ground for a beginning.

Not so. The argument arises once more, to suggest that men don't control their actions at all, but rather that men are automatons, controlled entirely by their ENVIRONMENT or by their GENES, or both. And once more we go at it.

In the end, the best we can do is to make a complete construct in which we interpret human life as we see it, put the pieces together as we find them, and from these exercises arrive at a conclusion respecting human liberty.

The beauty of it is, when we have gone that far we have come up with an explanation of the way things are that seems to fit all the facts. Also, when we vary this explanation or pattern and try to create a contrary system, or introduce foreign elements into the picture, neither the pattern nor the picture will hold up.

We are finally placed in this position.

We believe the theories we have advanced in favor of human liberty are correct insofar as it is possible for any of us to be correct at this time.

The concept invoked by evaluating human action from the standpoint of human liberty is beautiful, gratifying, constructive and altogether worthwhile.

We recommend that you take the time to study it, for you cannot obtain an understanding of it without taking the time or without study. We believe that if you will study and take the time to understand the meaning of freedom, you will find it one of the most worthwhile things you have ever done.

A True Friend

It takes a life-time of effort to be worthy of a true friend and to develop such a friendship. Whatever the length of time or the extent of the effort involved, true friendship is worth the cost.

Social Security in the Hole

Discussion about the national debt usually centers about the admitted debt of more than $300 billion. Realists like Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia have pointed out many times that federal government commitments for future payments in the way of pensions, Social Security and the like run the actual national debt to something more than a trillion dollars.

Lately figures have come out that show the Social Security fund is far in the hole, the latest figure being estimated at $320 billion, or more than the admitted national debt.

An article in the December "Freedom Magazine" by Mark Andrews, St. Louis businessman, says $320 billion represents the government's shortage "of having present and future resources from present members that would be sufficient to pay the claims of present members."

Andrews quotes directly from a letter written to him by Robert Myers, actuary of the Social Security program, in which Myers admits to the $320 billion deficit.

The [illegible] article contains a portion of Myers' testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee during the [illegible] hearings.

Asked by Rep. Bruce Alger [illegible] far in the [illegible] is unfunded, is Social Security?" Myers replied, "If you cut off Social Security today and did not admit any new members into the program, and you took for the rest of their lives from the people in the program what they're going to pay in, and compute on the other hand what you must pay out to those people, we are in the hole $298 billion."

In his letter to Andrews, Myers later corrected this to $320 billion. He also admitted that a private insurance company would be required to have sufficient funds on hand to pay off all accrued liabilities should the plan be terminated.

The same responsibility, wrote Myers, "is not a necessary basis for a national compulsory social insurance system."

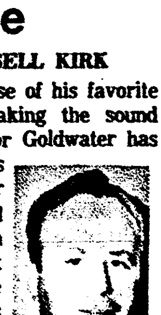
Q—How many men lived to complete the first circumnavigation of the world?

A—Thirty-two. Sebastian del Cano and 31 other survivors in the Spanish ship Vittoria on September 6, 1522. Del Cano took command after Magellan was killed in the Philippines.

To The Point

The Goldwater Charge

By RUSSELL KIRK



With the noise of his favorite jet plane breaking the sound barrier, Senator Goldwater has burst into his campaign for the presidential nomination. On January 3, at Phoenix, he announced his candidacy, in a characteristic speech. This was followed, next day, by a "Meet the Press" television interview; and on January 6, by a major address at Grand Rapids, the most consistently Republican of all cities.

Some of my columnar colleagues — who have been disseminating the baseless rumor that the senator would drop out of presidential competition altogether — ought to have red faces now. Several weeks ago, this writer predicted that Mr. Goldwater would run — and with greater determination than ever.

Senator Goldwater remains by far the strongest of the Republican competitors. The recent Associated Press poll of Republican state and county chairmen shows that Mr. Goldwater has more supporters than Messrs. Nixon, Rockefeller, Scranton, and Lodge combined! Attempts to interpret this poll as a sign that Goldwater is slipping are little short of ludicrous. For this latest poll, unlike its predecessor, tested the strength of Mr. Nixon, which cuts somewhat into the Arizona senator's support. Even so, Goldwater leads Nixon among Republican leaders by 601 to 279.

The senator's most powerful announced rival, Governor Rockefeller, has only 101 Republican leaders behind him—less even than Mr. Lodge, the most unlikely potential nominee. In New Hampshire, private polls indicate, Goldwater's strength among Republican voters is about double Rockefeller's — and the primary is only two months away.

More astonishing is the result of a private poll just completed by one of the three biggest American pollsters. This tests the popularity, in New York state, of Governor Rockefeller against President Johnson. It turns out — read these figures and gasp — that if a national presidential election were held now, Johnson against Rockefeller, Johnson would take the governor's own state of New York away from him. By how much? Mark this: Johnson would get 69 per cent of the vote, Rockefeller only 9 per cent — with the rest undecided. So even if the governor should win all the undecided voters, still President Johnson would beat him almost 7 to 3, in his own state!

This indicates that Mr. Rockefeller's hope for the nomination is virtually extinguished. Altho Goldwater presumably could not carry New York, either, he certainly would carry a good many states in which Rockefeller has no chance. The only strong case which Rockefeller could present to Republican convention delegates was that he might secure the Northeast for his party. No one believes this now. It is scarcely conceivable that Rockefeller could produce a deadlock at the convention, blocking Goldwater's nomination.

Only Mr. Nixon seems to have a chance of amassing enough delegates to compete seriously with the Goldwater bloc. And Mr. Nixon is handicapped by enjoying no real base of operations.

Because Senator Goldwater strictly observed the political moratorium by remaining silent for a month, his strength declined comparatively. But now that he is running hard, and lambasting President Johnson, one may expect to see his popularity grow rapidly with both Republican voters and Republican leaders.

U.S. Policy on Red China

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I sometimes play with the idea that words should come in two sets of colors — or, in the case of spoken language, with two sets of warning lights to indicate the intention of important speeches. For how else are we to know for sure whether someone is talking analytically and descriptively, or whether he is using words as weapons, to bludgeon, torment, unnerve or confuse an enemy?

There was the ambiguity clinging to the recent policy-defining talk made by our Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs Roger Hilsman in San Francisco, for example. Mr. Hilsman seemed to be calling for a policy of tentative friendliness toward Red China, the idea being that when the present intransigent generation of Red Chinese leaders, now in their sixties and seventies, has passed from the scene, a younger "second echelon" of Marxist commissars will be disposed to approach the outer world without sabre-rattling and calls for bloody world revolution.

Whether Mr. Hilsman's speech represents a good or a bad turn in State Department thinking depends entirely on the intention behind it. If he was using his words as weapons of insinuation, with the hope of causing discord between the generations in Red China, then Mr. Hilsman was doing something that makes sense.

But if, on the other hand, he was using words analytically and descriptively to convey the State Department's estimate of the future in Red Chinese political thinking, I fear that Mr. Hilsman was exposing himself as a complete and highly dangerous innocent.

SHALLOW

Assuming that Mr. Hilsman was using his words descriptively, he betrayed the most shallow knowledge of the usual course of revolutionary history. For insofar as history tells us anything that can be made a safe basis for policy, the second generation of revolutionists is usually worse than the first.

The Russian revolution is an obvious case in point. The first generation of Soviet Communists — Lenin, Trotsky, Zinoviev, Kamenev and the rest—hoped to foment Marxist upheavals all around the world. But they also knew when to draw in their horns. Lenin, faced with the need for a breathing space at home, made a realistic peace with the Germans at Brest-Litovsk. And when starvation threatened, he told the Russian peasants that they might enrich themselves by raising crops for the free market.

This realism disappeared when Lenin died. The second echelon of Communist leaders who took power with Stalin proceeded to drench Russia with blood as the revolution followed a historic course of "devouring its children." Millions of farmers who had taken Lenin's promise seriously perished in the land collectivization drives. Thousands of Trotskyite and Zinovievist "oppositionists" were liquidated in Arctic and Siberian prison camps.

And, the crowning blow, Stalin made his famous deal with Hitler to carve up Poland, which started the great world blood-bath of World War II. It was not until the advent of the Khrushchev period, some forty years after the Lenin - Trotsky revolution, that Soviet Russia started to simmer down. And we can't be too sure that the present so-called "liberalization" of Soviet Communism is anything more than a temporary zigzag tactic.

TERRIBLE CHANCE

The course of the Mexican revolution was roughtly similar to the Russian. The "second echelon" Mexican revolutionaries, who came on stage after the armies of Carranza, Villa and Zapata had long since ceased to march, expropriated the oil wells and continued to denounce the U.S. as the "Colossus of the North." It took about forty years for Mexico to become comfortably bourgeois.

It may be admitted that history does not always repeat itself, and it could conceivably happen that Red China is not fated to go thru a "Stalin era" in which some conscienceless power-seeker makes the land hideous by murdering potential rivals. But Assistant Secretary of State Roger Hilsman would be taking a terrible chance if he and his State Department colleagues were to base U.S. Far Eastern policy on the hopes for a tractable Red China short of the year 1990 A.D. On all the time scales suggested by the past, the Red Chinese revolution has still to navigate the period in which it will "devour its children" and try to match the territorial gains that Stalin made at Yalta.

Tyranny

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Every so often a reader of this column scolds me when I refer to contemporary national government in this country as being tyrannical. I recognize the fact that tyranny is a condition caused by the acts of a tyrant, that tyrants are usually dictators who hold single-handed and oppressive rule over a country, but this condition requires further examination.

I can recall no instance, historically, where a single tyrant managed to rule a country without the help of what might be termed sub-tyrants. Without the cooperation of sub-tyrants to carry out the orders of the single dictator, one man would have a rough time trying to enforce oppressive rule. You may want to use a different terminology — for instance, a tyrant and his enforcers, or a dictator and his henchmen or followers.

Now, let's look at governments which supposedly operate within the framework of a constitution or any other set of rules. Let's look at a "representative republic." The head of the government may exert oppressive rule over the representatives in many different ways. Titular heads of political parties may exercise oppressive and tyrannical power over the minions and lesser tyrants. Every politician who runs for public office hopes to gain a position of power from which he may exert a tyrannical authority or rule over other human beings. How, then, may any form of government be less than tyrannical and oppressive upon some segment of the population?

Consider a tyrant in a family. He or she may exert oppressive power over other members of the family. The tyranny of the loud voice may be the useful weapon. Tears and hysterics exhibited by a power-hungry female may rule the roost. Large sums of money may be dangled by another type of tyrant who insists it's his or her duty to see to it that the individuals do what the tyrant believes to be best for them.

Personally, I believe the family tyrant is a potential political tyrant. Family tyrants very frequently are opposed to governmental rulership, claiming to espouse the principles of freedom while ruling a family with an iron hand. But, there is the one tremendous difference between a family tyrant and a government tyrant: The family tyrant does not have the force of law, jails and prisons, guns, minions and as many sub-tyrants as he needs to enforce his dictates. This does not alter the character of the family tyrant. If he could, he might use guns and prisons and whips and minions to enforce his dictates but he doesn't have the aggressive force of government at his command.

Members of a family may refuse to be ruled. Families have been broken up because of family tyrants, while families without a tyrant grow more closely knit with the passage of time, by consent of the individual members of the family.

We find, then, that every form of government will be tyrannical because first one person and then another and another, becomes part and parcel of the initial form of tyranny. If no one sanctioned the tyranny, the tyrant would have no one to carry out his orders. Other tyrants would attempt to enlist a few sub-tyrants to oust the dictator and if no one sanctioned their tyranny, we'd have a world full of unemployed tyrants in which the rest of us could go about the happy business of producing and earning and enjoying the fruits of our own creation.

Tyrants are basically unhappy people who believe no one loves out of respect and admiration and kindness and consideration. Plagued by inferiority complexes, they assume a tyrannical attitude to gain by the exercise of power that which they believe they are unable to earn. As they gain power, they then attempt to win affection by bestowing gifts and privileges upon the favored few, and away we go.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

LIBERTY

If the true spark of religious and civil liberty be kindled, it will burn. Human agency cannot extinguish it. Like the earth's central fire, it may be smothered for a time, but at some time or other, in some place or other, the volcano will break out and flame up to heaven.

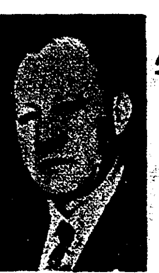
Economy Drive to Hit Space Plans



ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's loudly-touted economy drive harbors bad news for his late predecessor's grandiose space plans, including the controversial man-on-the-moon program.

Under Johnson's still-undisclosed pruning, he has imposed a $5.2 billion ceiling on space expenditures in his forthcoming budget.

That is approximately the same amount voted by Congress last year, but some $500 million less than Space Administrator James Webb urgently pleaded for and which Kennedy contemplated recommending in his budget.

Kennedy planned to increase space spending to between $6 and $7 billion before leveling off. In direct contrast, the $5.2 billion ceiling in Johnson's impending budget is his tops, and he intends to start cutting back from there.

This marks a big change in attitude since he became President.

As vice president and chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, created by his predecessor, Johnson vigorously supported an all-out space program. But now that he is the White House incumbent, with budget responsibility resting squarely on him, Johnson is wielding the economy ax on space spending.

Principal consequences of this new policy are:

The moon program will be hardest hit, with expenditures curtailed between $300 million and $400 million.

In turn that will mean a marked slowing down, and rule out the likelihood of the U.S. putting a man on the moon by 1970, as Kennedy aspired. Under the new stretched - out program, the moon date will most likely be moved up to 1975.

A number of Saturn tests will be eliminated. The procurement of these stupendous 1.5 million-lb.-thrust missiles, mightest in the world, will be reduced by four or five — at a saving of tens of millions of dollars.

WITH THE REDS

Another offshoot of this backstage plan, about which there will be no announcement, is a renewed effort to come to an arrangement with Russia on a joint space venture — hopefully a moon shot.

Secretary Rusk already has assigned one of his star negotiators to that job.

Charles Stelle, who negotiated the White House - Kremlin "hot line" agreement, has been given a free hand to try to persuade the Soviet to work with the U.S. on space projects.

Stelle will operate thru the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. How far he gets in this undertaking remains to be seen. It is highly significant that it is being attempted as an outgrowth of Johnson's economy-inspired slashing of his predecessor's multi-billion dollar space plans.

Ironically, this budget cutting hits NASA as it has completed its most successful year. Of 10 major satellite and missile launchings in 1963, only one misfired.

Every crucial Saturn test has been a resounding success.

Launching of Saturn I, the first complete version of this gigantic missile, slated for last month, has been rescheduled for February. President Johnson plans to fly to Cape Kennedy for the event. In doing that, he will fulfill a promise by his predecessor.

When Kennedy visited the Florida missile center shortly before his assassination, he was so impressed by the stupendous Saturn I that he said he would return to witness its launching. "That will be a historic event I just can't miss," he enthused. "I'll be back, and I'll bring as many members of the congressional space committees as I can round up."

The Saturn I experiment will cost an estimated $5 million.

TELLING OFF THE LADIES

The State Department is politely but pointedly notifying the wives of its foreign service personnel to watch their tongues and manners.

In instructions prepared by the Foreign Service Institute, and sent to all U.S. embassies and consular offices thruout the world, the ladies are told not to gossip about what they learn from their husbands, to dress and act discreetly, and to establish cordial relations with the people among whom they are living, including learning their language.

"The role of the wife in the foreign service is of tremendous importance," says this unique edict. "Possibly in no other walk of life is the wife so much a part of the team as she is in the foreign service. She must not compete with her husband for the attention of foreign dignitaries. She 'sets the stage' for her husband's efforts. She is the 'supporting member' of the team.

"Be discreet at all times. Your husband may talk over part of his work with you. This is flattering and you may be helpful to him. But if you repeat the conversation to foreign diplomats you can compromise governmental policies and your husband."

The directive cautions against too much and too lavish entertaining.

"Do not feel that your entertaining must be on an elaborate scale," the wives are warned. "A warm welcome in a pleasant and well ordered home, with congenial guests, is far more important than champagne. Invite some of your fellow Americans each time you entertain, which makes for a better party, but do not spend your time and money on parties exclusively for Americans."

Similarly, the wives are urged to learn about the countries in which they are living.

"Travel widely in the interior," they are told, "don't stay in the capital, tho it may be more comfortable and attractive. Learn the language, and try to identify yourself with the community in which you live by doing some kind of social service work."

It's all sound and useful advice — if the ladies will follow it!

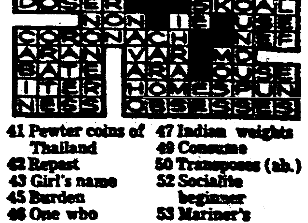
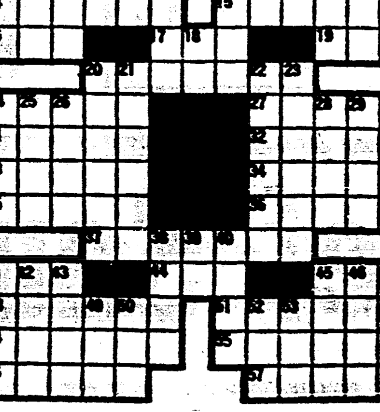
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Question Box

Question No. 408: "If a person didn't have to pay taxes to help support the police department, and so refused to pay for that, how could he keep from being protected by it if it hunted down and captured a robber, escaped convict or other dangerous criminal who was in his vicinity and endangering everyone there?"

Answer: There is nothing to prevent the man from volunteering to help catch the criminal or to volunteer to share the costs of catching him, if either of these courses of action appeals to him.

The assumptions in the question are two: 1) That a person who doesn't pay taxes to the police department will not be protected. 2) That a person who turns down the payment is a "free rider" because he obtains a "benefit" at the expense of others in the society.

This latter is essentially the argument of the labor bosses in unions who declare that they should be permitted to force all employees of a given plant to pay dues to the union if a majority in favor of the union exists in the shop. They say that IF a majority exists and that if ALL men aren't forced to pay dues to the union, then there will be "free riders" who are getting the "benefits" from the union who are not paying "their share" for those benefits.

The answers to the two assumptions are as follows:

1) The police department never has a monopoly in the area of protection. Most persons protect their own lives and properties far more than any collective agency could. If they realized how much they really depend on their own protection and how little they really have to depend on the police department, they would protect themselves even more and the incidence of crime and accident could be reduced.

2) We have no evidence that the criminal in the neighborhood would have injured anyone. We do have evidence that the collection of taxes from everyone in the neighborhood injures everyone in the neighborhood. We do not know whom the criminal might have injured; whether he would have injured anyone; whether he would have injured the person who is objecting to the taxes. The assumption of a "benefit" derived from the capture of the criminal is flimsy. Many a "dangerous" or even an "escaped" criminal has been completely rehabilitated and becomes a useful citizen. It would be just as logical to claim that the capture of the man injured everyone as to assume that his capture automatically helped everyone. These are collectivist assumptions.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

SEMANTICS

To the Editor;

Semantics is the study of the meaning of meaning. It encourages straight thinking. It teaches us to say what we mean and to mean what we say. One of the major aims of semantics is to promote better understanding thru the reduction or elimination of bafflegab, gobblydegook, double-talk, and other errors of communication. Faulty communication is the world's number one problem, and anything that may improve the communication line reduces or eliminates misunderstanding in that respective line.

Editors have in their power the ability to apply some principles of semantics and thereby reduce a number of problems. One of these problems is the wording of news releases pertaining to moneys, funds, aid programs, welfare, handouts in general, etc., administered by the various branches of government. Such expressions as "government money," "federal (also state, county, city, etc.) funds," "federal (also state, county, city, etc.) aid," etc. are semantically incorrect. Why? Because the government has no money of its own and it has no means of earning any. It must obtain all of its revenue by taking it from the taxpayers. So editors should blue-pencil all such expressions and substitute expressions in their place that more accurately describe the actual conditions.

pressions tend to misrepresent the truth by leaving the people with a number of false impressions, for example, that government handouts are gifts (most foreign aid programs ARE gifts at the taxpayers' expense), that the role of government is to support the people, and that handouts are not related to taxes. These examples may be continued without an apparent end.

In writing or editing news reports about governmental spending may I suggest the use of such expressions as "the taxpayers' money," "Your money," "My money," "Our money," etc.? Emphasis upon such expressions may help to remind the taxpayer that it is his money that is being given, spent, or wasted by the government, and that he, the taxpayer, as a recipient of a handout, is not getting something for nothing. Several years ago a report from New Jersey stated that every dollar of the taxpayers' funds (federal funds) that came to New Jersey by the Washington route cost the New Jersey taxpayer $1.24.

The proper application of semantics by key persons may in time arouse the ire of the taxpayer to a point where individually and collectively he may take appropriate measures to curtail governmental spending and waste and thus return our society to economic sanity.

Editor's note: Reader Evans has made a telling point. Unfortunately, it isn't always possible to correct wire copy thus removing semantic misconceptions. If our schools were not owned and operated by the state in such large numbers, a great deal of this semantic malconditioning from which we suffer at the present could be avoided. However, we'll do the best we can.

POVERTY

To the Editor:

"The Assault on Poverty" could become more than a political slogan if the government stopped supporting poverty and discarded its impoverishing policies.

The government now subsidizes "poverty" to the point where many people and their descendants prefer it to working for an equal or higher standard of living, where in fact these people fear to lose the security they have in subsidized-poverty.

Restrictive regulations, excessive reporting to government, progressive taxes which progressively penalize those making the greatest contributions to our economy, the minimum wages which eliminate sub-minimum jobs, and the inflationary policies which diminish pensions, insurance and savings, all contribute toward impoverishment.

Failure to preserve the rights of Americans to work, monopolistic labor union practices to create artificial shortages, work limitation rules which make prices impoverishingly high inflate the wage scales for jobs with minimal requirements which removes the incentive of job holders to advance themselves and leave job openings for those who could fill their old jobs.

The assault on poverty should begin with a listing of those things which discourage or prevent people from being fully employed, producing the most on the most productive jobs they can fill and then removing these obstacles to free personal enterprise. The more fully we utilize the human potentials of Americans the most productive work will be done and the greater the rewards will be in goods and services for this work.

By increasing the wealth and well being of all Americans, the government promoting and not providing the welfare of the citizens, the problem of poverty in the United States will be reduced. Welfarism, taking from those who produce and giving to those who do not produce, the New Deal — New Frontier system, even during these boom times has not only failed to solve the problem of poverty, but has actually stimulated and increased the problem.

It is time to stop playing politics with poverty and go to work eliminating it.

MORE AND MORE

To the Editor:

It has been said, "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad." This certainly applies to the "two powerful education lobbies" who are advocating that the already overburdened taxpayers pay 10 billion dollars more each year for free freshman and sophomore years in college for all students attending state colleges, including their transportation and living expenses. This would apply to public colleges and universities. The scheme would almost ring the death knell of private institutions like the University of Denver and hundreds of others across the country, which cannot meet such competition at taxpayers' expense.

Public "educators" are already under suspicion by the people because of their proposals for more and more burden on the taxpayers; and the taxpayers include everybody, not only those who own property but also all who pay income or sales taxes and must endure the rising cost of living and the decline in value of the dollar.

Reclamation Bureau Reports on Project

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Bureau of Reclamation said Wednesday $421.7 million had been spent on the Upper Colorado River Storage Project in the seven years ending June 30, 1963.

In a summary of Bureau activities, Commissioner Floyd Dominy reported substantial completion of Navajo Dam during the period and said Flaming Gorge Dam in Eastern Utah, and Glen Canyon Dam in Northern Arizona were nearing completion.

The report said during 1963 the first annual repayment of federal investment in municipal water facilities on the Vernal Unit of the Central Utah Project was returned to the Treasury Department.

The bureau said that Flaming Gorge reservoir had stored approximately 600-thousand acre-feet of water by the end of June, 1963.

Presents, Awards At Pack Meeting

Christmas presents and awards were passed out at a meeting of Cub Scout Pack 9 of Whittier School at the school auditorium Dec. 17. A large Christmas tree was adorned with decorations that the Cubs themselves had made. There were presents for all of the Cubs and for their younger brothers and sisters. Parents joined in the singing of Christmas carols. The following awards were presented:

Wolf Rank Larry Weber Scott Long, Greg Tapp, Tim Buckman and Michael Willmore.

Gold Arrow Wolf and Silver Arrow Wolf went to Michael Willmore. Service stars were presented to Paul Armabula, Charles Chambon and Michael Willmore.

Six Members of Family Die in Fire

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Six members of a family perished in a fire at their home late Monday night. A seventh, the mother, was in critical condition with severe burns over half her body.

Killed were Edward J. McMahon, 42; his children Kevin and Kathleen, 10, Eileen, 9, and Brian, 8, and an aunt, Margaret Smyth.

Cecilia McMahon, 41, told police she and her husband awoke to find their room filled with steam.

Mrs. McMahon said her husband got her out of the burning house, then went back to try and rescue the others.

The McMahon home was in a development just outside Trenton.

Boys Now Start Wearing Dress Shirts at Ten

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arthur Nirenberg, largest producer of tuxedo shirts in the country, reports two new trends in dress shirts: an increased use of lace on pleated bosom shirts and adoption of wing collar shirts by boys as young as 10 years old.

Most men might bridle at the thought but Nirenberg points out that in the days of George Washington men not only wore lace but ruffles too.

Nirenberg is president of N. Nirenberg Sons, Inc., which manufactures Lion of Troy shirts. The bulk of his sales is to rental companies which buy them thousands of dozens at a time to go with rented tuxedoes and tail coats.

"Very astonishing is the shirt men wear with tails—the full dress shirt," he said. "In the old days they wore a boiled front with starched, detachable collars. We've revolutionized this by attaching the collars—there's no more struggle. That brought a demand for boys' shirts.

"Teen-agers buy them starting at size 10 on up. You can imagine how small that is. There is a big demand for children's full dress shirts for weddings, proms, dances and so forth. It is the first time in the history of shirt making that such a shirt has been produced for a boy. They start wearing them at the age of 10!"

Nirenberg said few people realize the rental business is so tremendous but explained "when the average person of moderate means goes to a formal wedding he won't go out and buy the whole outfit, he'll rent it."

He said a few pastel blue tuxedo shirts are seen around "but they're probably television people who came straight from the office." He said the plain pleated front is the No. 1 seller despite the trend toward strips of lace bordering the pleats.

"And the use of tailcoats is increasing, reports to the contrary," he said. "There is a big demand for the boiled shirts. We've been making them since 1862. We make them in Troy (N.Y.) where we once made linen collars. But there are very few well - trained people who know how to make them and I suppose we'll have to invent a machine."

In Troy, he said, there are two men in their 70s, working for the company, the only survivors of these once plentiful craftsmen. He explained some of the difficulties: The shirt fronts are made in three layers. Women wash and starch them and hang them up to dry at 220 degrees till they are set. "Then the two old men iron them until they are done."

As for summer tuxedo shirts they are almost identical with winter shirts. The summer jackets have become so fancy men stick to plain shirts. Almost all are made with spread collars —"but not too wide since a lot of people still cannot tie a bow tie and like to clip on ready made ties."

Nirenberg also makes nonformal shirts so we checked on what is new for Spring 1964: A regatta shirt called the Henley —made with no collar like old-fashioned long johns; a country club shirt with long tails for active sportsmen; the shirt - jac which is short like an Eisenhower jacket and worn outside; and, in dress shirts, the ever-present button down collar with short sleeves. Stripes are still big in burgundy, bottle green, mallard blue and camel backgrounds.

Incongruities Reported in New Fashions

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Eggheads, politics, sailors and "My Fair Lady" — these incongruities make up the spring wardrobes of fashion-conscious women.

As for sex appeal, California designer Rudi Gernreich spelled it out in Chinese, with droop shouldered, kimona-like dresses and tunics at fashion press week previews Wednesday.

Very often the Lyndon B. Johnson influence showed up — that's the new name for the cowboy look, important since the Texan moved into the White House. Silk low-belted shifts were not without scarves tied sideways or backwards. But instead of a ten-gallon hat, each jaunty model wore a pint-sized white fedora.

Sleeves fascinated Gernreich. His models fluttered butterfly sleeves gathered like wings over the shoulder, or sported funnel-like arm coverings or tiers of ruffles on flamenco-type sleeves.

Ceil Chapman, queen of the draped shape, returned to her throne this season with voluptuous Edwardian chiffon and mated jersey numbers right out of the "My Fair Lady" musical.

This year Miss Chapman was a sidewinder—with tucks, droping, panels and revealing slits winding up on the same side. She also borrowed grandmother's lace doilies for stiffly starched collars and ruffled necklines on otherwise somber and siren-like black crepe clingy dresses.

Egghead scientists and the sailors came into the fashion picture with the Pellon show featurning as yet unknown designers. Some found design inspiration from the white lab coats of researchers, while still others found style in the middy suit, made giddy with lace or militant with gold braid.

State University Enrollment Climbs

FORT COLLINS (AP) — Winter quarter enrollment has reached a new high at Colorado State University.

Mrs. Stella M. Lewis, registrar, said today it totals 8,097, or 1,017 more than at this time in 1963. Boys outnumber girls almost two to one, 5,341 to 2,756.

All the World Will Be Shakespeare's Stage

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — All the world as never before is Shakespeare's stage this year, 400th anniversary of his birth.

The celebration for Stratford's immortal shapes up as a gaudy mosaic of homage and ballyhoo.

It stretches from the banks of the Avon to the pampas of Argentina, embraces Broadway stars and grade-school tykes, savants and politicians alert for cultural patina.

Although April 23 is the commonly accepted natal day of the man who bequeathed mystery and controversy as well as art to posterity, the adulation scramble is already well under way.

The General Assembly of Connecticut, where the American Shakespeare Festival happens to be located, got officialdom's jump by proclaiming 400 days beginning last July 1 in honor of the Bard.

At the college level, the University of California initiated jubilee year Sept. 12, and fetes are planned by Wayne State, Dartmouth, Princeton and just about every other academy with a drama department, club or auditorium.

When Australians are for the first time seeing Shakespeare under a tent at Adelaide, primary class youngsters from nine towns in suburban Westchester County, N.Y., will be making costumes and rehearsing for their self-financed, grass-roots salvo to genius.

The teacher who whipped up the event explained, "High schools kill Shakespeare, but the grammar school child is not in awe of him."

A lot of big-time commercial productions are yet to come. The Royal Shakespeare Company in England launched its anniversary agenda at London this week, preside at an ambassador-studded processional at the birthplace in April, follows with exhibits at Stratford's Memorial Theater of the Bard's entire historical play cycle.

A $1,400,000 library of memorabilia is also to be unveiled as a new annex to the theater.

In an effort to keep some kind of control over souvenir bazaars inevitable in boom year at such a tourist shrine, the Stratford town fathers are fixing rules of decorum and have decided you can buy a Shakespeare tea towel but not a Shakespeare T-shirt.

Another major British jubilee event will be a March-June festival in London participated in by the Comedie Francaise, West Berlin's Schiller Theater, Dublin's Abbey Group, the Polish Teatr Wspolezesny, Greek Arts Theater and Moscow Art Theater. Each will present national classics of their own land.

Visiting the nearby Chichester Theater in April will be the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean company, prior to an at-home season, June 15-Oct. 3.

Plans to have two American theater companies—the Actors Studio and the Stratford, Conn., ensemble—take part in some overseas exchange fell through, but the latter wlil be at home May 30-Sept. 13.

Travelling on a global scale are three English troupes. Peter O'Toole does "Hamlet" at the Paris Theater of Nations fete; Ralph Richardson and Barbara Jeffort roam Europe and South America in "The Merchant of Venice" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream"; and a four-month expedition spanning from Moscow to New York via Tokyo is in preparation for a Royal Shakespeare Company band.

Actor's Son Pays For Drunk Driving

LOS ANGELES (AP) —The 30-year-old son of actor Edward G. Robinson has paid a $156 fine for drunken driving.

Edward G. Robinson Jr. was arrested last Aug. 24 in Hollywood. He was scheduled to appear for trial Monday, but it was learned he pleaded guilty and paid his fine Dec. 23.

Claim Reported in Sales Tax Issue

DENVER (UPI) —The attorney general's office moved today to claim for the state more than $1 million in sales taxes collected under the unconstitutional four - county Denver area Metropolitan Capital Improvement District (MCID).

The state is petitioning for the money under a doctrine of English Common Law, contending the money belongs to the state and not to counties or municipalities.

Attornys representing counties and municipalities are expected to challenge the state's bid when it is made at two MCID reveivership hearings here and at Golden this month.

ROUEN, France (AP)—Paris is the theatrical center of France, but three provincial cities now have more modern playhouses than any in the capital.

Recently opened are the 1,460-city pink stone theater here equipped with a "floating" orchestra pit, a 1,200-seat house in nearby Caen and a 1,500-seat auditorium at Limoges with a movable ceiling that can reduce the capacity of the theater to 960 for more intimate presentations.

pressions tend to misrepresent the truth by leaving the people with a number of false impressions, for example, that government handouts are gifts (most foreign aid programs ARE gifts at the taxpayers' expense), that the role of government is to support the people, and that handouts are not related to taxes. These examples may be continued without an apparent end.

In writing or editing news reports about governmental spending may I suggest the use of such expressions as "the taxpayers' money," "Your money," "My money," "Our money," etc.? Emphasis upon such expressions may help to remind the taxpayer that it is his money that is being given, spent, or wasted by the government, and that he, the taxpayer, as a recipient of a handout, is not getting something for nothing. Several years ago a report from New Jersey stated that every dollar of the taxpayers' funds (federal funds) that came to New Jersey by the Washington route cost the New Jersey taxpayer $1.24.

The proper application of semantics by key persons may in time arouse the ire of the taxpayer to a point where individually and collectively he may take appropriate measures to curtail governmental spending and waste and thus return our society to economic sanity.

1223 N. El Paso

Editor's note: Reader Evans has made a telling point. Unfortunately, it isn't always possible to correct wire copy thus removing semantic misconceptions. If our schools were not owned and operated by the state in such large numbers, a great deal of this semantic malconditioning from which we suffer at the present could be avoided. However, we'll do the best we can.

POVERTY

To the Editor:

"The Assault on Poverty" could become more than a political slogan if the government stopped supporting poverty and discarded its impoverishing policies.

The government now subsidizes "poverty" to the point where many people and their descendants prefer it to working for an equal or higher standard of living, where in fact these people fear to lose the security they have in subsidized-poverty.

Restrictive regulations, excessive reporting to government, progressive taxes which progressively penalize those making the greatest contributions to our economy, the minimum wages which eliminate sub-minimum jobs, and the inflationary policies which diminish pensions, insurance and savings, all contribute toward impoverishment.

Failure to preserve the rights of Americans to work, monopolistic labor union practices to create artificial shortages, work limitation rules which make prices impoverishingly high inflate the wage scales for jobs with minimal requirements which removes the incentive of job holders to advance themselves and leave job openings for those who could fill their old jobs.

The assault on poverty should begin with a listing of those things which discourage or prevent people from being fully employed, producing the most on the most productive jobs they can fill and then removing these obstacles to free personal enterprise. The more fully we utilize the human potentials of Americans the most productive work will be done and the greater the rewards will be in goods and services for this work.

By increasing the wealth and well being of all Americans, the government promoting and not providing the welfare of the citizens, the problem of poverty in the United States will be reduced. Welfarism, taking from those who produce and giving to those who do not produce, the New Deal — New Frontier system, even during these boom times has not only failed to solve the problem of poverty, but has actually stimulated and increased the problem.

It is time to stop playing politics with poverty and go to work eliminating it.

MORE AND MORE

To the Editor:

It has been said, "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad." This certainly applies to the "two powerful education lobbies" who are advocating that the already overburdened taxpayers pay 10 billion dollars more each year for free freshman and sophomore years in college for all students attending state colleges, including their transportation and living expenses. This would apply to public colleges and universities. The scheme would almost ring the death knell of private institutions like the University of Denver and hundreds of others across the country, which cannot meet such competition at taxpayers' expense.

Public "educators" are already under suspicion by the people because of their proposals for more and more burden on the taxpayers; and the taxpayers include everybody, not only those who own property but also all who pay income or sales taxes and must endure the rising cost of living and the decline in value of the dollar.

Reclamation Bureau Reports on Project

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Bureau of Reclamation said Wednesday $421.7 million had been spent on the Upper Colorado River Storage Project in the seven years ending June 30, 1963.

In a summary of Bureau activities, Commissioner Floyd Dominy reported substantial completion of Navajo Dam during the period and said Flaming Gorge Dam in Eastern Utah, and Glen Canyon Dam in Northern Arizona were nearing completion.

The report said during 1963 the first annual repayment of federal investment in municipal water facilities on the Vernal Unit of the Central Utah Project was returned to the Treasury Department.

The bureau said that Flaming Gorge reservoir had stored approximately 600-thousand acre-feet of water by the end of June, 1963.

Six Members of Family Die in Fire

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Six members of a family perished in a fire at their home late Monday night. A seventh, the mother, was in critical condition with severe burns over half her body.

Killed were Edward J. McMahon, 42; his children Kevin and Kathleen, 10, Eileen, 9, and Brian, 8, and an aunt, Margaret Smyth.

Cecilia McMahon, 41, told police she and her husband awoke to find their room filled with steam.

Mrs. McMahon said her husband got her out of the burning house, then went back to try and rescue the others.

The McMahon home was in a development just outside Trenton.

Wheat Growers Urge Junking Restrictions

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—The National Association of Wheat Growers suggests the United States treat Russia "like any other importer purchasing for dollars, to encourage sales of wheat."

In a statement Tuesday endorsing the sale of American wheat to Russia, the association said "a vast number of Americans, including machinery dealers, transportation interests and others dealing with wheat and serving wheat producers will benefit from removing restrictions and facilitating sales of wheat to Russia."

The chairman of the convention's public relations committee which drafted the statement, Robert Rauner of Gurley, Neb., said restrictive policies prolong Cold War tensions and also deny the wheat industry marketing opportunities.

He said the same policies protect markets of competing wheat exporting countries.

Bizup Wins Another Stay of Execution

DENVER (AP) —John Bizup Jr., 24, convicted murderer, has won another stay only 10 days before he was scheduled to die in the gas chamber at the Colorado Penitentiary for a Pueblo killing.

The stay was granted by the U.S. Supreme Court. It was announced in a telegram from Justice Byron L. White to John Bush, assistant state attorney general.

Bush said the stay apparently is of indefinite length, depending on proceedings before the U.S. court.

"If the court upholds the sentence against Bizup, then the Colorado Supreme Court must set a new date," Bush said.

This is the fourth stay of execution for Bizup. It came less than a week after the State Supreme Court set his execution date for the week of Jan. 12. Usually these are held on Friday night.

He was convicted of the slaying of Roy D. Bussey, 24, a Pueblo taxicab driver, after a $24 holdup in 1960.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reble, Virginia and Timmy drove to Morrison Thursday and helped Clarence and Connie move from the apartment where they were living into a house.

Larry Carrier gave the message at the Hanover Church Sunday morning.

There was a watch night service at the church New Year's Eve. The Drennan folks were invited to attend and all others who would like to.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chisman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chisman and Ramona called Saturday evening at the Harold Chismans' on East Boulder to visit Mr. and Mrs. John Platte and son John, of Oklahoma City, who were spending the holiday season with the Chismans. Mrs. Platte is the former Shirley Chisman and John is a teacher in Oklahoma City. They were having open house for the Plattes Sunday afternoon.

I am sure everyone enjoyed the wonderful weather we had during the Christmas week, after the beautiful snow we received Dec. 21. The weather was clear and a most beautiful setting for Christmas many places in Colorado, as weather wasn't too cold and prettily moonlighted at night. One could almost compare the night with that of the Christ Child's birth. As 1963 closes, with so many tragic things happening, we have to reach for the only true hope that the birth of Jesus brought so many years ago.

'Love the Bomb' Is Message Of New Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Can the H-bomb be funny?

A lot of people may not think so, and hence may pass up Stanley Hubrick's new film, "Dr. Strangelove, or: How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb." It may be their loss. Despite its arch title, the film is one of the wildest satires in recent times.

That doesn't mean that "Dr. Strangelove etc." is an unqualified success. Some of its humor is misdirected and the actors sometimes get out of hand. But when its aim is on-target, whammo!

The film starts out eerily with the camera advancing over a carpet of clouds through which juts a mountain peak. Under this eternal shroud in the arctic, the narrator ominously intones, the Russians are working on the ultimate weapon, the doomsday bomb. The musical background is a syrupy rendition of "Try A Little Tenderness."

Then the mad saga begins. A psychotic air force general (Sterling Hayden) cracks up and sends a fleet of bombers with their deadly cargo toward the Soviet Union. The general is the only person who knows the code that can retrieve the bombers, and he isn't telling it.

The commanding Air Force general (George C. Scott) is roused from a motel tryst to attend a meeting with the President and other high officials in the war room. The interplay becomes more ludicrous and the tension mounts until—well, I won't tip the ending. But I will say that the background music is another syrupy number, "We'll Meet Again."

The tone of the satire is demonstrated by the character names. Hayden is Gen. Jack D. Ripper. Scott (who purposely overacts but gets a little out of hand) is Gen. Buck Turgidson and Keenan Wynn plays Gen. Bat Guano.

The Kubrick touch is more of the sledgehammer than the stiletto variety, and the results are devastating. Nothing is spared; the monolithic military, the bewildered civilian officials, the double-dealing Russians, all are equal victims in the nightmarish comedy.

Peter Sellers displays his gift of mimicry in three leading roles: 1. Group Capt. Mandrake, a British officer who tries to dissuade Gen. Ripper; 2. President Muffley, the Adlai Stevenson-like chief executive; 3. Dr. Strangelove, a German scientist working for the Americans. The latter is a classic.

"Dr. Strangelove" is an audacious effort that will enrage many, especially the far right, and dismay some, perhaps our allies. Others may find it the most effective piece of social comment on the screen in years.

Floating Printed Chiffon Featured In Fashion Show

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Full-length evening dresses in yards of floating printed chiffon and plain-color, linen-like silk gazar were highlights of Tuesday afternoon's shows by Count Sarmi and Mollie Parnis of the American Designers Group.

Sarmi specialized in drama, and made much use of chiffon in prints that looked like butterfly wings. Bodices and sheath skirts were of printed silk twill with the full chiffon overskirts—one had 75 yards—of matching print.

Sarmi also showed full, gathered capes of satin organza, a gown with white chiffon skirt and immense black bow bodice, a low-cut dress of black Chantilly lace and an ivory coat with fur collar and cuffs worn over a clinging dress of dawn pink.

Mollie Parnis, who commented on her own show, said she designs to help a woman catch, or keep, a man.

Her designs were almost fitted, with seams and darts bringing the fabric in at the waist, and gathers emphasizing the bust.

For evening wear, Miss Parnis favored silk gazar in solid colors, usually white for the bodice, black for the long, slim skirt and a sewn-in belt in a bright accent color.

Miss Parnis also showed suits, most of them three-piece, with matching or contrasting overblouses belted, tied or darted in at the waist.

A lengthy but interesting show by Ben Zuckerman emphasized his idea of the spring suit — wool and most often in white, ivory, beige, gray or apricot.

Zuckerman's suit jackets reached the skirts two or three inches below the waistline. Shoulders were squared, a few slightly padded, and sleeves were three-quarter or short.

The blouse was usually the color of the suit, silk, tucked into the skirt, and finished with round neck and tiny bow.

Zuckerman showed "column dresses," straight-line princess style, but, this season, closer to the body. His coats gave an immediate impression of neatness, with lines straight from shoulder to hem, tiny stand-up collars, slash pockets and two even rows of buttons down the front.

More than 17 per cent of university students in India last year were women.

Edison News

By MRS. HARRY GEIST

The Edison boys' and girls' 4-H clubs will both meet at the schoolhouse Tuesday night, at 7:30.

One hundred and ninety-seven polio doses were given Sunday at the schoolhouse. Dr. Stevens, Mr. Campbell and Mrs. Hatcher gave the doses. Barbara Gieck, Ruth Rumsey and Margarate Gieck were their helpers. Again the Eidson Lucky Lassies cooked the dinner for them. Eileen Kunau, Penny Gieck, Corrine Kinkade, Sandra Gieck and Betty Anderson served baked ham and all the trimmings to 21 persons.

Edison will play Ellicott High School in basketball this Friday night, Jan. 10, at Edison. Both the Edison teams won over Hanover Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Melbuer and Mr. and Mrs. Gladys Melbuer were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Art Rasner and family last Sunday.

QUESTION: I don't mean to be irreverent, but prayer to me, is somewhat childish. Why should we always be begging God for gifts and blessings? I believe when we need them, He will give them, and all our asking is not going to make any difference. — H. C.

ANSWER: You have a friend. Is the basis of your friendship getting things from each other? Of course, you would answer "no"! And yet, the very basis of friendship is sharing: not just material things, but sharing your joy, your problems, and your burdens with each other.

God gives us two kinds of gifts. First, He gives us some gifts whether we ask for them or not. Just as a good father does not wait until his children cry for food, clothes, and love — our Heavenly Father gives us many things without our asking.

Let us say, however, that a son in the family draws his father aside and says; "Father, I know none of the other children have been to college, but I have a burning desire to be a physician and contribute something to humanity. Do you suppose you could help me to go to college?" This is a request that no good parent could take lightly, even if he could not afford it. God says that this kind of petition pleases Him. It is not a prayer to "have," but to "be." In becoming what we ought to be, prayer conditions us so that God can see the sincerity of our intent.

Wheat Growers Urge Junking Restrictions

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—The National Association of Wheat Growers suggests the United States treat Russia "like any other importer purchasing for dollars, to encourage sales of wheat."

In a statement Tuesday endorsing the sale of American wheat to Russia, the association said "a vast number of Americans, including machinery dealers, transportation interests and others dealing with wheat and serving wheat producers will benefit from removing restrictions and facilitating sales of wheat to Russia."

The chairman of the convention's public relations committee which drafted the statement. Robert Rauner of Gurley. Neb., said restrictive policies prolong Cold War tensions and also deny the wheat industry marketing opportunities.

He said the same policies protect markets of competing wheat exporting countries.

Bizup Wins Another Stay of Execution

DENVER (AP) —John Bizup Jr., 24, convicted murderer, has won another stay only 10 days before he was scheduled to die in the gas chamber at the Colorado Penitentiary for a Pueblo killing.

The stay was granted by the U.S. Supreme Court. It was announced in a telegram from Justice Byron L. White to John Bush, assistant state attorney general.

Bush said the stay apparently is of indefinite length, depending on proceedings before the U.S. court.

"If the court upholds the sentence against Bizup, then the Colorado Supreme Court must set a new date," Bush said.

This is the fourth stay of execution for Bizup. It came less than a week after the State Supreme Court set his execution date for the week of Jan. 12. Usually these are held on Friday night.

He was convicted of the slaying of Roy D. Bussey, 24, a Pueblo taxicab driver, after a $24 holdup in 1960.

Wide Destruction Caused by Volcano

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) —Since it stirred from a long sleep last March, Irazu volcano has caused widespread destruction and at least 14 deaths, Costa Rican officials report.

A national commission has been created to deal with the crisis.

Up to two pounds per square yard of volcanic ash have been deposited on Costa Rica's central plateau, destroying 90 per cent of the tobacco crop and inflicting heavy damage to other crops.

At times the ash cloud has reached San Jose, 30 miles away.

Bible Is Used As Textbook in Paducah School

By BILL HUDSON

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP)—Marvin Montgomery is proud that nine-tenths of his high school pupils are regular church goers.

Montgomery teaches an unusual course in history. His only textbook is the Bible.

For 19 years, juniors and seniors at Paducah Tilghman High have studied the Bible as historical literature.

The Paducah Association of Churches foots the bill — $40 a year per student. The course is elective but can count among the 18 credits required for graduation.

It became part of the curriculum long before there was any Supreme Court ruling against required Bible reading or devotionals in public schools or governing the release of students during school hours to be trained in religious faith.

"It's something that kind of grew up traditionally," said Dr. Newman Walker, Paducah school superintendent.

Montgomery is an ordained minister. He teaches the classes daily at an off-campus site. The course—"there's nothing denominational about it"—covers the Old Testament one semester; the New Testament another.

Enrollment is open to all pupils but is limited to 145—about one-fifth of the upper classmen.

"The better students say they appreciate it more than other courses but I guess that is because it is different," Montgomery said.

"They know a little something about it when they start and they find out there is a whole lot they don't know."

Montgomery was asked how the course affected his students.

"They become more reverent," he replied.

Superintendent Walker thinks the course complies with the basic provision of the Supreme Court ruling of the late 1940s which permits pupils to be given time off for religious training.

Bible instruction as history or historical literature apparently would meet state law requirements.

Skirting any violation of the separation of church and state principle, Paducah leaders set up the Tilghman Bible Class in 1944, had it incorporated in the curriculum and hired a teacher.

The United Church Women obtained a building near the campus for the six daily classes.

The Paducah Association of Churches, with 18 member churches, pays maintenance on the building and the teacher's salary. It takes special offerings each Thanksgiving and Easter.

Union Pacific Seeks Savings in Expenses

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The Union Pacific Railroad claims it could save $1,794,000 by cutting one of two passenger trains that leave on Ogden-Los Angeles runs within an hour of each other.

The figure was released Tuesday by R. O. Carson, assistant to the railroad's auditor, at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on proposed consolidation of the trains, the City of Los Angeles and the City of St. Louis.

Other ICC hearings on the proposed consolidation are set for Las Vegas, Nev., Thursday and Los Angeles Friday.

The move is opposed by railroad unions and some county officials in Utah and Southern California commuting interests.

The Eustachian tube was named after Bartolommeo Eustachio, an Italian physician who discovered the presence of the tube which connects the ear with the back of the throat.

Family Relations Course Launched

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A "do-it-yourself" course in family relations has been inaugurated at the Milwaukee Vocational Adult School to help mothers talk out their troubles.

In the course, designed to teach mothers how to communicate with their children, participants are invited to bring their problems to the class for examination, study and solution.

Colorado GOP to Have Same Delegate Number

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Colorado and Wyoming will have the same number of delegates to the 1964 Republican National Convention as they had in 1960, according to the GOP National committee.

The Democratic allocation of delegate seats will be announced Saturday.

State leaders of both parties began converging on the nation's capitol today for national committee meetings. Republicans met for four days beginning Wednesday and the Democrats meet Friday and Saturday.

The Republican committee said it had allocated 18 convention seats to Colorado and 12 to Wyoming.

Under the National School Lunch Program for which the federal government provides a financial subsidy, 16 million school children get a nutritious lunch daily.

CORBETT TALKS

CANON CITY (UPI)—Joseph Corbett Jr., sentenced to life in prison for the kidnap-murder of Adolph Coors III, broke a long silence over the weekend and claimed he had no part in the 1960 killing of the Golden, Colo., industrialist. His statement followed the recent refusal of the Colorado Supreme Court to rehear his appeal. He also announced he intends to carry his appeal to the federal courts, possibly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

ANTELOPE TRAPPING—The Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Department completed construction of an antelope live-trap near Colorado Springs, Friday. Trapping is scheduled to begin this week. Animals are herded into the trap by helicopter and released from trucks at the transplant sites no worse for wear. Antelope are removed from closed areas and released where they can be harvested, thus dispersing ever growing herds in one area to bolster huntable herds in others; and enhance the sport on a statewide basis. Wildlife Conservation Officers, John Stevenson and Frank Colley stretch netting on the trap to complete preparations.

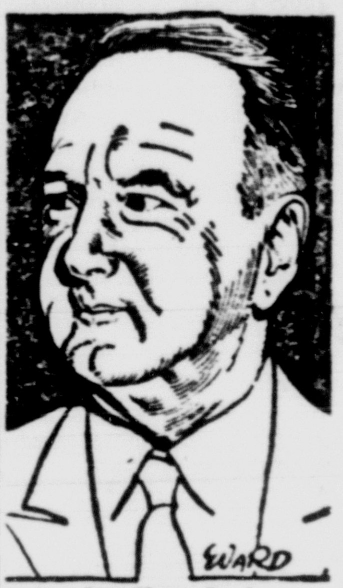
CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS



Sen. Harry Byrd
Of same feather as LBJ

WASHINGTON — No President in our time ever had his political fortunes so intertwined with the accomplishments of one session of Congress as Lyndon Johnson.

His election prospects in November will rise or fall depending on how the Congress which reconvened Tuesday responds in this campaign year to his legislative requests.

For this reason there is a significant political drama about to unfold here. Its essence is a struggle for supremacy between the unwieldly congressional machine.

There in the White House is President Johnson, who, more than any national leader before him, came to his post with a reputation as a miracle man in affairs congressional.

Can he now deliver? No one knows, and this is the suspense factor which is required of all drama.

During his years as Senate Democratic leader it was Johnson's ability to get the most out of Congress which made him nationally known. But for this he certainly would have been passed up in 1960 when John F. Kennedy sought the most effective running mate.

Now he must go all-out to live up to his reputation as a Congressional wheeler and dealer, a back-slapper and, when reasoning fails, a tough whipcracker against those in his party who refuse to fall into line.

No President in memory has been on such a spot before. JFK could blame Congress when his legislative program faltered or was pushed aside. Ike could blame the Democratic Congresses, which Johnson and the late Speaker Sam Rayburn ran as an effective Texas team.

THE HEART OF A MAJOR POLITICAL MATTER

But how can Johnson blame Congress, composed as it is of far more Democrats than Republicans, if it fails to deliver before the presidential campaign rolls around?

For this is, for better or for worse, a Johnson Congress." It is run by and large by his own brand of Southern — or Southwestern — senators and representatives. They control key committee posts and have the power either to expedite or stifle legislation.

If, for example, the so-called GOP-Dixie coalition functions effectively as it has in the past, won't Johnson be held responsible in the public eye? If he could crack this coalition when he was Senate leader, how come he can't while in a position of far greater authority?

This is the heart of Johnson's major political problem: in trying to solve it, he is bound to show clearly to the nation whether he can run Congress or Congress is going to run him.

It was far less a hazard, this problem, when JFK had to face it in advance of Presidential 1964.

CIVIL RIGHT ISSUE A SERIOUS CHALLENGE

For instance, take the civil rights issue.

A Senate filibuster is certain, once that bill is passed by the House. It would have been no reflection on Kennedy's leadership on the rights issue if Southern Democrats tried to talk the bill to death.

But now we have LBJ, who is like a brother with those Senators who will be in charge of the filibuster — Hary Byrd of Virginia, Richard B. Russell of Georgia, etc.

Won't it reflect on the President if the Senate snarls up the issue in a month-long talkathon?

What is even more of a challenge to Johnson on this issue will be the Senate attempt to water down the bill. JFK might have been forced to compromise. By so doing, he would not have been materially hurt politically.

But how can LBJ compromise without severe political damage?

Won't it be a sign of weakness, of yielding to demands of his own geographical section of the country, if he agrees that even emasculated legislation is better than none and bows to demands for elimination of the "gut" provision of the bill — the public accommodations sections?

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) already has charged that such a deal for ending a Southern filibuster is in the cards. Goldwater predicted in his "Meet the Press" TV interview yesterday that early in February, the House would pass a civil rights bill carrying the key public accommodations provision. Then this would happen in the Senate:

"We will go thru the gestures of a filibuster, and the President will go thru the gestures of fighting for the bill. But at a citical point, a compromise will be reached where the public accommodations section will be dropped, with the approval of the President."

Clearly, there is ahead a day when that sort of a Presidential decision must be made. It will involve Johnson's prestige as the one man supposedly able to control Congress. JFK could have compromised, but how could LBJ without being accused of giving in to demands of his Southern friends?

Congress will pass, probably before March, the $11 billion tax cut bill. This will be considered a feather in Johnson's cap, altho it was bound to happen just that way if Kennedy had lived.

But if civil rights comes out a mere shadow of the program JFK first proposed, and if Congress is still hanging around with a load of unfinished business next September, how can the Democrats make out a case that Johnson is the big strong man capable of getting his legislative way in a hurry?

Union Pacific Seeks Savings in Expenses

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The Union Pacific Railroad claims it could save $1,794,000 by cutting one of two passenger trains that leave on Ogden-Los Angeles runs within an hour of each other.

The figure was released Tuesday by R. O. Carson, assistant to the railroad's auditor, at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on proposed consolidation of the trains, the City of Los Angeles and the City of St. Louis.

Other ICC hearings on the proposed consolidation are set for Las Vegas, Nev., Thursday and Los Angeles Friday.

The move is opposed by railroad unions and some county officials in Utah and Southern California commuting interests.

The Eustachian tube was named after Bartolommeo Eustachio, an Italian physician who discovered the presence of the tube which connects the ear with the back of the throat.

Family Relations Course Launched

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A "do-it-yourself" course in family relations has been inaugurated at the Milwaukee Vocational Adult School to help mothers talk out their troubles.

In the course, designed to teach mothers how to communicate with their children, participants are invited to bring their problems to the class for examination, study and solution.

Colorado GOP to Have Same Delegate Number

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Colorado and Wyoming will have the same number of delegates to the 1964 Republican National Convention as they had in 1960, according to the GOP National committee.

The Democratic allocation of delegate seats will be announced Saturday.

State leaders of both parties began converging on the nation's capitol today for national committee meetings. Republicans met for four days beginning Wednesday and the Democrats meet Friday and Saturday.

The Republican committee said it had allocated 18 convention seats to Colorado and 12 to Wyoming.

Under the National School Lunch Program for which the federal government provides a financial subsidy, 16 million school children get a nutritious lunch daily.

CORBETT TALKS

CANON CITY (UPI)—Joseph Corbett Jr., sentenced to life in prison for the kidnap-murder of Adolph Coors III, broke a long silence over the weekend and claimed he had no part in the 1960 killing of the Golden, Colo., industrialist. His statement followed the recent refusal of the Colorado Supreme Court to rehear his appeal. He also announced he intends to carry his appeal to the federal courts, possibly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

ANTELOPE TRAPPING—The Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Department completed construction of an antelope live-trap near Colorado Springs, Friday. Trapping is scheduled to begin this week. Animals are herded into the trap by helicopter and released from trucks at the transplant sites no worse for wear. Antelope are removed from closed areas and released where they can be harvested, thus dispersing ever growing herds in one area to bolster huntable herds in others; and enhance the sport on a statewide basis. Wildlife Conservation Officers, John Stevenson and Frank Colley stretch netting on the trap to complete preparations.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — No President in our time ever had his political fortunes so intertwined with the accomplishments of one session of Congress as Lyndon Johnson.

His election prospects in November will rise or fall depending on how the Congress which reconvened Tuesday responds in this campaign year to his legislative requests.

For this reason there is a significant political drama about to unfold here. Its essence is a struggle for supremacy between the unwieldly congressional machine.

There in the White House is President Johnson, who, more than any national leader before him, came to his post with a reputation as a miracle man in affairs congressional.

Can he now deliver? No one knows, and this is the suspense factor which is required of all drama.

During his years as Senate Democratic leader it was Johnson's ability to get the most out of Congress which made him nationally known. But for this he certainly would have been passed up in 1960 when John F. Kennedy sought the most effective running mate.

Now he must go all-out to live up to his reputation as a Congressional wheeler and dealer, a back-slapper and, when reasoning fails, a tough whip-cracker against those in his party who refuse to fall into line.

No President in memory has been on such a spot before. JFK could blame Congress when his legislative program faltered or was pushed aside. Ike could blame the Democratic Congresses, which Johnson and the late Speaker Sam Rayburn ran as an effective Texas team.

THE HEART OF A MAJOR POLITICAL MATTER

But how can Johnson blame Congress, composed as it is of far more Democrats than Republicans, if it fails to deliver before the presidential campaign rolls around?

For this is, for better or for worse, a Johnson Congress." It is run by and large by his own brand of Southern — or Southwestern — senators and representatives. They control key committee posts and have the power either to expedite or stifle legislation.

If, for example, the so-called GOP-Dixie coalition functions effectively as it has in the past, won't Johnson be held responsible in the public eye? If he could crack this coalition when he was Senate leader, how come he can't while in a position of far greater authority?

This is the heart of Johnson's major political problem: in trying to solve it, he is bound to show clearly to the nation whether he can run Congress or Congress is going to run him.

It was far less a hazard, this problem, when JFK had to face it in advance of Presidential 1964.

NORAD, ADC To Be Honored At San Diego

Two top Air Defense Command generals and the ADC Exhibit will take part in the San Diego Aerospace Defense Week observance honoring the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) Jan. 12-19 in the Southern California city.

ADC Commander Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, and Lt. Gen. Robert H. Terrill, vice commander, will take part in activities scheduled during the week.

The week-long salute to aerospace defense is being sponsored by the San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The ADC Commander representing NORAD Commander in Chief John K. Gerhart will accept the half-time salute to aerospace defense at the American Football League All-Star game on the 19th, climaxing the week's program. The game will be televised nationally over the ABC-TV Network.

General Terrill is scheduled to address top civic and industrial leaders at the Jan. 17 Aerospace Defense Week Banquet.

Other NORAD and component service speakers will appear before civic and community groups throughout the week.

The Air Defense Command exhibit, which tells the ADC Story through motion pictures, colored photographs and transparencies, will be on display at the Aerospace Museum in Balboa Park.

The exhibits will include both indoor and outdoor displays. Outdoor exhibits include the BOMARC, the Ryan Firebee Jet Drone Target, F-102A Delta Dagger and the Nike Hercules.

Kicking off the week-long observance will be a civic proclamation ceremony and a Navy Band concert in Balboa Park on Sunday.

San Diego is noted as one of the outstanding aerospace industry centers of the nation, and particularly as a key member of the scientific — industrial — military aerospace defense team.

The San Diego-based Convair division of General Dynamics Corporation has supplied ADC with the F-102 Delta Dagger and F-106 Delta Dart supersonic all-weather interceptors. Ryan Aeronautical Company provides the Firebee jet drone target, which is used extensively by ADC's Weapons Center at Tyndall AFB, Fla.

Martinez Found Legally Insane

Manuel Martinez charged under the Habitual Criminal Act and with burglary and larceny has been found legally insane by Dr. J. L. Rosenbloom of Pueblo, the clerk of the District Court said Wednesday.

Martinez, 34, of Denver is alleged to have three previous felony convictions out of Pueblo District Court and according to the Habitual Criminal Act could have been sentenced to the state penitentiary for life had he been convicted a fourth time.

The defendant was also alleged to have broken into Hildy's Antique and Jewelry Store, 2509 W. Colorado Ave. Aug. 27 and taken a camera, radio, television set and jewelry worth a total of $16,000. He is scheduled to appear in District Court Friday when it is expected disposition will be made of his case.

Credit Card Plan Adopted At Memorial

Memorial Hospital has joined a guaranteed hospital in-patient account program sponsored by a major credit card company, the Hilton Credit Corporation.

The program went into effect Jan. 1, according to W. M. Cockrell, executive vice president of the credit corporation, Los Angeles. It is being used in more than 1,200 hospitals in 50 states.

The plan guarantees the first $200 of hospital bills incurred by in-patients and provides them with immediate credit recognition. There is no cost for the service either to hospital or card holder.

Mountain School May Not Get Forest Land

The District 14 School Board received little encouragement Wednesday night concerning a proposal to obtain a long-term lease on National Forest land for use in the proposed construction of an elementary school in the Green Mountain Falls area.

Superintendent W. W. Bundy read a letter from Harry A. Harrison, assistant regional forester, which stated that the forest service, "because of possible future public needs. . .would more than likely not look upon such a request as a favorable one at this particular time."

The Forest Service can lease land to public school districts for a period not to exceed 30 years if the use of the land doesn't preclude the general public from full enjoyment of scenic, recreational and other uses of land in the surrounding area.

The board took no action on Harrison's letter, preferring to await promised further consideration of its proposal by forest service personnel.

In other business, the board declined to join the Colorado Association of School Boards. The annual cost of membership is $82.50 for a district the size of Manitou Springs. The board has never held membership in the association, Bundy said.

The board approved a proposal to send John M. Konselman, as a district representative to the National convention of the North Central Association held in Chicago April 6-9.

It was also decided that Heyse Sheet Metal and Roofing Co. would be employed to gravel the roof of the kindergarten building at a cost of $387.96. The job will begin as soon as weather permits.

Members of the school board and the six-person teacher committee on contract negotiations will hold a dinner meeting Wednesday, Feb. 5. Time and place will be announced later.

Bundy announced that Loyd Lough has been employed as custodian at Manitou High School, but that he is working without a contract until the arrangement proves agreeable both to the school system and to Lough.

The board voted to pay current bills and authorized funds for January salaries.

The meeting was held in the Bundy's office at Manitou Springs High School. Next meeting will be Feb. 12.

Driver Fined On Two Counts In Justice Court

Wayne Errol Pohida was found guilty in Justice of the Peace James F. Quine's court Wednesday of reckless driving and having no operator's license. He was fined $35 and costs of $39.25. Pohida, 18, of Ft. Carson was ticketed by Cpl. C. M. Maloney of the police department Nov. 17 on North Cheyenne Canon Road.

Mary Margaret Haggard, 23, of 2020 W. Bijou St. was charged with careless driving, hit and run and fined $20 and costs. The incident happened Dec. 18 on East Costilla Street. Maloney was the officer.

Winfred Charles Day, 19, of Route 2, received a $5 fine and costs for careless driving at Ellicott Sunday. Arnold C. Ferrero of the state partol was the officer.

State Patrolman A. G. Murin gave a ticket to Ellen C. Bushey, 48, of 1211 E. Uintah St. as she allowed an unauthorized person to drive on U. S. Highway 24 Jan. 2. A $5 fine and costs was imposed.

Having no operator's license cost William Stanley Ott, 20, of Ft. Carson, $5 and costs. Police Officer W. Banks cited him Nov. 4 on Cimarron Street.

Jesse Lee Roundtree, 24, of Ft. Carson was charged with not complying with the inspection law and fined $5 and costs. State Patrolman A. G. Murin issued the summons at the Harrison Interchange Dec. 1.

Following too closely on East Cheyenne Road Tuesday resulted in a $5 fine and costs for James Leroy Arnott. Arnott, 47, of 612 S. Tejon St. was cited by State Patrolman Pete Thiel.

State Patrolman J. E. McDaniel ticketed George Robert Mahncke, 51, of 2214 Patrician Way for disregarding a stop sign on Lake Avenue and having no operator's license Dec. 31. He was fined $5 and costs.

John Kenneth Baird, 31, of 1107 Neptune Dr. was fined $5 and costs for careless driving. The violation happened Dec. 21 on South Skyway Boulevard and the officer was State Patrolman Ken Shiflet.

Stork Makes First Trip to Florence Jan. 2

The stork made his first trip to Florence in 1964 last Thursday at 1:35 p.m. at St. Joseph's Hospital and he introduced Sheila Kay Fabrizio as the first baby of the year in Eastern Fremont County.

With the assistance of Dr. Peter Gamache, Sheila Kay arrived weighing seven pounds, seven ounces. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fabrizio, 914 E. Third St.

Lu Ann, age 6, is the baby's only sister and her brother is Tommy, age 3. Her father is employed by the state highway department.

As first baby of 1964, Sheila Kay and her parents will receive many worthwhile gifts from the merchants of the area.

The first baby of 1963 was Tommy Huerta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huerta, 422 W. Third St., who also arrived on Jan. 2, two hours later in the day and weighing only an ounce and a half more than Sheila Kay.

Crime Increase Noted in City During 1963

There were 4,292 offenses of all kinds known to the Colorado Springs police department during 1963, according to police Chief Cecil J. McKissick.

This compares with 3,670 offenses for 1962.

Even tho there was a sharp increase last year, crime in Colorado Springs in the last five years has increased only about 12 per cent, which is far less than the national average. The U. S. crime rate is up 27 per cent in that five-year period.

There were 2,126 part 1 offenses (more serious crimes) last year as compared with 1,888 in 1962. There were 406 burgalries in 1963 and only 329 in 1962.

On the other hand, the chief said, there were only 212 larceny cases involving $50 an over last year whereas there were 251 during 1962.

In other offenses, there were 2166 last year and 1,782 during 1962. Some of these other offenses during 1963 included the following:

Accidental injury, 343; deaths, 58; arson, 11; assault, 58; disorderly conduct, 62; malicious mischief, 756; suicide, 18; attempted suicide, 76; indecent exposure, 52; molesting, 17; forgery, 20; confidence game, 7; embezzlement, 6; bad checks, 52; assault and battery, 17.

El Paso County Death Rate Down in 1963

There were 1,222 deaths in El Paso County last year, which was 22 less than in 1962, according to officials in the vital statistics department at the City-County Health Department.

The death rate in the county for the four years prior to that was 1,142 in 1961, 1,318 in 1960, 1,091 in 1959 and 1,082 in 1958.

Meanwhile, officials said, there have been 4,511 births recorded so far for 1963. But the final count will be higher than that because all of the births from the five hospitals have not been officially recorded as yet.

Even so, they said, the incomplete count for 1963 of 4,511 already exceeds the 1962 total of 4,507 births. Some births which occurred in November have not been recorded at the health department.

But even on the basis of incomplete birth reports, the county population increased 3,289 in this natural way last year.

The birth record in 1961 was 3,846 and 4,134 in 1960. There were 4,063 births in the county in 1959 and 4,136 in 1958.

SERVICE TO CLERGY—Sister Paschal, business office manager of St. Francis Hospital, checks her file on the church affiliation of patients for the Rev. George Otto of the Broadmoor Community Church. An up to date file of church membership of patients is kept for clergymen of all denominations. New admissions and discharges are posted daily, to make hospital calls a simple procedure for clergymen. Unnecessary trips are avoided by pastors who telephone Sister Paschal weekly to learn if any of their parishioners are hospitalized. The system has been in operation for several months and has met with the grateful endorsement of busy ministers, priests and rabbis.

Florence Council Meeting Focused on Annual Reports

Presentation of annual reports was virtually the sole highlight of a quickie city council meeting Monday night as City Manager Frank Carochi offered reports by City Inspector Carl Meyers and Fire Chief Dan Friend.

Meyers, in his building report, noted that permit valuation for 1963 was $230,604 in Florence including 132 permits for remodeling valued at $79,430; the construction of seven new homes valued at $56,000; and three permits for new commercial buildings estimated at $95,174.

Total fees collected by the inspector's office were $3,690.

The building activity in Florence showed an increase for a four-year period excluding the boom of 1962 when two schools and a new Catholic center were constructed.

Meyers also noted that the building permit valuation for December of 1963 was $17,000 including one new commercial permit and five permits for remodeling. During 1963 a total of 56 contractors were licensed by the city.

In his report to the city, Fire Chief Dan Friend noted that 21 fire calls were answered in the city in 1963 with damage listed at $5,865. In 1962 the fire department had 14 fire calls with damage at $3,325.

City firemen helped fight 27 district fires, answered 10 first aid calls, two emergency calls, and helped locate two lost persons.

In other business Monday night, the council heard a report from the city manager on water including a letter from Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, who pledged to aid Florence in its struggle to obtain federal aid funds for new water improvement.

Florence is currently seeking to get matching funds thru the Housing and Home Finance Agency but the prospects have not been too rosy for immediate aid despite approval of the Florence plan by federal inspectors.

City Manager Carochi announced that No. 1 city reservoir has 13 feet of water in storage with ½ inch of water coming in from the Newlin Creek intake.

Cost of running the new water filtration plant for December was listed at about $800.

Only action taken by the council was (a) approval to erect stop signs on East Third Street at Crawford Avenue; (b) approval to blade a hillside south of the city for winter sledding for the children of the area, and (c) a refusal to change the existing trailer ordinance to permit trailers to be brought into the city and be converted into permanent residences.

The city manager told the council that effective immediately he has shifted his personnel to permit Galin Carr, a city water department employe, to work three days a week on the police department to reduce the number of hours worked by the regular force.

Carr will also work weekends with the water crews and City Inspector Carl Meyers will be detailed to work three days with water department personnel.

Girl Suffers Cuts When Car Hits Tree

Lillian Crespin, 18, of 602 W. Sierra Madre St., suffered abrasions and contusions when her car hit a tree on South Hancock Street Wednesday evening, police reported.

Miss Crespin was treated at St. Francis Hospital.

State Patrolman Jake McDaniel said her southbound car went out of control on a curve, side swiped one tree and hit another tree head-on.

Firemen Called When Truck Hits Power Line

The fire department was called at 5:25 p.m. Wednesday when a truck ran into a power line in the northeastern part of the city.

There was no fire and no one was injured. Company 5 stood by until utility men repaired the damage.

Nigerian Editor Visits Air Force Academy

Altho more than 5,000 miles from home and chilled by temperatures 50 degrees lower than the norm of his native land, Cyril James found a warm welcome at the Air Force Academy.

Feature editor of the Lagos Sunday-Express, he is in the U. S. attending an industrial institute in St. Paul, Minn.

James is vitally interested in Air Force installations — the Academy in particular — since his country is in the process of establishing an aviation function for its armed forces.

The visiting editor plans to do a series of articles on the U. S. Air Force when he returns to Lagos in June.

Escorted by Capt. Irwin R. Ziff, assistant chief of Visitor Control, James toured academic area facilities and received a briefing on the curriculum and educational program.

Altho interested in the academy physical plant, the visitor said the curriculum and mode of study particularly impressed him.

Man 'Planning' Bank Robbery Given Jail Term

William Timms, 27, of Greenville, S. C., was sentenced to 60 days in city jail plus given a $50 fine Wednesday by Municipal Judge Allan Asher.

Timms pleaded guilty to charges of carrying a concealed weapon and vagrancy. The man was arrested Tuesday after police learned thru an informant that he was planning to hold up the Colorado Springs National Bank.

Officers testified in Municipal Court Wednesday that they were called to the Arrow Hotel where Timms had registered Sunday. They placed the man under arrest and then escorted him to room 40 where they discovered a map of the drive-in window at the local bank and a note the man was planning to give to a teller.

Testimony also revealed that Timms was carrying a knife and had 24 cents on his person.

Rental Group Members To Attend Meetings

Approximately 45 persons, all members of the Mountain States Rental Association, are expected to attend meetings in Colorado Springs Sunday.

Meetings will be held at three places here, United Rent-Alls, 2346 E. Boulder St., 3 p.m.; Bishop-Hill Tool & Paint Co., 205 S. Weber St, 5 pm.; and a dinner meeting at the home of John Alexander, 1715 N. Cascade Ave.

Symposium Organizer Escaped From Germany

The man who put together Colorado College's Jan. 12-18 symposium on World War II is a political scientist who escaped from Nazi Germany just four days before the outbreak of the war.

He is Fred A. Sondermann, associate professor of political science and associate dean of the independent liberal arts college.

Under Sonderman's direction, more than 1,800-man-hours went into the planning and organization of the week-long symposium which features 50 separate programs.

Sondermann, known to fellow faculty members as a man on-the-go from early morning to late at night, is bringing to the college campus 35 experts from thruout the world. Also taking part will be 40 Colorado College professors.

The symposium is regarded as the first full-scale study of the causes, conduct and consequences of World War II ever conducted by a college.

In addition to organizing the symposium, Sondermann also teaches two political science courses and directs the college's summer session.

Assisted by a dozen professors and an equal number of students, he started planning the symposium last March. World War II was one of 25 subjects under consideration.

The war was selected because the students said they "knew far too little about this crucial event in recent history."

Sondermann and his staff have spent more than 1,000 hours organizing the symposium. An additional 800 hours were contributed by fellow faculty members and students.

The Colorado College political scientist left his native Germany hurriedly one afternoon in August of 1939 at the age of 15. And none too soon, either. For relatives who failed to escape subsequently were killed.

"We already had our visas for the United States," Sondermann recalled the other day. "On Aug. 28 my father came home with special visas for transit thru Belgium. We left that afternoon with hand luggage and $4 each."

The Sondermanns came to Indianapolis, Ind., and in 1943 Fred Sondermann joined the U. S. Army. He served in the South Pacific where he was promoted to technical sergeant.

Completing his college education on the G. I. Bill, Sondermann earned a Ph. D. in political science at Yale University prior to joining the faculty at Colorado College in 1953.

He is the author of numerous articles in professional journals and co-author of one book, "The Theory and Practice of International Relations."

Municipal Judge Grants Stay in Traffic Case

John McGown, 29, 1128 Richards Ave., was found guilty Wednesday in Municipal Court of taking the right of way and fined $15 by Judge Allan Asher.

However, McGown was granted a 10-day stay of execution when he indicated that he wanted to appeal the decision.

Charlie Simmons, 24, 1502 E. Fountain St., was found guilty of leaving an unattended vehicle and received a $15 fine. A guilty finding was also handed down on a charge of injury to city property but the judge continued disposition on this until Jan. 15.

Guilty findings were also handed down on charges of careless driving and injury to city property against Cecil Barrett, 43, Manitou Springs. Barrett was not in court but Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac decided to take testimony nevertheless.

Judge Asher ordered Barrett's $25 bond be forfeited and said it would be applied to a $25 fine imposed on the careless driving charge. A $10 fine was levied on the second charge and a writ of execution ordered issued to collect the money.

At the request of the complaining witness, Judge Asher dismissed charges of riotous conduct and breach of peace against James Young, 21, 417 S. Weber St.

Bill Dykes, 34, 319 E. Kiowa St., pleaded guilty to being drunk and was fined $25.

Martha Dubas, 19, 201 W. Polk St., pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge and was given a 60-day jail sentence. Judge Asher ruled that the girl would serve 10 days, with the balance suspended, on condition that she not appear again in court on a similar charge.

Reckless Driving Brings Man $25 JP Fine

Salvador Madrill, 26, of Center, was fined $25 and costs in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Wednesday for reckless driving. Madrill was ticketed Dec. 31 on the Pikeview Interchange by Deputy Sheriff Charles Dietsche.

Marvin Bullock, 39, of Ft. Carson was also fined $25 and costs for the same violation which happened Dec. 31 on Colorado Highway 115. The office was State Patrloman Pete Thiel.

State Patrolman Robert DeFelice cited Gilbert Aldez, 21, of 812 S. Wahsatch Ave. for careless driving on Colorado Highway 115 Monday. A $10 fine and costs was imposed.

Tomas Fedirico Espinoza, 16, of 2113 W. Boulder St. was charged with hit and run and fined $15 and costs. The violation happened Dec. 23 on Pikes Peak Avenue, the officer was T. E. Hobt of the police and the fine $15 and costs.

Miles Ura Miller paid a $15 fine and costs for failing to yield the right of way. Miller, 78, of 1110 E. Platte Ave. was cited by State Patrolman J. D. Morrissey on Bijou Street Dec. 19.

Imogene Pilcher, 55, of 2204 E. Willamette Ave. was charged with the same offense and fined $15 and costs. Morrissey cited her on Bijou Street Dec. 19.

Having no operator's license and no registration plates resulted in a $15 fine and costs for Willie James Barbee, 23, of Ft. Carson. Barbee was ticketed Sunday on East Costilla Street by Police Office R. E. Hapke.

Police Officer R. L. Gysin gave a ticket to Sidney Charles Ridlehuber, 18, of 2706 E. Bijou St. for fraudulent use of plates. The incident happened on East Pikes Peak Avenue Tuesday and the defendant was fined $10 and costs.

Dora Ann Thomas, 30, of 2315 Flintridge Dr. was charged with speeding and fined $15 and costs. According to State Patrolman Al Smith, the defendant was driving at 42 miles per hour in a 30 zone on Templeton Gap Road Jan. 2.

Careless driving on Colorado Highway 115 Dec. 31 cost Roger Dean Wheaton, 25, of Ft. Carson, $20 and costs. The officer was Pete Thiel of the state patrol.

Thiel also gave a ticket to Charles Honey Moneymaker, 50, of 1219 Richards Ave. as he drove the wrong way on a one-way street Dec. 31. The violation happened on South Nevada Avenue and the defendant paid a $10 fine and costs.

Youths Plead Guilty to Petty Larceny

A 17-year old youth and another aged 18, John A. McCoy of Ft. Carson, both pleaded guilty in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Wednesday to petty larceny.

The 17-year old was fined $20 and costs of $8.50 while his companion paid a $20 fine and $7.50 costs.

No-Account Check Charge Filed Here

According to the information, the defendant issued a $25 no account check Sept. 13 with intent to defraud Ralph's Drugs Inc. Bond was set at $2,000 by Judge G. Russell Miller.

NORAD, ADC To Be Honored At San Diego

Two top Air Defense Command generals and the ADC Exhibit will take part in the San Diego Aerospace Defense Week observance honoring the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) Jan. 12-19 in the Southern California city.

ADC Commander Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, and Lt. Gen. Robert H. Terrill, vice commander, will take part in activities scheduled during the week.

The week-long salute to aerospace defense is being sponsored by the San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The ADC Commander representing NORAD Commander in Chief John K. Gerhart will accept the half-time salute to aerospace defense at the American Football League All-Star game on the 19th, climaxing the week's program. The game will be televised nationally over the ABC-TV Network.

General Terrill is scheduled to address top civic and industrial leaders at the Jan. 17 Aerospace Defense Week Banquet.

Other NORAD and component service speakers will appear before civic and community groups throughout the week.

The Air Defense Command exhibit, which tells the ADC Story through motion pictures, colored photographs and transparencies, will be on display at the Aerospace Museum in Balboa Park.

The exhibits will include both indoor and outdoor displays. Outdoor exhibits include the BOMARC, the Ryan Firebee Jet Drone Target, F-102A Delta Dagger and the Nike Hercules.

Kicking off the week-long observance will be a civic proclamation ceremony and a Navy Band concert in Balboa Park on Sunday.

San Diego is noted as one of the outstanding aerospace industry centers of the nation, and particularly as a key member of the scientific — industrial — military aerospace defense team.

The San Diego-based Convair division of General Dynamics Corporation has supplied ADC with the F-102 Delta Dagger and F-106 Delta Dart supersonic all-weather interceptors. Ryan Aeronautical Company provides the Firebee jet drone target, which is used extensively by ADC's Weapons Center at Tyndall AFB, Fla.

Martinez Found Legally Insane

Manuel Martinez charged under the Habitual Criminal Act and with burglary and larceny has been found legally insane by Dr. J. L. Rosenbloom of Pueblo, the clerk of the District Court said Wednesday.

Martinez, 34, of Denver is alleged to have three previous felony convictions out of Pueblo District Court and according to the Habitual Criminal Act could have been sentenced to the state penitentiary for life had he been convicted a fourth time.

The defendant was also alleged to have broken into Hildy's Antique and Jewelry Store, 2509 W. Colorado Ave. Aug. 27 and taken a camera, radio, television set and jewelry worth a total of $16,000. He is scheduled to appear in District Court Friday when it is expected disposition will be made of his case.

Credit Card Plan Adopted At Memorial

Memorial Hospital has joined a guaranteed hospital in-patient account program sponsored by a major credit card company, the Hilton Credit Corporation.

The program went into effect Jan. 1, according to W. M. Cockrell, executive vice president of the credit corporation, Los Angeles. It is being used in more than 1,200 hospitals in 50 states.

The plan guarantees the first $200 of hospital bills incurred by in-patients and provides them with immediate credit recognition. There is no cost for the service either to hospital or card holder.

Mountain School May Not Get Forest Land

The District 14 School Board received little encouragement Wednesday night concerning a proposal to obtain a long-term lease on National Forest land for use in the proposed construction of an elementary school in the Green Mountain Falls area.

Superintendent W. W. Bundy read a letter from Harry A. Harrison, assistant regional forester, which stated that the forest service, "because of possible future public needs. . .would more than likely not look upon such a request as a favorable one at this particular time."

The Forest Service can lease land to public school districts for a period not to exceed 30 years if the use of the land doesn't preclude the general public from full enjoyment of scenic, recreational and other uses of land in the surrounding area.

The board took no action on Harrison's letter, preferring to await promised further consideration of its proposal by forest service personnel.

In other business, the board declined to join the Colorado Association of School Boards. The annual cost of membership is $82.50 for a district the size of Manitou Springs. The board has never held membership in the association, Bundy said.

The board approved a proposal to send John M. Konselman, as a district representative to the National convention of the North Central Association held in Chicago April 6-9.

It was also decided that Heyse Sheet Metal and Roofing Co. would be employed to gravel the roof of the kindergarten building at a cost of $387.96. The job will begin as soon as weather permits.

Members of the school board and the six-person teacher committee on contract negotiations will hold a dinner meeting Wednesday, Feb. 5. Time and place will be announced later.

Bundy announced that Loyd Lough has been employed as custodian at Manitou High School, but that he is working without a contract until the arrangement proves agreeable both to the school system and to Lough.

The board voted to pay current bills and authorized funds for January salaries.

The meeting was held in the Bundy's office at Manitou Springs High School. Next meeting will be Feb. 12.

Driver Fined On Two Counts In Justice Court

Wayne Errol Pohida was found guilty in Justice of the Peace James F. Quine's court Wednesday of reckless driving and having no operator's license. He was fined $35 and costs of $39.25. Pohida, 18, of Ft. Carson was ticketed by Cpl. C. M. Maloney of the police department Nov. 17 on North Cheyenne Canon Road.

Mary Margaret Haggard, 23, of 2020 W. Bijou St. was charged with careless driving, hit and run and fined $20 and costs. The incident happened Dec. 18 on East Costilla Street. Maloney was the officer.

Winfred Charles Day, 19, of Route 2, received a $5 fine and costs for careless driving at Ellicott Sunday. Arnold C. Ferrero of the state partol was the officer.

State Patrolman A. G. Murin gave a ticket to Ellen C. Bushey, 48, of 1211 E. Uintah St. as she allowed an unauthorized person to drive on U. S. Highway 24 Jan. 2. A $5 fine and costs was imposed.

Having no operator's license cost William Stanley Ott, 20, of Ft. Carson, $5 and costs. Police Officer W. Banks cited him Nov. 4 on Cimarron Street.

Jesse Lee Roundtree, 24, of Ft. Carson was charged with not complying with the inspection law and fined $5 and costs. State Patrolman A. G. Murin issued the summons at the Harrison Interchange Dec. 1.

Following too closely on East Cheyenne Road Tuesday resulted in a $5 fine and costs for James Leroy Arnott. Arnott, 47, of 612 S. Tejon St. was cited by State Patrolman Pete Thiel.

State Patrolman J. E. McDaniel ticketed George Robert Mahncke, 51, of 2214 Patrician Way for disregarding a stop sign on Lake Avenue and having no operator's license Dec. 31. He was fined $5 and costs.

John Kenneth Baird, 31, of 1107 Neptune Dr. was fined $5 and costs for careless driving. The violation happened Dec. 21 on South Skyway Boulevard and the officer was State Patrolman Ken Shiflet.

Stork Makes First Trip to Florence Jan. 2

The stork made his first trip to Florence in 1964 last Thursday at 1:35 p.m. at St. Joseph's Hospital and he introduced Sheila Kay Fabrizio as the first baby of the year in Eastern Fremont County.

With the assistance of Dr. Peter Gamache, Sheila Kay arrived weighing seven pounds, seven ounces. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fabrizio, 914 E. Third St.

Lu Ann, age 6, is the baby's only sister and her brother is Tommy, age 3. Her father is employed by the state highway department.

As first baby of 1964, Sheila Kay and her parents will receive many worthwhile gifts from the merchants of the area.

The first baby of 1963 was Tommy Huerta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huerta, 422 W. Third St., who also arrived on Jan. 2, two hours later in the day and weighing only an ounce and a half more than Sheila Kay.

Crime Increase Noted in City During 1963

There were 4,292 offenses of all kinds known to the Colorado Springs police department during 1963, according to police Chief Cecil J. McKissick.

This compares with 3,670 offenses for 1962.

Even tho there was a sharp increase last year, crime in Colorado Springs in the last five years has increased only about 12 per cent, which is far less than the national average. The U. S. crime rate is up 27 per cent in that five-year period.

There were 2,126 part 1 offenses (more serious crimes) last year as compared with 1,888 in 1962. There were 406 burgalries in 1963 and only 329 in 1962.

On the other hand, the chief said, there were only 212 larceny cases involving $50 an over last year whereas there were 251 during 1962.

In other offenses, there were 2166 last year and 1,782 during 1962. Some of these other offenses during 1963 included the following:

Accidental injury, 343; deaths, 58; arson, 11; assault, 58; disorderly conduct, 62; malicious mischief, 756; suicide, 18; attempted suicide, 76; indecent exposure, 52; molesting, 17; forgery, 20; confidence game, 7; embezzlement, 6; bad checks, 52; assault and battery, 17.

El Paso County Death Rate Down in 1963

There were 1,222 deaths in El Paso County last year, which was 22 less than in 1962, according to officials in the vital statistics department at the City-County Health Department.

The death rate in the county for the four years prior to that was 1,142 in 1961, 1,318 in 1960, 1,091 in 1959 and 1,082 in 1958.

Meanwhile, officials said, there have been 4,511 births recorded so far for 1963. But the final count will be higher than that because all of the births from the five hospitals have not been officially recorded as yet.

Even so, they said, the incomplete count for 1963 of 4,511 already exceeds the 1962 total of 4,507 births. Some births which occurred in November have not been recorded at the health department.

But even on the basis of incomplete birth reports, the county population increased 3,289 in this natural way last year.

The birth record in 1961 was 3,846 and 4,134 in 1960. There were 4,063 births in the county in 1959 and 4,136 in 1958.

SERVICE TO CLERGY—Sister Paschal, business office manager of St. Francis Hospital, checks her file on the church affiliation of patients for the Rev. George Otto of the Broadmoor Community Church. An up to date file of church membership of patients is kept for clergymen of all denominations. New admissions and discharges are posted daily, to make hospital calls a simple procedure for clergymen. Unnecessary trips are avoided by pastors who telephone Sister Paschal weekly to learn if any of their parishioners are hospitalized. The system has been in operation for several months and has met with the grateful endorsement of busy ministers, priests and rabbis.

SHOP TALK—Intricacies of journalism are discussed by Mr. Cyril James, feature editor of the Lagos, Nigeria Sunday-Express (center) and two members of the Air Force Academy information staff, Maj. Florence Council Meeting Focused on Annual Reports

Presentation of annual reports was virtually the sole highlight of a quickie city council meeting Monday night as City Manager Frank Carochi offered reports by City Inspector Carl Meyers and Fire Chief Dan Friend.

Meyers, in his building report, noted that permit valuation for 1963 was $230,604 in Florence including 132 permits for remodeling valued at $79,430; the construction of seven new homes valued at $56,000; and three permits for new commercial buildings estimated at $95,174.

Total fees collected by the inspector's office were $3,690.

The building activity in Florence showed an increase for a four-year period excluding the boom of 1962 when two schools and a new Catholic center were constructed.

Meyers also noted that the building permit valuation for December of 1963 was $17,000 including one new commercial permit and five permits for remodeling. During 1963 a total of 56 contractors were licensed by the city.

In his report to the city, Fire Chief Dan Friend noted that 21 fire calls were answered in the city in 1963 with damage listed at $5,865. In 1962 the fire department had 14 fire calls with damage at $3,325.

City firemen helped fight 27 district fires, answered 10 first aid calls, two emergency calls, and helped locate two lost persons.

In other business Monday night, the council heard a report from the city manager on water including a letter from Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, who pledged to aid Florence in its struggle to obtain federal aid funds for new water improvement.

Florence is currently seeking to get matching funds thru the Housing and Home Finance Agency but the prospects have not been too rosy for immediate aid despite approval of the Florence plan by federal inspectors.

City Manager Carochi announced that No. 1 city reservoir has 13 feet of water in storage with ½ inch of water coming in from the Newlin Creek intake.

Cost of running the new water filtration plant for December was listed at about $800.

Only action taken by the council was (a) approval to erect stop signs on East Third Street at Crawford Avenue; (b) approval to blade a hillside south of the city for winter sledding for the children of the area, and (c) a refusal to change the existing trailer ordinance to permit trailers to be brought into the city and be converted into permanent residences.

The city manager told the council that effective immediately he has shifted his personnel to permit Galin Carr, a city water department employe, to work three days a week on the police department to reduce the number of hours worked by the regular force.

Carr will also work weekends with the water crews and City Inspector Carl Meyers will be detailed to work three days with water department personnel.

Girl Suffers Cuts When Car Hits Tree

Lillian Crespin, 18, of 602 W. Sierra Madre St., suffered abrasions and contusions when her car hit a tree on South Hancock Street Wednesday evening, police reported.

Miss Crespin was treated at St. Francis Hospital.

State Patrolman Jake McDaniel said her southbound car went out of control on a curve, side swiped one tree and hit another tree head-on.

Firemen Called When Truck Hits Power Line

The fire department was called at 5:25 p.m. Wednesday when a truck ran into a power line in the northeastern part of the city.

There was no fire and no one was injured. Company 5 stood by until utility men repaired the damage.

Nigerian Editor Visits Air Force Academy

Altho more than 5,000 miles from home and chilled by temperatures 50 degrees lower than the norm of his native land, Cyril James found a warm welcome at the Air Force Academy.

Feature editor of the Lagos Sunday-Express, he is in the U. S. attending an industrial institute in St. Paul, Minn.

James is vitally interested in Air Force installations — the Academy in particular — since his country is in the process of establishing an aviation function for its armed forces.

The visiting editor plans to do a series of articles on the U. S. Air Force when he returns to Lagos in June.

Escorted by Capt. Irwin R. Ziff, assistant chief of Visitor Control, James toured academic area facilities and received a briefing on the curriculum and educational program.

Altho interested in the academy physical plant, the visitor said the curriculum and mode of study particularly impressed him.

Man 'Planning' Bank Robbery Given Jail Term

William Timms, 27, of Greenville, S. C., was sentenced to 60 days in city jail plus given a $50 fine Wednesday by Municipal Judge Allan Asher.

Timms pleaded guilty to charges of carrying a concealed weapon and vagrancy. The man was arrested Tuesday after police learned thru an informant that he was planning to hold up the Colorado Springs National Bank.

Municipal Judge Grants Stay in Traffic Case

John McGown, 29, 1128 Richards Ave., was found guilty Wednesday in Municipal Court of taking the right of way and fined $15 by Judge Allan Asher.

However, McGown was granted a 10-day stay of execution when he indicated that he wanted to appeal the decision.

Charlie Simmons, 24, 1502 E. Fountain St., was found guilty of leaving an unattended vehicle and received a $15 fine. A guilty finding was also handed down on a charge of injury to city property but the judge continued disposition on this until Jan. 15.

Guilty findings were also handed down on charges of careless driving and injury to city property against Cecil Barrett, 43, Manitou Springs. Barrett was not in court but Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac decided to take testimony nevertheless.

Judge Asher ordered Barrett's $25 bond be forfeited and said it would be applied to a $25 fine imposed on the careless driving charge. A $10 fine was levied on the second charge and a writ of execution ordered issued to collect the money.

At the request of the complaining witness, Judge Asher dismissed charges of riotous conduct and breach of peace against James Young, 21, 417 S. Weber St.

Bill Dykes, 34, 319 E. Kiowa St., pleaded guilty to being drunk and was fined $25.

Martha Dubas, 19, 201 W. Polk St., pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge and was given a 60-day jail sentence. Judge Asher ruled that the girl would serve 10 days, with the balance suspended, on condition that she not appear again in court on a similar charge.

Reckless Driving Brings Man $25 JP Fine

Salvador Madrill, 26, of Center, was fined $25 and costs in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Wednesday for reckless driving. Madrill was ticketed Dec. 31 on the Pikeview Interchange by Deputy Sheriff Charles Dietsche.

Marvin Bullock, 39, of Ft. Carson was also fined $25 and costs for the same violation which happened Dec. 31 on Colorado Highway 115. The office was State Patrloman Pete Thiel.

State Patrolman Robert DeFelice cited Gilbert Aldez, 21, of 812 S. Wahsatch Ave. for careless driving on Colorado Highway 115 Monday. A $10 fine and costs was imposed.

Tomas Fedirico Espinoza, 16, of 2113 W. Boulder St. was charged with hit and run and fined $15 and costs. The violation happened Dec. 23 on Pikes Peak Avenue, the officer was T. E. Hobt of the police and the fine $15 and costs.

Miles Ura Miller paid a $15 fine and costs for failing to yield the right of way. Miller, 78, of 1110 E. Platte Ave. was cited by State Patrolman J. D. Morrissey on Bijou Street Dec. 19.

Imogene Pilcher, 55, of 2204 E. Willamette Ave. was charged with the same offense and fined $15 and costs. Morrissey cited her on Bijou Street Dec. 19.

Having no operator's license and no registration plates resulted in a $15 fine and costs for Willie James Barbee, 23, of Ft. Carson. Barbee was ticketed Sunday on East Costilla Street by Police Office R. E. Hapke.

Police Officer R. L. Gysin gave a ticket to Sidney Charles Ridlehuber, 18, of 2706 E. Bijou St. for fraudulent use of plates. The incident happened on East Pikes Peak Avenue Tuesday and the defendant was fined $10 and costs.

Dora Ann Thomas, 30, of 2315 Flintridge Dr. was charged with speeding and fined $15 and costs. According to State Patrolman Al Smith, the defendant was driving at 42 miles per hour in a 30 zone on Templeton Gap Road Jan. 2.

Careless driving on Colorado Highway 115 Dec. 31 cost Roger Dean Wheaton, 25, of Ft. Carson, $20 and costs. The officer was Pete Thiel of the state patrol.

Thiel also gave a ticket to Charles Honey Moneymaker, 50, of 1219 Richards Ave. as he drove the wrong way on a one-way street Dec. 31. The violation happened on South Nevada Avenue and the defendant paid a $10 fine and costs.

Youths Plead Guilty to Petty Larceny

A 17-year old youth and another aged 18, John A. McCoy of Ft. Carson, both pleaded guilty in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Wednesday to petty larceny.

The 17-year old was fined $20 and costs of $8.50 while his companion paid a $20 fine and $7.50 costs.

No-Account Check Charge Filed Here

According to the information, the defendant issued a $25 no account check Sept. 13 with intent to defraud Ralph's Drugs Inc. Bond was set at $2,000 by Judge G. Russell Miller.

Spa Has Come To America For Rest Cure

By WARD CANNEL

HOLLYWOOD - BY - THE - SEA, Fla. (NEA)—"The bellboy will show you to your room," the desk clerk said, ringing the traditional little bell, "and I'll make an appointment for you with the doctor.

"We hope you have a wonderful vacation."

It is once again that annual affluent moment when the getters and the spenders begin their winter season in the sun but this year with a considerable difference.

The spa has come to the United States.

"You're in pretty fair shape, considering how you live the rest of the year," the doctor said, filling out various slips of paper after an extensive examination. "I'll send my report on you down to the kitchen and up to the physical therapy floor. 'Have a wonderful vacation."

This hotel is called the Sun Spa. Others like it in broad outline, but perhaps not so luxurious, are opening across the American landscape as the nation suddenly discovers a European tradition nearly 25 centuries old.

Now it is not so easy to define a spa. It is not a dieter's retreat, although diet is part of it. It is not a gymnasium, although the corridors resound with muscle tone. It is not a health bar, steam bath, yoga emporium, fountain of youth or rest home. But it is also all of them.

Last year, according to spa historian Oscar Katov, American spa-goers spent over $100 million at European spas, whose names have become legendary through the centuries: Vichy, Baden-Baden, Montecatini, Marienbad . . .

"Okay," a facilities director at the Sun Spa said, checking a slip of paper, "take off your clothes. You get 9 minutes in the Finnish bath, 12 minutes in the Roman pool, 10 minutes in the Swiss shower, a Swedish massage — either with salt or rose oil."

At the peak of the season, Americans in their right minds are asked to fork over $30 a day for this heat, cold, wet, dry, push, pull and pummel, only to find at the end of it all a low-calorie, low-cholesterol, precariously balanced diet meal waiting for them in the sumptuous dining room.

"I hear from the waitress that you've ordered butter, bread, water and a second helping," a dietician says, sitting down at your table. "Well, you probably don't know what that kind of eating does to your system.

"Why don't we talk about it and then you'll see that you really don't want to spoil your vacation . . . "

That Americans will pay resort prices for this discipline is not nearly so surprising as the fact that they come at all.

"Of course, they come," says Sun Spa owner Margery Bellows Lane. "They love it. They stay three weeks at the minimum, and often longer. Some of them come twice each year.

"The way they live at home—too much liquor, too much entertainment, late hours, overeating, no exercise—well, discipline is the only kind of vacation that makes any sense."

Member to Budget Committee Named

DENVER (AP) — Colorado House Speaker John Vanderhoof, R-Glenwood Springs, today officially named Rep. Star Caywoody, D-Walsenburg, to be a member of the Joint Budget Committee. Actually, Caywoody had served on the six-member group for several months since resignation of Rep. Elmer Johnson, D-Denver, now city budget director.

By MRS. BEN GARVER

A welcome is extended to Lindon Lester Sr. and his son, Lindon Lester Jr., the new owners of Ye Olde Lake George Inn. Mrs. Lester Sr. and their grandson spent the holidays here, returning to Hobbs, N.M., where the grandson will remain in high school until summer. Mr. and Mrs. Art Ecklund, former owners are presently living in Cripple Creek.

Ranger Jack Swisher and daughters are making preparations to move to Ozark, Ark., where he's exchanged positions with Ranger Tom Dix. Mr. and Mrs. Dix have grade school children and plan to move here Jan. 17.

The community extends sympathy to the Joe Ballard family, residents here for 28 years, on the death of their mother and wife, Mrs. Anna Ballard, who had long been ill, and passed away in a Colorado Springs hospital Dec. 29. In addition to her husband, Joe Ballard, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Carol Malott and Mrs. Ruth Winter of Colorado Springs; four sons, Wilbur Ballard of Colorado Springs; Vernon Ballard of Woodland Park, and Robert and Floyd Ballard of Florissant. Interment was in Woodland Park Cemetery.

The A. McClains of Denver are the new owners of the Herb Crisler home in Tarryall. The Crislers are presently living in the Divide area.

The numerous holiday festivities ended here Thursday when schools reopened and people returnd to dull routine. A number from here saw the New Year in at a gay party at Hartsel Hotel. Many witnessed the fireworks on Pikes Peak.

Students home for the holidays who have returned to school are Jim Sumner, who left for Salina, Kan., the Gilley boys who returned to Fremont, Neb., where they attend school, Sandy Garver who is back at CSC in Greeley, and Jerry Achord who left to resume Army training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

The Frank Goldsby family of Colorado Springs spent Christmas holidays at their Lake George home and their houseguests were Mrs. Everett Johnson and Mrs. Mary Miller of Oklahoma. They held open house and among friends calling were the Floyd Brettells, the Roger Sanborns and the Lawson Sumners.

The Chet Burns missed having a New Year's baby by a matter of hours. Their new son, weighing 8 lbs., 2 oz. was born Dec. 31st in Colorado Springs, which makes six sons and one daughter in their home.

Mrs. Dorothy Erb hosted a family getogether in her home, over the holidays and her guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Erb and daughters of Las Vegas, Nev., and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Watts and children of Nucla, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Erb and daughter of Colorado Springs. Mrs. Erb held open house and numerous friends dropped in.

Wayne Banks who joined the Colorado Springs police force in 1956, was promoted to corporal last week. Banks spent his boyhood in this community.

The young folks of the area have enjoyed skating parties lately as the ice is reported in excellent condition.

The John Bairds of Colorado Springs spend time off and on, at their lovely new Florissant home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lewis were business callers Saturday in Denver. They were accompanied by the junior and senior Lindon Lesters.

The area has sampled a taste of good old fashioned winter, both snowy and cold the past week.

Demonstrations Staged in Algeria

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—Demonstrations against unemployment and high living costs were staged in several towns of western Algeria Tuesday.

The Algerian Press Service said 300 persons were arrested and will be tried by a special court.

The agency said the demonstrators carried French flags and shouted the name of Ferhat Abbas, former president of the Algerian National Assembly who resigned in protest against President Ahmed Ben Bella's policies.

The young folks of the area have enjoyed skating parties lately as the ice is reported in excellent condition.

The John Bairds of Colorado Springs spend time off and on, at their lovely new Florissant home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lewis were business callers Saturday in Denver. They were accompanied by the junior and senior Lindon Lesters.

The area has sampled a taste of good old fashioned winter, both snowy and cold the past week.

Demonstrations Staged in Algeria

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—Demonstrations against unemployment and high living costs were staged in several towns of western Algeria Tuesday.

The Algerian Press Service said 300 persons were arrested and will be tried by a special court.

The agency said the demonstrators carried French flags and shouted the name of Ferhat Abbas, former president of the Algerian National Assembly who resigned in protest against President Ahmed Ben Bella's policies.

Significant Events Mark News of Year 1963

United Press International

The year 1963 saw the assassination of President Kennedy. It also was the year of other significant happenings — riots in Birmingham, a sex scandal in Britain, a coup in South Vietnam, space flights, the election of a new Pope, the birth of United States first quintuplets to survive.

A chronology of the year's major events:

Jan. 8—Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province ends secession from the Congo, later flees to Paris.

Jan. 13—President Sylvanus Olympio of Togo assassinated by insurgents in front of U.S. Embassy in Lome .

Jan. 29—France vetoes British entry into Common Market.

Feb. 5—Canadian government falls, Lester B. Pearson becomes Prime Minister.

Feb. 8—Premier Abdul Karim Kassim of Iraq slain in pro-Nasserite coup.

Feb. 12—Forty-three die when Northwest Orient Airlines jet crashes in Florida Everglades.

Feb. 20 — Cuba-based MIG fighter planes launch rocket attack on American unarmed shrimp boat off Florida.

March 17—Mother Seton beatified in St. Peter's Basilica as first American native to be so honored.

Damage Pay Given to Air Crash Survivors

DENVER (UPI)— The families of two United Air Lines crew members were awarded $343,200 in damages from the government Tuesday as the result of a collision between a UAL plane and a jet fighter that killed the men and 47 other persons.

U.S. Dist. Judge Hatfield Chilson found two Air Force pilots responsible for the collision of the Denver-bound DC-7 and an Air Force F100F Supersabre south of Las Vegas, Nev., April 21, 1958. Victims of the crash were the 47 passengers and crew of the airliner and Capt. Tom Coryell, an instructor, and student pilot 1st Lt. Herald D. Moran, occupants of the jet.

Chilson's award included $219,000 for the former Noel Jean Sommers, widow of Arlin E. Sommers and their three children and $123,400 for Mrs. Naida M. Woods, widow of Charles E. Woods, and two of their three children. Sommers was the co-pilot of the DC-7 and Woods the flight engineer.

The judge, who heard testimony last July, said the Air Force pilots failed to use "ordinary care" in maneuvering the fighter and held that they failed to yield right-of-way to the larger aircraft.

BERLIN — A gang of scrap iron thieves was captured recently in Germany when their loot sank their getaway boat.

Damage Pay Given to Air Crash Survivors

DENVER (UPI)— The families of two United Air Lines crew members were awarded $343,200 in damages from the government Tuesday as the result of a collision between a UAL plane and a jet fighter that killed the men and 47 other persons.

U.S. Dist. Judge Hatfield Chilson found two Air Force pilots responsible for the collision of the Denver-bound DC-7 and an Air Force F100F Supersabre south of Las Vegas, Nev., April 21, 1958. Victims of the crash were the 47 passengers and crew of the airliner and Capt. Tom Coryell, an instructor, and student pilot 1st Lt. Herald D. Moran, occupants of the jet.

Chilson's award included $219,000 for the former Noel Jean Sommers, widow of Arlin E. Sommers and their three children and $123,400 for Mrs. Naida M. Woods, widow of Charles E. Woods, and two of their three children. Sommers was the co-pilot of the DC-7 and Woods the flight engineer.

The judge, who heard testimony last July, said the Air Force pilots failed to use "ordinary care" in maneuvering the fighter and held that they failed to yield right-of-way to the larger aircraft.

Penney's Sales In December Hit $300 Million

NEW YORK — J. C. Penney Company sales for a single month reached the $300 million mark in December for the first time in the department store chain's 62-year history.

The company reported an 11.5 per cent increase in volume for December based on a record figure of $305,090,486 against $273,555,774 for the same month a year ago. The increase amounted to $31,534,712. It was the 20th straight December in which sales have increased.

The company expressed belief that the record level of retail activity in December reflected the public's confidence in the continuing healthy state of the economy.

The chain noted a trade-up pattern, with customers favoring higher-priced items to a greater degree than ever before. Insofar as it was a factor, the weather was generally favorable to the robust sales picture.

With one more month to go in the company's current fiscal year, total volume was running at a record level 7.2 per cent ahead of a year ago. Eleven-month sales amounted to $1,705,311,865 against $1,590,706,582 for the same period last year, an increase of $114,605,283.

Penney's had 1,678 department stores in operation on Dec. 31 compared with 1,688 a year ago. Two smaller stores were closed in December.

Six-Day Stock Market Advance Stalls at Peak

NEW YORK (AP)—The six-day stock market advance stalled early this afternoon around the level of its latest all-time peak. Trading was fairly active.

Prices were mixed, with most changes small.

If Wall Sreet showed any surprise, it was that prices did not dip in a normal spell of general profit taking. Instead, the list remained on an even keel. active.

Prices were mixed, with most changes small.

If Wall Sreet showed any surprise, it was that prices did not dip in a normal spell of general profit taking. Instead, the list remained on an even keel.

At noon, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 28.2—the historic closing high it established Wednesday. Industrials were off .1, rails rose .4 and utilities were unchanged.

There were losers in the same groups. Steels continued to decline on balance as these stocks, highly favored in brokerage house comment, backed away on profit taking.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .91 at 773.55 while the Dow Jones average of 65 industrials, rails and utilities was unchanged at 271.45.

A report that Ingersoll-Rand has reached agreement to acquire Pendleton Tool resulted in an accumulation of buy orders which delayed the opening of Pendleton. It rose 7¼ to 25½ on an initial block of 9,500 shares, later trimming a point from the rise. Ingersoll-Rand dipped nearly a point.

Radio Corp., still riding on reports of big demand for color television sets, added another point in early trading, touching a new high, but erased the gain later.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed in moderate trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds retreated in reaction to the Treasury's new financing plans.

Colder Weather Spreads Out From Rockies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain, rain mixed with snow and snow hit broad areas in the eastern two-thirds of the nation today and colder air spread east and southward from the Rockies.

A storm centered in the Lower Mississippi Valley spread moist air from the Gulf inland, causing heavy rain in the southeastern quarter of the nation. Amounts ranged from more than one to three inches in parts of the rain belt.

Light snow and rain mixed with snow splashed across wide sections of the Midwest. The cold air dropped temperatures below zero in parts of Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, and the Dakotas.

Winds of 40 miles an hour swept northeastern Montana and the western Dakotas southward into northwestern Texas. Temperatures dropped to 14 above in Dalhart, Tex., compared to 37 in Dallas which reported northwesterly winds of 18 m.p.h. One of the lowest readings was 13 below zero near Lander, Wyo. It was -6 in Fraser, Colo., and near zero in Denver.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Trade in the grain futures market was slow and rather cautious most of the time today with prices generally showing little change.

In the early afternoon, most commodities were about steady to slightly firmer mainly because of the scarcity of offerings.

Scattered export buying steadied corn and soybeans somewhat and commercial buying imparted a little firmness to old crop wheat.

Estimated carlot receipts were wheat 2, corn 117, oats 3, barley 4, soybeans 3 and rye none.

Penney's Sales In December Hit $300 Million

NEW YORK — J. C. Penney Company sales for a single month reached the $300 million mark in December for the first time in the department store chain's 62-year history.

The company reported an 11.5 per cent increase in volume for December based on a record figure of $305,090,486 against $273,555,774 for the same month a year ago. The increase amounted to $31,534,712. It was the 20th straight December in which sales have increased.

The company expressed belief that the record level of retail activity in December reflected the public's confidence in the continuing healthy state of the economy.

The chain noted a trade-up pattern, with customers favoring higher-priced items to a greater degree than ever before. Insofar as it was a factor, the weather was generally favorable to the robust sales picture.

With one more month to go in the company's current fiscal year, total volume was running at a record level 7.2 per cent ahead of a year ago. Eleven-month sales amounted to $1,705,311,865 against $1,590,706,582 for the same period last year, an increase of $114,605,283.

Penney's had 1,678 department stores in operation on Dec. 31 compared with 1,688 a year ago. Two smaller stores were closed in December.

Prices were mixed, with most changes small.

If Wall Sreet showed any surprise, it was that prices did not dip in a normal spell of general profit taking. Instead, the list remained on an even keel.

At noon, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 28.2—the historic closing high it established Wednesday. Industrials were off .1, rails rose .4 and utilities were unchanged.

There were losers in the same groups. Steels continued to decline on balance as these stocks, highly favored in brokerage house comment, backed away on profit taking.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .91 at 773.55 while the Dow Jones average of 65 industrials, rails and utilities was unchanged at 271.45.

A report that Ingersoll-Rand has reached agreement to acquire Pendleton Tool resulted in an accumulation of buy orders which delayed the opening of Pendleton. It rose 7¼ to 25½ on an initial block of 9,500 shares, later trimming a point from the rise. Ingersoll-Rand dipped nearly a point.

Radio Corp., still riding on reports of big demand for color television sets, added another point in early trading, touching a new high, but erased the gain later.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed in moderate trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds retreated in reaction to the Treasury's new financing plans.

Colder Weather Spreads Out From Rockies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain, rain mixed with snow and snow hit broad areas in the eastern two-thirds of the nation today and colder air spread east and southward from the Rockies.

A storm centered in the Lower Mississippi Valley spread moist air from the Gulf inland, causing heavy rain in the southeastern quarter of the nation. Amounts ranged from more than one to three inches in parts of the rain belt.

Light snow and rain mixed with snow splashed across wide sections of the Midwest. The cold air dropped temperatures below zero in parts of Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, and the Dakotas.

Winds of 40 miles an hour swept northeastern Montana and the western Dakotas southward into northwestern Texas. Temperatures dropped to 14 above in Dalhart, Tex., compared to 37 in Dallas which reported northwesterly winds of 18 m.p.h. One of the lowest readings was 13 below zero near Lander, Wyo. It was -6 in Fraser, Colo., and near zero in Denver.

Springs Solon Leads Off With Three Bills

Rep. Norman Ohlson of Colorado Springs fired three bills at the legislature Wednesday after Gov. John A. Love opened the way for consideration of motor vehicle laws.

One of the bills calls for mandatory jail sentences for Colorado motorists involved in auto accidents while driving with a suspended operator's license.

The other bills would permit small truckers to pay their gross ton-mile tax less frequently, and would allow the Revenue Department to destroy damage records in traffic accident cases after three years instead of the present 10.

Ohlson, chairman of the House transportation Committee, co-sponsored the bill tightening traffic controls with four members of the committee. Two are Republicans, as is Ohlson, and two are Democrats.

The bill fixes the penalty from one day to six months in jail, at the discretion of the judge, plus a fine of $50 to $500.

The mandatory jail sentence and fine would apply to any person driving while his license was under suspension, cancellation or revocation, if he is convicted of leaving the scene of an accident, driving while intoxicated or driving under the influence of drugs.

The Transportation Committee met within minutes after the bill was presented to the House of Representatives and ordered it printed, a step preliminary to legislative consideration.

Ohlson said the only suggestion made in the committee was that the penalty should be made more severe.

In introducing the bill to permit small truckers to pay their gross ton-mile tax less frequently, Ohlson pointed out that some of these payments amount to $20 or less.

He said that his bill would reduce by 22 per cent the number of documents which the Revenue Department examines annually. The law now requires monthly payments.

Before a trucker could make less frequent payments, he would have to get permission of the revenue director.

Advertising Club Members Will 'Test Drive' Fords

Ten members of the Pikes Peak Advertising Club became honorary "test drivers" Wednesday for Ford Motor Co.

The 10 were chosen at a meeting of the association at the Antlers Hotel, and each will "test drive" a Ford for the next week.

Named were Ed Corbin of Holly Sugar Corp.; George Haver, Vince Palmieri and Herb Johnson of the Gazette Telegraph; Ed Richardson of Richardson and Associates; Bob Lebsack of Sears; Scotty Glasgow of Scotty Glasgow Advertising Agency; Jean Best, secretary of the club; John Hoff of the Colorado Commercial Bank, and George Marvin of the Antlers Hotel.

Addressing the group, Thurlo Newell, Denver district sales manager, discussed the automotive market for Ford's total performance" concept. He asked the 10 of those present to drive the cars for one week as guests of Ford to "judge for yourselves what we mean by total performance in a car."

"We think total performance expresses better than any other phrase we could find, our conviction that performance in a car means different things to different people," the Ford executive said. "What's more, we think we — and every other manufacturer, too, for that matter—have an obligation to provide cars that deliver what the various buyers want in the way of performance.

"We decided to put our cars to the test before the public in events operated by agencies and organizations accepted by the public, and let the car buyers draw their own conclusions," Mr. Newell said.

"Putting your product into action in a public event," he continued, "has its rough going as well as its victories. For one thing, you're right out in front of the world if anything goes wrong."

"It also leaves you wide open to critics who misunderstand — or misrepresent — performance. Our position is that a performance race is not necessarily a speed race. It is an all-round competition to provide the motorist with the qualities he seeks in his transportation—improved durability and reliability, greater economy of operation and — perhaps above all — greater responsiveness.

"In the final analysis," Mr. Newell said, "it comes right down to this: The United States has unquestioned leadership and a worldwide reputation for mass producing automobiles. We hope to contribute to a new recognition of this country as a producer of automobiles bearing the stamp of greatness — of automobiles that give more total performance per pound than those built anywhere else in the world."

Contemporary Art Exhibited At Kaufman's

Kaufman's is currently featuring the Formfit Collection of Contemporary Art in its windows and in displays thruout the store. The public is invited to view the paintings.

The collection came into being at the suggestion of visitors to the home offices of Formfit in Chicago and at the company's New York fashion headquarters. In Chicago, modern art hangs in most of the offices, the conference rooms and the workrooms of the designing staff. In New York all the offices, the reception rooms and showrooms are lined with original works of art collected by the president of Formfit, Sigmund W. Kunstadter, and his wife on their trips thru America and Europe. The Formfit Collection does not represent any particular school but simply consists of a contemporary selection which is appealing in both color and form.

There are 15 paintings in the collection and the artists represented are from both America and Europe. Most all are young and all of the paintings have been completed in the last decade. With the exception of a gouche, all are oils.

Since good taste and fashion re ae-tocbdarealimoa reXX are more readily acceptable today than ever before, it is the feeling of The Formfit Company that the collection can be accepted and enjoyed by the layman as well as the educated critic. The collection made its debut at Miller and Paine in Lincoln, Neb., and has since travelled to such stores as the Emporium in San Francisco, Carson Pirie Scott and Company in Chicago, Stern's in New York City and Frederick and Nelson in Seattle.

The Formfit Company, headquarted in Chicago, is one of the world's largest manufacturers of bras and girdles. The company maintains six domestic plants as well as plants in Australia, England, France, Canada, Columbia and Jamaica.

The collection will be on view until Tuesday.

UF Donors Described on the Generous Side

Representatives of givers to the Pikes Peak United Fund were guests of the Colorado Springs Clearing House Association in an appreciation luncheon during which the Pikes Peak Region was described as "on the generous side" by J. D. Ackerman, president of the Exchange National Bank. He presided as the current president of the clearing house.

H. Chase Stone, president of the First National Bank, urged those present to lend their support to plans for building a reserve fund into the United Fund against periods of unemployment and economic decline. He said that the United Fund should expect agencies to hold the line on budgets during periods of prosperity.

Both Ackerman and Stone emphasized that the United Fund is an organization of givers and added that the givers must use their authority to assist agencies in evaluation goals and budgeting to meet proven needs. Both felt that any increase in United Fund goal must be based on "proven needs."

True C. Adams, president of the United Fund, praised the Bank Clearing House Association for its leadership in organizing the United Fund and for its continued support.

Ackerman credited the El Pomar Foundation and its representative Chase Stone for giving the drive an initial boost each year by subscribing 10 per cent of the goal.

K. G. Freyschlag, chairman of the past campaign, also thanked the generous givers and reminded corporations that formal awards to Go clubs and employee groups will be presented at the annual meeting June 20.

The meeting was attended by 80 individuals and business representatives whose firms or organizations achieved a high rate of support the last campaign.

Students Involved In Two Assault Cases Wednesday

Police this morning reported two separate cases of assault involving East Junior High School students. Both incidents occurred Wednesday at Palmer Park and Union Boulevards.

Steven Mark Rindahl, 14, of 1909 Trent St., was taken to the Ent AFB Dispensary for treatment after being kicked in the head three times by another boy. No word on the extent of his injuries was available at press time.

Police Officer A. W. Dalton, who questioned Rindahl at the dispensary, said Rindahl told him he got into an argument with a 15-year old East Junior High School student during the lunch hour and a third youth came up and hit Rindahl in the mouth.

The two wrestled on the ground for a time and then Rindahl blacked out. A friend of Rindahl's later told him the youths had hicked him in the head.

In the other assault case, David Charles Goss, 15, of 1627 Clemson Dr., was knocked to the ground by an unidentified youth shortly before noon.

Goss told Patrolman Dalton that he was standing on the corner of Palmer Park and Union when a red and white car, license number GU-8846, drove up and six youths in the car started to make wisecracks about the hat he was wearing.

One of the youths got out of the car and told Goss to take the hat off. When Goss refused, the youth hit him, knocking him to the ground. The youth then got back in the car and left. Goss said his watch was broken in the scuffle.

Eagle Will Drop Denver-St. Louis Thru Run Jan. 31

Thru service on the Colorado Eagle passenger train between St. Louis and Denver, serving Colorado Springs, will be discontinued Jan. 31 by the Missouri Pacific.

Beginning Feb. 1, the Eagle will operate between St. Louis and Pueblo, but the Rio Grande Railroad will continue coach service between Denver and Pueblo to connect with the eastbound and westbound Eagles.

The Eagle now operates as Rio Grande trains 3 and 4 between Pueblo and Denver, offering sleeper, diner and coach service. Only coach service will be available, however, after the end of the month.

The last Colorado Eagle westbound to Denver will be that leaving Kansas City on Jan. 30 and the last Colorado Eagle eastbound will be that leaving Denver Jan. 31.

Rio Grande No. 3, southbound, will leave Denver at 4:05 and Colorado Springs at 5:55 p.m., just as the Eagle does now, to connect with the Missouri Pacific in Pueblo. Rio Grande No. 4 will arrive in Colorado Springs at 8:38 a.m. with Missouri Pacific passengers.

A Rio Grande official in Denver said, "We're sort of a victim of circumstances. We have no part in this action, but there isn't anything we can do about it."

The Eagle now uses Rio Grande tracks northbound and Rio Grande tracks southbound between Denver and Pueblo.

Management Expects Higher Wage Demands

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Management is getting set for higher wage demands this year. The emphasis last year turned to job security. Before that fringe benefits added to total labor costs at a faster rate than did the increase in wages and salaries.

Job security is still a prime concern in many labor contracts up for negotiation this year and a worry to countless other workers. And the scope and cost of fringe benefits also is sure to grow.

But union leaders have been saying the impressive profit gains of 1963 should be the basis in 1964 for more liberal wage scales as well as for higher dividends.

At least two million workers will receive raises this year automatically under continuing contracts. Another two million are covered by contracts that boost scales when the cost of living goes up, as it does most years and well may in 1964.

But two million workers are involved in contracts expiring in 1964 and many more in pacts that can be reopened. It is here that management is on notice that business prosperity is sharpening the appetite of workers for a bigger share of the earnings.

The average increase in such wage scales will be known only after the negotiation battles have been fought.

Management can be sure of one thing, however. The trend of total payments for employe security will be upward. And the increase in the past five years has been impressive.

The breakdown shows employers paying $9.8 billion into private pension and welfare funds, against $8.1 billion in 1959. In the five years, Old Age, Survivors and Disability Insurance climbed to $6.5 billion from $4.4 billion. Taxes and contributions for unemployment insurance came to $4.7 billion in 1963, and $2.7 billion in 1959. Compensation for injuries was more stable—$1.6 billion in 1963 and $1.2 billion five years ago.

Fringe benefits include many other things. Paid vacations and longer ones have been spreading in industry. Sabbatical leaves for veteran employes got considerable attention in 1963. Profit-sharing plans are being tried in some companies to offset the inroads of automation.

Shorter work weeks and increased overtime pay scales are being demanded as another phase of job security.

But just old-fashioned wage scale boosts also seem coming back into style.

Bullet Pierces Door Of Local Residence

A bullet was shot thru the rear door of the home of Paul J. Moore, 1723 Chelton Rd., police reported this morning.

The vandalism occurred Wednesday evening when Moore heard the slug, probably shot from a .22 caliber rifle, hit the door.

Police said the slug went thru an inch-thick board in the door and then hit the metal framing of the patio doors, spending itself between the outside and inside walls of the house. The amount of the damage is unknown.

Exchange Bank Resources Total $40,494,392

Colorado Springs' Exchange National Bank had resources totaling $40,494,392.38 at the close of business Dec. 31, the financial institution reported in a statement of condition included in its annual report, just issued.

Loans and discounts totaled $18,293,364.65, of which $177,412.78 was loaned on farm land, $870,100.16 on residential properties and $2,596,704.74 on business and other properties. Other loans, including overdrafts, totaled $201,938.97.

Deposits at the end of the year totaled $36,905,018.08.

Resources of the Exchange National on Dec. 31, 1888, totaled $159,466.10, and 10 years ago $21,506,900.06.

Discussing the Pikes Peak Region's growth, J. D. Ackerman, bank president, said in a statement in the report that "more growth appears just around the corner.

"It is our sincere hope that with the continued help of our many friends and customers the Exchange National Bank will share in and contribute to this growth."

Ackerman said that "Colorado Springs appears to be 'growing up,' pointing to the new industries locating here and to expansion of others already here, and to the military establishments in the area.

He said the bank today serves twice as many customers as five years ago.

Springs Solon Leads Off With Three Bills

Rep. Norman Ohlson of Colorado Springs fired three bills at the legislature Wednesday after Gov. John A. Love opened the way for consideration of motor vehicle laws.

One of the bills calls for mandatory jail sentences for Colorado motorists involved in auto accidents while driving with a suspended operator's license.

The other bills would permit small truckers to pay their gross ton-mile tax less frequently, and would allow the Revenue Department to destroy damage records in traffic accident cases after three years instead of the present 10.

Ohlson, chairman of the House transportation Committee, co-sponsored the bill tightening traffic controls with four members of the committee. Two are Republicans, as is Ohlson, and two are Democrats.

The bill fixes the penalty from one day to six months in jail, at the discretion of the judge, plus a fine of $50 to $500.

The mandatory jail sentence and fine would apply to any person driving while his license was under suspension, cancellation or revocation, if he is convicted of leaving the scene of an accident, driving while intoxicated or driving under the influence of drugs.

The Transportation Committee met within minutes after the bill was presented to the House of Representatives and ordered it printed, a step preliminary to legislative consideration.

Ohlson said the only suggestion made in the committee was that the penalty should be made more severe.

In introducing the bill to permit small truckers to pay their gross ton-mile tax less frequently, Ohlson pointed out that some of these payments amount to $20 or less.

He said that his bill would reduce by 22 per cent the number of documents which the Revenue Department examines annually. The law now requires monthly payments.

Before a trucker could make less frequent payments, he would have to get permission of the revenue director.

Advertising Club Members Will 'Test Drive' Fords

Ten members of the Pikes Peak Advertising Club became honorary "test drivers" Wednesday for Ford Motor Co.

The 10 were chosen at a meeting of the association at the Antlers Hotel, and each will "test drive" a Ford for the next week.

Named were Ed Corbin of Holly Sugar Corp.; George Haver, Vince Palmieri and Herb Johnson of the Gazette Telegraph; Ed Richardson of Richardson and Associates; Bob Lebsack of Sears; Scotty Glasgow of Scotty Glasgow Advertising Agency; Jean Best, secretary of the club; John Hoff of the Colorado Commercial Bank, and George Marvin of the Antlers Hotel.

Addressing the group, Thurlo Newell, Denver district sales manager, discussed the automotive market for Ford's total performance" concept. He asked the 10 of those present to drive the cars for one week as guests of Ford to "judge for yourselves what we mean by total performance in a car."

"We think total performance expresses better than any other phrase we could find, our conviction that performance in a car means different things to different people," the Ford executive said. "What's more, we think we — and every other manufacturer, too, for that matter—have an obligation to provide cars that deliver what the various buyers want in the way of performance.

"We decided to put our cars to the test before the public in events operated by agencies and organizations accepted by the public, and let the car buyers draw their own conclusions," Mr. Newell said.

"Putting your product into action in a public event," he continued, "has its rough going as well as its victories. For one thing, you're right out in front of the world if anything goes wrong."

"It also leaves you wide open to critics who misunderstand — or misrepresent — performance. Our position is that a performance race is not necessarily a speed race. It is an all-round competition to provide the motorist with the qualities he seeks in his transportation—improved durability and reliability, greater economy of operation and — perhaps above all — greater responsiveness.

"In the final analysis," Mr. Newell said, "it comes right down to this: The United States has unquestioned leadership and a worldwide reputation for mass producing automobiles. We hope to contribute to a new recognition of this country as a producer of automobiles bearing the stamp of greatness — of automobiles that give more total performance per pound than those built anywhere else in the world."

Contemporary Art Exhibited At Kaufman's

Kaufman's is currently featuring the Formfit Collection of Contemporary Art in its windows and in displays thruout the store. The public is invited to view the paintings.

The collection came into being at the suggestion of visitors to the home offices of Formfit in Chicago and at the company's New York fashion headquarters. In Chicago, modern art hangs in most of the offices, the conference rooms and the workrooms of the designing staff. In New York all the offices, the reception rooms and showrooms are lined with original works of art collected by the president of Formfit, Sigmund W. Kunstadter, and his wife on their trips thru America and Europe. The Formfit Collection does not represent any particular school but simply consists of a contemporary selection which is appealing in both color and form.

There are 15 paintings in the collection and the artists represented are from both America and Europe. Most all are young and all of the paintings have been completed in the last decade. With the exception of a gouche, all are oils.

Since good taste and fashion re ae-tocbdarealimoa reXX are more readily acceptable today than ever before, it is the feeling of The Formfit Company that the collection can be accepted and enjoyed by the layman as well as the educated critic. The collection made its debut at Miller and Paine in Lincoln, Neb., and has since travelled to such stores as the Emporium in San Francisco, Carson Pirie Scott and Company in Chicago, Stern's in New York City and Frederick and Nelson in Seattle.

The Formfit Company, headquarted in Chicago, is one of the world's largest manufacturers of bras and girdles. The company maintains six domestic plants as well as plants in Australia, England, France, Canada, Columbia and Jamaica.

The collection will be on view until Tuesday.

UF Donors Described on the Generous Side

Representatives of givers to the Pikes Peak United Fund were guests of the Colorado Springs Clearing House Association in an appreciation luncheon during which the Pikes Peak Region was described as "on the generous side" by J. D. Ackerman, president of the Exchange National Bank. He presided as the current president of the clearing house.

H. Chase Stone, president of the First National Bank, urged those present to lend their support to plans for building a reserve fund into the United Fund against periods of unemployment and economic decline. He said that the United Fund should expect agencies to hold the line on budgets during periods of prosperity.

Both Ackerman and Stone emphasized that the United Fund is an organization of givers and added that the givers must use their authority to assist agencies in evaluation goals and budgeting to meet proven needs. Both felt that any increase in United Fund goal must be based on "proven needs."

True C. Adams, president of the United Fund, praised the Bank Clearing House Association for its leadership in organizing the United Fund and for its continued support.

Ackerman credited the El Pomar Foundation and its representative Chase Stone for giving the drive an initial boost each year by subscribing 10 per cent of the goal.

K. G. Freyschlag, chairman of the past campaign, also thanked the generous givers and reminded corporations that formal awards to Go clubs and employee groups will be presented at the annual meeting June 20.

The meeting was attended by 80 individuals and business representatives whose firms or organizations achieved a high rate of support the last campaign.

Students Involved In Two Assault Cases Wednesday

Police this morning reported two separate cases of assault involving East Junior High School students. Both incidents occurred Wednesday at Palmer Park and Union Boulevards.

Steven Mark Rindahl, 14, of 1909 Trent St., was taken to the Ent AFB Dispensary for treatment after being kicked in the head three times by another boy. No word on the extent of his injuries was available at press time.

Police Officer A. W. Dalton, who questioned Rindahl at the dispensary, said Rindahl told him he got into an argument with a 15-year old East Junior High School student during the lunch hour and a third youth came up and hit Rindahl in the mouth.

The two wrestled on the ground for a time and then Rindahl blacked out. A friend of Rindahl's later told him the youths had hicked him in the head.

In the other assault case, David Charles Goss, 15, of 1627 Clemson Dr., was knocked to the ground by an unidentified youth shortly before noon.

Goss told Patrolman Dalton that he was standing on the corner of Palmer Park and Union when a red and white car, license number GU-8846, drove up and six youths in the car started to make wisecracks about the hat he was wearing.

One of the youths got out of the car and told Goss to take the hat off. When Goss refused, the youth hit him, knocking him to the ground. The youth then got back in the car and left. Goss said his watch was broken in the scuffle.

Eagle Will Drop Denver-St. Louis Thru Run Jan. 31

Thru service on the Colorado Eagle passenger train between St. Louis and Denver, serving Colorado Springs, will be discontinued Jan. 31 by the Missouri Pacific.

Beginning Feb. 1, the Eagle will operate between St. Louis and Pueblo, but the Rio Grande Railroad will continue coach service between Denver and Pueblo to connect with the eastbound and westbound Eagles.

The Eagle now operates as Rio Grande trains 3 and 4 between Pueblo and Denver, offering sleeper, diner and coach service. Only coach service will be available, however, after the end of the month.

The last Colorado Eagle westbound to Denver will be that leaving Kansas City on Jan. 30 and the last Colorado Eagle eastbound will be that leaving Denver Jan. 31.

Rio Grande No. 3, southbound, will leave Denver at 4:05 and Colorado Springs at 5:55 p.m., just as the Eagle does now, to connect with the Missouri Pacific in Pueblo. Rio Grande No. 4 will arrive in Colorado Springs at 8:38 a.m. with Missouri Pacific passengers.

A Rio Grande official in Denver said, "We're sort of a victim of circumstances. We have no part in this action, but there isn't anything we can do about it."

The Eagle now uses Rio Grande tracks northbound and Rio Grande tracks southbound between Denver and Pueblo.

Management Expects Higher Wage Demands

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Management is getting set for higher wage demands this year. The emphasis last year turned to job security. Before that fringe benefits added to total labor costs at a faster rate than did the increase in wages and salaries.

Job security is still a prime concern in many labor contracts up for negotiation this year and a worry to countless other workers. And the scope and cost of fringe benefits also is sure to grow.

But union leaders have been saying the impressive profit gains of 1963 should be the basis in 1964 for more liberal wage scales as well as for higher dividends.

At least two million workers will receive raises this year automatically under continuing contracts. Another two million are covered by contracts that boost scales when the cost of living goes up, as it does most years and well may in 1964.

But two million workers are involved in contracts expiring in 1964 and many more in pacts that can be reopened. It is here that management is on notice that business prosperity is sharpening the appetite of workers for a bigger share of the earnings.

The average increase in such wage scales will be known only after the negotiation battles have been fought.

Management can be sure of one thing, however. The trend of total payments for employe security will be upward. And the increase in the past five years has been impressive.

The breakdown shows employers paying $9.8 billion into private pension and welfare funds, against $8.1 billion in 1959. In the five years, Old Age, Survivors and Disability Insurance climbed to $6.5 billion from $4.4 billion. Taxes and contributions for unemployment insurance came to $4.7 billion in 1963, and $2.7 billion in 1959. Compensation for injuries was more stable—$1.6 billion in 1963 and $1.2 billion five years ago.

Fringe benefits include many other things. Paid vacations and longer ones have been spreading in industry. Sabbatical leaves for veteran employes got considerable attention in 1963. Profit-sharing plans are being tried in some companies to offset the inroads of automation.

Shorter work weeks and increased overtime pay scales are being demanded as another phase of job security.

But just old-fashioned wage scale boosts also seem coming back into style.

Bullet Pierces Door Of Local Residence

A bullet was shot thru the rear door of the home of Paul J. Moore, 1723 Chelton Rd., police reported this morning.

The vandalism occurred Wednesday evening when Moore heard the slug, probably shot from a .22 caliber rifle, hit the door.

Police said the slug went thru an inch-thick board in the door and then hit the metal framing of the patio doors, spending itself between the outside and inside walls of the house. The amount of the damage is unknown.

Exchange Bank Resources Total $40,494,392

Colorado Springs' Exchange National Bank had resources totaling $40,494,392.38 at the close of business Dec. 31, the financial institution reported in a statement of condition included in its annual report, just issued.

Loans and discounts totaled $18,293,364.65, of which $177,412.78 was loaned on farm land, $870,100.16 on residential properties and $2,596,704.74 on business and other properties. Other loans, including overdrafts, totaled $201,938.97.

Deposits at the end of the year totaled $36,905,018.08.

Resources of the Exchange National on Dec. 31, 1888, totaled $159,466.10, and 10 years ago $21,506,900.06.

Discussing the Pikes Peak Region's growth, J. D. Ackerman, bank president, said in a statement in the report that "more growth appears just around the corner.

"It is our sincere hope that with the continued help of our many friends and customers the Exchange National Bank will share in and contribute to this growth."

Ackerman said that "Colorado Springs appears to be 'growing up,' pointing to the new industries locating here and to expansion of others already here, and to the military establishments in the area.

He said the bank today serves twice as many customers as five years ago.

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — An ancient anchor dating back to the third century B.C. has been found in 70 feet of water near Mondello. Experts said it probably belonged to either the large Cartheginian or Roman fleets which fought in the Gulf of Palermo from 264 to 241 A.D. in the First Punic War.

Whim of Iron Characteristic Of Actress

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don't let Yvette Mimieux' wispy manner fool you. Behind those limpid eyes lies a whim of iron.

Her agents found that out this week when she fired them.

Her studio will soon be discovering it as she asks for a new deal.

Interviewers inevitably encounter it when they ask her about personal matters.

Yvette is now shopping for agents, and the new team will have the assignment of adjusting her contract with MGM. It has only two more years to run, but the winsome blonde yearns to be free earlier from the studio's exclusive control.

"Last year MGM presented me with six different scripts, and all of them were fantastic," she commented. "I couldn't possibly do them, and I told the studio so. As far as I can see, there is nothing out there for me in the future. So why shouldn't I be free to take some of the attractive possibilities that come along on the outside."

With an eye to her future freedom, she is incorporating herself and plans to buy story properties which she could play. She had despaired of getting MGM to do the same. She discovered the novel "Lilith" and sent copies to all the studio bigwigs. Nothing happened. Robert Rossen snapped it up and made it for Columbia.

Yvette's last two films have been for other companies—"Diamond Head" and "Toys in The Attic." But she did return to the parent lot for—surprise—a television show.

It's a surprise because the girl has long held out against television on principle.

Yvette is in a special "Dr. Kildare," being a two-parter called "Tyger-Tyger." She plays a surfing enthusiast who refuses to give up her board even though a mild epilepsy attack makes it appear the sport would be dangerous for her.

During the filming she became better acquainted with the young doctor, Richard Chamberlain. They have since gone on dates to the opera and elsewhere. Yvette also showed up at a movie premiere with George Hamilton.

This would indicate that her marriage to psychologist Evan Engber, which she has never admitted, is on the rocks.

This being a new year, it was time for my annual inquiry about her marital status.

The reply was in her usual style: an enigmatic smile and a faraway look.

Three Sentenced on Larceny Charges

ALAMOSA (AP) — Two men and a 17-year-old boy were sentenced by Dist. Judge George H. Blickhahn today for grand larceny.

They were convicted of carting a safe containing $660 from a pool hall on Thanksgiving Day. The safe was found 10 miles east of Alamosa. Only $23 of the money was recovered.

Amos Maes, 24, of Pueblo was given a sentence of one to five years, to be served after he finishes serving 24 months for breaking parole.

Timonthy Tafoya, 23, of Colorado Springs drew a one-to-five-year term, and the boy was sent to the state reformatory for an indeterminate term.

Nikita May Have Found New Soviet Crown Prince

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA) — Nikita Khrushchev has found himself a new Red Crown Prince. According to the Kremlinologists, his most likely successor will be Leonid Brezhnev, 57, president of the Soviet Union.

The question of how and to whom power would be transferred in the event of Khrushchev's death or retirement seems to have been under close scrutiny in Moscow since the assassination of President Kennedy.

The Soviet premier, 70, has hinted that he is not "immortal." "After all, I cannot hold the party and the government forever," he told a workers' conference in Moscow.

Beset by domestic economic troubles and the mounting conflict with Red China, Khrushchev is also reported to be suffering from fatigue.

But what guarantee does he have that the man he personally designated as heir-apparent will actually succeed him?

Less than two hours after John F. Kennedy's death Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was sworn in as President and acknowledged as the new leader of the United States. Despite the historic tragedy, the constitutional process remained steadfast.

But orderly succession is not provided for in the Soviet constitution. The nature of the succession in the Red dictatorship is such that each new leader in the past has gained his power supremacy inside the Communist party aparatus after considerable intrigue, strife and blood-letting.

When Lenin died, Leon Trotsky was regarded as his logical successor. Yet it was the obscure and "mediocre" Stalin who outmaneuvered Trotsky.

After Stalin's death in 1953, the most powerful men in Russia were Lavrenti Beria, chief of the secret police, Georgi Malenkov, secretary of the Communist party, and Vyacheslav Molotov, Lenin's close collaborator. Yet the unknown Khrushchev eventually outwitted them all.

Khrusuchev once hinted in conversations with Western diplomats that he considered Frol Kozlov as his heir - apparent. But Kozlov disappeared from the Soviet political scene last April when he reportedly suffered a stroke.

To be sure, the "paralyzed" Kozlov was re-elected as a member of the all - powerful Presidium at the recent meeting of the Central Committee of the Russian Communist party.

In addition to Brezhnev and Kozlov, others in the party currently are fighting for power in the Kremlin. Prominent among them is Nikolai Podgorny, a Ukrainian like Khrushchev, Vasily Poliakov, chief of the party's agricultural committee, and that old Stalinist, Mikhail Suslov.

The darkest horse of them all is Leonid Ilychev, a sinister-looking little man who is Khrushchev's top propagandist and ideological whip. He has been climbing steadily to the top in recent months.

Khrushchev might want Brezhnev to succeed him should he pass from the political scene in 1964. But his real successor is likely to be the man who will prove himself only after the passing of the Soviet premier.

Woman Better Bargainer for Auto Repairs

CHICAGO (AP)—If the family car needs fixing, better let the wife bargain for the repair job.

An $80,000 survey released Wednesday apparently confirmed what automobile repairmen have suspected all along: Women drivers are harder to deal with than men.

And, says the survey, it's all because women don't understand things mechanical. But most of them freely discuss the repair job and auto parts.

The study was conducted by the Automobile Service Industry Association and the Automotive Advertiser's Council to determine why people buy auto parts and how they respond to specific advertising, said Al Joseph, study committee chairman.

"Many women do not feel any shame at their ignorance of things mechanical," explained Joseph. "They, therefore, have no reluctance to question their repair outlet on price, work done, the reason for repair and the like."

But Joseph said that when it comes to men, who are supposedly mechanically inclined, they "are ashamed of their lack of knowledge and try to hide it.

It's because of this, said Joseph, that men are easier to do business with.

Outer Mongolia Shows Rapid Economic Changes

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

ULAN BATOR, Outer Mongolia (AP) — The Mongolian horseman gallops across the prairie, his long pole with a leather thong loop at the end held out to catch a horse from his herd racing ahead of him.

The ear flaps of his fur-lined cap wave in the icy winter air, a sheepskin robe is wrapped tightly around him and high boots ride in stirrups. Finally he catches the horse, twists the leather thong around the pole to tighten the loop, and leads it back and ties it up by his yurt.

It is a timeless scene. It happened the other day—but it also happened 700 years ago when the horseman was a member of Genghis Khan's army.

Since that army terrorized the Western world, other scenes have come and gone on the plains and deserts of Outer Mongolia.

Modern Mongolia, a Communist-run nation known as the Mongolian People's Republic, is hanging rapidly. Government-owned agriculture and industry are taking their places in the economy with the tending of livestock.

The economic development is generally along Russian lines with extensive Russian aid and advice. Mongolia owes its present independent existence to the Soviet Union. In the 1920s it became the first Soviet satellite.

Siding by habit with Moscow, Mongolia is now sufferng economic effects of the split between the Soviet Union and China, its two neighbors.

For 1,700 miles northern Mongolia is bordered by Siberia. On its other sides Mongolia shares a 2,700-mile border with China.

Part of this border, separating Outer Mongolia from Inner Mongolia—which is part of China—runs through the Gobi Desert. Its scrub growth and patches of gravel and sand dunes are the best known physical feature of Mongolia. But there is much more.

In 626,000 square miles—almost 2½ times as big as Texas—there are broad, rolling prairies. There are low, bare hills and higher, forested hills and the vaulting Altai Mountains that reach 15,000 feet.

Wandering over much of Mongolia are about 24 million head of livestock, more than half sheep. The two-humped camel of Mongolia still carries some of the freight. Most goes by truck on tracks across the prairies and deserts and a few stretches of prepared roads in mountains.

Soon after Communists took control of Mongolia in 1921 they tried to follow the Soviet example of rural collectivization. It took Soviet troops to put down, with loss of thousands of Mongolian lives, the rebellion of herdsmen and lamas of the Tibetan form of Buddhism who held extensive temporal power. Buddhism was crushed and virtually eliminated but the government backed off on collectivization.

It had, however, established its power to remold the people into a Communist pattern.

By the mid-1950s it had so strengthened its system of cooperatives and state farms with schools, hospitals and veterinary services that it was able peacefully to gather all livestock under government control.

The traditional nomadic life of the herdsman now revolves around a cooperative or state farm headquarters of permanent buildings. A family tending livestock in some remote part of a cooperative, which might cover 1½ million cres, shifts its yurt from one seasonal pasture to another. The children 8 or older go off to boarding school at the headquarters.

Ulan Bator has expanded from a village of yurts around a monastery to a city of 218,000 persons, half or more living in modern apartment buildings. In addition to being the capital, it is the first and until recently the only significant industrial city in Mongolia. The second is now being built at Darhan around a steel plant.

In the countryside most people wear the traditional belted robes that show the long Chinese influence. In Ulan Bator three-quarters of the people wear Western clothes. Their woolens were made here on machinery from Britain; their shoes on Czech machinery.

The relative prosperity is striking to a traveler familiar with underdeveloped countries of Asia to the south of Mongolia.

Neither an experienced outside observer living here nor a traveler can sense any regret over the Communist course. There is no sign of opposition to the regime of the 48-year-old prime minister and Communist party leader, Yumzhagin Tsedenbal.

There is, instead, a strong sense of pride by a spirited people in the way this historic land is moving into the modern world.

Scranton Wants to Talk on U.S. Issues

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. William Scranton, mentioned as a possible Republican presidential candidate, says he wants to tell all candidates his feelings on national issues.

The Pennsylvania governor said Tuesday he plans to meet soon with Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, one of the announced candidates for the GOP nomination.

"I want to tell him how I feel about national and local issues," Scranton said in a taped radio broadcast over station KDKA. "In fact, I'd like all the candidates to know how I feel."

The United States baking industry employs 299,000 persons with a yearly payroll of $1.3 billion.

Man Charged With Italian Bomb Plot

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Police arrested Franco Grassi, 45, today and said he claimed to have arranged to bomb the Milan cathedral to protest the pilgrimage of Pope Paul VI to the Holy Land.

Authorities said Grassi, a Milan resident, also was involved in the 1947 theft of Benito Mussolini's body by a group of diehard Fascists.

The Gothic cathedral was searched before dawn but no bomb was found.

Authorities did not say why Grassi objected to the papal pilgrimage. Pope Paul was archbishop of Milan before he was elected Pope last June.

Police gave no details on Grassi's alleged role in the theft of Mussolini's body.

Outer Mongolia Shows Rapid Economic Changes

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

The ear flaps of his fur-lined cap wave in the icy winter air, a sheepskin robe is wrapped tightly around him and high boots ride in stirrups. Finally he catches the horse, twists the leather thong around the pole to tighten the loop, and leads it back and ties it up by his yurt.

Then this Mongol cowboy goes into the yurt, a round tent with wooden frame, for a warming bowl of the nation drink, kumis made of fermented mares' milk.

It is a timeless scene. It happened the other day—but it also happened 700 years ago when the horseman was a member of Genghis Khan's army.

Since that army terrorized the Western world, other scenes have come and gone on the plains and deserts of Outer Mongolia.

Modern Mongolia, a Communist-run nation known as the Mongolian People's Republic, is hanging rapidly. Government-owned agriculture and industry are taking their places in the economy with the tending of livestock.

The economic development is generally along Russian lines with extensive Russian aid and advice. Mongolia owes its present independent existence to the Soviet Union. In the 1920s it became the first Soviet satellite.

Siding by habit with Moscow, Mongolia is now sufferng economic effects of the split between the Soviet Union and China, its two neighbors.

For 1,700 miles northern Mongolia is bordered by Siberia. On its other sides Mongolia shares a 2,700-mile border with China.

Part of this border, separating Outer Mongolia from Inner Mongolia—which is part of China—runs through the Gobi Desert. Its scrub growth and patches of gravel and sand dunes are the best known physical feature of Mongolia. But there is much more.

Old Fashions Crop Up Again In New York

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

Just how old the fashion was depended on the designer's mood. Most, like Ann Klein of Junior Sophisticates, still are enchanted with the roaring '20s when saucy hipster waists, flouncy skirts, and shoestring shoulder straps were the rage.

Borrowed from the sexy '30s are bias-shaped dresses that reveal every figure fault, as well as plunging necklines, and cascades of feathers and plumes. Jacquew Tiffeau winked at this era in designing midnight black dinner gowns modeled for the house of Monte Sano-Pruzan.

Chalk-striped dandy suits date to the depression days — and bolder versions to the turn of the century. But filmy blouses with lacy bibs are out of great-grandmother's family album.

So are those lace-curtain-like panels which Ann Klein and Tiffeau both have stitched into fragile gowns. This same old fashioned-girl influence appeared time and again as models cuddled up in shawls, or gussied themselves up to the neck and down to the wrists and hemlines in ruffles.

But it was designer Vera Maxwell who drove home the message that old clothes well-chosen can be worn 10 to 15 year without revealing their age.

Slash jackets, coats that ease over hips, classic sheaths with busbey jackets, princess dreses, coachman and Chesterfield coats—all took to the runways without looking a day older than the current collections.

Yet they were costumes garnered from the closets of Miss Maxwell's friends, and still in use, with a little hemming, for lo those many years.

Her current collection, sure to be in vogue a dozen years hence, featured India raw silk shirt shifts in shade of orange, pink and yellow that do wonderful things for redheads.

New York, Chicago and Philadelphia all have lost population in the past 10 years.

New Gas Processing Plant Is Installed

DENVER (UPI)—The Atlantic Refining Co. today announced it has put into operation a new gas processing plant in Fremont County, Wyo., with a capacity of 35 million cubic feet of natural gas a day.

The plant, located in the Riverton Dome Field, will process gas from approximately 4,000 acres on a 100 per cent Atlantic-owned operation. An integral part of the gas processing operation is a 12-long-ton-per-day sulphur recovery unit.

Penrose News

By PEGGY SANDEFUR

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Little announced the arrival of their first son, born Dec. 8. He tipped the scales at seven pounds two ounces and has been named Gregory Alan. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Little and Mr. and Mrs. John Ratkovich Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kemp of Hotchkiss, Colo., announced the arrival of their first child, Toja Kaye, Dec. 3. She weighed a little over 6 pounds. The Kemps worked for the Ratkes for quite some time. Mr. and Mrs. William Kemp of Cannon City, are the paternal grandparents.

R.E. Stebbins, local Justice of the Peace, united in marriage John Leonard Dionesio, Jr. and Donna Kaye Fesmire, both of Pueblo. The witnesses were Thomas Dionesio and Sheila Sullivan. The ceremony took place in the Stebbins home at 8 p.m. Thanksgiving eve, Nov. 25.

Officers elected for the coming year at the Penrose Home Demonstration Club were: Mrs. John Bowser, president; Mrs. George Stephes, vice president; Mrs. Clyde Williams, secretary, and Mrs. Marvin Ham, treasurer. The club met last Tuesday.

The Christmas dinner featured Luaw. All of the members wore Hawaiian dresses, most of them in maumaus. Mrs. Elmer Werner chose a halomer, which she made; Mrs. Whittiaker a sarang, which she made. All enjoyed the very different preparation of the traditional Christmas dinner. The table decorations were pine boughs with Hawaiian flowers among them on the head table set a beautiful "Bird of Paradise," which was loaned to Mrs. Werner for the occasion by Mrs. Lucille DeVries of Pueblo, who works there for various floral shops. Most of the members exchanged gifts as did the children. All said "Alahoa" around 2:30 p.m.

Sgt. Darryl Fields was discharged from the army Saturday before Christmas, a day which the Fields have long been waiting for.

Mrs. John Sandefur has been elected vice grand for the insuing year in the orders of the Rebekahs, Independent order of Oddfellows. Installation is to be on Jan. 3.

Mrs. Rose Little and Gregory were honored at a baby shower at the Orlin Fields home Friday, Dec. 12. Mrs. Darryl Fileds and Mrs. Floyd Fields were the hostesses. Guests played two games. Winning the prizes were Mrs. Norma Carrithers, Mrs. Bernice Woods and Mrs. Sharon Sandefur. Advice was given the new mother on how to take care of her child. After Mrs. Little opened her gifts refreshments of ice cream, frozen in cupcake cups with citron and nuts, and cake decorated with a blue umbrella and coffee were served to the guests. The favors were small ceramic rattles, baby bottles and lambs, which the Fields had made. The prizes for the games were ceramic ashtrays which they had also made. There were about 25 ladies in attendance.

Mrs. Verna Werner was honored at a baby shower at the home of Mrs. Charles Wanns on Friday, December 13. The hostesses were Mrs. Wanns and Mrs. Clyde Williams. Refreshments of jello with whipped cream, coffee, tea and a cut up cake resembling a baby carriage were served to the six guests after Mrs. Werner opened her gifts.

The High Low Pinochle Club met at the home of Mrs. Verna McCallister for their regular meeting. All members were present except Mrs. Rose Little and Mrs. Donna Grueber. High went to Mrs. Glad McDowell, floater to Peggy Sandefur and low to Georgia Oxnam.

Charles Shadford and Ada Weichhand were honored at a bridal shower held at Grange Hall Wednesday last. The hosts were Mr. and Mrs. John Bowser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Picco and Mr. and Mrs. George Stephens. The tables were decorated with blue and yellow, with white wedding bells hanging over the tables. The favors were minature umbrellas filled with candy and nuts. The cake was blue and yellow flowers with double wedding rings. This was served along with yellow jello and blue whipped cream. This was for the faculty, curtodians, cooks school board members and the administration of the Penrose schools.

All of the churches, Baptist, Friends and Presbyterian, featured their Christmas program on the Sunday evening before Christmas. All reported a good attendance in spite of the bitter cold weather.

The Pollyanna party was held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Sandefur last Thursday evening. Mrs. Maurice Little was cohostess. Twenty-seven polyannas answered roll to what they were glad for. After a gift exchange and business meeting a kitchen shower was held in honor of Ada Weichhand. Refreshments were served after she opened her many gifts. They included oatmeal cake, ribbon jello salad, coffee and cranberry punch. Each guest was presented with a very clever Christmas corsage.

The Christmas program held at the school on Friday was well attended, as were the Christmas parties held during the day. The annual treats were passed out at these parties instead of at the evening program, as had been the custom in previous years.

The PEO Christmas party was held at the home of Mrs. May Gillespie last Thursday evening. After a delicious dinner they had a gift exchange and also presented Ada Weichhand with a beautiful full length mirror as a wedding gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Moore and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McCallister attended the Portland supervisors Christmas party, which was held at the Broken Spoke. After a gift exchange they played games and danced. There were 47 present.

Australia Reports Hot Weather Spell

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—It was 105.4 degrees in the shade at the Sydney Weather Bureau this morning, the hottest day since the 107 degrees of Jan. 26, 1961.

Longshoremen walked off a dozen ships claiming the holds and decks were too hot. Hundreds of automobiles stopped because of overheating.

American wives now average over three children each, according to the Population Reference Bureau.

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

Just how old the fashion was depended on the designer's mood. Most, like Ann Klein of Junior Sophisticates, still are enchanted with the roaring '20s when saucy hipster waists, flouncy skirts, and shoestring shoulder straps were the rage.

Borrowed from the sexy '30s are bias-shaped dresses that reveal every figure fault, as well as plunging necklines, and cascades of feathers and plumes. Jacques Tiffeau winked at this era in designing midnight black dinner gowns modeled for the house of Monte Sano-Pruzan.

Chalk-striped dandy suits date to the depression days — and bolder versions to the turn of the century. But Shirry blouses with lacy bibs are out of great-grandmother's family album.

So are those lace-curtain-like panels which Ann Klein and Tiffeau both have stitched into fragile gowns. This same old fashioned-girl influence appeared time and again as models cuddled up in shawls, or gussied themselves up to the neck and down to the wrists and hemlines in ruffles.

But it was designer Vera Maxwell who drove home the message that old clothes well-chosen can be worn 10 to 15 years without revealing their age.

Sash jackets, coats that ease over hips, classic sheaths with busboy jackets, princess dresses, coachman and Chesterfield coats—all took to the runways without looking a day older than the current collections.

Yet they were costumes garnered from the closets of Miss Maxwell's friends, and still in use, with a little hemming, for lo these many years.

Her current collection, sure to be in vogue a dozen years hence, featured India raw silk shirt shifts in shade of orange, pink and yellow that do wonderful things for redheads.

New York, Chicago and Philadelphia all have lost population in the past 10 years.

New Gas Processing Plant Is Installed

DENVER (UPI)—The Atlantic Refining Co. today announced it has put into operation a new gas processing plant in Fremont County, Wyo., with a capacity of 35 million cubic feet of natural gas a day.

The plant, located in the Riverton Dome Field, will process gas from approximately 4,000 acres on a 100 per cent Atlantic-owned operation. An integral part of the gas processing operation is a 12-long-ton-per-day sulphur recovery unit.

Penrose News

By PEGGY SANDEFUR

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Little announced the arrival of their first son, born Dec. 8. He tipped the scales at seven pounds two ounces and has been named Gregory Alan. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Little and Mr. and Mrs. John Ratkovich Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kemp of Hotchkiss, Colo., announced the arrival of their first child, Teja Kaye, Dec. 3. She weighed a little over 6 pounds. The Kemps worked for the Rathes for quite some time. Mr. and Mrs. William Kemp of Cannon City, are the paternal grandparents.

R.E. Stebbins, local Justice of the Peace, united in marriage John Leonard Dionesio, Jr. and Donna Kaye Fesmire, both of Pueblo. The witnesses were Thomas Dionesio and Sheila Sullivan. The ceremony took place in the Stebbins home at 8 p.m. Thanksgiving eve, Nov. 25.

Officers elected for the coming year at the Penrose Home Demonstration Club were: Mrs. John Bowser, president; Mrs. George Stephes, vice president; Mrs. Clyde Williams, secretary, and Mrs. Marvin Ham, treasurer. The club met last Tuesday.

The Christmas dinner featured Luaw. All of the members wore Hawaiian dresses, most of them in muumuus. Mrs. Elmer Werner chose a holomer, which she made; Mrs. Whittaker a sarang, which she made. All enjoyed the very different preparation of the traditional Christmas dinner. The table decorations were pine boughs with Hawaiian flowers among them on the head table set a beautiful "Bird of Paradise," which was loaned to Mrs. Werner for the occasion by Mrs. Lucille DeVries of Pueblo, who works there for various floral shops. Most of the members exchanged gifts as did the children. All said "Alahoa" around 2:30 p.m.

Sgt. Darryl Fields was discharged from the army Saturday before Christmas, a day which the Fields have long been waiting for.

Mrs. John Sandefur has been elected vice grand for the ensuing year in the orders of the Rebekahs, Independent order of Oddfellows. Installation is to be on Jan. 3.

Mrs. Rose Little and Gregory were honored at a baby shower at the Orlin Fields home Friday, Dec. 12. Mrs. Darryl Fileds and Mrs. Floyd Fields were the hostesses. Guests played two games. Winning the prizes were Mrs. Norma Carrithers, Mrs. Bernice Woods and Mrs. Sharon Sandefur. Advice was given the new mother on how to take care of her child. After Mrs. Little opened her gifts refreshments of ice cream, frozen in cupcake cups with citron and nuts, and cake decorated with a blue umbrella and coffee were served to the guests. The favors were small ceramic rattles, baby bottles and lambs, which the Fields had made. The prizes for the games were ceramic ashtrays which they had also made. There were about 25 ladies in attendance.

Mrs. Verna Werner was honored at a baby shower at the home of Mrs. Charles Wanns on Friday, December 13. The hostesses were Mrs. Wanns and Mrs. Clyde Williams. Refreshments of jello with whipped cream, coffee, tea and a cut up cake resembling a baby carriage were served to the six guests after Mrs. Werner opened her gifts.

The High Low Pinochle Club met at the home of Mrs. Verna McCallister for their regular meeting. All members were present except Mrs. Rose Little and Mrs. Donna Grueber. High went to Mrs. Glad McDowell, floater to Peggy Sandefur and low to Georgia Oxnam.

Charles Shadford and Ada Weichhand were honored at a bridal shower held at Grange Hall Wednesday last. The hosts were Mr. and Mrs. John Bowser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Picco and Mr. and Mrs. George Stephens. The tables were decorated with blue and yellow, with white wedding bells hanging over the tables. The favors were miniature umbrellas filled with candy and nuts. The cake was blue and yellow flowers with double wedding rings. This was served along with yellow jello and blue whipped cream. This was for the faculty, custodians, cooks school board members and the administration of the Penrose schools.

All of the churches, Baptist, Friends and Presbyterian, featured their Christmas program on the Sunday evening before Christmas. All reported a good attendance in spite of the bitter cold weather.

The Pollyanna party was held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Sandefur last Thursday evening. Mrs. Maurice Little was cohostess. Twenty-seven pollyannas answered roll to what they were glad for. After a gift exchange and business meeting a kitchen shower was held in honor of Ada Weichhand. Refreshments were served after she opened her many gifts. They included oatmeal cake, ribbon jello salad, coffee and cranberry punch. Each guest was presented with a very clever Christmas corsage.

The Christmas program held at the school on Friday was well attended, as were the Christmas parties held during the day. The annual treats were passed out at these parties instead of at the evening program, as had been the custom in previous years.

The PEO Christmas party was held at the home of Mrs. May Gillespie last Thursday evening. After a delicious dinner they had a gift exchange and also presented Ada Weichhand with a beautiful full length mirror as a wedding gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Moore and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McCallister attended the Portland supervisors Christmas party, which was held at the Broken Spoke. After a gift exchange they played games and danced. There were 47 present.

Australia Reports Hot Weather Spell

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—It was 105.4 degrees in the shade at the Sydney Weather Bureau this morning, the hottest day since the 107 degrees of Jan. 26, 1961.

Longshoremen walked off a dozen ships claiming the holds and decks were too hot. Hundreds of automobiles stopped because of overheating.

American wives now average over three children each, according to the Population Reference Bureau.

U.S. Surplus Will Be Sent to Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—South Korean government sources reported today that the United States has tentatively agreed to ship 400,000 tons of American farm surpluses to South Korea as the initial shipment under the 1964 surplus farm commodities program.

South Korea imported 1.1 million tons of surplus U.S. grain worth $55 million during 1963.

Haiti expects heavy rains.

Colonial Touch To Be Added To Philadelphia

By FRANK J. AVATO

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia, the shrine of American independence, is making a deliberate attempt to combine 20-century living with the city's colonial heritage through a redevelopment project called Society Hill.

To preserve the colonial atmosphere, the city has come up with a special treatment for the 20-block area, often called "America's most historic mile."

Instead of mass clearing of slum dwellings, several hundred old homes are being rehabilitated into colonial-style homes, complete with small, enclosed, back gardens.

A touch of the modern is provided by four apartment buildings and new colonial-styled town houses.

Officially the aim of the project is to: (1) lure back into the downtown area families that had moved to the suburbs, (2) preserve several hundred old and historic houses, (3) halt the spread of blight in center city and create a strong residential area and (4) create a tourist attraction focused on Independence Hall.

In the past, the city's Redevelopment Authority attacked slums with wholesale removal of blighted areas and construction of entirely new buildings.

Then the authority decided that in order to be really effective, new projects should conserve and rehabilitate neighborhoods.

Society Hill planning came along just at the time this new concept was being put into practice.

It was in this area, just south of Independence Hall, that the colonials of William Penn's "green country towne" and the practitioners of the American Revolution lived and worshipped.

Society Hill gets its name not from the socially prominent but rather from a tract of land that once belonged to the Free Society of Traders, organized by Penn. The project rehabilitates homes which are important because of the people who lived in them in colonial days, events that happened in them or simply because they are good examples of the architecture of the period.

The most prominent buildings in the area facing the Delaware River and the site of Penn's landing are the Society Hill Towers, three apartment buildings 31 stories high and containing a total of 720 units. Parking is provided in a three-level underground garage.

Twenty-five air-conditioned town houses are in the shadow of the towers. They have an old-style brick texture and graceful curved doorways with iron terraces. Each sells for $46,000 or $47,000 depending on whether there are three or four bedrooms. Other individual homes in the area sell for around $22,000 to $25,000.

At the opposite end of the area is the Hopkinson House, a privately financed 33-story apartment building containing 536 units, some of which already are occupied. Another 18 town houses are nearby.

There are about 690 old houses in the project area. Originally it was thought the Redevelopment Authority would have to acquire about 600 of them. Increasing support of the community resulted in many voluntary rehabilitations, even before the authority took formal action.

As of Dec. 31, 1962 Society Hill, known formally as Washington Square East, had cost a total of $18,914,729. The federal government contributed $11,874,439. The rest was put up by the city. On private homes, about $4 million has either been spent or committed.

A unique feature in the financing plan is the stipulation that the major builder must spend one per cent of the building costs to create works of arts for the area — sculpture, bas-relief, fountains and mosaics. Plans call for liberal use of trees and open spaces to return to the "green country towne" aspect that Penn envisioned. The total cost to the redeveloper has been estimated at $30 million.

The Redevelopment Authority has purchased all the land in the area, but it will sell houses back to the owner at the same price if the owner agrees to restore the exterior to the original style.

The authority has architects check through plans and drawings, matching each house with copies of known architectural styles of the colonial period.

Michael Von Moschzisker, former chairman of the Redevelopment Authority summed up the feeling behind the redevelopment projects.

"Let us not bequeath to our heirs an America so dull that they have to board planes to go to Rome, Paris or Brussels in order to see beautiful cities."

Black Forest News

By MRS. VIRGINIA HOSKINS 495-2729

A skating party was held from 8 to 12:30 p.m. New Year's Eve at the Black Forest Community Hall. About 50 youngsters ranging in age from 10 to 18 attended. There were decorations suitable for the occasion. Mrs. Thomas Fultz worked in the kitchen and served refreshments while Richard Humphry supervised the floor. It is hoped that regular weekly skating sessions will begin again in the near future.

New officers of the Black Forest Volunteer Fire Department were elected last week. Dick Sorby and Darwin Woolley were elected by residents and property owners in the Forest to the board of directors of the BFVFD. They will replace Mrs. Joseph Watkins and Earl Thiebaud whose terms have expired. Elmer Rankin and Gordon Case will continue as directors on the board. Sam Smale was reelected Fire Chief and Merel Broders was elected to replace Vince Lupton as Assistant Fire Chief. The fire chief and his assistant were elected by the trained volunteer firemen.

The women's auxiliary of the BFVFD elected Dorothy Munson to replace Jane Smale as president. Elections have not been held yet for several other offices of the auxiliary.

The Black Forest Home Demonstration Club will meet at the home of Bobbie Brannan, 27 Ford Drive at 11:30 a.m. Thursday. Members are asked to take a covered dish for the pot luck luncheon.

Registrations are being accepted this week through Saturday for classes in art at the New Art-Crafts School, 70 E. Swan Road. Courses being offered include painting, drawing, woodcarving, pottery and ceramics. Classes start next Monday. For further information call Al Wynne, 495-4148. Registrations may also be made by phone.

Two More Men Get Kidneys From Baboons

DENVER (UPI) — Two unidentified men who received baboon kidneys in operations continued to make satisfactory recoveries today at the University of Colorado Medical Center.

One of the five-and-a-half-hour operations, involving a 40-year-old man, was performed Dec. 20. The second, involving a 45-year-old patient, was performed Monday.

CARDIFF — A Welsh male nurse has been put in charge of a hospital here. He will carry the title of 'Matron.'

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

MISSILE DETECTORS: The United States is reported to have supersensitive monitors operating near the Iron Curtain that record the take-offs of Soviet missiles and rockets and can trace changes in Soviet launching sites.

Space Business Daily, a trade publication, said Tuesday that the instruments, part of a project called Headbone, record the movements of all objects, even automobiles at close range.

But, it added, a method has been found for telling which are missiles or spacecraft.

The publication added: "This allows the United States to be aware of the location and any changes in Soviet launching sites and of all tests of missiles by the Soviets.

"Nuclear blasts — though not the primary mission of the instruments—also are recorded."

The Defense Department had no comment on the publication's story.

RETURNING RAISES: Irked at receiving only a $100 a year pay increase, some teachers in U. S. schools overseas are returning the raise in little installments to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The protests were revealed Tuesday by E.L. Katzenbach Jr., deputy assistant secretary of defense in charge of education for dependents of U. S. military and civilian personnel stationed abroad.

He said he didn't know how many of the teachers have been returning the money but that it is being sent back to the teachers. U. S. overseas teachers received an average of $4,720 this year, against a national average of $5,963.

Katzenbach discussed the situation at a news conference in which he announced that the school system, now run separately by the armed services, will be unified under Defense Department control July 1.

WHEAT SALE: The Commerce Department Tuesday authorized the sale of an additional $42 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union, and $10.5 million worth to Soviet satellite countries.

Licenses have now been issued for export of $17 million in wheat to the Soviet Union but only one firm deal has been disclosed for sale of $78 million in durum wheat.

The Soviet Union reportedly has indicated it would like to purchase more than $250 million in wheat from the United States.

OTEPKA: A recently resigned State Department aide has changed his testimony again and has told Senate investigators that tape recordings were made of Otto F. Otepka's telephone conversations.

The aide, Elmer D. Hill, also told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee that his former superior, John F. Reilly, knew of the taping despite Reilly's sworn testimony to the contrary.

This latest episode in the controversy over Otepka's dismissal as a State Department security officer was disclosed Tuesday when the subcommittee made public testimony from a closed session Nov. 18.

In dismissing Otepka, the State Department accused him of leaking department security information to the subcommittee. He is appealing his firing.

Reilly was deputy assistant secretary of state for security and Hill was chief of the division of technical services in the security office. Both resigned in November during the controversy over Otepka's dismissal and the department investigation of him.

Both had denied before the subcommittee last summer that they had any knowledge of a listening device being installed in Otepka's office. But in statements Nov. 6 they altered this to say that a listening device had been fixed to his telephone but hadn't worked.

SCRAP MISSILE: The Navy has given up on the Typhon antiaircraft missile which ran into difficulties in the development program.

The Navy said Tuesday it will go ahead instead with an advanced antiaircraft missile but will make further tests of the Typhon's radar components.

About $220 million had been poured into development of the surface-to-air missile and $58 million more was allocated this year for work on it.

Cancelation of the project reportedly will affect the jobs of about 200 at the Bendix Corp. plant at Mishawaka, Ind., and of 250 at the General Dynamics Corp. at Pomona, Calif.

Finance Printing Firm Observes Close Secrecy

By LEWIS A. WEBEL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The address "22 Thames Street" in New York City is to Wall Street what the Manhattan Project was to the United States during World War I.

Here, at the home of Pandick Press, about 90 per cent of the country's financial printed matter is prepared in carefully preserved secrecy, to be loosed upon "The Street."

"No doubt our security and integrity checks are second only to those held at Oak Ridge and Los Alamos," says A. C. Pandick, chairman of the board.

"Quite often we are the first to know what is about to happen in most of the country's major blue chip companies since we print their contracts, prospectuses, legal forms, briefs and appeals.

"To insure that secrecy is kept, jobs are handled as if each were a 'Manhattan Project.' No one of Pandick's employes ever sees the complete job."

On really confidential work Pandick President H. Wayne Oakley, who holds a union card, mans a machine and sets the type himself.

One such instance was during World War II when Oakley set type for the will of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The forms were locked in Pandick's safe until Roosevelt's law firm authorized the printing of the will.

Very important in Pandick's operation is the fact that it is staffed not only by experts in printing, but also by experts in finance and law. Pandick, founded in 1923, works around the clock and an officer of the corporation is on duty 24 hours a day.

Pandick is so set up that material flown in from the western United States or even from Europe often is printed and out on the next jet.

Since Pandick Press often is viewed as a barometer of how business will be in the near future, the fact that Pandick recently acquired nine new Heidelberg presses would tend to indicate things will be hopping in the nation's economy.

"The next two or three years will be among the busiest ever seen in the financial world," the board chairman predicted. "For one reason, interest rates have been very high and we expect many corporations to refund at better rates.

"Also, public utilities companies are financing many new installations, including atomic plants. And, of course, the trend toward mergers and acquisitions s still growing."

A. C. Pandick also sees more activity because of the increased reporting requirements of mutual funds, "and the fact that New York state banks are now allowed to expand throughout the state will certainly generate much business activity."

Under the guidance of Pandick, the company took advantage of the huge new market opened to it by the growing intricacy of Securities & Exchange Commission requirements. Its staff renders expert advice to clients on the form and printing specifications for registration.

Even though Pandick now transports profits to the far corners of the world by jet, "we can envision the time when Pandick Press might have offices in London, Paris, Tokyo and other major cities throughout the world," the chairman said.

"Then, by tape we could achieve instantaneous transmission of our proofs, and approvals of revisions could be made literally minutes after the first type is set."

Sukarno Begins Talks In Philippines Capital

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—Indonesian President Sukarno began talks today with Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal on Sukarno's anti-Malaysian campaign and his hopes for increased trade with the Philippines.

Philippine Foreign Secretary Salvador P. Lopez said the two-hour conference setting the stage for negotiations during Sukarno's five-day visit was conducted in a friendly spirit.

Two teams of lesser officials began talks after the presidents met, one dealing with political aspects of the Malaysian crisis and the other with implementation of a Philippine-Indonesian trade agreement signed last year.

Sukarno hopes trade with the Philippines will help offset the boomerang effect of his economic boycott of Malaysia, the normal processor of Indonesia's rubber and much of its tin.

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

MISSILE DETECTORS: The United States is reported to have supersensitive monitors operating near the Iron Curtain that record the take-offs of Soviet missiles and rockets and can trace changes in Soviet launching sites.

Space Business Daily, a trade publication, said Tuesday that the instruments, part of a project called Headbone, record the movements of all objects, even automobiles at close range.

But, it added, a method has been found for telling which are missiles or spacecraft.

The publication added: "This allows the United States to be aware of the location and any changes in Soviet launching sites and of all tests of missiles by the Soviets.

"Nuclear blasts — though not the primary mission of the instruments—also are recorded."

The Defense Department had no comment on the publication's story.

The protests were revealed Tuesday by E.L. Katzenbach Jr., deputy assistant secretary of defense in charge of education for dependents of U. S. military and civilian personnel stationed abroad.

He said he didn't know how many of the teachers have been returning the money but that it is being sent back to the teachers. U. S. overseas teachers received an average of $4,720 this year, against a national average of $5,963.

Katzenbach discussed the situation at a news conference in which he announced that the school system, now run separately by the armed services, will be unified under Defense Department control July 1.

WHEAT SALE: The Commerce Department Tuesday authorized the sale of an additional $42 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union, and $10.5 million worth to Soviet satellite countries.

Licenses have now been issued for export of $17 million in wheat to the Soviet Union but only one firm deal has been disclosed for sale of $78 million in durum wheat.

The Soviet Union reportedly has indicated it would like to purchase more than $250 million in wheat from the United States.

OTEPKA: A recently resigned State Department aide has changed his testimony again and has told Senate investigators that tape recordings were made of Otto F. Otepka's telephone conversations.

The aide, Elmer D. Hill, also told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee that his former superior, John F. Reilly, knew of the taping despite Reilly's sworn testimony to the contrary.

This latest episode in the controversy over Otepka's dismissal as a State Department security officer was disclosed Tuesday when the subcommittee made public testimony from a closed session Nov. 18.

In dismissing Otepka, the State Department accused him of leaking department security information to the subcommittee. He is appealing his firing.

Reilly was deputy assistant secretary of state for security and Hill was chief of the division of technical services in the security office. Both resigned in November during the controversy over Otepka's dismissal and the department investigation of him.

Both had denied before the subcommittee last summer that they had any knowledge of a listening device being installed in Otepka's office. But in statements Nov. 6 they altered this to say that a listening device had been fixed to his telephone but hadn't worked.

SCRAP MISSILE: The Navy has given up on the Typhon antiaircraft missile which ran into difficulties in the development program.

The Navy said Tuesday it will go ahead instead with an advanced antiaircraft missile but will make further tests of the Typhon's radar components.

Alaska Considered Outside America

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—To Alaskans there's no place like home, but even they sometimes get the feeling the 49th state is pretty remote.

George F. Merz, Anchorage auto dealer, said Tuesday he placed an order with a Chicago firm for new auto contract forms.

The company's return letter said: "We wish to inform you we only do business in the continental United States and we have no facilities for printing in a foreign language."

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

Christmas over once again, and looking forward to the New Year of 1964. May we use each mistake we have made in 1963 to help us to do better in 1964. Happy New Year.

There will be a miscellaneous shower for Mr. and Mrs. Dick Cordova at the Drennan Community Building Thursday night, Jan. 9, at 8 p.m. All are cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Wyman Smith and Mrs. Etta Enoch are the hostesses.

Wyman Smith received word that his brother died Dec. 14 at Delta. The Smiths were unable to attend the funeral. However, they did visit him just before when attending the Clyde Wand funeral at Delta.

The Smiths were having Kay Brewer and George Akers at their Christmas dinner, as the others of the Charles Brewers had gone to California to visit Bobby's folks Christmas Eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Million, of Fountain, had as their dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Dave Million and son Dwight, of Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Million and son Blain, of Rock Creek, and Mrs. and Mrs. Jim Day, of Colorado Springs.

On Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. Dave Million and son Dwight drove to Howard and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Forrest DeGroot and Lynne. While there they called on Elaine Smith in from Albany, Calif., for a little visit. Elaine is the other daughter of the DeGroots.

Mr. and Mrs. Daw DeGroot received word that Harry DeGroot, oldest son of Mr. DeGroot, had passed away in Phoenix, Ariz. Christmas Eve, also had word that the only way Marland DeGroot's back could be helped was with an operation. He hadn't decided whether he wanted the operation or not. The Marland DeGroots live near Greeley and he is another son of Daw DeGroot.

Mrs. Karen Million and son Dwight visited at the Harold Williamses and Grandma Hammer's Dec. 20. They also stopped by to see Mrs. Ethel Milne. The Dave Millions spent New Years with Mr. and Mrs. Dale Million.

Word was received of the death of George Bitner, of Pueblo, who had lived in Hanover at one time. The funeral was held in Pueblo Thursday, Dec. 26. Sympathy is extended to the DeGroo[illegible] Bitner families.

Mr. and [illegible] Larry Carrier and Beth and Mrs. Carrier, Larry's mother, and a brother of Larry's, all of California, arrived at A. L. Vettes' Sunday night, Dec. 22, to spent the holiday season. Mrs. Carrier is the former Alene Vette.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Dickson and girls moved to Sterling, Okla., recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Christian, of Greeley, spent part of the holiday season with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dickson and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Christian of Fountain.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reble, Virginia and Timmy had their family Christmas on Christmas Eve. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wessleman of Morrison; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reble, David and Mark, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reble and Mrs. Maude Petterson, all of Colorado Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase Chisman, Garold, Roberta and Rosetta, of Texas, arrived at the Robert Chismans' Monday night. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Warren Erquhart, of Colorado Springs, Tuesday and spent the night there. Mrs. Erquhart and Mrs. Chisman are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chisman had all their family Christmas Day but Charles Jr., who could not come from the Navy until Dec. 29, so he was unable to come to Colorado this time. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chisman and Dennis, Myra Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisman, Brenda and Sheryl, of Colorado Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chisman, Judy, Marvin and Ramona, of Pueblo; Mr. and Mrs. Chase Chisman, Garold, Roberta, Rosetta, of Texas, and Grace Finch.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harley and Mary Jane, of Colorado Springs, stopped by the Chismans Friday for a short visit with the Roy, Robert and Chase Chismans on their way down to see Grace Finch. The Robert and Paul Chismans spent Thursday evening with the Roy and Chase Chismans, the Robert Chismans spending the night and returning to Pueblo Friday. On Saturday they all gathered at the Charles Chismans for some family pictures, having supper Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisman and girls. The Chase Chismans returned to Texas Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Baker had their family, Jane, Sevilla and Rosa, and Mr. and Mrs. Harper Baker for Christmas dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Harper Baker have recently moved to the Jack Wilson place, north of Fountain, where Harper will milk and do dairy work for the Wilsons.

Mr. Fillmore's mother and father-in-law are moving on the old Frankell place that Mr. Fillmore purchased from Nick Adams. We welcome them to our community, but we so hated to lose the Dale Dickson family.

Everyone at church Sunday surely missed the McGuire family, who we had all grown to love in the past nine years. We realize this is life and one of its changes, so we wish them well in the church at Security.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Day entertained Mr. and Mrs. Jim Day, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Reble, Bubbie, Jerry, Dickey and Patty at their Christmas dinner.

School was back in progress again Jan. 2. They will surely miss the Dickson children.

DR. WASSON HONORED — The El Paso County Council of Parents and Teachers honored Dr. Roy J. Wasson, retiring superintendent for District 11, with a contribution to the scholarship fund in his name. Mrs. Fletcher Rainer Jr., president of the council, is shown making the presentation to Dr. Wasson.

Mrs. Oswald Accepts Husband Was Killer

DALLAS (AP)—The widow of Lee Harvey Oswald has accepted as a fact that her husband killed President John F. Kennedy, her business adviser said today.

As a result, said the adviser, James H. Martin, she has no desire to sue the City of Dallas, any government or Jack Ruby, the man charged with killing Oswald two days after Kennedy was assassinated.

Mrs. Oswald, 22, has received slightly over $28,000 in contributions from over the nation.

The Secret Service continues to protect her, but "Marina is free to come and go as she pleases," Martin told newsmen.

Martin said some groups have suggested there is something sinister about the government protecting Mrs. Oswald.

"They seem convinced that she is being held incommunicado, but she definitely is not," Martin said.

Describing Mrs. Oswald's attitude about the assassination, Martin said she accepted the evidence detailed by police as valid.

"It was easier for her to do because he had changed since returning to the United States from Russia," Martin said, "he had become more moody, more unhappy."

Old Glamor Stripped From Orient Express

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Another illusion was demolished Tuesday night as NBC lightheartedly stripped the glamor from famous Orient Express, the once great train that travels biweekly from Paris through seven countries to Istanbul.

It was partly because correspondent Edwin Newman's trip was so completely uneventful and uncomfortable that the record of the journey was a perfectly delightful hour of television. To be thoroughly savored, it had to be seen in color. The scenery and the quick tours of cities along the route were magnificent.

Newman, looking every inch a man of sinister mystery, boarded the train in Paris by night, chatting merrily about the reputation of the trains, beloved by writers like Agatha Christie and Graham Greene. From 1883 on it carried royalty, millionaires and probably even international thieves and spies in sumptuous style across Europe.

By morning, Newman was in Switzerland addressing himself to a fine breakfast in a nice if not lavish dining car. It was the last square meal he ate until the train finally reached the shores of the Black Sea six hours late.

Passengers included a French diplomatic courier who ate ham sandwiches in his compartment throughout the long trip, and an assortment of peasants, soldiers, pilgrims and business men who spent most of their time dozing.

Real stars of the show were the cameramen who shot the beautiful sights along the way. Even without dining cars or assassins, it was a wonderful trip for the armchair traveler.

The NBC show that preceded the special, "Mafia Man," of the Richard Boone series, concentrated on today's most glamorous means of transportation—the transatlantic jet airplane.

Boone played a Cosa Nostra big shot returning from Italy under heavy guard to tell of his nefarious activities. On the plane was an assassin disguised as a priest, an ailing Indian potenate and a beautiful, mysterious woman. It was straight action-aventure, exactly the kind of thing that, a generation ago, would have taken place on the Orient Express.

The script was the last written by Clifford Odets before his death last summer and apparently it was one he tossed off with his left hand. Boone, as the gangster with a heart of gold, over-played a bit as he seems to do often lately. He was dying bravely at the fade-out.

Another day-time game show branched out with an evening edition Tuesday night. "You Don't Say" replaced a Western on NBC. The idea of the show is to guess the names of celebrities from clues, and if this reminds you of "Password" so does almost everything else about the game.

GIELGUD ONLY A SGHOST

NEW YORK (AP) — John Gielgud's voice only will take part in the "Hamlet" being produced on Broadway this spring.

Gielgud, who is directing the production that stars Richard Burton, Alfred Drake and Hume Cronyn, has recorded the ominous dialogue of the drama's Ghost. A shaft of light will indicate the specter's presence on stage while loudspeakers throughout the theater boom the words.

Finance Printing Firm Observes Close Secrecy

By LEWIS A. WEBEL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The address "22 Thames Street" in New York City is to Wall Street what the Manhattan Project was to the United States during World War I.

Here, at the home of Pandick Press, about 90 per cent of the country's financial printed matter is prepared in carefully preserved secrecy, to be loosed upon "The Street."

"No doubt our security and integrity checks are second only to those held at Oak Ridge and Los Alamos," says A. C. Pandick, chairman of the board.

"Quite often we are the first to know what is about to happen in most of the country's major blue chip companies since we print their contracts, prospectuses, legal forms, briefs and appeals.

"To insure that secrecy is kept, jobs are handled as if each were a 'Manhattan Project.' No one of Pandick's employes ever sees the complete job."

On really confidential work Pandick President H. Wayne Oakley, who holds a union card, mans a machine and sets the type himself.

One such instance was during World War II when Oakley set type for the will of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The forms were locked in Pandick's safe until Roosevelt's law firm authorized the printing of the will.

Very important in Pandick's operation is the fact that it is staffed not only by experts in printing; but also by experts in finance and law. Pandick, founded in 1923, works around the clock and an officer of the corporation is on duty 24 hours a day.

Pandick is so set up that material flown in from the western United States or even from Europe often is printed and out on the next jet.

Since Pandick Press often is viewed as a barometer of how business will be in the near future, the fact that Pandick recently acquired nine new Heidelberg presses would tend to indicate things will be hopping in the nation's economy.

"The next two or three years will be among the busiest ever seen in the financial world," the board chairman predicted. "For one reason, interest rates have been very high and we expect many corporations to refund at better rates.

"Also, public utilities companies are financing many new installations, including atomic plants. And, of course, the trend toward mergers and acquisitions s still growing."

A. C. Pandick also sees more activity because of the increased reporting requirements of mutual funds, "and the fact that New York state banks are now allowed to expand throughout the state will certainly generate much business activity."

Under the guidance of Pandick, the company took advantage of the huge new market opened to it by the growing intricacy of Securities & Exchange Commission requirements. Its staff renders expert advice to clients on the form and printing specifications for registration.

Even though Pandick now transports profits to the far corners of the world by jet, "we can envision the time when Pandick Press might have offices in London, Paris, Tokyo and other major cities throughout the world," the chairman said.

"Then, by tape we could achieve instantaneous transmission of our proofs, and approvals of revisions could be made literally minutes after the first type is set."

Sukarno Begins Talks In Philippines Capital

MANILA, Philippines (AP)— Indonesian President Sukarno began talks today with Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal on Sukarno's anti-Malaysian campaign and his hopes for increased trade with the Philippines.

Philippine Foreign Secretary Salvador P. Lopez said the two-hour conference setting the stage for negotiations during Sukarno's five-day visit was conducted in a friendly spirit.

Two teams of lesser officials began talks after the presidents met, one dealing with political aspects of the Malaysian crisis and the other with implementation of a Philippine-Indonesian trade agreement signed last year.

Sukarno hopes trade with the Philippines will help offset the boomerang effect of his economic boycott of Malaysia, the normal processor of Indonesia's rubber and much of its tin.

British Pubs Tested for Atmosphere

By TOM A CULLEN

LONDON (NEA) —Why do stockbrokers fight their way to the bar of a London pub called Dirty Dick's, which has dead cats, rats and old umbrellas hanging from its ceiling?

"Because it has atmosphere," said Egon Ronay, who has just published the world's first serious guide to British pubs. As to what constitutes "atmosphere," no two people are in agreement, according to Ronay.

"My panel of pub-testers did agree, however, that it is the kind of pub you would recommend to your friends. It definitely has atmosphere," explained Ronay, who is an autnority on both food and drink.

To compile his pub guide, Ronay recently employed five pub-testers, chosen for their "average Englishness," to sample the food and drink dispensed in over 1,100 pubs in London and the south of England. Next year the guide will be extended to the whole of the British Isles.

These professional pub-crawlers included a tobacco blender, a retired naval commander, a chartered accountant, an ex-Royal Air Force squadron leader, and a retired businessman. Each averaged about fifteen pubs a week during the survey.

Their findings bear down heavily on atmosphere, which can include such intangibles as the fact that:

A monk and a nun who were executed 450 years ago for misbehavior are buried in the garden of The Bull at Streatley on-Thames, their graves being marked by two yew trees.

Atmosphere need not be associated with the historical or the macabre, according to Ronay. For example, many pubs are famous because English writers frequented them.

"If Charles Dickens and Dr. Samuel Johnson drank in all the pubs that claim their patronage, they would have been prize lushes," Ronay remarked.

The pub owner, said Ronay, can make or break a pub.

Among the former kind is the landlord of The Dog, in Kent, an ex-colonel who parachuted into Arnhem with his troops, and won the Military Cross.

Then there is the proprietor of The King's Head, also in Kent, who collects snippets from the more interesting neckties his clients wear. He keeps a necktie register to avoid duplication.

Other pub owners encountered by Ronay's testers include a former opera singer, a Volkswagen dealer and a village squire.

Among the trends in pub life which Ronay's survey has uncovered:

British brewers are now spending millions of dollars to make their pubs more attractive to women. Brass rails are generally out. So are horsehair sofas, Victorian cut-glass mirrors. Instead, the trend is towards indirect lighting, soft colors, elegant fabrics. In some cases Italian decorators are being called in to completely restyle pubs.

Class barriers are also crashing right and left in British pubs. At one time pubs were divided by partitions into Saloon and Public Bars, the former being used by posh clientele who were willing to pay extra to avoid rubbing elbows with the rabble in the Public Bar. Now almost all new pubs are of the one-bar, classless variety.

Food is becoming more important in pubs. "The pub is the last bastion of home cooking," said Ronay. "In fact, Britain leads the world in this kind of satisfying cheap catering. Where else but in Britain will you find a drinking place which stocks 36 different kinds of cheese?"

Victim Believes in Returning Favors

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Henry Brown Jr., 40, believes in returning favors.

He told attorneys Tueday he wouldn't press an assault to murder charge against Myrtle Ross, 44, even though he said she shot him.

The reason: Brown said he shot Myrtle's sister last year. "They forgave me and now I wish to do the same for her family."

Dist. Atty. James Barlow wasn't equally forgiving. He said he will submit the case to the grand jury.

Alaska Considered Outside America

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—To Alaskans there's no place like home, but even they sometimes get the feeling the 49th state is pretty remote.

George F. Merz, Anchorage auto dealer, said Tuesday he placed an order with a Chicago firm for new auto contract forms.

The company's return letter said: "We wish to inform you we only do business in the continental United States and we have no facilities for printing in a foreign language."

Hanover News

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

Christmas over once again, and looking forward to the New Year of 1964. May we use each mistake we have made in 1963 to help us to do better in 1964. Happy New Year.

There will be a miscellaneous shower for Mr. and Mrs. Dick Cordova at the Drennan Community Building Thursday night, Jan. 9, at 8 p.m. All are cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Wyman Smith and Mrs. Etta Enoch are the hostesses.

Wyman Smith received word that his brother died Dec. 14 at Delta. The Smiths were unable to attend the funeral. However, they did visit him just before when attending the Clyde Wand funeral at Delta.

The Smiths were having Kay Brewer and George Akers at their Christmas dinner, as the others of the Charles Brewers had gone to California to visit Bobby's folks Christmas Eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Million, of Fountain, had as their dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Dave Million and son Dwight, of Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Million and son Blain, of Rock Creek, and Mrs. and Mrs. Jim Day, of Colorado Springs.

On Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. Dave Million and son Dwight drove to Howard and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Forrest DeGroot and Lynne. While there they called on Elaine Smith in from Albany, Calif., for a little visit. Elaine is the other daughter of the DeGroots.

Mr. and Mrs. Daw DeGroot received word that Harry DeGroot, oldest son of Mr. DeGroot, had passed away in Phoenix, Ariz. Christmas Eve, also had word that the only way Marland DeGroot's back could be helped was with an operation. He hadn't decided whether he wanted the operation or not. The Marland DeGroots live near Greeley and he is another son of Daw DeGroot.

Mrs. Karen Million and son Dwight visited at the Harold Williamses and Grandma Hammer's Dec. 20. They also stopped by to see Mrs. Ethel Milne. The Dave Millions spent New Years with Mr. and Mrs. Dale Million.

Word was received of the death of George Bitner, of Pueblo, who had lived in Hanover at one time. The funeral was held in Pueblo Thursday, Dec. 26. Sympathy is extended to the DeGroo [illegible] Bitner families.

Mr. and [illegible] Larry Carrier and Beth and [illegible]s. Carrier, Larry's mother, and a brother of Larry's, all of California, arrived at A. L. Vettes' Sunday night, Dec. 22, to spent the holiday season. Mrs. Carrier is the former Alene Vette.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Dickson and girls moved to Sterling, Okla., recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Christian, of Greeley, spent part of the holiday season with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dickson and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Christian of Fountain.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reble, Virginia and Timmy had their family Christmas on Christmas Eve. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wessleman of Morrison; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reble, David and Mark, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reble and Mrs. Maude Petterson, all of Colorado Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase Chisman, Garold, Roberta and Rosetta, of Texas, arrived at the Robert Chismans' Monday night. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Warren Erquhart, of Colorado Springs, Tuesday and spent the night there. Mrs. Erquhart and Mrs. Chisman are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chisman had all their family Christmas Day but Charles Jr., who could not come from the Navy until Dec. 29, so he was unable to come to Colorado this time. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chisman and Dennis, Myra Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisman, Brenda and Sheryl, of Colorado Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chisman, Judy, Marvin and Ramona, of Pueblo; Mr. and Mrs. Chase Chisman, Garold, Roberta, Rosetta, of Texas, and Grace Finch.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harley and Mary Jane, of Colorado Springs, stopped by the Chismans Friday for a short visit with the Roy, Robert and Chase Chismans on their way down to see Grace Finch. The Robert and Paul Chismans spent Thursday evening with the Roy and Chase Chismans, the Robert Chismans spending the night and returning to Pueblo Friday. On Saturday they all gathered at the Charles Chismans for some family pictures, having supper Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisman and girls. The Chase Chismans returned to Texas Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Baker had their family, Jane, Sevilla and Rosa, and Mr. and Mrs. Harper Baker for Christmas dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Harper Baker have recently moved to the Jack Wilson place, north of Fountain, where Harper will milk and do dairy work for the Wilsons.

Mr. Fillmore's mother and father-in-law are moving on the old Frankell place that Mr. Fillmore purchased from Nick Adams. We welcome them to our community, but we so hated to lose the Dale Dickson family.

Everyone at church Sunday surely missed the McGuire family, who we had all grown to love in the past nine years. We realize this is life and one of its changes, so we wish them well in the church at Security.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Day entertained Mr. and Mrs. Jim Day, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Reble, Bubbie, Jerry, Dickey and Patty at their Christmas dinner.

School was back in progress again Jan. 2. They will surely miss the Dickson children.

Mrs. Oswald Accepts Husband Was Killer

DALLAS (AP)—The widow of Lee Harvey Oswald has accepted as a fact that her husband killed President John F. Kennedy, her business adviser said today.

As a result, said the adviser, James H. Martin, she has no desire to sue the City of Dallas, any government or Jack Ruby, the man charged with killing Oswald two days after Kennedy was assassinated.

Mrs. Oswald, 22, has received slightly over $28,000 in contributions from over the nation.

The Secret Service continues to protect her, but "Marina is free to come and go as she pleases," Martin told newsmen.

Martin said some groups have suggested there is something sinister about the government protecting Mrs. Oswald.

"They seem convinced that she is being held incommunicado, but she definitely is not," Martin said.

Describing Mrs. Oswald's attitude about the assassination, Martin said she accepted the evidence detailed by police as valid.

"It was easier for her to do because he had changed since returning to the United States from Russia," Martin said, "he had become more moody, more unhappy."

Old Glamor Stripped From Orient Express

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Another illusion was demolished Tuesday night as NBC lightheartedly stripped the glamor from famous Orient Express, the once great train that travels biweekly from Paris through seven countries to Istanbul.

It was partly because correspondent Edwin Newman's trip was so completely uneventful and uncomfortable that the record of the journey was a perfectly delightful hour of television. To be thoroughly savored, it had to be seen in color. The scenery and the quick tours of cities along the route were magnificent.

Newman, looking every inch a man of sinister mystery, boarded the train in Paris by night, chatting merrily about the reputation of the trains, beloved by writers like Agatha Christie and Graham Greene. From 1883 on it carried royalty, millionaires and probably even international thieves and spies in sumptuous style across Europe.

By morning, Newman was in Switzerland addressing himself to a fine breakfast in a nice if not lavish dining car. It was the last square meal he ate until the train finally reached the shores of the Black Sea six hours late.

Passengers included a French diplomatic courier who ate ham sandwiches in his compartment throughout the long trip, and an assortment of peasants, soldiers, pilgrims and business men who spent most of their time dozing.

Real stars of the show were the cameramen who shot the beautiful sights along the way. Even without dining cars or assassins, it was a wonderful trip for the armchair traveler.

The NBC show that preceded the special, "Mafia Man," of the Richard Boone series, concentrated on today's most glamorous means of transportation—the transatlantic jet airplane.

Boone played a Cosa Nostra big shot returning from Italy under heavy guard to tell of his nefarious activities. On the plane was an assassin disguised as a priest, an ailing Indian potenate and a beautiful, mysterious woman. It was straight action-aventure, exactly the kind of thing that, a generation ago, would have taken place on the Orient Express.

The script was the last written by Clifford Odets before his death last summer and apparently it was one he tossed off with his left hand. Boone, as the gangster with a heart of gold, over-played a bit as he seems to do often lately. He was dying bravely at the fade-out.

Another day-time game show branched out with an evening edition Tuesday night. "You Don't Say" replaced a Western on NBC. The idea of the show is to guess the names of celebrities from clues, and if this reminds you of "Password" so does almost everything else about the game.

GIELGUD ONLY A SGHOST

Gielgud, who is directing the production that stars Richard Burton, Alfred Drake and Hume Cronyn, has recorded the ominous dialogue of the drama's Ghost. A shaft of light will indicate the specter's presence on stage while loudspeakers throughout the theater boom the words.

The Mature Parent

Neatness Is Not Order

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: You recently wrote that parents should recognize the difference between neatness and order in dealing with children's untidiness. Please write more about this. I was brought up to believe that neatness and order are the same thing and the idea that they are not is quite new to me . . .

ANSWER: Let me put it this way. Order in us can discriminate between the importance of things and the importance of human feelings. Neatness can't. It is inflexibly set on the importance of things.

A neat person will experience discomfort at the litter of Sunday papers on her living room floor. She cannot ask herself, "Is my desire for a tidy living room as important as my husband's interest in the sports news and my son's delight in the comic section?" She cannot answer, "No, it isn't."

She is just as disinterested in her own feelings. Though she may be suffering from a bad cold, untidiness in the bathroom will haunt her until she goes and cleans it. Things are disconnected from what people feel about them. They must be given priority regardless of what they mean to human beings.

An orderly person likes things in their place, too. She likes bathroom towels hung on their racks and coats hung in their closets just as much as the neat person does.

But if she feels sick with an approaching cold, she can give top priority to her sick feeling—and forget her untidy bathroom.

If her child leaves a coat on the sofa instead of hanging it in the closet, order—the sense of discrimination—in her doesn't have to rush at the child with complaints of untidiness. It can wait to learn why the coat has been left on the sofa.

Neatness is what psychologists call "compulsive"—a rigid tidiness we must maintain regardless of changing human circumstances. Order, on the other hand, always involves the willingness to move with changing human circumstances. It's what enables us to see the difference between cleaning a bathroom when we feel well and when we feel sick; to understand how a coat can be hung in the closet on Tuesday and left on the sofa on Wednesday.

Order is a beautiful human quality because it is responsive, not to what existed yesterday but what exists today.

Welcome to Beef

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

After so much rich and fancy holiday food, a meal of boiled beef with horseradish sauce and boiled potatoes seems just about right. The best recipe we know comes from Luchow's in New York, rated by critical eaters as the outstanding German restaurant in the U.S.A. Jan Mitchell, the cultivated owner and director, told us that Boiled Beef Luchow is the No. 1 favorite of his men customers and gave us the recipe.

Boiled Beef (Serves 2 to 4)

4 pounds fresh plate beef (about 3 ribs)
1½ teaspoons salt
Boiling water
2 or 3 sprigs parsley
4 peppercorns
½ teaspoon thyme
2 onions, peeled
2 carrots, scraped
1 parsnip, peeled
1 small turnip, peeled
1 bay leaf
Horseradish sauce

Wipe meat with damp cloth. Rub with salt. Place in pot. Cover with boiling water; bring to a boil quickly and boil 10 minutes. Skim top. Add parsley, peppercorns and thyme. Cover pot, reduce heat, and cook slowly 2½ to 3 hours. For last hour of cooking add vegetables and bay leaf. Use the broth from the pot for soup. Serve Boiled Beef with horseradish sauce and plain boiled vegetables.

SHOOTS BOAR

TREVOR'S LITTLE CROW

LONDON (AP) — Eight-year-old Trevor Smith, true to the tradition of Mary and her little lamb, has a pet crow that follows him to school each day. While Trevor is in classes, Blackie, the crow, waits in the playground and occasionally sits on the window-sill and pecks impatiently at the glass. After school, Blackie goes home to spend the rest of the day in the house or garden. He is fed on horsemeat and sleeps on Trevor's bed at night.

3 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣

South's shrewd manipulation of the dummy served to justify the aggressive tone which he displayed during the auction.

While South's opening two diamond bid is a shade shy of the technical requirements, we are not inclined to quibble with his choice. When North made the negative response of two no trump, South properly showed his second suit, spades. At this point, North felt warranted in making one try for bigger things since a good fit had now been uncovered, and his hand was worth seven points in support of spades. He accordingly raised beyond game by bidding five spades.

Perhaps South should have passed at this point but, holding first round control of both unbid suits, he was unwilling to settle for less than a slam, and he proceeded to six spades.

The king of clubs was opened and ruffed in the closed hand. South observed that his diamond suit could probably be established with one ruff but, even counting six diamond tricks together with four spades and one heart, he would still be one short of his goal. It might be possible to establish a second heart trick, but he was reluctant to open up that suit for fear of misguessing the location of the king.

The declarer resolved to try an alternate line of play which required only a mite of assistance from the opposition. He proceeded to cash the ace, king of diamonds, and then lead a third round of the suit. West played the queen and was permitted to hold the trick as both the dummy and East discarded clubs.

Since his partner failed to make any violent signal in hearts, West chose the apparently safe exit of a club, forcing the declarer to ruff once more. South played the ace and queen of spades, carefully overtaking the queen with the king so that North's jack could draw the last trump. The closed hand was entered with the ace of hearts and dummy's remaining losers were discarded on the established diamond suit.

West's seemingly innocuous club return enabled South to take six trump tricks instead of and four spade tricks in dummy. If West had exited with a trump, declarer must go down to defeat, for he lacks the transportation required to negotiate the second club ruff on his own.

Rebekahs, Odd Fellows Plan Joint Installation

Colorado Springs Rebekahs and Oddfellows Lodges and Victor Rebekah Lodge will hold a joint installation of officers at 8 p.m. Thursday in the IOOF Hall, 128 K. Nevada Ave.

Lodges participating are Naomi 15, Monte Rosa 4, Colorado City 89, Sunshine 92, Cabbott 45, Pikes Peak 38 and Colorado City 77.

Sunshine Lodge 92 will be the hostess lodge. The installing officers are Grace Godfrey of Victor and Harry Olson of 77.

There will be refreshments after installation. The public is invited. Officers to be installed should be at the hall before 8 p.m. for instructions.

COLLEGE COST

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Americans' discretionary income, the source of most families' college funds, has risen by more than five times since 1940, but the cost of a college education has only tripled in the same period, according to Robert J. Keir, chairman of The Tuition Plan of New Hampshire, Inc.

Discretionary income — what is spent for products and services other than the basic essentials of everyday living — jumped from $25 to $136 billion while the average cost of four years at private college was rising from $3,700 to $11,200, he said.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Carrying Things Too Far

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a mail carrier and some of the stories he tells me about the women he sees on his route would curl your hair. He says some of them answer the door in their bathrobes at two o'clock in the afternoon! And he has seen some appear in thin, see-through nylon dusters. Anyway, he says he sure wishes they would cover up as they are disgraceful! I was taught to dress up in the morning, with undergarments, hosiery, shoes and a fresh house dress. And, believe me, I wasn't trying to tempt the mail carrier, either. Please print this so the guilty ones will see it and take the hint. —MAIL CARRIER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I doubt if the average housewife has any intention of carrying away the mail carrier. It's her MAIL she's interested in — not your MALE.

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper to thank people at the grave for having come to a funeral? My little niece passed away last week. She was only two years old. The funeral was small in attendance, but very lovely. When we were all leaving the cemetery, the child's grandmother went around to all the people she knew and said, "Thank you for coming." This is the first time I have ever heard of THANKING people for attending a funeral. Wasn't she out of order? —SIMPLE QUESTION

DEAR SIMPLE: I see nothing wrong with thanking those she knew for attending the funeral. And if you do, you appear to have dug uncommonly deep to find fault.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady with a nice man for six months and he wants me to meet his people. He says his mother wants me to come for dinner. I am 28 and he is 32. When I go to his house for dinner for the first time, should I offer to help his mother with the dishes afterwards? I have never met his mother or father. —NERVOUS

DEAR NERVOUS: If his mother has no help in the kitchen and it is apparent that she must do her own cleaning up, by all means offer to help.

DEAR ABBY: Just a comment on the letter from the mother of a fifth grader who wanted a garter belt and nylon stockings. My 12-year-old son is a born conformist. In the fifth grade he started giving me this "But, Mom, everybody else is . . ." business. I broke him of the habit by answering. "Fine. Give me a list of all the boys and I'll call their mothers and see what they say." Naturally, I was never given the name of one boy. And that put a stop to it. —MRS. M.

HERE'S JUST A SAMPLE OF THE GOOD EATING YOU'LL GET WHEN YOU COOK WITH SINTON'S NORDICA SOUR CREAM.

Beef Stroganoff

2 pounds beef chuck, cut in 1 inch cubes
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup shortening
1 tablespoon Worcestarshire Sauce
¾ cup water

Mix flour, salt and pepper together and roll meat in this until well-coated. Melt shortening in heavy skillet and brown meat. Add Worcestershire Sauce and water. Simmer 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Whip sour cream with onion mix into hot broth from meat. Pour sauce over meat and heat. Turn into serving dish and garnish with chopped parsley. Serve with buttered noodles, mashed potatoes or fluffy rice. Makes 8 servings.

British Pubs Tested for Atmosphere

By TOM A CULLEN

LONDON (NEA) —Why do stockbrokers fight their way to the bar of a London pub called Dirty Dick's, which has dead cats, rats and old umbrellas hanging from its ceiling?

"Because it has atmosphere," said Egon Ronay, who has just published the world's first serious guide to British pubs. As to what constitutes "atmosphere," no two people are in agreement, according to Ronay.

"My panel of pub-testers did agree, however, that it is the kind of pub you would recommend to your friends. It definitely has atmosphere," explained Ronay, who is an authority on both food and drink.

To compile his pub guide, Ronay recently employed five pub-testers, chosen for their "average Englishness," to sample the food and drink dispensed in over 1,100 pubs in London and the south of England. Next year the guide will be extended to the whole of the British Isles.

These professional pub-crawlers included a tobacco blender, a retired naval commander, a chartered accountant, an ex-Royal Air Force squadron leader, and a retired businessman. Each averaged about fifteen pubs a week during the survey.

Their findings bear down heavily on atmosphere, which can include such intangibles as the fact that:

A monk and a nun who were executed 450 years ago for misbehavior are buried in the garden of The Bull at Streatley on-Thames, their graves being marked by two yew trees.

Atmosphere need not be associated with the historical or the macabre, according to Ronay. For example, many pubs are famous because English writers frequented them.

"If Charles Dickens and Dr. Samuel Johnson drank in all the pubs that claim their patronage, they would have been prize lushes," Ronay remarked.

The pub owner, said Ronay, can make or break a pub.

Among the former kind is the landlord of The Dog, in Kent, an ex-colonel who parachuted into Arnhem with his troops, and won the Military Cross.

Then there is the proprietor of The King's Head, also in Kent, who collects snippets from the more interesting neckties his clients wear. He keeps a necktie register to avoid duplication.

Other pub owners encountered by Ronay's testers include a former opera singer, a Volkswagen dealer and a village squire.

Among the trends in pub life which Ronay's survey has uncovered:

British brewers are now spending millions of dollars to make their pubs more attractive to women. Brass rails are generally out. So are horsehair sofas, Victorian cut-glass mirrors. Instead, the trend is towards indirect lighting, soft colors, elegant fabrics. In some cases Italian decorators are being called in to completely restyle pubs.

Class barriers are also crashing right and left in British pubs. At one time pubs were divided by partitions into Saloon and Public Bars, the former being used by posh clientele who were willing to pay extra to avoid rubbing elbows with the rabble in the Public Bar. Now almost all new pubs are of the one-bar, classless variety.

Food is becoming more important in pubs. "The pub is the last bastion of home cooking," said Ronay. "In fact, Britain leads the world in this kind of satisfying cheap catering. Where else but in Britain will you find a drinking place which stocks 36 different kinds of cheese?"

Victim Believes in Returning Favors

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Henry Brown Jr., 40, believes in returning favors.

He told attorneys Tuesday he wouldn't press an assault to murder charge against Myrtle Ross, 44, even though he said she shot him.

The reason: Brown said he shot Myrtle's sister last year. "They forgave me and now I wish to do the same for her family."

Dist. Atty. James Barlow wasn't equally forgiving. He said he will submit the case to the grand jury.

Maj. Briand To Address Wives Club

The author of a widely read book on Amelia Earhart will discuss the famed aviatrix's life before the Air Force Academy Officers' Wives Club Thursday at noon.

Maj. Paul Briand, associate professor and course director, Department of English, is author of "Daughter of the Sky," a 1959 publication dealing with Miss Earhart's many exploits.

Wives of Department of Athletics staff members are sponsoring the luncheon.

Maj. Briand also has a book slated for publication this year. In August of 1963 he traveled to Tohiti to gather background material for "In Search of Paradise," a biography of James Norman Hall and Charles Nordhoff, authors of "Munity on the Bounty."

Oil Paintings By Art Students To Be Exhibited

The YWCA Food Service Committee announces that the Art Exhibit in the cafeteria during January is provided by new artists who have been in the YWCA Art Classes taught by Mrs. Marian Steavenson.

The following have oil paintings on display: Mrs. Lou Annie Neff, Mrs. Ann Tackels, Mrs. Helen Rightsell, Mrs. Carol Clarke, Mrs. Kay Plimpton, Mrs. Faye Brown, Mrs. Elizabeth Stallwood, Mrs. Marian Thearle and Mrs. Dora Cunningham.

The public is invited to view these oils which, are in a wide variety of subjects, during the regular cafeteria serving hours, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m.

Auxiliary Plans Smorgasbord in Church Parish Hall

St. Andrews Episcopal Church Women's Auxiliary will stage the first smorgasbord of 1964 Saturday, in the parish hall in Manitou Springs.

The ladies offer a choice of several main meat dishes plus the choice of many vegetables, salads and dessert. The smorgasbord is an "all you can eat" affair, with a reduced price for the youngsters.

The church women plan monthly smorgasbords, setting the first Saturday in each month as date of the dinners. They will serve from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

INSTANT SKI RESORT

BLUE KNOB, Pa.(AP)—When the U.S. Department of Defense closed down the radar station it had maintained since World War II on this cold and snowy peak in central Pennsylvania, private enterprise and recreation took over. Leasing all facilities, the area opened December 1 as a complete ski village with accomodations for 350 persons and parking for 750 cars. Officers quarters became two and three-bedroom chalets and mess halls were turned into restaurants. Other buildings became a ski shop, lift station and rental center.

Delta Gamma Alumnae Honor Visitor at Buffet

Mrs. Miller is the Province Secretary for Province XII, serving as the executive officer for Delta Gamma chapters in Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming. She is in Colorado Springs on her annual visit to the Colorado College campus where she is meeting with members of Beta Delta chapter.

In addition to Mrs. Weber, officers attending the gathering were Mrs. Verne Collier, vice president; Mrs. John Sampson, recording secretary; Mrs. Jack Westerdahl, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Donald Bates, public relations, and Anchora cor-Copsey, Panhelenic representative.

Advisory board members present were Mrs. William Helling, chairman; Mrs. Don Smith, rush; Mrs. Robert Larsh, pledge; Mrs. John Ten Eyck, scholarship; Mrs. Anthony Raskob, social; Mrs. James Paul, financial; and Mrs. Ray Medley, standards.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

For those of you who have children or grandchildren the greatest thing in our forty years of marriage was this hint . . .

Buy a shoe bag, or make one yourself.

We bought one on sale at the dime store. My wife removed the cord on the back of the front seat in our automobile.

This cord or strap is removable and if you can't find out how to remove it—drive back to the man you bought the car from and he'll show you how, or any filling station attendant will help you.)

My wife took the shoe bag, turned it down a few inches and stitched it on the machine making a "heading" along the top. She then threaded the cord on the back of the front seat through the shoe bag. It holds everything . . . from baby bottles, wet diapers, rattles, screwdrivers, maps, repair bills, (these we keep in the lower shoe basket) our dark glasses, clean diapers etc.

This is the greatest! Sure keeps the car clean. —Grandpa

Now aren't you a corker? We mothers think you are wonderful. Give Grandma a great big kiss for us all. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For those who want to know how we remove mildew from colored or white clothes:

We use buttermilk! We rub the buttermilk on with a cloth and if the spot is very, very bad it might take two or three rubbings. We then lay or hang it in the sun and later wash as usual. —Mrs. Bill Dakon

Dear Heloise:

I raised a large family and have always used one - gallon fruit jars to put dry cereal in when I bring it home from the store.

This keeps cereal crisp . . . the children could always see what "kind" of cereal they wanted to eat and I could tell when their favorite cereal was getting low . . . and it was time to buy some more!

I also kept oatmeal and other hot cereals in quart fruit jars with the lid "on" for the same reason. I now keep dried beans and macaroni in fruit jars. It's neat too. —Mrs. Helen Lewis

Dear Heloise:

I thaw frozen water pipes that are hard to get at by using a blow-type electric hair dryer. I hang or set it so as to direct the warm air onto the frozen part of the pipe and it thaws.

We bought our hair dryer just for this purpose and found it far cheaper than hiring somebody to do the job. —Mrs. N. Samuelson

Ladies, if your pipes insist on freezing, you might try this. We checked with a plumber and he says it will work and it was quite safe. —Heloise

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

When you are using your vacuum cleaner in the bedrooms, grab all your combs and especially the brushes, remove the nozzle from the vacuum cleaner and use the rod to vacuum them clean.

This cleans them thoroughly . . . no more messy hairs when washing out your combs and brushes! —F. N.

Dear Heloise:

Try using your famous nylon net for inner-facings for collars, cuffs, etc., when sewing!

It washes perfectly and always keeps its shape and does not "shrink". And it works just fine as an inner - facing when making button holes on your sewing machine! —Anna Williams

Anna I just made my daughter a jacket and tried your idea. Wonderful . . . no bulk either. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is a little hint I thought I would pass on to the housewives who have hot water radiators or steam heat:

If you tear off a piece of heavy aluminum foil and either thumbtack (if you have wall paper) or tape it on the wall behind the radiator, more heat will be reflected into your room. Try it! —Elmer

Dear Heloise:

To stop shoe tongues from pulling over to one side and not staying in the middle of the shoe, cut parallel slits near the top of the tongue and thread the lace through the slits before tying the last hole. The tongue will stay in place. —Ellen Woodruff

Family Invited to Visit Japan

Mrs. Sara Murphy, program director at Ft. Carson's Peak Service Club is trying to arrange to accept an invitation to be a guest of a Japanese family near Tokyo.

Two years ago she was on coffee call duty at the Colorado Springs USO Club as a volunteer worker and board member. Maj. Itsugo Kasai of the Japanese Army came in for guidance, enroute home from Ft. Knox, Ky.

Mrs. Murphy referred him to the James Donahue family, now of 1814 N. Royer St., who had a small downtown hotel, and whose son, Mike, was stationed with the U. S. Air Force in Japan at that time.

The arrangement was a happy one. The visiting major stayed five days and the Donahue's gave him the family hospitality treatment on his visit. He stopped especially because he knew Colorado Springs and Fujiyoshida, Japan have adopted one another.

The major has sent a Christmas card for two years to his Colorado Springs friends and this year added an invitation for Mrs. Murphy and her family to be his guests if they attend the 1964 Olympics in Japan.

MARRIED 58 YEARS—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Regester of Woodland Park celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary with a family dinner Dec. 20, at the Ted Weaver home in Divide. Attending were 36 members of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Regester were married Dec. 20, 1905 in Belleville, Kan. They have lived in the Pikes Peak region for the past thirty years.

Eta Psi Chapter Meets for Dinner

There was an exchange of gifts from secret sister. Three guests, Mrs. Phyllis Sudermann, Mrs. Barbara Phelps of Denver and Mrs. Jan Ford of Pueblo, attended.

Members present were Mesdames Georgia Kelly, Marilyn Patterson, Helen Sutton, Dorothy Bower, Stella Dale, Charlene Merrit, George Coupens, Jerry Langston and the hostess, Phoebe Hoffaker.

Drawing of names for secret sisters for the following year were made. The next meeting will be held at the home of George Coupens.

Malta will get more radios.

Neatness Is Not Order

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: You recently wrote that parents should recognize the difference between neatness and order in dealing with children's untidiness. Please write more about this. I was brought up to believe that neatness and order are the same thing and the idea that they are not is quite new to me . . .

ANSWER: Let me put it this way. Order in us can discriminate between the importance of things and the importance of human feelings. Neatness can't. It is inflexibly set on the importance of things.

A neat person will experience discomfort at the litter of Sunday papers on her living room floor. She cannot ask herself, "Is my desire for a tidy living room as important as my husband's interest in the sports news and my son's delight in the comic section?" She cannot answer, "No, it isn't."

She is just as disinterested in her own feelings. Though she may be suffering from a bad cold, untidiness in the bathroom will haunt her until she goes and cleans it. Things are disconnected from what people feel about them. They must be given priority regardless of what they mean to human beings.

An orderly person likes things in their place, too. She likes bathroom towels hung on their racks and coats hung in their closets just as much as the neat person does.

But if she feels sick with an approaching cold, she can give top priority to her sick feeling—and forget her untidy bathroom.

If her child leaves a coat on the sofa instead of hanging it in the closet, order—the sense of discrimination—in her doesn't have to rush at the child with complaints of untidiness. It can wait to learn why the coat has been left on the sofa.

Neatness is what psychologists call "compulsive"—a rigid tidiness we must maintain regardless of changing human circumstances. Order, on the other hand, always involves the willingness to move with changing human circumstances. It's what enables us to see the difference between cleaning a bathroom when we feel well and when we feel sick; to understand how a coat can be hung in the closet on Tuesday and left on the sofa on Wednesday.

Order is a beautiful human quality because it is responsive, not to what existed yesterday but what exists today.

Welcome to Beef

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

After so much rich and fancy holiday food, a meal of boiled beef with horseradish sauce and boiled potatoes seems just about right. The best recipe we know comes from Luchow's in New York, rated by critical eaters as the outstanding German restaurant in the U.S.A. Jan Mitchell, the cultivated owner and director, told us that Boiled Beef Luchow is the No. 1 favorite of his men customers and gave us the recipe.

Boiled Beef (Serves 2 to 4)

4 pounds fresh plate beef (about 3 ribs)
1½ teaspoons salt
Boiling water
2 or 3 sprigs parsley
4 peppercorns
½ teaspoon thyme
2 onions, peeled
2 carrots, scraped
1 parsnip, peeled
1 small turnip, peeled
1 bay leaf
Horseradish sauce

Wipe meat with damp cloth. Rub with salt. Place in pot. Cover with boiling water; bring to a boil quickly and boil 10 minutes. Skim top. Add parsley, peppercorns and thyme. Cover pot, reduce heat, and cook slowly 2½ to 3 hours. For last hour of cooking add vegetables and bay leaf. Use the broth from the pot for soup. Serve Boiled Beef with horseradish sauce and plain boiled vegetables.

SHOOTS BOAR

TREVOR'S LITTLE CROW

LONDON (AP) — Eight-year-old Trevor Smith, true to the tradition of Mary and her little lamb, has a pet crow that follows him to school each day. While Trevor is in classes, Blackie, the crow, waits in the playground and occasionally sits on the window-sill and pecks impatiently at the glass. After school, Blackie goes home to spend the rest of the day in the house or garden. He is fed on horsemeat and sleeps on Trevor's bed at night.

Opening lead: King of ♣

While South's opening two diamond bid is a shade shy of the technical requirements, we are not inclined to quibble with his choice. When North made the negative response of two no trump, South properly showed his second suit, spades. At this point, North felt waranted in making one try for bigger things since a good fit had now been uncovered, and his hand was worth seven points in support of spades. He accordingly raised beyond game by bidding five spades.

Perhaps South should have passed at this point but, holding first round control of both unbid suits, he was unwilling to settle for less than a slam, and he proceeded to six spades.

The king of clubs was opened and ruffed in the closed hand. South observed that his diamond suit could probably be established with one ruff but, even counting six diamond tricks together with four spades and one heart, he would still be one short of his goal. It might be possible to establish a second heart trick, but he was reluctant to open up that suit for fear of misguessing the location of the king.

The declarer resolved to try an alternate line of play which required only a mite of assistance from the opposition. He proceeded to cash the ace, king of diamonds, and then lead a third round of the suit. West played the queen and was permitted to hold the trick as both the dummy and East discarded clubs.

Since his partner failed to make any violent signal in hearts, West chose the apparently safe exit of a club, forcing the declarer to ruff once more. South played the ace and queen of spades, carefully overtaking the queen with the king so that North's jack could draw the last trump. The closed hand was entered with the ace of hearts and dummy's remaining losers were discarded on the established diamond suit.

West's seemingly innocuous club return enabled South to take six trump tricks instead of and four spade tricks in dummy. If West had exited with a trump, declarer must go down to defeat, for he lacks the transportation required to negotiate the second club ruff on his own.

Rebekahs, Odd Fellows Plan Joint Installation

There will be refreshments after installation. The public is invited. Officers to be installed should be at the hall before 8 p.m. for instructions.

COLLEGE COST

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Americans' discretionary income, the source of most families' college funds, has risen by more than five times since 1940, but the cost of a college education has only tripled in the same period, according to Robert J. Keir, chairman of The Tuition Plan of New Hampshire, Inc.

Discretionary income — what is spent for products and services other than the basic essentials of everyday living — jumped from $35 to $136-billion while the average cost of four years at private college was rising from $3,700 to $11,300, he said.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Carrying Things Too Far

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a mail carrier and some of the stories he tells me about the women he sees on his route would curl your hair. He says some of them answer the door in their bathrobes at two o'clock in the afternoon! And he has seen some appear in thin, see-through nylon dusters. Anyway, he says he sure wishes they would cover up as they are disgraceful! I was taught to dress up in the morning, with undergarments, hosiery, shoes and a fresh house dress. And, believe me, I wasn't trying to tempt the mail carrier, either. Please print this so the guilty ones will see it and take the hint. —MAIL CARRIER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I doubt if the average housewife has any intention of carrying away the mail carrier. It's her MAIL she's interested in — not your MALE.

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper to thank people at the grave for having come to a funeral? My little niece passed away last week. She was only two years old. The funeral was small in attendance, but very lovely. When we were all leaving the cemetery, the child's grandmother went around to all the people she knew and said, "Thank you for coming." This is the first time I have ever heard of THANKING people for attending a funeral. Wasn't she out of order? —SIMPLE QUESTION

DEAR SIMPLE: I see nothing wrong with thanking those she knew for attending the funeral. And if you do, you appear to have dug uncommonly deep to find fault.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady with a nice man for six months and he wants me to meet his people. He says his mother wants me to come for dinner. I am 28 and he is 32. When I go to his house for dinner for the first time, should I offer to help his mother with the dishes afterwards? I have never met his mother or father. —NERVOUS

DEAR NERVOUS: If his mother has no help in the kitchen and it is apparent that she must do her own cleaning up, by all means offer to help.

DEAR ABBY: Just a comment on the letter from the mother of a fifth grader who wanted a garter belt and nylon stockings. My 12-year-old son is a born conformist. In the fifth grade he started giving me this "But, Mom, everybody else is . . ." business. I broke him of the habit by answering. "Fine. Give me a list of all the boys and I'll call their mothers and see what they say." Naturally, I was never given the name of one boy. And that put a stop to it. —MRS. M.

add ZEST to everyday foods with SINTON'S NORDICA sour cream

Velvety-smooth Sinton's Nordica sour cream heightens the taste of ordinary foods, and adds a new tang to please the family Gourmets. Sinton's Nordica sour cream increases important nutritive values, too!

HERE'S JUST A SAMPLE OF THE GOOD EATING YOU'LL GET WHEN YOU COOK WITH SINTON'S NORDICA SOUR CREAM.

Beef Stroganoff

2 pounds beef chuck, cut in 1 inch cubes
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup shortening
1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
¾ cup water

Mix flour, salt and pepper together and roll meat in this until well-coated. Melt shortening in heavy skillet and brown meat. Add Worcestershire Sauce and water. Simmer 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Whip sour cream with onion mix into hot broth from meat. Pour sauce over meat and heat. Turn into serving dish and garnish with chopped parsley. Serve with buttered noodles, mashed potatoes or fluffy rice. Makes 8 servings.

Be sure to ask your Sinton milkman for a FREE copy of Sinton's Sour Cream Recipe Book. It has 51 fun recipes.

Looking At Hollywood

TV's DON KNOTTS READY FOR SERIES OF HIS OWN

HOLLYWOOD — Don Knotts, who could read a verse from the Bible and make it sound funny, says there was a time when producers weren't exactly breaking down his door to give him billing. Now it's different; he can have a series of his own when he finishes his fifth season with the Andy Griffith TV show.

"I have a tough decision to make. I've had several offers to do my own show when I'm free but I don't know where to jump. If I had a hit show the financial gain would be great; but there are many things to think about. I was on TV with Steve Allen for four years, then this present series will make nine years straight on TV.

"My only Broadway experience was two years in 'No Time for Sergeants' and I'd like to do another play," Knotts continued. "Most of all I'd like to do an English comedy; I love their sense of humor. There's been some interest in that direction but I haven't done anything about it as I'm committed to Andy for another year. I don't want to tie myself down so I won't be able to do feature pictures. Film offers don't always come in at the right time; you can't depend on the timing. They make such attractive offers for TV but I think maybe if I took a year or two off to do some of these other things they wouldn't want me any more."

At 17, Don left Morgantown, W. Va., to try his luck in New York as a ventriloquist. He tried out on Major Bowes' Amateur Hour and Camel Caravan radio show, was turned down by both. He then majored in speech at West Virginia university, with the idea of becoming a teacher. But he was drafted and in the Army show "Stars and Gripes," and later traveled the South Pacific in a comedy routine. He worked on radio and TV before reading for "Sergeants." He came to Hollywood with the Steve Allen Tonight show, and when it went off he suggested the role of Barney Fife to Andy Griffith, who had just made the pilot for the series.

Both Don and Andy Griffith have a flair for writing and a genius for keeping alive the slight thread of insanity which runs thru the show. Don doesn't work as much with the writers now as he did in the days when he was shaping the character.

"But we still work out our problems sitting around a table discussing what we'll do with the script and inventing comedy bits to hang it on. We have good writers but it's a grind working in a day; a director of 20 years back just wouldn't believe it. You grow skilled at inventing fast, memorizing fast, moving fast to get the job done; I worry that perhaps it's sacrificing some creative instinct and may hurt eventually."

Federal spending in 1962 for education amounted to $598 million including $157 million for veterans' education benefits.

Maj. Briand To Address Wives Club

The author of a widely read book on Amelia Earhart will discuss the famed aviatrix's life before the Air Force Academy Officers' Wives Club Thursday at noon.

Maj. Paul Briand, associate professor and course director, Department of English, is author of "Daughter of the Sky," a 1959 publication dealing with Miss Earhart's many exploits.

Wives of Department of Athletics staff members are sponsoring the luncheon.

Maj. Briand also has a book slated for publication this year. In August of 1963 he traveled to Tohiti to gather background material for "In Search of Paradise," a biography of James Norman Hall and Charles Nordhoff, authors of "Munity on the Bounty."

Oil Paintings By Art Students To Be Exhibited

Auxiliary Plans Smorgasbord in Church Parish Hall

St. Andrews Episcopal Church Women's Auxiliary will stage the first smorgasbord of 1964 Saturday, in the parish hall in Manitou Springs.

The ladies offer a choice of several main meat dishes plus the choice of many vegetables, salads and dessert. The smorgasbord is an "all you can eat" affair, with a reduced price for the youngsters.

The church women plan monthly smorgasbords, setting the first Saturday in each month as date of the dinners. They will serve from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

INSTANT SKI RESORT

BLUE KNOB, Pa. (AP)—When the U.S. Department of Defense closed down the radar station it had maintained since World War II on this cold and snowy peak in central Pennsylvania, private enterprise and recreation took over. Leasing all facilities, the area opened December 1 as a complete ski village with accomodations for 350 persons and parking for 750 cars. Officers quarters became two and three-bedroom chalets and mess halls were turned into restaurants. Other buildings became a ski shop, lift station and rental center.

Delta Gamma Alumnae Honor Visitor at Buffet

Mrs. Miller is the Province Secretary for Province XII, serving as the executive officer for Delta Gamma chapters in Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming. She is in Colorado Springs on her annual visit to the Colorado College campus where she is meeting with members of Beta Delta chapter.

In addition to Mrs. Weber, officers attending the gathering were Mrs. Verne Collier, vice president; Mrs. John Sampson, recording secretary; Mrs. Jack Westerdahl, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Donald Bates, public relations, and Anchora correspondent, Mrs. Copsey, Panhelenic representative.

Advisory board members present were Mrs. William Helling, chairman; Mrs Don Smith, rush; Mrs. Robert Larsh, pledge; Mrs. John Ten Eyck, scholarship; Mrs. Anthony Raskob, social; Mrs. James Paul, financial; and Mrs. Ray Medley, standards.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

For those of you who have children or grandchildren the greatest thing in our forty years of marriage was this hint . . .

Buy a shoe bag, or make one yourself.

We bought one on sale at the dime store. My wife removed the cord on the back of the front seat in our automobile.

This cord or strap is removable and if you can't find out how to remove it—drive back to the man you bought the car from and he'll show you how, or any filling station attendant will help you.)

My wife took the shoe bag, turned it down a few inches and stitched it on the machine making a "heading" along the top. She then threaded the cord on the back of the front seat through the shoe bag. It holds everything . . . from baby bottles, wet diapers, rattles, screwdrivers, maps, repair bills, (these we keep in the lower shoe basket) our dark glasses, clean diapers etc.

This is the greatest! Sure keeps the car clean. —Grandpa

Now aren't you a corker? We mothers think you are wonderful. Give Grandma a great big kiss for us all. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For those who want to know how we remove mildew from colored or white clothes:

We use buttermilk! We rub the buttermilk on with a cloth and if the spot is very, very bad it might take two or three rubbings. We then lay or hang it in the sun and later wash as usual. —Mrs. Bill Dakon

Dear Heloise:

I raised a large family and have always used one - gallon fruit jars to put dry cereal in when I bring it home from the store.

This keeps cereal crisp . . . the children could always see what "kind" of cereal they wanted to eat and I could tell when their favorite cereal was getting low . . . and it was time to buy some more!

I also kept oatmeal and other hot cereals in quart fruit jars with the lid "on" for the same reason. I now keep dried beans and macaroni in fruit jars. It's neat too. —Mrs. Helen Lewis

Dear Heloise:

I thaw frozen water pipes that are hard to get at by using a blow-type electric hair dryer. I hang or set it so as to direct the warm air onto the frozen part of the pipe and it thaws.

We bought our hair dryer just for this purpose and found it far cheaper than hiring somebody to do the job. —Mrs. N. Samuelson

Ladies, if your pipes insist on freezing, you might try this. We checked with a plumber and he says it will work and it was quite safe. —Heloise

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

When you are using your vacuum cleaner in the bedrooms, grab all your combs and especially the brushes, remove the nozzle from the vacuum cleaner and use the rod to vacuum them clean.

This cleans them thoroughly . . . no more messy hairs when washing out your combs and brushes! —F. N.

Dear Heloise:

Try using your famous nylon net for inner-facings for collars, cuffs, etc., when sewing!

It washes perfectly and always keeps its shape and does not "shrink". And it works just fine as an inner - facing when making button holes on your sewing machine! —Anna Williams

Anna I just made my daughter a jacket and tried your idea. Wonderful . . . no bulk either. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is a little hint I thought I would pass on to the housewives who have hot water radiators or steam heat:

If you tear off a piece of heavy aluminum foil and either thumbtack (if you have wall paper) or tape it on the wall behind the radiator, more heat will be reflected into your room. Try it! —Elmer

Dear Heloise:

To stop shoe tongues from pulling over to one side and not staying in the middle of the shoe, cut parallel slits near the top of the tongue and thread the lace through the slits before tying the last hole. The tongue will stay in place. —Ellen Woodruff

Family Invited to Visit Japan

Mrs. Sara Murphy, program director at Ft. Carson's Peak Service Club is trying to arrange to accept an invitation to be a guest of a Japanese family near Tokyo.

Two years ago she was on coffee call duty at the Colorado Springs USO Club as a volunteer worker and board member. Maj. Itsugo Kasai of the Japanese Army came in for guidance, enroute home from Ft. Knox, Ky.

Mrs. Murphy referred him to the James Donahue family, now of 1814 N. Royer St., who had a small downtown hotel, and whose son, Mike, was stationed with the U. S. Air Force in Japan at that time.

The arrangement was a happy one. The visiting major stayed five days and the Donahue's gave him the family hospitality treatment on his visit. He stopped especially because he knew Colorado Springs and Fujiyoshida, Japan have adopted one another.

The major has sent a Christmas card for two years to his Colorado Springs friends and this year added an invitation for Mrs. Murphy and her family to be his guests if they attend the 1964 Olympics in Japan.

MARRIED 58 YEARS—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Regester of Woodland Park celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary with a family dinner Dec. 29, at the Ted Weaver home in Divide. Attending were 36 members of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Regester were married Dec. 20, 1905 in Belleville, Kan. They have lived in the Pikes Peak region for the past thirty years.

Eta Psi Chapter Meets for Dinner

There was an exchange of gifts from secret sister. Three guests, Mrs. Phyllis Sudermann, Mrs. Barbara Phelps of Denver and Mrs. Jan Ford of Pueblo, attended.

Members present were Mesdames Georgia Kelly, Marilyn Patterson, Helen Sutton, Dorothy Bower, Stella Dale, Charlene Merrit, George Coupens, Jerry Langston and the hostess, Phoebe Hoffaker.

Drawing of names for secret sisters for the following year were made. The next meeting will be held at the home of George Coupens.

Malta will get more radios.

HOLLYWOOD — Don Knotts, who could read a verse from the Bible and make it sound funny, says there was a time when producers weren't exactly breaking down his door to give him billing. Now it's different; he can have a series of his own when he finishes his fifth season with the Andy Griffith TV show.

"I have a tough decision to make. I've had several offers to do my own show when I'm free but I don't know where to jump. If I had a hit show the financial gain would be great; but there are many things to think about. I was on TV with Steve Allen for four years, then this present series will make nine years straight on TV.

"My only Broadway experience was two years in 'No Time for Sergeants' and I'd like to do another play," Knotts continued. "Most of all I'd like to do an English comedy; I love their sense of humor. There's been some interest in that direction but I haven't done anything about it as I'm committed to Andy for another year. I don't want to tie myself down so I won't be able to do feature pictures. Film offers don't always come in at the right time; you can't depend on the timing. They make such attractive offers for TV but I think maybe if I took a year or two off to do some of these other things they wouldn't want me any more."

At 17, Don left Morgantown, W. Va., to try his luck in New York as a ventriloquist. He tried out on Major Bowes' Amateur Hour and Camel Caravan radio show, was turned down by both. He then majored in speech at West Virgina university, with the idea of becoming a teacher. But he was drafted and in the Army show "Stars and Gripes," and later traveled the South Pacific in a comedy routine. He worked on radio and TV before reading for "Sergeants." He came to Hollywood with the Steve Allen Tonight show, and when it went off he suggested the role of Barney Fife to Andy Griffith, who had just made the pilot for the series.

Both Don and Andy Griffith have a flair for writing and a genius for keeping alive the slight thread of insanity which runs thru the show. Don doesn't work as much with the writers now as he did in the days when he was shaping the character.

"But we still work out our problems sitting around a table discussing what we'll do with the script and inventing comedy bits to hang it on. We have good writers but it's a grind working in a day; a director of 20 years back just wouldn't believe it. You grow skilled at inventing fast, memorizing fast, moving fast to get the job done; I worry that perhaps it's sacrificing some creative instinct and may hurt eventually."

Federal spending in 1962 for education amounted to $598 million including $157 million for veterans' education benefits.

Wild Brawl Highlights NBA Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A torrid brawl three minutes before game's end highlighted National Basketball Association action Wednesday night as the Los Angeles Lakers walloped the New York Knicks 136-118.

The fourth period began with the Knicks' Billy McGill and Jim Krebs of the Lakers jostling one another. A fight nearly followed but teammates intervened.

As the Laker lead grew longer, tempers grew shorter. Krebs and McGill resumed their shoving match and then switched to throwing punches.

Players from both benches spilled onto the court and fights broke out all over the floor. For nearly six minutes, referees frantically blew whistles and police called for reinforcements while the fans watched with delight.

Finally, officers restored order, players returned to their benches, and four ejected players—Lakers' Nelson and Krebs, Knicks' Hoover and McGill — tramped dejectedly to the showers.

Before the explosion, Jerry West poured in 39 and Elgin Baylor 36 to lead the Lakers to their fifth straight win and their sixth consecutive victory over the New Yorkers.

In two other games on the Wednesday night schedule the Baltimore Bullets snapped a four-game losing streak with a 106-99 victory over the Detroit Pistons and the Philadelphia 76ers returned to their former Syracuse home where they dropped a 126-110 decision to the Cincinnati Royals.

Tigers Win Sixth Straight; Move on to North Dakota

ATHENS, O. — It was most enjoyable while it lasted, but it appears the honeymoon's over for Colorado College.

The Colorado hockey team left here this morning on their way to North Dakota after completing a sweep of five straight games on their eastern tour and running their winning streak to six with a 10-1 pounding of Ohio University Wednesday night.

That victory gave the Tigers of new coach Bob Johnson a sparkling 7-3 record for the season and the longest win skein since before the 1959-60 season when they took six straight—and then lost every other game that winter.

Whether this will be an omen for the Bengals will be told this weekend when they fly into Grand Forks, N. D., for games against the defending national champions. It will be the second series in Western Collegiate Hockey Association play for both CC and North Dakota, with the Tigers owning a 1-1 league record and the Sioux currently marked at 0-1-1 following a tie and loss against pre-season favorite Denver.

Should Colorado College happen to fare well against the Nodaks in the Friday and Saturday night duals, they still would be in great shape for a run at the loop playoffs between the top four clubs. Following these two contests CC can rest until Jan. 31 when they journey to Michigan for the next league tests. Three non-league games at home come between.

After Wednesday night's rout of Ohio's Bobcats the Colorado skaters appeared to be growing stronger with each outing, under the guidance of their new mentor. Again sophomores played a key role in the victory with the yearlings getting five of the goals, including Dave Peterson's three-goal hat trick.

It was the fourth time in five games one of the Tigers has turned the "trick" during the trip thru the east with senior Wayne McAlpine getting three the previous night in CC's 10-6 triumph. Others were authored by Bob Magie, a junior, and Glen Blumer, another sophomore.

Despite the one-sided affair on Wednesday, it was obvious that the count could easily have gone higher for the invaders from the Centennial state. Ohio's goalie Mike Homovex had a very busy night in the nets getting in front of the flying pucks as he picked off no less than 69 shots off the CC sticks with 25 of them coming in the first period when the Tigers tallied five times.

Altho sick in bed the day before with the flu, CC again returned senior Art Warwick to the goalie's position and he stopped 19 shots in a relatively easy assignment.

The 79 shots on goal by the Bengals against Ohio was by far a new record for CC. The previous high in attempts was during the 1956-57 season when Red Hay and his Hay-Cha Bomb line was roving the league as they fired 62 times against Minnesota.

For the second straight night here, the game was played in near zero temperatures as the open-end Bird Arena afford little shelter from the outside cold. However, it didn't seem to cool off the Tigers as they skated to a comfortable 5-1 lead in the opening period and then coasted the rest of the way.

Peterson opened the scoring on a feed from his center Roger Simon, and then Simon and Blumer each countered again before Ohio was able to slap in its only goal of the evening. The lone Bobcat score came from Steve Petro at the halfway mark of the initial period.

Peterson completed his "hat trick" with the only goals of the second period and then the Tigers padded the margin by three more in another exhibition of final frame endurance despite being on the road for the fifth straight game.

Altho there was plenty of scoring in the game from the CC side on the rink, and 10 penalties whistled (five for high sticking), only two of the goals came when one team was shorthanded. Those were both in the final period when Warren Fordyce banged one in with Ohio sitting out an infraction, and another by Johnny Simus near the end of the contest with the Bobcats short again.

Portland Topples Vancouver

By United Press International

You'd never know it by looking at the standings, but the hottest teams in the Western Hockey League right now are Portland and San Francisco.

The Bucks are still on the minus side of .500, but moved into second place Wednesday night with an 8-3 rout of Vancouver. It was their sixth win in seven starts and their biggest goal output of the campaign.

San Francisco moved into a tie for fourth with Seattle with a 5-4 victory over the Totems. That was the Seals' fifth win in their past six tries.

San Francisco also Wednesday sent wing Pete Pangagabko to Minneapolis of the Central Professional League.

The Seals can afford the loss of the two men better than most squads because their squad had been two over the limit of 16.

Greeley Tops Leadoff Cage Poll

A familiar name was back on top of the Denver Post poll ranking the state's high school basketball teams today. Greeley's Wildcats, longtime power in Colorado cage circles, were voted the top spot by coaches and sports writers.

Greeley picked up 232 points in the first of the weekly polls for 1964 to edge East Denver for first place. Manual, also of the Denver League, placed third and Pueblo Central, unbeaten leader of the South Central League, is third.

Greeley led a four-team representation from the Northern League in the top 10. In addition to the Wildcats, Aurora Central placed fifth, Englewood sixth, and Longmont eighth. East Denver, Manual, and Lincoln (10th) represent the Denver League, Pueblo Central and Grand Junction (9th) the South Central, and Lakewood (7th) the Jefferson County.

Altho only two of its members made the top 10, the South Central had an amazing overall representation with seven of its eight members picking up votes. Centennial was ranked 12th, Pueblo South 15th, Pueblo East 16th, Palmer in a tie for 17th, and Trinidad in a tie for 19th.

Giardello-Jacobs Bout Set Feb. 8

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Middleweight champion Joey Giardello will meet light-heavy weight Herschel Jacobs of White Plains, N.Y., in a 10-round non-title bout at the Paterson Armory Feb. 8, promoter Lou Duva announced today.

It will be Giardello's first ring appearance since he won the crown from Dick Tiger in Atlantic City Dec. 7.

Invaders Lose Migay With Injured Knee

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—To put a cap on the latest Denver Invaders troubles, the Western Hockey League leaders were told Wednesday veteran standout center Rudy Migay probably will be sidelined a month because of a knee injury. The Invaders, who dropped their last two games after enjoying an eight-game winning streak, report Migay has torn ligaments in his left knee. Migay has racked up 39 points this season.

Denver Sertoma Club Proposes Bowl Game

DENVER (UPI) —A post-season football bowl game for the Denver area has been proposed by the city's Sertoma Club. The club asked the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Extra Events Committee for approval of a Denver-area bowl, involving two major teams from the Rocky Mountain area. NCAA rules require a one-year waiting period for groups filing such a notification of intent, meaning no action can be taken until the NCAA convention next January.

BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

A Familiar Story

The flood of crocodile tears some have been shedding would appear enough to help the country's drought next summer. But despite the long line at the wailing wall, it's doubtful the cry for reconsideration by the dial-turning fight fans will influence the recent announcement that the sport will be dropped from programing next year.

Altho on occasion I've peered at a few of these airwaves bouts in the past, the first reaction here is — good riddance.

Eventually, it could prove true that this will be a death blow to the sport which has seen the extremes of bad and good moments. But before we cart the carcass to its final resting place six feet deep, it would seem wise to wait and see if there isn't a miracle of new life yet breathing inside.

This is no prediction of a great future for boxing — the glory days of the sport are probably gone for ever, and it has absorbed far too many near fatal blows to make a comeback that will equal its youth. But, remember they've been counting to 10 over prize fighting since John L. Sullivan first put padding on his bare fists.

There's little doubt that beak-busting will be broadcast over the airwaves much longer. But there's some disagreement over what this will mean.

One of the more outspoken optimists for the future has been Colorado's own Jack Dempsey, who has since settled in New York where he's now more concerned with putting a sirloin on a platter than over a black eye. "It's the best thing that has happened to boxing since Joe Louis first came around in the middle 30s," he recently said. "How did promoters expect to sell tickets and give their show away free in homes and saloons at the same time?"

Dempsey hit it right on the ole kisser. While there once was young fighters making the scene all over the country, this supply of new talent was cut to a mere dribble as the hard core of fandom stayed away in droves from the local cards as long as the shows were telecast every week.

With no one to support the local clubs, it's only natural that those who might have made good in the brutal sport gave it up for such wholesome activities as street fighting, switch-blade operation and other side products of their fistic talents. It would undoubtedly be amazing to find figures on not only how many would-be champions were forced out of the sport, but also how many were given prison terms that otherwise might have been channelled to a better way of life thru an organized club.

Much of this is an all too familiar story.

Do you remember the popularity of local professional baseball teams before the advent of television?

Some 15 years ago the number of minor leagues around the land numbered near 60 and now that has dwindled to a mere 16 after the folding this past summer of the class A Pioneer League. It will go even lower in the next couple years.

Certainly not all this is because of the one-eyed monster as the game has out-dated itself with snail-paced action. But much of this demise was caused by broadcasting major league games into the areas once served by the minors. Again, it was a case of fans not wanting to purchase the product when it's offered for free.

The entire sport is feeling the cut in the supply line of talent for without the minors to supply fresh blood there are fewer and fewer making the climb to the big leagues. There's no doubt that the entire sport is being downgraded because there's no longer a place to learn the trade.

Some may laugh when we say the same thing could happen in football. Right now professional football is at its peak and many college games have capacity crowds for just about every game.

But there are a great many small schools that have already given up the ghost and even a few bigger schools like Denver University in this area which decided they could no longer stand to see so many empty seats in the stands.

DICK TIGER
No Camera Coverage

With major games being telecast around the country every week, and then usually a double dose from the pro leagues on the weekends also, it could be that more and more fans will look at the traffic around the stadium, note a threat of bad weather, check the price of the tickets — and then reach for the knob on the livingroom tube.

Granted, it probably will take some time for football to take the same route as baseball and now boxing ... but it could eventually come. And can you imagine how long the pros would last without the ready-made training grounds of collegiate football?

As I said in the beginning, this is no prediction of a comeback for boxing. But I agree with Dempsey that it's the best thing that could have happened. The only regret is that it didn't happen years ago!

Already television has squeezed the talent so thin that only a handful of fighters are left to view. It's no wonder the ratings on the weekly shows has dropped to a decimal of what it used to be when the sofa sports fans were seeing the same faces week after week.

The money grabbing of camera-conscious promoters has spread so much filth on the name of the sport that it may be impossible for it to return to the lively business that used to be. The tidy bundles that have rewarded a few thru juicy contracts have lured the scum of the underworld into the dressingrooms of too many fighters. There is so much criminal control of prize fighting now that it may never be regarded as an honest sport.

However, the news that the bouts will no longer be broadcast may have come just in time if there are enough people left who enjoy a good fight in the flesh so that the local clubs can again draw well enough to break even.

There have been recent fights which did pretty well even without the swag from the magic eye. For instance, the Cassius Clay and Doug Jones bout sold out for a $103,000 gate even during the newspaper strike in New York.

And then there was the middleweight title match between Joey Giardello and Dick Tiger that grossed $90,000 in Atlantic City with no camera coverage. These are just a couple of the bigger ones.

But doesn't it seem strange that the boxing business is booming nearly everywhere in the world except in this country? The reason is that there is either no give-away shows by video or else the tube is used only to promote the sport.

Miss Saubert Easliy Wins Ski Event

By CHARLES LA ROCHE
United Press International

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (UPI)—Jean Saubert, a 21-year old Oregon State University student, established herself as a gold medal favorite for the Winter Olympics Wednesday by beating the world's best woman skiers by a large margin in the giant slalom of the Grindewald ski races.

Clocking 1:37.38 for her run through 49 gates on a track of 1100 meters with 320 meters vertical drop, she won by two seconds over Austria's Traudl Hecher, and four seconds over third-placed Marielle Goitschel of France, Tuesday's slalom winner.

These margins would have been enough to give Miss Saubert a second gold medal in the combined event, if she had not been disqualified from her second place in the slalom for missing gates.

Miss Hecher, a 20-year-old blonde, clocked 1:39.35 in the giant slalom against 1:41.38 for Miss Goitschel.

The ladies have only one more competition, at Bad Gastein Jan. 15-16, before the Winter Olympics.

Miss Saubert and Miss Goitschel have dominated the major pre-Olympic meets in the last month, vying for a favorable draw for the winter games at Innsbruck, Austria, Jan. 29-Feb. 9.

Linda Meyers of Bishop, Calif., was timed in 1:45.26 for 14th place after finishing fifth Tuesday in the special slalom event.

Barbara Ferries of Houghton, Mich., finished 20th with a time of 1:45.76; Margo Walters, Salt Lake City, Utah, placed 27th in 1:47.60 and Star Walton of Sacramento, Calif., placed 28th in the official standings with 1:49.18.

The stunning victory for the 5 ft. 6 in. brunette from Lakeview, Ore., was the result of taking every risk in the book.

"I always take risks," she said at the finish line, "and today I just let go. I liked the track. The surface varied, but I got a lot of speed."

After her disqualification in the slalom, it was easier for the American girl to take risks, than for Miss Goitschel who had an eye on the best overall performance in both races.

Schmakel Takes Over Boston Grid Team

BOSTON (UPI) — Newly appointed Boston University football Coach Warren H. Schmakel today had the task of shaping the Terrier squad into winning form after inheriting a last season's record of only one win, one tie and six losses.

Schmakel, 43, line coach at Rutgers University, Wednesday was named head coach at BU succeeding Steve Sinko who resigned last December, in disagreement over the university's gradual de-emphasis of football. Schmakel reports to his new post Wednesday.

A Rutgers coach since 1960, Schmakel brings a winning record to BU. His overall coaching record at Miami of Ohio, Central Michigan and the University of Nebraska was impressive. He also was credited with building a strong line at Rutgers which was undefeated in 1961.

Pirates Prepare for Tough Weekend Slate

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

"The turning point was late in the third period when Pfalmer (Dick) inspired us with key shooting and outstanding rebounding," expounded St. Mary's young coach Dan Wright after the Pirates presented Mullen with its first home loss in three years last Sunday.

Altho the Buccaneers topped the touted Mustangs, 65-60, last weekend in Denver, Wright's charges lost their first home game in three years to the Denver Parochial League perennial power, Regis, 62-50, last Friday.

This weekend's slate calls for the Pirates to entertain the winner of the recent St. Joseph's Tournament, the Tigers of Holy Family, on Friday, and Sunday the Bucs journey north again for an outing against highly respected Machebeuf. That game is scheduled for the St. Francis Gymnasium with tip-off time set for 2:30 p.m.

Both squads are undefeated in DPL play, and are tied with Regis for loop standings via 2-0 records. St. Mary's finds itself deadlocked with Mullen, Mt. Carmel, and Cathedral in DPL standings with a 1-1 won-lost mark. Last year's state paroke champion, Annunciation, who downed the Pirates in the playoffs last season, holds down the DPL cellar along with St. Francis and St. Joseph's via 0-1 record.

Pfalmer and David Grantz where the lone St. Mary's cagers that proved successful against Regis last week. The visiting Denver team completely dominated the rebounding and scoring, and save for Pfalmer's first period individual performance, the Raiders took out a monopoly of sinking two-pointers. This was the Pirates' first defeat in six outings this season.

Guy Gibbs' Raiders, picked as favorites to snatch the DPL crown, tossed in 25 of 51 field goal attempts whereas the Bucs could only make good 22 of 59 from the field. The Regis aggregation, led by Tom Robinson's 22 points and 11 rebounds, jumped out ahead for a 21-10 first period margin and the Mile High City squad maintained a 10-point span thruout the DPL opener.

The revamped Pirates, led by Pfalmer's rebounding and Mike Conway's 20-point output, came back strong on Sunday to hand the Mullen team its first home loss in three years. This key victory enabled the Colorado Springs team to remain in contention for DPL laurels.

Wright, in his first term as head coach at St. Mary's, gave credit to Pfalmer for the victory over Mullen. It was the 6-3 forward's stunning performance clearing the boards that gave the Pirates an edge in that department. Pfalmer pulled down 20 rebounds in addition to pumping in 15 points.

Conway scored 20 points to lift his total to 72 points in six games and took over the scoring race. Pfalmer has tossed in 62 points to control the second place in the squad's individual scoring race, followed by Tom McCarthy and Grantz with 51 points.

Pfalmer caught an elbow enroute to the deck in the third period, and after temporary medical aid, the Pirate senior was back in the ball game taking over control of the boards. At the time of his brief departure from the struggle, the game was nip and tuck. But Pfalmer's leadership and rebounding enabled the Pirates to take control of the scoring and pull out the victory.

The St. Mary's forward required seven stitches to close the cut on his bottom lip. But Pfalmer readily admitted that at the time he didn't know the cut was that serious.

Undefeated Terrors Battle Wasson in CHL Play Tonite

Palmer's hockey team, spearheaded by the surperb shooting of Chuck Reinking, leads the City Hockey League undefeated in four outings. The Terrors will put that record on the line tonight at the Broadmoor World Arena against cross-town rival Wasson.

The Wasson icers are lodged in second place in the city loop via a 2-3 won-loss record while Fountain Valley and Cheyenne Mountain stand third and fourth respectively.

In the Young America Hockey competition, the Kiwanis Redwings lead the pack in the Heavyweight Division, and the Kiwanis Flyers top the Middleweight classification. Both squads have compiled a 2-0 records. And in the Lightweight Division, the Cheyenne Aces stand undefeated in three games.

Reinking dominates the scoring in the City League with 19 points on 15 goals and four assists to far outpace the individual scoring chase. Dave Miller of Wasson is second with 10 points, and Pete Haney of Palmer and T-Birds Bill Michell and Jim Berthrong are deadlocked for the third place with seven points.

Bruins Want Aces' Worsley

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A few more rough games for Montreal's Charley Hodge and Boston won't have a ghost of a chance of swinging a deal for goalie Gump Worsley.

The Bruins reportedly have been casting covetous eyes at Worsley, the former National Hockey League star who has been toiling in the American League with the Quebec Aces. Worsley was traded by the New York Rangers last summer for Montreal's Jacques Plante but played only eight games for the Habs before being injured. Hodge filled in brilliantly and before he knew it, Worsley was in the AHL.

The slump-ridden Bruins are said to be interested in swapping their goalie, Ed Johnston, for the Gump, but after the Toronto Maple Leafs strafed Hodge for six goals Wednesday night and a 6-1 victory, the Canadiens may not be unloading Worsley so quickly.

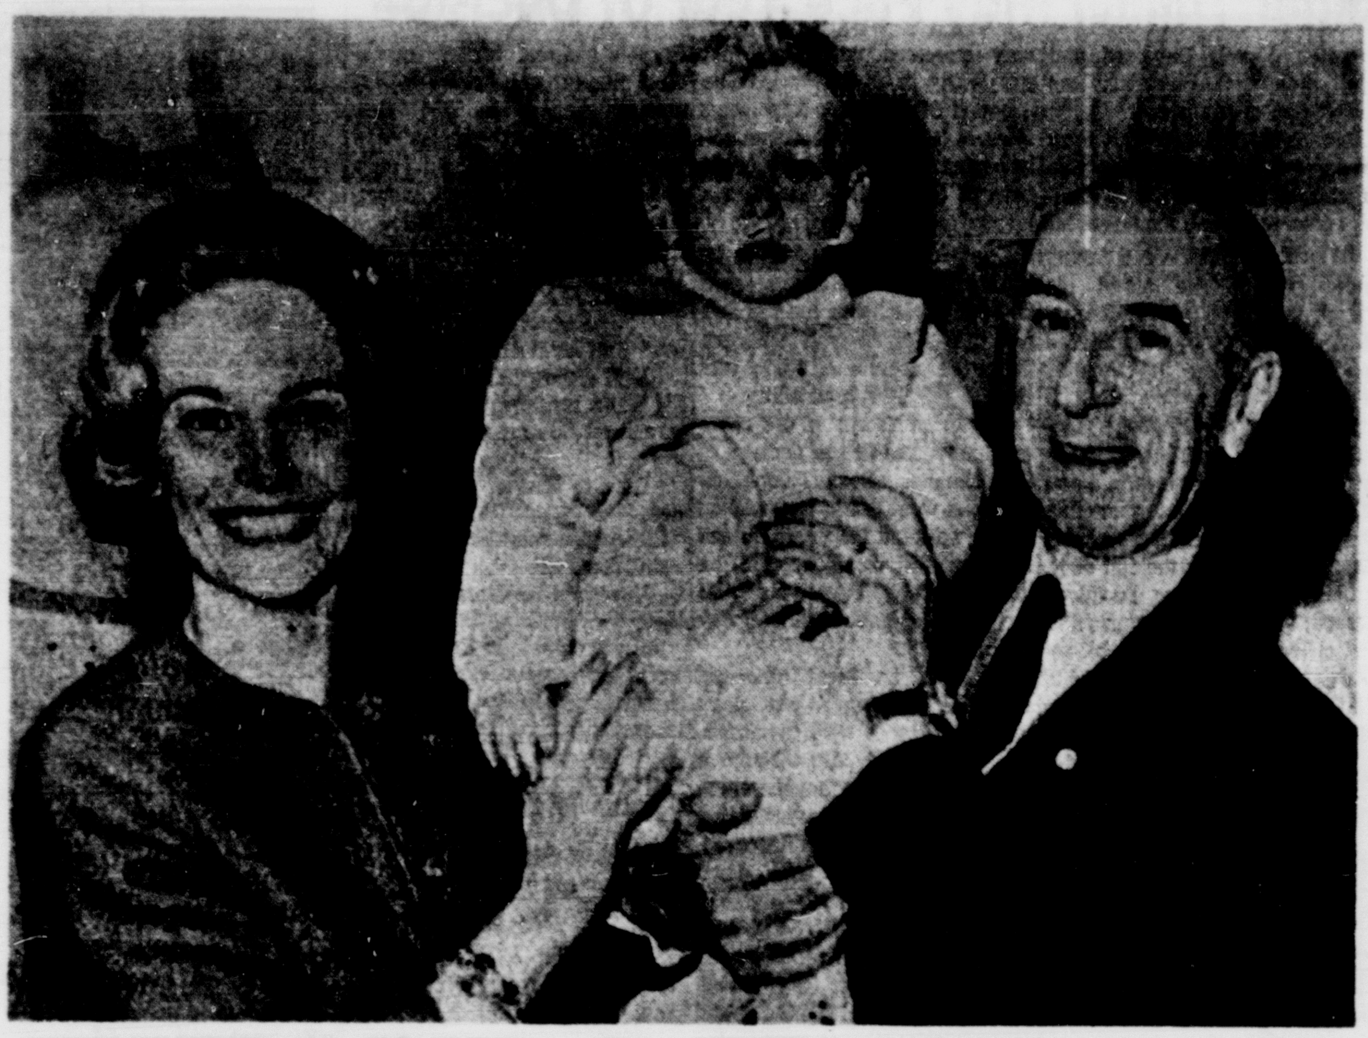
Second Annual Relays Scheduled for D.U.

DENVER (UPI)—The second annual University of Denver Relays will be held Saturday with four teams entered, including defending champion Wyoming, Colorado State University, Denver University, and Colorado State College complete the entry list.



YOUNG CHAMPION AND OLD FRIENDS — Two-year-old Mark Jenkins of Akron, O., has famous family footsteps in which to follow. He is the son of Olympic figure skating champion parents. His father is Hayes Alan Jenkins, who won the men's singles gold medal at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy in 1956 while living in Colorado Springs. His mother is the former Carol Heiss, who won the ladies singles title at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960. With little Mark and Carol is Pierre Brunet of New York City, who coached Mrs. Jenkins as an amateur. They were all in Cleveland to attend the National Championships which will be held there this weekend. (AP Wirephoto)

Hexes in Danger

By LEE MEADE

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two ancient hexes were in danger of being shattered today as the 1964 National Figure Skating Championships and Olympic trials got under way at the Cleveland Skating Club.

No man has won the senior men's singles title without first holding the junior crown.

Only one lady west of Philadelphia has been able to capture the senior ladies' singles title.

Threatening to end the first hex is 14-year-old Scott Ethan Allen, from Smoke Rise, N.J., who already has represented the United States in two world meets. Scott is making his third bid for the senior men's singles title with tradition against him.

Since junior competition was started in 1918, no skater has been able to take the senior men's singles title without first winning the national junior men's championship.

Allen was beaten by former three - time champion Monty Hoyt of Denver as a novice in 1959, a junior in 1961 and a senior in 1962. He was second to defending champion Tommy Litz of Hershey, Pa., in 1963.

Three cities—Boston, New York and Philadelphia—have almost competely monopolized the senior ladies' singles titles.

Barbara Ann Roles of Temple City, Calif., became the first girl west of Philadelphia to win the crown in 1962 and she and a trio of Western rivals—Christine Haigler of Colorado Springs, Myrna Bodek of Oak Park, Mich., and Peggy Fleming of Pasadena, Calif.—hope to repeat the feat.

Mrs. Roles, bronze medalist for the U.S. in the 1960 Winter Olympics, retired from competition in 1961 and 1963 but is attempting a second comeback.

Finley Still Maintaining Owner Will Go With Him

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) —There are those who think Charles O. Finley doesn't have a chance even to reach first base, let alone steal home with a whole baseball team.

But the 45-year-old Chicago insurance executive still insists he is moving his Kansas City Athletics to Louisville, where he has signed a conditional two-year contract with the state of Kentucky.

He needs eight votes to approve the shift when the 10 American League club owners, or their representatives, meet with league President Joe Cronin in New York next Thursday.

The session is called to mediate Finley's stadium lease dispute with Kansas City.

Arthur C. Allyn, president of the Chicago White Sox, thinks Finley will be dispossessed of his franchise.

"By signing a contract with the state of Kentucky, he has committed a breach of trust with Kansas City, and Joe Cronin would be within his rights in picking up the Kansas City franchise to be operated by the league until a new owner takes over," Allyn told the Chicago Sun-Times.

But Finley, whose latest move is to telegraph punches with Cronin, is so confident that his move will be approved "after the owners have had an opportunity to analyze the true facts" he says he is going to go ahead with plans for Louisville.

'We'll wear bluegrass green and Fort Knox gold uniforms," he says. "And we'll be called either the Louisville Athletics or the Louisville Sluggers.

"Now that we've got Rocky Colavito and Jim Gentile, as well as Ed Charles, I rather like the name Sluggers."

Meanwhile, Cronin directed Finley by telegram Wednesday to refrain from making any further arrangements for transferring the club. Finley sent a hotely-worded reply back to the league president in Boston.

Several hours after these exchanges, the Kentucky legislature, in joint resolution by the General Assembly, requested Cronin, the league's directors and members "to give their serious and studied consideration to the advantages inherent in the relocation of the Athletics to Louisville to the end that accomplishment is assured."

Sno Jets Meet To Discuss Weekend Race

The Sno Jet Ski Club will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight at 8 at the Patty Jewett Golf Club. The main item of business will be discussion of the SRMSA Classification race to be held this Saturday at Ski Broadmoor.

The race course will be set for inspection at 9 a.m. this Saturday and racing will begin at 11 a.m. The race is for A, B, C and novice skiers.

Other business to be discussed at tonight's meeting will be the planned bus trip to Aspen for Feb. 15 and 16.

Invader Migay On Injury List

DENVER (AP)—Rudy Migay, captain of the Denver Invaders hockey team, will return to Denver today to recuperate from torn ligaments in his left knee suffered in the Invaders loss at Vancouver Tuesday night.

Migay, second leading scorer for the Invaders, will be out of action for three to four weeks, officials of the Western Hockey League team said.

Migay, 35, suffered the injury in a first period collision with Vancouver's Dunc McCallum. Migay plays center.

Maple Leafs Post Win Over Montreal in NHL

By United Press International

Punch Imlach insists his Toronto Maple Leafs will be holding down first place in the National Hockey League by the end of the weekend.

The Leafs' manager - coach never has rankd too high as a prophet, but this time he could be right.

Sparked by Frank Mahovlich, who tallied a goal and three assists, Toronto rolled to a 6-1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night in the only NHL action. The victory enabled the Leafs to tie Montreal for second place, three points back of Chicago.

Mahovlich scored his 17th goal of the season to break a 1-1 tie in the second period and set up scores by Red Kelly, Jim Pappin and Carl Brewer before 14,036 Toronto partisans.

Evansville Tops Small College Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Aces of Evansville, Ind., are holding a hot basketball hand, having taken the lead in the Associated Press' weekly small-college poll on the strength of four victories over major-college opponents.

Evansville has beaten Purdue, New Mexico State, Arizona and Columbia, and now does not meet another major foe until Butler on Feb. 5. The Aces were 7-2 in their first nine games with victories over DePauw, San Francisco State and South Dakota State and their only setbacks by Iowa and Arizona, both major teams.

Evansville collected three votes for first place and 54 points in the first small-college poll of the 1963-64 season. The voting was done by a special panel of seven regional selectors, and points were awarded on a basis of 10 points for a first place vote, 9 for second etc.

Unbeaten Grambling of Louisiana was second followed by Wittenberg, Ohio and Washington University of Missouri. Grambling polled 43 points. Wittenberg had one first place vote and 32 points while Washington University had 29.

Unraked Assumption, Mass., Midwestern of Texas and Kentucky Wesleyan received the other votes for the No. 1 spot.

Pan American of Texas, South Dakota State, the NCAA small-college champion last season, Southeast Missouri, Western Carolina, Hofstra and Fresno State rounded out the top ten. Southeast Missouri and Western Carolina wound up in a seventh-place deadlock with 15 ponits.

Wittenberg, the leader in the AP's final poll last season after compiling a 26-2 record, was only 5-3 through games of last Saturday. Injuries to key men Al Throsher and Bob Cherry have hampered the Tigers, losers to South Dakota State in the finals of the 1963 NCAA small-college tourney.

Regarding Navy's Roger Staubach, Maryland football coach Tom Nugents says: "We predicted most of the things he did against us but we couldn't stop him."

Chicago Cage Powers Have Fans Taking Sides

By MARTIN LADER
UPI Sports Writer

Sports fans in Chicago have something else besides the weather to talk about this winter, and the talk will produce a lot more heat then the temperature if Loyola and DePaul continue their winning ways.

There's nothing like a little controversy to warm the spirits on a cold January day and already the citizens of the Windy City are taking sides on the relative merits of their two college basketball powers.

Loyola has the reputation, having upset Cincinnati to win the NCAA championship last year. DePaul has the tradition dating back to the days when George Mikan terrorized all rivals. Both have the records this season to let the present speak for itself.

The Ramblers of Loyola, ranked third in the country, registered thier 11th victory in 12 outings Wednesday night by toppling Marquette 96-80, at Milwaukee. DePaul, one of only three major schools still unbeaten, downed Notre Dame, 86-73, for its 10th consecutive triumph.

It was the first time the Blue Demons have beaten Notre Dame at South Bend since 1956 and was an important decision in their bid to attain national attention.

Ninth-ranked Duke, which had its national reputation tarnished by three defeats, nevertheless maintained a perfect mark in Atlantic Coast Conference play by downing Clemson, 81-75. In other top games Georgia Tech tripped South Carolina, 87-73, LaSalle topped Lafayette, 100-86, and Temple beat St. John's, 62-57.

Loyola showed its well-rounded attack to good advantage as four men scored in double figures. Les Hunter led the Ramblers with 25 points, Ron Miller added 24, Vic Rouse 19 and John Egan 18.

Depal also enjoyed a fairly comfortable evening after moving ahead, 18-16, in the first half. The Blue Demons increased their margin to 44-33 at the intermission, and never allowed Notre Dame to get closer than six points thereafter.

Dave Mills, a 6-foot-10 sophomore touted for stardom, led the DePaul effort with 23 points and he was ably assisted by Emmette Bryant and Jim Murphy with 21 points each. Ron Reed tallied 25 points for the Irish, who suffered their seventh setback in 11 decisions.

In other games, Colgate trounced Florida Southern, 117-85; Fordham edged Rutgers, 67-64; Navy ripped Long Island U., 93-57; Miami (Fla.) outscored Jacksonville, 96-92; Furman beat Richmond, 74-63; Virginia stopped North Carolina State, 66-55; Bowling Green defeated Toledo, 80-76; Dayton topped Ohio Wesleyan, 69-52; and Texas Western beat West Texas State, 84-64.

NCAA Ends Convention Talks Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association wraps up the odds and ends of another convention today and sends members home with a confused conception of the boiling war with the Amateur Athletic Union.

In his closing report, Robert F. Ray of the University of Iowa, president of the NCAA, pledged "absolute and full support of the MacArthur agreement.

"I assure both the representatives of the AAU and our friends in the federations, in which we fully believe, of our continual willingness to discuss fully at any time with a cooperative spirit the issues which divide us."

At the same time, Ray disclaimed any part in the bitterness against the AAU reflected in the various reports of the college track and field, gymnastics and handball federations.

"They have a right to say what they wish," he said. "We are only a part of the federations. We do not control them."

The federation spokesmen have been sharply critical of the AAU and have promised that "all hell will bust loose" after the Olympic Games in Tokyo in October.

It was in the interest of U.S. showing in the Olympics that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, at the request of the late President Kennedy, hammered out a truce between the warring NCAA and AAU.

In final convention action Wednesday the NCAA refused to lift the ban on organized summer basketball competition for college players but made an exception in the case of Puerto Rico.

The NCAA altered its rules to make it permissible for Puerto Rican citizens to compete in the eight-team superior league in the summer without jeopardizing college eligibility.

Wild Brawl Highlights NBA Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A torrid brawl three minutes before game's end highlighted National Basketball Association action Wednesday night as the Los Angeles Lakers walloped the New York Knicks 136-118.

The fourth period began with the Knicks' Billy McGill and Jim Krebs of the Lakers jostling one another. A fight nearly followed but teammates intervened.

As the Laker lead grew longer, tempers grew shorter. Krebs and McGill resumed their shoving match and then switched to throwing punches.

Players from both benches spilled onto the court and fights broke out all over the floor. For nearly six minutes, referees frantically blew whistles and police called for reinforcements while the fans watched with delight.

Finally, officers restored order, players returned to their benches, and four ejected players—Lakers' Nelson and Krebs, Knicks' Hoover and McGill — tramped dejectedly to the showers.

Before the explosion, Jerry West poured in 39 and Elgin Baylor 36 to lead the Lakers to their fifth straight win and their sixth consecutive victory over the New Yorkers.

In two other games on the Wednesday night schedule the Baltimore Bullets snapped a four-game losing streak with a 106-99 victory over the Detroit Pistons and the Philadelphia 76ers returned to their former Syracuse home where they dropped a 126-110 decision to the Cincinnati Royals.

Tigers Win Sixth Straight; Move on to North Dakota

ATHENS, O. — It was most enjoyable while it lasted, but it appears the honeymoon's over for Colorado College.

The Colorado hockey team left here this morning on their way to North Dakota after completing a sweep of five straight games on their eastern tour and running their winning streak to six with a 10-1 pounding of Ohio University Wednesday night.

That victory gave the Tigers of new coach Bob Johnson a sparkling 7-3 record for the season and the longest win skein since before the 1959-60 season when they took six straight—and then lost every other game that winter.

Whether this will be an omen for the Bengals will be told this weekend when they fly into Grand Forks, N. D., for games against the defending national champions. It will be the second series in Western Collegiate Hockey Association play for both CC and North Dakota, with the Tigers owning a 1-1 league record and the Sioux currently marked at 0-1-1 following a tie and loss against pre-season favorite Denver.

Should Colorado College happen to fare well against the Nodaks in the Friday and Saturday night duals, they still would be in great shape for a run at the loop playoffs between the top four clubs. Following these two contests CC can rest until Jan. 31 when they journey to Michigan for the next league tests. Three non-league games at home come between.

After Wednesday night's rout of Ohio's Bobcats the Colorado skaters appeared to be growing stronger with each outing, under the guidance of their new mentor. Again sophomores played a key role in the victory with the yearlings getting five of the goals, including Dave Peterson's three-goal hat trick.

It was the fourth time in five games one of the Tigers has turned the "trick" during the trip thru the east with senior Wayne McAlpine getting three the previous night in CC's 10-6 triumph. Others were authored by Bob Magie, a junior, and Glen Blumer, another sophomore.

Despite the one-sided affair on Wednesday, it was obvious that the count could easily have gone higher for the invaders from the Centennial state. Ohio's goalie Mike Homovex had a very busy night in the nets getting in front of the flying pucks as he picked off no less than 69 shots off the CC sticks with 25 of them coming in the first period when the Tigers tallied five times.

Altho sick in bed the day before with the flu, CC again returned senior Art Warwick to the goalie's position and he stopped 19 shots in a relatively easy assignment.

The 79 shots on goal by the Bengals against Ohio was by far a new record for CC. The previous high in attempts was during the 1956-57 season when Red Hay and his Hay-Cha Bomb line was roving the league as they fired 62 times against Minnesota.

For the second straight night here, the game was played in near zero temperatures as the open-end Bird Arena afford little shelter from the outside cold. However, it didn't seem to cool off the Tigers as they skated to a comfortable 5-1 lead in the opening period and then coasted the rest of the way.

Peterson opened the scoring on a feed from his center Roger Simon, and then Simon and Blumer each countered again before Ohio was able to slap in its only goal of the evening. The lone Bobcat score came from Steve Petro at the halfway mark of the initial period.

Peterson completed his "hat trick" with the only goals of the second period and then the Tigers padded the margin by three more in another exhibition of final frame endurance despite being on the road for the fifth straight game.

Altho there was plenty of scoring in the game from the CC side on the rink, and 10 penalties whistled (five for high sticking), only two of the goals came when one team was shorthanded. Those were both in the final period when Warren Fordyce banged one in with Ohio sitting out an infraction, and another by Johnny Simus near the end of the contest with the Bobcats short again.

By United Press International

You'd never know it by looking at the standings, but the hottest teams in the Western Hockey League right now are Portland and San Francisco.

The Bucks are still on the minus side of .500, but moved into second place Wednesday night with an 8-3 rout of Vancouver. It was their sixth win in seven starts and their biggest goal output of the campaign.

San Francisco moved into a tie for fourth with Seattle with a 5-4 victory over the Totems. That was the Seals' fifth win in their past six tries.

San Francisco also Wednesday sent wing Pete Pangagabko to Minneapolis of the Central Professional League.

The Seals can afford the loss of the two men better than most squads because their squad had been two over the limit of 16.

Greeley Tops Leadoff Cage Poll

A familiar name was back on top of the Denver Post poll ranking the state's high school basketball teams today. Greeley's Wildcats, longtime power in Colorado cage circles, were voted the top spot by coaches and sports writers.

Greeley picked up 232 points in the first of the weekly polls for 1964 to edge East Denver for first place. Manual, also of the Denver League, placed third and Pueblo Central, unbeaten leader of the South Central League, is third.

Greeley led a four-team representation from the Northern League in the top 10. In addition to the Wildcats, Aurora Central placed fifth, Englewood sixth, and Longmont eighth. East Denver, Manual, and Lincoln (10th) represent the Denver League, Pueblo Central and Grand Junction (9th) the South Central, and Lakewood (7th) the Jefferson County.

Altho only two of its members made the top 10, the South Central had an amazing overall representation with seven of its eight members picking up votes. Centennial was ranked 12th, Pueblo South 15th, Pueblo East 16th, Palmer in a tie for 17th, and Trinidad in a tie for 19th.

Giardello-Jacobs Bout Set Feb. 8

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Middleweight champion Joey Giardello will meet light-heavyweight Herschel Jacobs of White Plains, N.Y., in a 10-round non-title bout at the Paterson Armory Feb. 8, promoter Lou Duva announced today.

It will be Giardello's first ring appearance since he won the crown from Dick Tiger in Atlantic City Dec. 7.

Invaders Lose Migay With Injured Knee

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—To put a cap on the latest Denver Invaders troubles, the Western Hockey League leaders were told Wednesday veteran standout center Rudy Migay probably will be sidelined a month because of a knee injury. The Invaders, who dropped their last two games after enjoying an eight-game winning streak, report Migay has torn ligaments in his left knee. Migay has racked up 30 points this season.

Denver Sertoma Club Proposes Bowl Game

DENVER (UPI) —A post-season football bowl game for the Denver area has been proposed by the city's Sertoma Club. The club asked the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Extra Events Committee for approval of a Denver-area bowl, involving two major teams from the Rocky Mountain area. NCAA rules require a one-year waiting period for groups filing such a notification of intent, meaning no action can be taken until the NCAA convention next January.

BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

A Familiar Story

The flood of crocodile tears some have been shedding would appear enough to help the country's drought next summer. But despite the long line at the wailing wall, it's doubtful the cry for reconsideration by the dial-turning fight fans will influence the recent announcement that the sport will be dropped from programing next year.

Eventually, it could prove true that this will be a death blow to the sport which has seen the extremes of bad and good moments. But before we cart the carcass to its final resting place six feet deep, it would seem wise to wait and see if there isn't a miracle of new life yet breathing inside.

This is no prediction of a great future for boxing — the glory days of the sport are probably gone for ever, and it has absorbed far too many near fatal blows to make a comeback that will equal its youth. But, remember they've been counting to 10 over prize fighting since John L. Sullivan first put padding on his bare fists.

There's little doubt that beak-busting will be broadcast over the airwaves much longer. But there's some disagreement over what this will mean.

One of the more outspoken optimists for the future has been Colorado's own Jack Dempsey, who has since settled in New York where he's now more concerned with putting a sirloin on a platter than over a black eye. "It's the best thing that has happened to boxing since Joe Louis first came around in the middle 30s," he recently said. "How did promoters expect to sell tickets and give their show away free in homes and saloons at the same time?"

Dempsey hit it right on the ole kisser. While there once was young fighters making the scene all over the country, this supply of new talent was cut to a mere dribble as the hard core of fandom stayed away in droves from the local cards as long as the shows were telecast every week.

With no one to support the local clubs, it's only natural that those who might have made good in the brutal sport gave it up for such wholesome activities as street fighting, switch-blade operation and other side products of their fistic talents. It would undoubtedly be amazing to find figures on not only how many would-be champions were forced out of the sport, but also how many were given prison terms that otherwise might have been channelled to a better way of life thru an organized club.

Much of this is an all too familiar story.

Do you remember the popularity of local professional baseball teams before the advent of television?

Some 15 years ago the number of minor leagues around the land numbered near 60 and now that has dwindled to a mere 16 after the folding this past summer of the class A Pioneer League. It will go even lower in the next couple years.

Certainly not all this is because of the one-eyed monster as the game has out-dated itself with snail-paced action. But much of this demise was caused by broadcasting major league games into the areas once served by the minors. Again, it was a case of fans not wanting to purchase the product when it's offered for free.

The entire sport is feeling the cut in the supply line of talent for without the minors to supply fresh blood there are fewer and fewer making the climb to the big leagues. There's no doubt that the entire sport is being downgraded because there's no longer a place to learn the trade.

Some may laugh when we say the same thing could happen in football. Right now professional football is at its peak and many college games have capacity crowds for just about every game.

But there are a great many small schools that have already given up the ghost and even a few bigger schools like Denver University in this area which decided they could no longer stand to see so many empty seats in the stands.

With major games being telecast around the country every week, and then usually a double dose from the pro leagues on the weekends also, it could be that more and more fans will look at the traffic around the stadium, note a threat of bad weather, check the price of the tickets — and then reach for the knob on the livingroom tube.

Granted, it probably will take some time for football to take the same route as baseball and now boxing ... but it could eventually come. And can you imagine how long the pros would last without the ready-made training grounds of collegiate football?

As I said in the beginning, this is no prediction of a comeback for boxing. But I agree with Dempsey that it's the best thing that could have happened. The only regret is that it didn't happen years ago!

Already television has squeezed the talent so thin that only a handful of fighters are left to view. It's no wonder the ratings on the weekly shows has dropped to a decimal of what it used to be when the sofa sports fans were seeing the same faces week after week.

The money grabbing of camera-conscious promoters has spread so much filth on the name of the sport that it may be impossible for it to return to the lively business that used to be. The tidy bundles that have rewarded a few thru juicy contracts have lured the scum of the underworld into the dressingrooms of too many fighters. There is so much criminal control of prize fighting now that it may never be regarded as an honest sport.

However, the news that the bouts will no longer be broadcast may have come just in time if there are enough people left who enjoy a good fight in the flesh so that the local clubs can again draw well enough to break even.

There have been recent fights which did pretty well even without the swag from the magic eye. For instance, the Cassius Clay and Doug Jones bout sold out for a $103,000 gate even during the newspaper strike in New York.

And then there was the middleweight title match between Joey Giardello and Dick Tiger that grossed $90,000 in Atlantic City with no camera coverage. These are just a couple of the bigger ones.

But doesn't it seem strange that the boxing business is booming nearly everywhere in the world except in this country? The reason is that there is either no give-away shows by video or else the tube is used only to promote the sport.

Miss Saubert Easliy Wins Ski Event

By CHARLES LA ROCHE
United Press International

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (UPI)—Jean Saubert, a 21-year old Oregon State University student, established herself as a gold medal favorite for the Winter Olympics Wednesday by beating the world's best woman skiers by a large margin in the giant slalom of the Grindewald ski races.

Clocking 1:37.38 for her run through 49 gates on a track of 1100 meters with 320 meters vertical drop, she won by two seconds over Austria's Traudl Hecber, and four seconds over third-placed Marielle Goitschel of France, Tuesday's slalom winner.

These margins would have been enough to give Miss Saubert a second gold medal in the combined event, if she had not been disqualified from her second place in the slalom for missing gates.

The ladies have only one more competition, at Bad Gastein Jan. 15-16, before the Winter Olympics.

Miss Saubert and Miss Goitschel have dominated the major pre-Olympic meets in the last month, vying for a favorable draw for the winter games at Innsbruck, Austria, Jan. 29-Feb. 9.

Linda Meyers of Bishop, Calif., was timed in 1:45.26 for 14th place after finishing fifth Tuesday in the special slalom event.

Barbara Ferries of Houghton, Mich., finished 20th with a time of 1:45.76; Margo Walters, Salt Lake City, Utah, placed 27th in 1:47.60 and Star Walton of Sacramento, Calif., placed 28th in the official standings with 1:49.18.

The stunning victory for the 5 ft. 6 in. brunette from Lakeview, Ore., was the result of taking every risk in the book.

"I always take risks," she said at the finish line, "and today I just let go. I liked the track. The surface varied, but I got a lot of speed."

After her disqualification in the slalom, it was easier for the American girl to take risks, than for Miss Goitschel who had an eye on the best overall performance in both races.

Schmakel Takes Over Boston Grid Team

BOSTON (UPI) — Newly appointed Boston University football Coach Warren H. Schmakel today had the task of shaping the Terrier squad into winning form after inheriting a last season's record of only one win, one tie and six losses.

Schmakel, 43, line coach at Rutgers University, Wednesday was named head coach at BU succeeding Steve Sinko who resigned last December, in disagreement over the university's gradual de-emphasis of football. Schmakel reports to his new post Wednesday.

A Rutgers coach since 1960, Schmakel brings a winning record to BU. His overall coaching record at Miami of Ohio, Central Michigan and the University of Nebraska was impressive. He also was credited with building a strong line at Rutgers which was undefeated in 1961.

English Channel Tunnel May Face Year of Decision

EDITOR'S NOTE—The long cherished dream of a tunnel linking France and Britain beneath the English Channel may be nearing reality. An experienced author of a number of books on tunnels and bridges reports here on the current status of the channel tunnel project, which appears to be approaching a climactic moment of decision.

By JOSEPH GIES

Written for The Associated Press

In the background of this year's election in Britain will loom a momentous issue: A tunnel beneath the English Channel. This fabulous engineering project has plagued British politics for more than 100 years, and 1964 looks very much like the year when it could reach its final crisis.

The once impregnable opposition of Britain's military leaders appears at last to have been overcome. Yet there is still no certainty that this most fascinating of all engineering enterprises will be undertaken with any promptness.

For a pair of American businessmen, Frank Davidson and Cyril Means, the suspense has now lasted seven years.

It was in 1956 that Davidson returned from a European trip to complain about a rough channel crossing he had experienced.

"Why don't they dig a tunnel under there?" he asked his friend Means, half-joking. Means thought he remembered reading an article in "Popular Mechanics" as a boy about a tunnel under the English Channel. Davidson and Means were lawyers, not engineers, and knew nothing about tunneling under the ocean. But Means suggested, just for the fun of it, a look into the thing Davidson agreed, and when he returned to his office called in a girl researcher and told her to go to the public library and look up the facts.

The girl didn't come back for several weeks, and when she did she amazed Means and Davidson with a 45-page report on the incredible history of the channel tunnel.

The idea goes back to Napoleon, who had listened to a French mining engineer's proposal to dig a hole to England. Napoleon was interested, until war broke out with England, when he dropped the scheme. Napoleon's interest in the tunnel was strictly peaceful—it apparently never entered his head to use it as a means to invade England.

A generation later, Thome de Gamond, a Frenchman, worked up such enthusiasm for the tunnel that the scheme emerged from the dreaming stage into that of practical possibility.

The great secret of the channel tunnel lies in the geology of the channel floor. Thome de Gamond went out in the channel every weekend for years on end to take test borings, and he proved pretty effectively that the chalk extended all the way across.

Chalk is an ideal tunneling material. It's soft—you don't have to blast it with dynamite, you can actually dig through it with pickaxe and shovel (which is what Napoleon's engineer had figured on doing). It's impermeable—water won't seep down into it while you're digging. And finally, unlike clay, it will hold up the sea above without the aid of compressed air. For these reasons when British and French channel tunnel companies finally got together and started digging in 1880, they made far better, cheaper and easier progress than did either of two big contemporary tunneling projects, the Hudson Tube in New York and the St. Gotthard Tunnel under the Swiss Alps.

Pirates Prepare for Tough Weekend Slate

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

"The turning point was late in the third period when Pfalmer (Dick) inspired us with key shooting and outstanding rebounding," expounded St. Mary's young coach Dan Wright after the Pirates presented Mullen with its first home loss in three years last Sunday.

Altho the Buccaneers topped the touted Mustangs, 65-60, last weekend in Denver, Wright's charges lost their first home game in three years to the Denver Parochial League perennial power, Regis, 62-50, last Friday.

This weekend's slate calls for the Pirates to entertain the winner of the recent St. Joseph's Tournament, the Tigers of Holy Family, on Friday, and Sunday the Bucs journey north again for an outing against highly respected Machebeuf. That game is scheduled for the St. Francis Gymnasium with tip-off time set for 2:30 p.m.

Both squads are undefeated in DPL play, and are tied with Regis for loop standings via 2-0 records. St. Mary's finds itself deadlocked with Mullen, Mt. Carmel, and Cathedral in DPL standings with a 1-1 won-lost mark. Last year's state paroke champion, Annunciation, who downed the Pirates in the playoffs last season, holds down the DPL cellar along with St. Francis and St. Joseph's via 0-1 record.

Pfalmer and David Grantz where the lone St. Mary's cagers that proved successful against Regis last week. The visiting Denver team completely dominated the rebounding and scoring, and save for Pfalmer's first period individual performance, the Raiders took out a monepoly of sinking two-pointers. This was the Pirates' first defeat in six outings this season.

Guy Gibbs' Raiders, picked as favorites to snatch the DPL crown, tossed in 25 of 51 field goal attempts whereas the Bucs could only make good 22 of 59 from the field. The Regis aggregation, led by Tom Robinson's 22 points and 11 rebounds, jumped out ahead for a 21-10 first period margin and the Mile High City squad maintained a 10-point span thruout the DPL opener.

The revamped Pirates, led by Pfalmer's rebounding and Mike Conway's 20-point output, came back strong on Sunday to hand the Mullen team its first home loss in three years. This key victory enabled the Colorado Springs team to remain in contention for DPL laurels.

Wright, in his first term as head coach at St. Mary's, gave credit to Pfalmer for the victory over Mullen. It was the 6-3 forward's stunning performance clearing the boards that gave the Pirates an edge in that department. Pfalmer pulled down 20 rebounds in addition to pumping in 15 points.

Conway scored 20 points to lift his total to 72 points in six games and took over the scoring race. Pfalmer has tossed in 62 points to control the second place in the squad's individual scoring race, followed by Tom McCarthy and Grantz with 51 points.

Pfalmer caught an elbow enroute to the deck in the third period, and after temporary medical aid, the Pirate senior was back in the ball game taking over control of the boards. At the time of his brief departure from the struggle, the game was nip and tuck. But Pfalmer's leadership and rebounding enabled the Pirates to take control of the scoring and pull out the victory.

The St. Mary's forward required seven stitches to close the cut on his bottom lip. But Pfalmer readily admitted that at the time he didn't know the cut was that serious.

Undefeated Terrors Battle Wasson in CHL Play Tonite

Palmer's hockey team, spearheaded by the surperb shooting of Chuck Reinking, leads the City Hockey League undefeated in four outings. The Terrors will put that record on the line tonight at the Broadmoor World Arena against cross-town rival Wasson.

The Wasson icers are lodged in second place in the city loop via a 2-3 won-loss record while Fountain Valley and Cheyenne Mountain stand third and fourth respectively.

In the Young America Hockey competition, the Kiwanis Redwings lead the pack in the Heavyweight Division, and the Kiwanis Flyers top the Middleweight classification. Both squads have compiled a 2-0 records. And in the Lightweight Division, the Cheyenne Aces stand undefeated in three games.

Reinking dominates the scoring in the City League with 19 points on 15 goals and four assists to far outpace the individual scoring chase. Dave Miller of Wasson is second with 10 points, and Pete Haney of Palmer and T-Birds Bill Michell and Jim Berthrong are deadlocked for the third place with seven points.

Bruins Want Aces' Worsley

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A few more rough games for Montreal's Charley Hodge and Boston won't have a ghost of a chance of swinging a deal for goalie Gump Worsley.

The Bruins reportedly have been casting covetous eyes at Worsley, the former National Hockey League star who has been toiling in the American League with the Quebec Aces. Worsley was traded by the New York Rangers last summer for Montreal's Jacques Plante but played only eight games for the Habs before being injured. Hodge filled in brilliantly and before he knew it, Worsley was in the AHL.

The slump-ridden Bruins are said to be interested in swapping their goalie, Ed Johnston, for the Gump, but after the Toronto Maple Leafs strafed Hodge for six goals Wednesday night and a 6-1 victory, the Canadiens may not be unloading Worsley so quickly.

Second Annual Relays Scheduled for D.U.

DENVER (UPI)—The second annual University of Denver Relays will be held Saturday with four teams entered, including defending champion Wyoming. Colorado State University, Denver University, and Colorado State College complete the entry list.

YOUNG CHAMPION AND OLD FRIENDS — Two-year-old Mark Jenkins of Akron, O., has famous family footsteps in which to follow. He is the son of Olympic figure skating champion parents. His father is Hayes Alan Jenkins, who won the men's singles gold medal at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy in 1956 while living in Colorado Springs. His mother is the former Carol Heiss, who won the ladies singles title at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960. With little Mark and Carol is Pierre Brunet of New York City, who coached Mrs. Jenkins as an amateur. They were all in Cleveland to attend the National Championships which will be held there this weekend. (AP Wirephoto)

Hexes in Danger

By LEE MEADE

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two ancient hexes were in danger of being shattered today as the 1964 National Figure Skating Championships and Olympic trials got under way at the Cleveland Skating Club.

No man has won the senior men's singles title without first holding the junior crown.

Only one lady west of Philadelphia has been able to capture the senior ladies' singles title.

Threatening to end the first hex is 14-year-old Scott Ethan Allen, from Smoke Rise, N.J., who already has represented the United States in two world meets. Scott is making his third bid for the senior men's singles title with tradition against him.

Since junior competition was started in 1918, no skater has been able to take the senior men's singles title without first winning the national junior men's championship.

Allen was beaten by former three-time champion Monty Hoyt of Denver as a novice in 1959, a junior in 1961 and a senior in 1962. He was second to defending champion Tommy Litz of Hershey, Pa., in 1963.

Three cities—Boston, New York and Philadelphia—have almost competely monopolized the senior ladies' singles titles.

Barbara Ann Roles of Temple City, Calif., became the first girl west of Philadelphia to win the crown in 1962 and she and a trio of Western rivals—Christine Haigler of Colorado Springs, Myrna Bodek of Oak Park, Mich., and Peggy Fleming of Pasadena, Calif.—hope to repeat the feat.

Mrs. Roles, bronze medalist for the U.S. in the 1960 Winter Olympics, retired from competition in 1961 and 1963 but is attempting a second comeback.

Finley Still Maintaining Owner Will Go With Him

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) —There are those who think Charles O. Finley doesn't have a chance even to reach first base, let alone steal home with a whole baseball team.

But the 45-year-old Chicago insurance executive still insists he is moving his Kansas City Athletics to Louisville, where he has signed a conditional two-year contract with the state of Kentucky.

He needs eight votes to approve the shift when the 10 American League club owners, or their representatives, meet with league President Joe Cronin in New York next Thursday.

The session is called to mediate Finley's stadium lease dispute with Kansas City.

"By signing a contract with the state of Kentucky, he has committed a breach of trust with Kansas City, and Joe Cronin would be within his rights in picking up the Kansas City franchise to be operated by the league until a new owner takes over," Allyn told the Chicago Sun-Times.

But Finley, whose latest move is to telegraph punches with Cronin, is so confident that his move will be approved "after the owners have had an opportunity to analyze the true facts" he says he is going to go ahead with plans for Louisville.

'We'll wear bluegrass green and Fort Knox gold uniforms," he says. "And we'll be called either the Louisville Athletics or the Louisville Sluggers.

"Now that we've got Rocky Colavito and Jim Gentile, as well as Ed Charles, I rather like the name Sluggers."

Meanwhile, Cronin directed Finley by telegram Wednesday to refrain from making any further arrangements for transferring the club. Finley sent a hotely-worded reply back to the league president in Boston.

Several hours after these exchanges, the Kentucky legislature, in joint resolution by the General Assembly, requested Cronin, the league's directors and members "to give their serious and studied consideration to the advantages inherent in the relocation of the Athletics to Louisville to the end that accomplishment is assured."

Maple Leafs Post Win Over Montreal in NHL

By United Press International

Punch Imlach insists his Toronto Maple Leafs will be holding down first place in the National Hockey League by the end of the weekend.

The Leafs' manager : coach never has rankd too high as a prophet, but this time he could be right.

Sparked by Frank Mahovlich, who tallied a goal and three assists, Toronto rolled to a 6-1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night in the only NHL action. The victory enabled the Leafs to tie Montreal for second place, three points back of Chicago.

Mahovlich scored his 17th goal of the season to break a 1-1 tie in the second period and set up scores by Red Kelly, Jim Pappin and Carl Brewer before 14,036 Toronto partisans.

Sno Jets Meet To Discuss Weekend Race

The Sno Jet Ski Club will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight at 8 at the Patty Jewett Golf Club. The main item of business will be discussion of the SRMSA Classification race to be held this Saturday at Ski Broadmoor.

The race course will be set for inspection at 9 a.m. this Saturday and racing will begin at 11 a.m. The race is for A, B, C and novice skiers.

Other business to be discussed at tonight's meeting will be the planned bus trip to Aspen for Feb. 15 and 16.

Invader Migay On Injury List

DENVER (AP)—Rudy Migay, captain of the Denver Invaders hockey team, will return to Denver today to recuperate from torn ligaments in his left knee suffered in the Invaders loss at Vancouver Tuesday night.

Migay, second leading scorer for the Invaders, will be out of action for three to four weeks, officials of the Western Hockey League team said.

Evansville Tops Small College Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Aces of Evansville, Ind., are holding a hot basketball hand, having taken the lead in the Associated Press' weekly small-college poll on the strength of four victories over major-college opponents.

Evansville has beaten Purdue, New Mexico State, Arizona and Columbia, and now does not meet another major foe until Butler on Feb. 5. The Aces were 7-2 in their first nine games with victories over DePauw, San Francisco State and South Dakota State and their only setbacks by Iowa and Arizona, both major teams.

Evansville collected three votes for first place and 54 points in the first small-college poll of the 1963-64 season. The voting was done by a special panel of seven regional selectors, and points were awarded on a basis of 10 points for a first place vote, 9 for second etc.

Unbeaten Grambling of Louisiana was second followed by Wittenberg, Ohio and Washington University of Missouri. Grambling polled 43 points. Wittenberg had one first place vote and 32 points while Washington University had 29.

Unraked Assumption, Mass., Midwestern of Texas and Kentucky Wesleyan received the other votes for the No. 1 spot.

Pan American of Texas, South Dakota State, the NCAA small-college champion last season, Southeast Missouri, Western Carolina, Hofstra and Fresno State rounded out the top ten. Southeast Missouri and Western Carolina wound up in a seventh-place deadlock with 15 ponits.

Wittenberg, the leader in the AP's final poll last season after compiling a 26-2 record, was only 5-3 through games of last Saturday. Injuries to key men Al Throsher and Bob Cherry have hampered the Tigers, losers to South Dakota State in the finals of the 1963 NCAA small-college tourney.

Regarding Navy's Roger Staubach, Maryland football coach Tom Nugents says: "We predicted most of the things he did against us but we couldn't stop him."

Chicago Cage Powers Have Fans Taking Sides

By MARTIN LADER
UPI Sports Writer

Sports fans in Chicago have something else besides the weather to talk about this winter, and the talk will produce a lot more heat then the temperature if Loyola and DePaul continue their winning ways.

There's nothing like a little controversy to warm the spirits on a cold January day and already the citizens of the Windy City are taking sides on the relative merits of their two college basketball powers.

Loyola has the reputation, having upset Cincinnati to win the NCAA championship last year. DePaul has the tradition dating back to the days when George Mikan terrorized all rivals. Both have the records this season to let the present speak for itself.

The Ramblers of Loyola, ranked third in the country, registered thier 11th victory in 12 outings Wednesday night by toppling Marquette 96-80, at Milwaukee. DePaul, one of only three major schools still unbeaten, downed Notre Dame, 86-73, for its 10th consecutive triumph.

It was the first time the Blue Demons have beaten Notre Dame at South Bend since 1956 and was an important decision in their bid to attain national attention.

Ninth-ranked Duke, which had its national reputation tarnished by three defeats, nevertheless maintained a perfect mark in Atlantic Coast Conference play by downing Clemson, 81-75. In other top games Georgia Tech tripped South Carolina, 87-73, LaSalle topped Lafayette, 100-86, and Temple beat St. John's, 62-57.

Loyola showed its well-rounded attack to good advantage as four men scored in double figures. Les Hunter led the Ramblers with 25 points, Ron Miller added 24, Vic Rouse 19 and John Egan 18.

Depal also enjoyed a fairly comfortable evening after moving ahead, 18-16, in the first half. The Blue Demons increased their margin to 44-33 at the intermission, and never allowed Notre Dame to get closer than six points thereafter.

Dave Mills, a 6-foot-10 sophomore touted for stardom, led the DePaul effort with 23 points and he was ably assisted by Emmette Bryant and Jim Murphy with 21 points each. Ron Reed tallied 25 points for the Irish, who suffered their seventh setback in 11 decisions.

In other games, Colgate trounced Florida Southern, 117-85; Fordham edged Rutgers, 67-64; Navy ripped Long Island U., 93-57; Miami (Fla.) outscored Jacksonville, 96-92; Furman beat Richmond, 74-63; Virginia stopped North Carolina State, 66-55; Bowling Green defeated Toledo, 80-76; Dayton topped Ohio Wesleyan, 69-52; and Texas Western beat West Texas State, 84-64.

NCAA Ends Convention Talks Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association wraps up the odds and ends of another convention today and sends members home with a confused conception of the boiling war with the Amateur Athletic Union.

In his closing report, Robert F. Ray of the University of Iowa, president of the NCAA, pledged "absolute and full support of the MacArthur agreement.

"I assure both the representatives of the AAU and our friends in the federations, in which we fully believe, of our continual willingness to discuss fully at any time with a cooperative spirit the issues which divide us."

At the same time, Ray disclaimed any part in the bitterness against the AAU reflected in the various reports of the college track and field, gymnastics and handball federations.

"They have a right to say what they wish," he said. "We are only a part of the federations. We do not control them."

The federation spokesmen have been sharply critical of the AAU and have promised that "all hell will bust loose" after the Olympic Games in Tokyo in October.

It was in the interest of U.S. showing in the Olympics that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, at the request of the late President Kennedy, hammered out a truce between the warring NCAA and AAU.

In final convention action Wednesday the NCAA refused to lift the ban on organized summer basketball competition for college players but made an exception in the case of Puerto Rico.

The NCAA altered its rules to make it permissible for Puerto Rican citizens to compete in the eight-team superior league in the summer without jeopardizing college eligibility.

English 'Channel Tunnel May Face Year of Decision

EDITOR'S NOTE—The long cherished dream of a tunnel linking France and Britain beneath the English Channel may be nearing reality. An experienced author of a number of books on tunnels and bridges reports here on the current status of the channel tunnel project, which appears to be approaching a climactic moment of decision.

By JOSEPH GIES
Written for
The Associated Press

In the background of this year's election in Britain will loom a momentous issue: A tunnel beneath the English Channel. This fabulous engineering project has plagued British politics for more than 100 years, and 1964 looks very much like the year when it could reach its final crisis.

The once impregnable opposition of Britain's military leaders appears at last to have been overcome. Yet there is still no certainty that this most fascinating of all engineering enterprises will be undertaken with any promptness.

For a pair of American businessmen, Frank Davidson and Cyril Means, the suspense has now lasted seven years.

It was in 1956 that Davidson returned from a European trip to complain about a rough channel crossing he had experienced.

"Why don't they dig a tunnel under there?" he asked his friend Means, half-joking. Means thought he remembered reading an article in "Popular Mechanics" as a boy about a tunnel under the English Channel. Davidson and Means were lawyers, not engineers, and knew nothing about tunneling under the ocean. But Means suggested, just for the fun of it, a look into the thing Davidson agreed, and when he returned to his office called in a girl researcher and told her to go to the public library and look up the facts.

The girl didn't come back for several weeks, and when she did she amazed Means and Davidson with a 45-page report on the incredible history of the channel tunnel.

The idea goes back to Napoleon, who had listened to a French mining engineer's proposal to dig a hole to England. Napoleon was interested, until war broke out with England, when he dropped the scheme. Napoleon's interest in the tunnel was strictly peaceful—it apparently never entered his head to use it as a means to invade England.

A generation later, Thome de Gamond, a Frenchman, worked up such enthusiasm for the tunnel that the scheme emerged from the dreaming stage into that of practical possibility.

The great secret of the channel tunnel lies in the geology of the channel floor. Thome de Gamond went out in the channel every weekend for years on end to take test borings, and he proved pretty effectively that the chalk extended all the way across.

Chalk is an ideal tunneling material. It's soft—you don't have to blast it with dynamite, you can actually dig through it with pickaxe and shovel (which is what Napoleon's engineer had figured on doing). It's impermeable—water won't seep down into it while you're digging. And finally, unlike clay, it will hold up the sea above without the aid of compressed air. For these reasons when British and French channel tunnel companies finally got together and started digging in 1880, they made far better, cheaper and easier progress than did either of two big contemporary tunneling projects, the Hudson Tube in New York and the St. Gotthard Tunnel under the Swiss Alps.

Navy Seeks Better Scot Relationships

DUNOON, Scotland (AP) — A committee of British, Scottish, and American members has been set up to discuss ways of improving relations between the U.S. Navy and the people of Dunoon on the Holy Loch, the Dunoon Town Council announced Wednesday.

A statement by the committee said an inaugural meeting has been held by representatives of the U.S. Navy, Dunoon Town Council and the British Navy. Further meetings will be held monthly.

There has been friction between some of the townspeople and a minority of the American sailors at the base, mainly on moral issues.

Lodge Group Moves Office to Washington

BOSTON (AP)—A committee to draft Henry Cabot Lodge for the Republican presidential nomination has moved its office to Washington after running afoul of a Massachusetts law.

The committee's headquarters in Boston closed Saturday after Secretary of State Kevin H. White ruled the law required that Lodge agree to use of his name in such a committee's title. No such assent has come from Lodge, the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Mongolia Reports Russian Freight to China Cut Back

ULAN BATOR, Mongolia (AP)—The main rail line from the Soviet Union to China, which passes through Mongolia, carries little traffic these days.

From the window of the main hotel in Ulan Bator, capital of the Mongolian People's Republic, one can see and hear only two or three trains a day. In a few days recently 150 Soviet medium trucks passed through on flatcars but little else was going to China.

Until about six months ago, some 30 freight trains a day came through, according to one observer living here.

Chinese payments to Mongolia for transit traffic were a major prop under the economy of Communist-run Mongolia. Now Mongolia is suffering economically as a result of the dispute between China and the Soviet Union.

With Mongolia supporting the Soviet Union in the dispute, China has been tough rather than helpful toward this former Chinese possession. In addition to the decline in rail traffic, there is uncertainty whether China will continue to help with economic development here.

Official comment is not available on the situation reported by well-informed sources in Ulan Bator. But Mongolian officials are reliably reported to be worried.

The transit payments paid for almost all Mongolia's imports from China. With only a few light industries operating here, Mongolia is heavily dependent on imports. In 1960, the last year for which figures are available, China supplied 23 per cent of imports, worth $9.8 million.

Talks for a 1964 trade agreement were broken off in Peking in November when China demanded a greatly enlarged part of Mongolia's livestock exports in place of payments formerly made with the transit money.

Mongolia indicated inability to pay. Livestock forms the basis of the Mongolian economy and provides almost all exports. The limited supply is committed mostly to Communist countries. Hair from caels, goats and Hair from camels, goats and such non-Communist nations as Switzerland and Japan.

With a population of only 1.02 million Mongolia is underpopulated and has depended upon Chinese laborers for construction of economic development projects financed by aid from Communist countries.

From a peak of 12,000 imported Chinese laborers, the number was down to 6,000 when they were withdrawn last autumn ahead of the normal winter suspension of outdoor building. Earlier, the withdrawal of Soviet technicians from China had resulted in many Chinese technicians' leaving Mongolia to fill gaps at home.

Mongolian officials seem concerned whether the Chinese laborers will return in the spring. There is a question whether the Soviet Union might carry Mongolia over difficulties created by the Soviet-China split, as it has carried Mongolia in the past.

Long known as Outer Mongolia, this land has historically been connected with China. Genghis Khan ruled China from here but most of the time the Chinese controlled the area.

Mongolia has been under the wing of the Soviet Union since 1921. For decades it was so securely under the Soviet wing, so remotely obscure in its very existence as a separate country, that many diplomats dismissed it as a puppet state.

Mongolia emerged as an accepted international entity in 1961 when it joined the United Nations. It exchanges ambassadors with Communist countries and has an ambassador in India. It plans to put one in Britain.

Some Criticism Greets LBJ's Major Message

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress pressed by President Johnson to cut taxes, enact civil rights legislation and war on poverty is unlimbering slowly.

In a 41-minute State of the Union speech interrupted a record 80 times by applause, Johnson told the legislators Wednesday the nation can move forward under a new $97.9-billion budget to provide the greatest federal impetus to social welfare in history.

Reaction to the President's pledge of less spending and fewer federal employes was generally favorable. But it was tinted with bipartisan skepticism that the series of health, education, housing and job training programs he proposed could be carried out under a reduced budget.

Several Republicans predicted there would be a wide "performance gap" between what the President asked and Congress produces.

Urged by Johnson to move expeditiously, the Senate Finance Committee stepped up slightly its consideration of the House-passed $11-billion tax cut. It approved two provisions: A reduction in corporate rates from the current top of 52 per cent to 50 per cent for 1964 and to 48 per cent in 1965; a minimum standard deduction of $200 for the taxpayer plus $100 for each exemption including himself.

But March 1 appears a better bet for completion of congressional action than the Feb. 1 date he spoke of.

The House Rules Committee already had scheduled a start of hearings today on the civil rights bill Johnson said poses a "moral issue."

The measure probably will reach the House floor early next month.

Johnson's call for action on health care for the elderly, financed through Social Security, will get the attention of the House Ways and Means Committee beginning Jan. 20. But 1964 approval is regarded as highly doubtful.

The President got some assurances of support for his decision to cut back by 25 per cent production of enriched uranium used in nuclear weapons. Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said he regards the action as "both practical and wise."

To go with his declaration of "unconditional war on poverty in America," Johnson came up with only one new proposal—a suggestion for establishment of a high level commission on automation.

All of a dozen other suggestions he made had been laid before Congress by his predecessor, the late President John F. Kennedy.

Included in the as yet unbroken logjam in the House are Senate-passed bills to establish a domestic Peace Corps, bolster youth employment, provide additional help for depressed areas, expand the library construction program and provide for mass transit subsidies.

Most Republicans and some Democrats expressed doubt that Johnson can make good on his promise to hold federal spending to $97.9 billion in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told a news conference Johnson had sketched "a paradise that can be devoutly wanted by everyone," promising to cure all of government spending and fewer federal workers.

"I don't go in for such financial legerdemain," Dirksen said.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said he had little hope that "a cut-rate utopia can be realized."

Chairman Harry F. Byrd of the Senate Finance Committee, given an advance look at the budget in ~~a~~ White House meeting with Johnson, congratulated the President on "his estimated reduction in federal expenditures and deficit." But the Virginia Democrat noted there still is going to be "another heavy deficit."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said that "my faith in miracles will be restored if he can accomplish all that he proposes within the budget he proposed."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said it would be "a miraculous achievement" if the President could get all the domestic programs he asked for and still cut spending $500 million below current levels."

"It would certainly point up the extravagance and inefficiency of past administrations," McClellan said.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said he was "startled and greatly disappointed that the President made no reference to some of the serious problems facing the farmers of the nation."

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, assured the Senate that Johnson is giving daily attention to farm programs. He hinted that a separate farm message will be forthcoming.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called the President's message "hard-hitting."

"The President has stated what we should do," Mansfield said. "The responsibility is now up to us — not to the President. His requests are entitled to prompt consideration."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said Johnson outlined "a progressive, positive approach to the problems facing our nation."

House Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma thought it was a program "that the American people will support and the Congress will support."

But House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said that the proposals and the promises were the same Kennedy made. He added that these included some "already rejected by Congress for lack of public support."

$50 Million to Be Saved in Uranium Cuts

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration calculates that its cutback in production of nuclear weapon raw material will save about $50 million in the next fiscal year, more later — and eventually end several thousand jobs.

The cutback was announced Wednesday by President Johnson in his state of the union message and explained to newsmen later by Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Other highly placed officials discussed the strategic and political implications of the announced 25-per cent reduction in the output of enriched uranium and the closing of four plutonium plants. They said stocks of U.S nuclear weapons had increased 50 per cent in the past three years, making the uranium cutback possible.

Seaborg said four of the AEC's 14 plutonium producing reactors will be shut down — three at the Hanford, Wash., plant and one at the Savannah River pant near Aiken, S.C.

At the gaseous diffusion plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Portsmouth, Ohio, production of enriched uranium will be trimmed back by about 25 per cent.

"Budgetary savings of about $50 million in fiscal year 1965 will result," Seaborg said. "A total of about 2,900 contractor positions will be affected."

Approximately 2,500 of the total jobs affected will be at the Hanford and Savannah plants, with the remainder apparently in the uranium processing plants.

At Hanford, Seaborg said, about 2,000 positions, or 24 per cent of a present 8,300 pay roll will be affected. The Savannah cutback will affect about 500 of the 6,500 empoyees.

The three reactors at Hanford will be shut down at intervals during a six-month period starting Jan. 1, 1965. The Savannah River plutonium pile will go out of operation about next July 1.

The savings which the administration foresees are in three areas — pay rolls, electricity and the raw ores used in the processing of weapons materials.

The Hanford plant has a present annual pay roll of about $73 million; the Savannah River plant about $52 million; the Oak Ridge uranium plant about $22 million; the Portsmouth plant $11 million.

Trinidad Trip Exotic Treat For Travelers

By MURRAY J. BROWN

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (UPI)—Trinidad probably is recalled by island-hoppers and other hit-and-run tourists as a land of steelbands, calypso singers and limbo dancers.

But it has much more to offer—beautiful beaches, exotic jungles and other natural wonders. There are swimming and other water sports, fishing, hunting, and, for the less athletically inclined, horse races, cricket matches, soccer games and sightseeing.

Port of Spain ranks as one of the most cosmopolitan — and exciting — cities in the Caribbean.

It is a city on contrasts—reflecting the unique mixture of cultures and traditions of races and creeds from Africa, Asia and Europe which has made Trinidad one of the most polyglot of nations.

There are colorful Oriental-type bazaars and noisy native markets and American - style department stores and self-service shops. The sari of India and the East Indies and the Chinese cheongsan are as common as the slacks and skirts of the western world.

There are 20th century glass-and-aluminum hotels and high-rise buildings, and houses showing the influences of old British, French, Spanish and other European architectures.

Yet, Port of Spain is not all Trinidad has to offer. And jet travel should give even the short-time vacationer sufficient time to really see and enjoy this Delaware-sized island off the coast of Venezuela.

This writer flew here non-stop from New York in about 4½ hours aboard an Argentine Airlines Comet four-jet airliner as the guest of the Trinidad and Tobago Tourist Board.

A few miles north of Port of Spain are Maracas Bay and Las Cuevas, white - sanded beaches on the Caribbean sheltered by towering palms and other tropical trees. The trip via "The Saddle" road and "Skyline Highway" over the Northern Range is a sightseer's delight.

There are acres of strange flowering trees and shrubs—tall Immortelles with orange and pink blooms, deep yellow Cockrico bushes, purplish-flowered garlic creepers, among others.

Another short—and equally rewarding—excursion from Port of Spain is a visit to the 337-acre Caroni Bird Sanctuary. The jungled sanctuary, about eight miles from here, is the habitat of thousands of scarlet ibis and other colorful tropical birds.

Interesting also are the bustling towns of Arima and Sangre Grande, both predominately East Indian, and the small sleepy communities of thatched and corrugated-iron roofed huts and picturesque fishing villages.

Certainly no tour could be complete without visits to Pitch Lake and the Devil's Woodyard. Both natural wonders are near San Fernando in the south, about 100 miles from Port of Spain.

Pitch Lake is a 100-acre reservoir of asphalt which has been supplying the world for more than 70 years.

How the lake replenishes itself is a mystery. Excavations disappear within a day or two.

Deaths

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Julius Raab, 72, chancellor of Austria from 1953 to 1961 when he resigned because of poor health, died Wednesday. Raab, a conservative, steered Austria back to inedpendence after its post-war occupation by the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dr. Harold Neuhof, 79, a prominent New York surgeon, died Tuesday of injuries suffered in a traffic accident.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Willard D. Egolf, 59, a lawyer and president of the U.S. Beryllium Corp., a drilling and mining company, died Wednesday of a heart attack.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Helen Gertrde Hicks, 63, who taught literature at the Northern Virginia Center of the University of Virginia and drama at the Department of Agriculture graduate school in Washington, died Tuesday of cancer.

OUTCASTS

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Texas A&M pathologists are studying "socially ostracized" deer found on the granite-gravel soil of the Texas Hill Country to determine what causes stags.

The researchers believe something in the environment damages the male deer's sex organs, causing them to retain the soft "antler velvet" during the mating season when most males lose it.

American Flag Shown in Canal Zone by Students

Gov. Robert J. Fleming Jr. of the Canal Zone appealed to U.S. residents Wednesday to abide by an agreement with Panama calling for joint displays of U.S. and Panamanian flags in the zone.

After the officials left, the students again raised the flag. The movement spread to other schools Wednesday.

Fleming's order carried out a January 1963 agreement with Panama under which the United States recognized Panama's titular sovereignty over the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone.

was a program "that the Amer-

The students sent a petition to President Johnson asking his support for legislation to keep the U.S. flag flying outside Canal Zone schools. A similar petition is being prepared for submission to Congress.

Navy Seeks Better Scot Relationships

DUNOON, Scotland (AP) — A committee of British, Scottish, and American members has been set up to discuss ways of improving relations between the U.S. Navy and the people of Dunoon on the Holy Loch, the Dunoon Town Council announced Wednesday.

A statement by the committee said an inaugural meeting has been held by representatives of the U.S. Navy, Dunoon Town Council and the British Navy. Further meetings will be held monthly.

There has been friction between some of the townspeople and a minority of the American sailors at the base, mainly on moral issues.

Lodge Group Moves Office to Washington

BOSTON (AP)—A committee to draft Henry Cabot Lodge for the Republican presidential nomination has moved its office to Washington after running afoul of a Massachusetts law.

The committee's headquarters in Boston closed Saturday after Secretary of State Kevin H. White ruled the law required that Lodge agree to use of his name in such a committee's title. No such assent has come from Lodge, the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Mongolia Reports Russian Freight to China Cut Back

ULAN BATOR, Mongolia (AP)—The main rail line from the Soviet Union to China, which passes through Mongolia, carries little traffic these days.

From the window of the main hotel in Ulan Bator, capital of the Mongolian People's Republic, one can see and hear only two or three trains a day. In a few days recently 150 Soviet medium trucks passed through on flatcars but little else was going to China.

Until about six months ago, some 30 freight trains a day came through, according to one observer living here.

Chinese payments to Mongolia for transit traffic were a major prop under the economy of Communist-run Mongolia. Now Mongolia is suffering economically as a result of the dispute between China and the Soviet Union.

With Mongolia supporting the Soviet Union in the dispute, China has been tough rather than helpful toward this former Chinese possession. In addition to the decline in rail traffic, there is uncertainty whether China will continue to help with economic development here.

Official comment is not available on the situation reported by well-informed sources in Ulan Bator. But Mongolian officials are reliably reported to be worried.

The transit payments paid for almost all Mongolia's imports from China. With only a few light industries operating here, Mongolia is heavily dependent on imports. In 1960, the last year for which figures are available, China supplied 23 per cent of imports, worth $9.8 million.

Talks for a 1964 trade agreement were broken off in Peking in November when China demanded a greatly enlarged part of Mongolia's livestock exports in place of payments formerly made with the transit money.

Mongolia indicated inability to pay. Livestock forms the basis of the Mongolian economy and provides almost all exports. The limited supply is committed mostly to Communist countries. Hair from caels, goats and Hair from camels, goats and such non-Communist nations as Switzerland and Japan.

With a population of only 1.02 million Mongolia is underpopulated and has depended upon Chinese laborers for construction of economic development projects financed by aid from Communist countries.

From a peak of 12,000 imported Chinese laborers, the number was down to 6,000 when they were withdrawn last autumn ahead of the normal winter suspension of outdoor building. Earlier, the withdrawal of Soviet technicians from China had resulted in many Chinese technicians' leaving Mongolia to fill gaps at home.

Mongolian officials seem concerned whether the Chinese laborers will return in the spring. There is a question whether the Soviet Union might carry Mongolia over difficulties created by the Soviet-China split, as it has carried Mongolia in the past.

Long known as Outer Mongolia, this land has historically been connected with China. Genghis Khan ruled China from here but most of the time the Chinese controlled the area.

Mongolia has been under the wing of the Soviet Union since 1921. For decades it was so securely under the Soviet wing, so remotely obscure in its very existence as a separate country, that many diplomats dismissed it as a puppet state.

Mongolia emerged as an accepted international entity in 1961 when it joined the United Nations. It exchanges ambassadors with Communist countries and has an ambassador in India. It plans to put one in Britain.

Some Criticism Greets LBJ's Major Message

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress pressed by President Johnson to cut taxes, enact civil rights legislation and war on poverty is unlimbering slowly.

In a 41-minute State of the Union speech interrupted a record 80 times by applause, Johnson told the legislators Wednesday the nation can move forward under a new $97.9-billion budget to provide the greatest federal impetus to social welfare in history.

Reaction to the President's pledge of less spending and fewer federal employes was generally favorable. But it was tinted with bipartisan skepticism that the series of health, education, housing and job training programs he proposed could be carried out under a reduced budget.

Several Republicans predicted there would be a wide "performance gap" between what the President asked and Congress produces.

Urged by Johnson to move expeditiously, the Senate Finance Committee stepped up slightly its consideration of the House-passed $11-billion tax cut. It approved two provisions: A reduction in corporate rates from the current top of 52 per cent to 50 per cent for 1964 and to 48 per cent in 1965; a minimum standard deduction of $200 for the taxpayer plus $100 for each exemption including himself.

But March 1 appears a better bet for completion of congressional action than the Feb. 1 date he spoke of.

The House Rules Committee already had scheduled a start of hearings today on the civil rights bill Johnson said poses a "moral issue."

The measure probably will reach the House floor early next month.

Johnson's call for action on health care for the elderly, financed through Social Security, will get the attention of the House Ways and Means Committee beginning Jan. 20. But 1964 approval is regarded as highly doubtful.

The President got some assurances of support for his decision to cut back by 25 per cent production of enriched uranium used in nuclear weapons. Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said he regards the action as "both practical and wise."

To go with his declaration of "unconditional war on poverty in America," Johnson came up with only one new proposal—a suggestion for establishment of a high level commission on automation.

All of a dozen other suggestions he made had been laid before Congress by his predecessor, the late President John F. Kennedy.

Included in the as yet unbroken logjam in the House are Senate-passed bills to establish a domestic Peace Corps, bolster youth employment, provide additional help for depressed areas, expand the library construction program and provide for mass transit subsidies.

Most Republicans and some Democrats expressed doubt that Johnson can make good on his promise to hold federal spending to $97.9 billion in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told a news conference Johnson had sketched "a paradise that can be devoutly wanted by everyone," promising to cure all of government spending and fewer federal workers.

"I don't go in for such financial legerdemain," Dirksen said.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said he had little hope that "a cut-rate utopia can be realized."

Chairman Harry F. Byrd of the Senate Finance Committee, given an advance look at the budget in a White House meeting with Johnson, congratulated the President on "his estimated reduction in federal expenditures and deficit." But the Virginia Democrat noted there still is going to be "another heavy deficit."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said that "my faith in miracles will be restored if he can accomplish all that he proposes within the budget he proposed."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said it would be "a miraculous achievement" if the President could get all the domestic programs he asked for and still cut spending $500 million below current levels."

"It would certainly point up the extravagance and inefficiency of past administrations," McClellan said.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said he was "startled and greatly disappointed that the President made no reference to some of the serious problems facing the farmers of the nation."

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, assured the Senate that Johnson is giving daily attention to farm programs. He hinted that a separate farm message will be forthcoming.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called the President's message "hard-hitting."

"The President has stated what we should do." Mansfield said. "The responsibility is now up to us — not to the President. His requests are entitled to prompt consideration."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said Johnson outlined "a progressive, positive approach to the problems facing our nation."

House Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma thought it was a program "that the American people will support and the Congress will support."

But House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said that the proposals and the promises were the same Kennedy made. He added that these included some "already rejected by Congress for lack of public support."

$50 Million to Be Saved in Uranium Cuts

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration calculates that its cutback in production of nuclear weapon raw material will save about $50 million in the next fiscal year, more later — and eventually end several thousand jobs.

The cutback was announced Wednesday by President Johnson in his state of the union message and explained to newsmen later by Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Other highly placed officials discussed the strategic and political implications of the announced 25-per cent reduction in the output of enriched uranium and the closing of four plutonium plants. They said stocks of U.S nuclear weapons had increased 50 per cent in the past three years, making the uranium cutback possible.

Seaborg said four of the AEC's 14 plutonium producing reactors will be shut down — three at the Hanford, Wash., plant and one at the Savannah River pant near Aiken, S.C.

At the gaseous diffusion plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Portsmouth, Ohio, production of enriched uranium will be trimmed back by about 25 per cent.

"Budgetary savings of about $50 million in fiscal year 1965 will result," Seaborg said. "A total of about 2,900 contractor positions will be affected."

Approximately 2,500 of the total jobs affected will be at the Hanford and Savannah plants, with the remainder apparently in the uranium processing plants.

At Hanford, Seaborg said, about 2,000 positions, or 24 per cent of a present 8,300 pay roll will be affected. The Savannah cutback will affect about 500 of the 6,500 empoyees.

The three reactors at Hanford will be shut down at intervals during a six-month period starting Jan. 1, 1965. The Savannah River plutonium pile will go out of operation about next July 1.

The savings which the administration foresees are in three areas — pay rolls, electricity and the raw ores used in the processing of weapons materials.

The Hanford plant has a present annual pay roll of about $73 million; the Savannah River plant about $58 million; the Oak Ridge uranium plant about $22 million; the Portsmouth plant $11 million.

Trinidad Trip Exotic Treat For Travelers

By MURRAY J. BROWN

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (UPI)—Trinidad probably is recalled by island-hoppers and other hit-and-run tourists as a land of steelbands, calypso singers and limbo dancers.

But it has much more to offer—beautiful beaches, exotic jungles and other natural wonders. There are swimming and other water sports, fishing, hunting, and, for the less athletically inclined, horse races, cricket matches, soccer games and sightseeing.

Port of Spain ranks as one of the most cosmopolitan — and exciting — cities in the Caribbean.

It is a city on contrasts—reflecting the unique mixture of cultures and traditions of races and creeds from Africa, Asia and Europe which has made Trinidad one of the most polyglot of nations.

There are colorful Oriental-type bazaars and noisy native markets and American - style department stores and self-service shops. The sari of India and the East Indies and the Chinese cheongsan are as common as the slacks and skirts of the western world.

There are 20th century glass-and-aluminum hotels and high-rise buildings, and houses showing the influences of old British, French, Spanish and other European architectures.

Yet, Port of Spain is not all Trinidad has to offer. And jet travel should give even the short-time vacationer sufficient time to really see and enjoy this Delaware-sized island off the coast of Venezuela.

This writer flew here non-stop from New York in about 4½ hours aboard an Argentine Airlines Comet four-jet airliner as the guest of the Trinidad and Tobago Tourist Board.

A few miles north of Port of Spain are Maracas Bay and Las Cuevas, white - sanded beaches on the Caribbean sheltered by towering palms and other tropical trees. The trip via "The Saddle" road and "Skyline Highway" over the Northern Range is a sightseer's delight.

There are acres of strange flowering trees and shrubs—tall Immortelles with orange and pink blooms, deep yellow Cockrico bushes, purplish-flowered garlic creepers, among others.

Another short—and equally rewarding—excursion from Port of Spain is a visit to the 337-acre Caroni Bird Sanctuary. The jungled sanctuary, about eight miles from here, is the habitat of thousands of scarlet ibis and other colorful tropical birds.

Interesting also are the bustling towns of Arima and Sangre Grande, both predominately East Indian, and the small sleepy communities of thatched and corrugated-iron roofed huts and picturesque fishing villages.

Certainly no tour could be complete without visits to Pitch Lake and the Devil's Woodyard. Both natural wonders are near San Fernando in the south, about 100 miles from Port of Spain.

Pitch Lake is a 100-acre reservoir of asphalt which has been supplying the world for more than 70 years.

How the lake replenishes itself is a mystery. Excavations disappear within a day or two.

Deaths

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Julius Raab, 72, chancellor of Austria from 1953 to 1961 when he resigned because of poor health, died Wednesday. Raab, a conservative, steered Austria back to inedpendence after its post-war occupation by the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dr. Harold Neuhof, 79, a prominent New York surgeon, died Tuesday of injuries suffered in a traffic accident.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Willard D. Egolf, 59, a lawyer and president of the U.S. Beryllium Corp., a drilling and mining company, died Wednesday of a heart attack.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Helen Gertrde Hicks, 63, who taught literature at the Northern Virginia Center of the University of Virginia and drama at the Department of Agriculture graduate school in Washington, died Tuesday of cancer.

OUTCASTS

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Texas A&M pathologists are studying "socially ostracized" deer found on the granite-gravel soil of the Texas Hill Country to determine what causes stags.

The researchers believe something in the environment damages the male deer's sex organs, causing them to retain the soft "antler velvet" during the mating season when most males lose it.

American Flag Shown in Canal Zone by Students

Gov. Robert J. Fleming Jr. of the Canal Zone appealed to U.S. residents Wednesday to abide by an agreement with Panama calling for joint displays of U.S. and Panamanian flags in the zone.

After the officials left, the students again raised the flag. The movement spread to other schools Wednesday.

Fleming's order carried out a January 1963 agreement with Panama under which the United States recognized Panama's titular sovereignty over the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone.

The students sent a petition to President Johnson asking his support for legislation to keep the U.S. flag flying outside Canal Zone schools. A similar petition is being prepared for submission to Congress.
